Weakened Pope delivers traditional message

Easter marked in solemnity, parades

By United Press International

Still weak from influenza, Pope Paul was to celebrate Easter Mass for more than 100,000 persons in St. Peter's Square Sunday, then deliver his traditional "Urbi et Orbi" message—to the city and the world.

The 76-year-old pontiff, who suffered two bouts of flu recently, passed up Holy Saturday services for rest in his private apartments.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul had fully recovered from his illness, but remained somewhat weak.

Rome was bulging with tourists and pilgrims, tens of thousands of whom stood near the Colosseum Friday night to watch the Pope—against his doctors' wishes—bear a seven-pound wooden cross in a torchlit Way of the Cross procession through Rome's ruins.

Greek Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the two million Greek Orthodox Christians in North and South America, summed up the meaning of Easter for Christians when he called it "a day that can be honored only with light, only with the early-waking spirit.

"For the day that breaks is the Day of Resurrection," the primate said in a message read in Greek Orthodox churches Saturday night. "Not even the graves can withstand the force of its coming."

The Holy Land itself was flooded with Christian tourists, but the atmosphere was hardly serene. Israeli soldiers armed with machine guns patrolled the gates of Jerusalem's Walled City on Good Friday as pilgrims chanted prayers and sung hymns, pausing at each of the 14 stations where Christ is supposed to have rested en route to His crucifixion.

In New York, short skirts may be the most appropriate accompaniment to Easter bonnets in the traditional parade down Fifth Avenue. The National Weather Service revised soggier predictions and forecast partly sunny skies and balmy temperatures.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., President Nixon remained secluded in his bayside villa for what was called a "working vacation."

Along with the President and Mrs. Nixon were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Cox, and two aides, press secretary Ronald Ziegler and White House chief of staff Alexander Haig.

The First Family is expected to attend Easter services in the Miami area and head back to Washington early next week.

May be political assassination

Cuban exile leader slain

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — A Cuban exile leader whose promised invasion of his homeland failed to materialize four years ago was shot to death as he watched television in the living room of his elegant home.

Police said Saturday they had no clues leading to the assailant who Friday night fired through the living room window and fatally wounded former Cuban Agriculture Minister Jose de la Torriente, 69.

A source close to the family said Torriente had recently received a threatening note that was "political" in nature.

Miami's "Little Havana" section buzzed with speculation that it was a political assassination.

Homicide Lt. James Green said no one saw the sniper.

"It happened so fast, nobody saw anything," Green said.

"They shot him in the back," said Thomas Relado," Torriente's grandson.

"He took his risks, but he never thought anything like this could happen in a city in a country like this," Relado said. "His only enemies were the Communists."

Castro had accused Torriente, who would have been 70 next week, of working for the CIA.

Torriente had drawn the normally politically fragmented Cuban community as close together as it had been since the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion with his 1970 pledge to invade Cuba by Christmas.

That invasion never materialized, but Torriente's militant "Cuban Liberation Force" in 1971 claimed credit for launching on a raid two 31-foot speedboats from a mother ship off the Cuban coast.

The government of Premier Fidel Castro called the raid which killed two persons and left four wounded a "pirate attack."

Torriente continued to travel throughout the hemisphere seeking support for his plans for revolution, but recently had been under fire for paying too much attention to his real estate development firm and not enough to his anti-Castro activities.

There were also charges he was using money raised for exile causes for his firm, TM Land Development.

A dynamite blast wrecked a house still under construction by his firm south of here last year. But Torriente continued to deny the accusations, charging that Castro agents in Miami were trying to smear him.

Lebanon asks for session of of Council

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations Saturday called an urgent meeting of the Security Council for Monday to discuss the Israeli raids inside southern Lebanon.

The U.N. spokesman said the meeting was called at the request of Lebanon, which asked for the session in a letter received Saturday.

The spokesman declined to release the contents of the letter.

Earlier, U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said he "deeply deplores" Friday night's Israeli raids on Lebanon and warned they may undermine current peace efforts in the Middle East.

Waldheim on Friday issued a statement deploring the Palestine Arab guerrlila attack on Qiryat Shemona in Israel.

"The Secretary General has consistently condemned such acts of violence," Waldheim said through his spokesman Saturday in connection with the Israeli raids into Lebanon.

It goes without saying that deeply deplores yesterday's raids into Lebanese territory. He repeats his view that such acts may affect adversely the efforts underway to reach a just and lasting settlement in the Middle East."

Israeli warplanes flew air strikes Saturday against Syrian forces that punched through the Golan Heights cease-fire lines near strategic Mount Hermon, the Tel Aviv military command said.

The command said the air attacks came after the Syrians fired surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) at Israeli patrol planes over the Heights, the first time the Syrians have used the weapons since the October Middle East war.

In Damascus, a military communique said Syrian defense units shot down three and possibly four Israeli warplanes. The Israelis denied the reports.

Syrian and Israeli forces also traded artillery and tank fire on the Heights for the 33rd consecutive day.

Despite the heightened tension on the Israeli-Syrian front, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger confirmed in Washington Saturday that he would return to the Middle East again, probably within the next two weeks.

Kissinger, architect of the troop withdrawal agreement between Israel and Egypt, made the announcement after receiving detailed new proposals from Syria for a troop disengagement on the northern front.

The Tel Aviv military command announced early Saturday that crack commando units had attacked a cluster of villages and blown up buildings in southern Lebanon.

The Israeli raids on the six villages came less than 48 hours after an Arab "suicide squad" struck into the nearby Israeli border village of Qiryat Shemona, killing 16 residents and two security officers. The three Arab attackers later died in an explosion.

Jerusalem has blamed Lebanon for the suicide attack, claiming Beirut gives sanctuary to the guerrillas.

"If the Lebanese government will allow terrorist headquarters to enjoy their freedom and convenience in Beirut and at night they will cross the border into Israel, I think that eventually a good part of Lebanon will be destoyed and deserted," Dayan said following Saturday's raids.

Lebanon said it would ask for an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council in New York to file a complaint against the Israeli raid.

Supervisor to seek end to L.A. County odd-even plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline distribution plan is no longer needed in the county because gas supplies are increasing, according to Supervisor James Hayes who will move Tuesday to end the program.

Hayes, chairman of the county's energy committee, announced he would introduce a motion at the next supervisors meeting to abandon the mandatory program that began March 1.

He said federal allocations of gasoline are increasing and new fuel arrivals from the Middle East are expected.

Shell Oil Co. has announced the county will receive 102 per cent of its 1972 allotment for the county fleet of 6,500 vehicles in April and probably again in May.

Hayes warned, however, against a "gas burning binge" when the odd-even plan is lifted. He said a return to panic buying and the practice of topping off gas tanks could bring it back quickly.

Communications era opens with WU satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — America's first domestic satellite was launched into a pink and orange sunset Saturday, opening a new era in communications by cutting some costs by as much as 50 per cent.

The Westar, first of two Western Union satellites, lifted off from the Cape at 7:33 p.m. EDT in what observers called a "perfectly beautiful" launch.

A Delta rocket lifted the 1,265-pound, drum-shaped satellite into orbit.

Twenty-six minutes after liftoff, the space agency reported that Westar had gone into its highly eliptical orbit and that all systems were functioning properly.

Westar will remain in the orbit ranging from about 140 miles to 22,500 miles from Earth for about 3-½ days. A spacecraft motor will then be fired to position the satellite in a stationary orbit 22,300 miles from Earth over the equator.

Western Union officials hope to have the system operational by mid-summer. "The firms that will realize the full impact are the larger companies that use long distance communications," said Robert Garbarini, group vice president for Western Union. "There will be substantial reductions on the order of 50 per cent in their bills. Smaller companies will be in a better position to use private telephone wire systems."

Telephone lines from New York to Los Angeles now costing about $2,500 per month can be acquired for about $1,000 with a functioning Westar. Television channels costing about $2.4 million per year will drop to under $2 million.

Each of the satellite's 12 channels will be able to handle 7,000 calls or one color television circuit each, or relay words and data at the rate of eight million-words per second.

For $2, a 100-word message could be sent via satellite to the nearest post office where it would be delivered to the addressee with the next mail, sometimes the same day.

A second Westar will be launched in June with a third held in reserve for backup or extra service. The satellites, built by Hughes Aircraft, cost about $8.3 million each.

Western Union pays NASA $8.7 million for the Delta rocket and launch costs connected with each satellite. Including ground stations, Western Union's total investment is about $90 million.

Nixon aide, hired to improve links with Congress, quits

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Presidential aides confirmed Saturday that Bryce Harlow, who was hired by the White House to help improve relations with Congress, has resigned at a time when the House Judiciary Committee is investigating grounds for impeachment of President Nixon.

Nixon, who came here with his family for the Easter holiday "working vacation," remained out of sight at his bayside villa, apparently focusing on major foreign policy matters rather than his struggle against impeachment.

A White House spokesman said the President reviewed the latest flare-ups in the Middle East and discussions he had Friday in Washington with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to lay the groundwork for another summit conference in Moscow next June.

The White House account of Nixon's activities gave no indication that he had devoted any time to the impeachment battle and it made no mention of Harlow's resignation as counselor to the President, a position he assumed last July to help rebuild the Watergate-decimated White House staff.

But presirential aides, who confirmed Harlow's resignation, noted that he had said some time ago that he would be stepping down and indicated that his decision to leave would not be a major setback in Nixon's efforts to stay in office.

Harlow, 57, was widely respected on Capitol Hill after serving as head of the White House congressional liaison staff during the first two years of Nixon's initial term. It was generally known that the President asked him and former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to work at the White House last year to help improve relations with Congress as the Watergate coverup was coming unglued.

Three killed in fiery plane crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A single-engine private airplane crashed on takeoff from Bolton field and burst into flames here Saturday, killing all three persons aboard, police said.

Dennis Nicholas of the airport police said the Cherokee 140 burst into flames immediately after losing power on takeoff and crashing some 200 yards off the runway.

Girl, man pulled from pool in Bonelli Swim Park rescues

SAN DIMAS — You can tell summer's nearly here, by the number of rescues reported at Bonelli Swim Park.

Two persons, a 12-year-old La Puente girl and an unidentified male adult, were pulled from the huge pool by lifeguards Saturday after they encountered problems while swimming.

The girl, Hortencia Cervantes of 340 N. Balham Ave., fell off an innertube at 3:45 p.m. and apparently couldn't swim, sheriff's deputieo said.

She was pulled to the surface by an adult swimmer and later given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by lifeguards. The girl was transported to San Dimas Community Hospital, where she was listed in good condition.

Deputies said the unidentified man was trying to swim the width of the pool when he ran out of breath and had to be rescued. He reportedly also was taken to the hospital but was in good condition.

THE GREAT RACE

Candy eggs were on the minds of all Saturday at Chino City Park as small legs churned into action in a mad dash for thousands of chocolate treats. Several hundred kids took part in the Easter event.

State clerks on welfare

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — As many as 11.5 per cent of California's 30,000 state clerical workers are paid so little they may qualify for welfare, an employes group spokesman says.

Hugh MacColl, legislative advocate for state Clerical and Allied Services Employes (CASE) representing about 4,000 state employes, says some of them already are on welfare rolls.

The average monthly take-home pay for many secretaries, clerk typists and filers is around $450 per month, MacColl told a news conference Friday.

Because of this, he said, many single and separated women working these jobs are unable to support their families and have turned to welfare for family survival.

"These people are not welfare loafers and chiselers," he said. "These are people who work a 40-hour week."

"A survey in a Northern California county showed that 11.5 per cent of the state clerical workers in that county qualified for welfare income supplements, such as food stamps," MacColl said.

He said his organization has not been able to get figures from the Social Welfare Department to determine the number of clerical workers receiving welfare statewide.

"But I think the 11.5 per cent may be a representative figure statewide," MacColl said.

His organization advocates that all employes receive a $100 "across the board" raise this year—$50 in salary and $50 in fringe benefits. MacColl said clerical workers make up the largest group of the state's 120,000 full-time employes.

To bolster his argument, MacColl introduced two female employes who worked for the state, qualified for, and received Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments.

"I know a lot of girls who are on welfare and work for state government," said Linda Howard, a state clerk.

Miss Howard, who is divorced and has a child, said she takes home about $362.55 each month.

Mulrooney has role in Mexico seminar

CLAREMONT — City Manager Keith Mulrooney has been given permission by the City Council to attend a training seminar for mayors at Mexico City April 18-20.

Mulrooney reported to the council the School of Administration at the University of California has a contract with the state of Mexico to provide training for governmental officials.

Dr. Wesley Bjur of Claremont will operate the program. He invited three city managers from the eastern United States and three from the western United States to participate.

All expenses will be paid by the state of Mexico.

Ruse leads to rape of woman in Pomona; two men sought

POMONA — Police are searching for two men who broke into an apartment here Saturday and raped an 18-year-old woman after tricking her boyfriend into leaving the residence.

Officers said the pair had forced their way into the apartment in the 1300 block of Murietta while the victims were asleep, about 9:15 a.m.

The victims were "religious," police indicated and offered to help the suspects. The boyfriend, Reginald Malone, 25, agreed to drive to Covina with one of the suspects on a motorcycle to pick up a car, and bring it back to Pomona.

When they arrived in Covina, the suspect spotted another motorcycle having mechanical problems, and asked the victim to get off so he could tow it.

After Malone was dropped off, the suspect drove back to Pomona and joined his companion in the assault.

The two men were described as male Caucasians, one in his 30's, both with tatoos of women. The motorcycle used in the incident was a purple Harley Davidson "chopper."

DILIGENT SEARCH

With the green lawns of the Chino City Park swept clean, the hunt Saturday for candy Easter eggs quickly focused on the park's hedges where youngsters left nothing unturned.

3 U.S. naval officers slain at Subic Bay

MANILA (UPI) — Three American naval officers were shot and killed in an ambush Saturday while inspecting road construction in an isolated corner of the big Subic Bay U.S. naval base, 50 miles northwest of Manila, a Navy spokesman said.

"There is no indication at this time" that Communist Hukbalahap guerrillas killed the officers, the spokesman, Lt. Cmdr. Keith Schacher, said in reply to a question. "We are conducting an investigation of this tragic incident and we certainly won't speculate on anything."

The three victims, all commissioned officers, were riding a jeep Saturday morning along a boundary road on the northeastern edge of the base when they were shot.

"The group was on an inspection tour traveling toward a Seabee (construction battalion) team working on the northern section of the road," Schacher said. He said the ambush site was within the base itself and about seven miles from the base headquarters.

Schacher said members of the Seabee team about half a mile away heard the shooting and rushed to the scene to find the three officers dead.

The naval station was promptly noti-

Bomb blast at Lebanese consulate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A small bomb exploded in a hallway outside the Lebanese consulate Saturday shortly after an anonymous caller phoned UPI to take responsibility, saying "never again."

Police said the device, which went off at 2:45 p.m., caused minimal damage and there were no injuries.

Shortly before the blast, a young woman called the UPI bureau saying a bomb had been placed at the office and that Jewish people "would never be massacred again."

The caller ended the message with "never again," a common catch phrase of the militant Jewish Defense League.

House nixes hearing, says too sensitive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has dismissed as too sensitive a proposed inquiry into the controversial United States military alert during the Middle East War last October 24-25.

The resolution, introduced by Reps. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., and Fortney H. "Pete" Stark, D-Calif., required Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to turn over all the messages between President Nixon and Soviet officials and a list of all the actions taken during the crisis. It was tabled on a voice vote.

The alert, which put U.S. military forces at their highest stage of readiness and included preparation of nuclear weapons, was criticized as too precipitous and too likely to lead to a confrontation with Russia.

Pay, housing, milk prices on Walnut school agenda

WALNUT — Teachers in the Walnut School District are expected to present proposals for salary increases and fringe benefits for 1974-75 to school trustees Monday night.

The board will also consider approval of a milk price boost in district cafeterias during the 7:30 p.m. meeting scheduled for Walnut High School's multipurpose room.

Further information also will be available for the board on pupil housing plans next year in the Vejar-Walnut schools area. Trustees discussed alternatives to overcrowded classrooms at Suzanne Intermediate School and in the Diamond Bar area at the last meeting.

Board members also will consider an "affirmative action" program relating to employment practices. If approved, the district would have to actively seek members of minorities for employment.

Also on the agenda Monday will be a status report of the search for a new vice principal at Walnut High, and possible approval of a minimum day at the high school April 29 for a staff workshop on career education and development.

Water diet may be hazardous

CHICAGO (UPI) — For some, the so-called water diet may be hazardous to health, an article in the Journal of the American medical Association warns.

The diet, sometimes promoted as a quick, easy solution to obesity, requires intake of at least eight glasses of water daily and restricts consumption of carbohydrates.

The article said not only is the weight loss only temporary, but it causes an immediate rise in cholesterol. This "probably" does not harm healthy young people, the article said, but others should be wary.

"One must consider the potential edfects of the prolonged or repetitve use of this diet by middle-aged persons who may have coronary artery disease," the article said.

On death row, but technically he's free man

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Sam Poole, technically a free man, will spend Easter Sunday on death row in the North Carolina Central Prison.

Poole, the last person convicted of first degree burglary under a phased-out state law which specified the death penalty for the offense, has been on death row since last August. The legislature has since rewritten the law, deleting the death penalty.

"It seems kinda screwy," said Poole's lawyer, Adam Smith of Chapel Hill.

Poole, 31, was convicted 11 months ago of a first degree burglary in which no one was hurt and nothing was stolen. He was ordered last August to death row.

But the only thing holding him from freedom now is red tape.

The North Carolina Supreme Court last Wednesday ruled there was insufficient evidence to convict Poole and ordered him released and not to be tried again.

That put it up to the court clerk, Adrian Newton, to prepare the necessary papers and mail them to Judge Maurice Braswell, who presided at Poole's original trial.

But because of Supreme Court policy Newton cannot prepare the papers until the second Monday after the decision was reached —April 22. In turn, Braswell cannot order Poole freed until he gets the papers, and prison officials say they are powerless until they hear from the judge.

Meanwhile, Poole sits in jail.

Newton said he could get the needed papers ready "within 20 minutes if the court tells me to." Four of the seven judges need only tell the clerk to do so, but he cannot do it on his own.

"Poole's entitled to his release, but there's a procedure that we go through . . ." said Associate Justice Carlisle W. Higgins, his voice trailing off.

Another of Poole's lawyers, Wayne Robbins of Southern Pines, said he plans to "pursue this immediately."

Robbins hopes to have Poole out of jail perhaps by next weekend.

Moretti raps big oil for 'cashing in'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti Saturday criticized the oil industry for "cashing in" on the "great personal hardship" created by the energy crisis.

Moretti, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said he supported a proposed initiative to place the oil industry under the regulation of the state Public Utilities Commission.

In a statement, Moretti said the top 22 oil companies earned $9.1 billion in net profits last year.

"People have every right to resent an oil industry cashing in excessively in a period of great personal hardship for most others," the Van Nuys lawmaker said.

"But the public should be outraged by the fact the oil companies will get off without paying anywhere near a fair share of taxes on those immense profits."

Moretti declared 19 oil companies shaved $1.1 billion from their tax obligation as a result of the foreign tax credit in 1970.

"Meanwhile, the cost of living spurred on by soaring fuel prices, rose so fast in 1973 that workers who were lucky enough to win a pay raise still wound up deep in the hole at the end of the year," Moretti stated.

Wiggins sets talk on radio

Congressman Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., a member of the House Judiciary Committee currently concerned with impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, will be a guest on radio station KMPC's Forum tonight at 10:05.

Wiggins will be interviewed for 25 minutes by KMPC newsmen Paul Pierce and Bob Steinbrinck.

Colombianos de E.U. votaran para su pais

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los habitantes de Colombia iran a las casillas electorales el dia 21 de Abril para escoger nuevo presidente, y campanas politicas estan tomando lugar no solamente en Bogota, sino tambien en la ciudad de Nueva York donde miles de colombianos han encontrado un hogar.

La mayoria de los expatriados son, sugen la ley colombiana, elegibles para votar y los doe partidos politicos de mas importancia en Colombia, Los Conservadores y los Liberales, quieren su voto a toda costa que han organizado su cuartel general de campana en uno de los principales centros de la nacion.

Los Liberales y Conservadores tienen su cuartel general en esta ciudad.

Un vocero del partido Liberal-quien prefirio no dar su nombre, solamente dijo que tenia 86 anos de edad y era "un veterano de la Primera Guerra Mundial"-dijo que bajo la constitucion colombiana, colombianos viviendo fuera del pais tienen permiso o se les permite votar, con papeleta de ausente, y solamente en elecciones presidenciales tal como esta del 21 de este mes.

El vocero dijo que el dia de la eleccion cuatro casillas electorales estaran a disposicion de los ciudadanos colombianos en el consulado de este pais en Nueva York y otros en el centro colombiano en Manhattan.

Todo lo que los votantes deben de hacer, el dijo, es probar que son colombianos de 21 anos de edad y registrarse.

Aunque no se sabe exactamente, se figura que hay 160,000 colombianos viviendo en la ciudad de Nueva York, y mas de 500,000 en los Estados Unidos.

Tom's claim to fame may be hard to prove

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Big Red, our orange and white tomcat, has fathered most of the kittens in our neighborhood. They look just like him. Most of the neighborhood. cats, I mean. Yesterday I met this fellow on the other side of the block that's claiming his male cat is the best stud in the neighborhood. He's sneaky and lucky because his male is orange and white, too, so, of course, he's claiming Big Red's kittens are his. This isn't a bit fair to Big Red and I'd like to prove this guy is all wet. How can I got about this? — N. A.

Dear N. A.: Big Red's claim to fame would be hard to prove under these circumstances unless: (a) you relied on involved and expensive laboratory procedures or (b) you actually knew which of these male cats was dominant They are close enough that undoubtedly this already has been worked out. Other things being equal, the dominant male would rate with a greater percentage of available females than would the subordinate male. Actually, for the sake of the cats in your neighborhood (and an even larger area), it would be far better to call off this contest completely and have both of these males neutered at once. Better early than late, but better late than never, in helping to reduce the surplus cat population.

Big Red and rival would be ruined romantically but they would be better pets and would probably have a longer life span in which to reminisce.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In checking over my new, to me, corn snake. I have gotten little dust-sized specks on my hand that move. They must be some kind of a bug. Could they be harmful to the snake or did they just happen to be on him? What do you think they are? Or would that have to be a wild guess? — H. H.

Dear H. H.: One "wild" guess would be that these fast-moving specks are immature mites. If so, there might be some adult females on your snake. These would appear as small but very obvious shiny red or black beads. Mites may be removed by washing the entire snake in warm water and wiping it down with cotton. It would then have to be placed in clean, mite-free surroundings.

Young sister is different

By JEAN ADAMS

DIFFERENT: (Q) My brother and sister are older than I am, and are away at college. They were never very popular in high school, but I am. My parents don't realize how different I am. They restrict me from doing things I enjoy simply because my brother and sister never did these things.

I've tried talking to them, but they just won't look at it my way. — Little Sister in Pennsylvania

(A) Every child is different and should be treated as an individual. Parents should encourage each child to develop his or her personal good points. They should also remember that customs change and must be adjusted to.

But at the same time they should guard the physical and mental health and the personal safety of each child. And they should guide the child so that he or she can be useful in society.

If your parents let you do anything you wanted to just because you are different, they might be hurting you instead of helping you. Try to see their side. If you can, and if you are understanding, it will be easier for them to see your side and understand it.

TALKER: (Q) What do you think of a girl who says she likes you but talks behind your back? I really like Cindy, but she talks about me and it hurts. — Cindy's Boy Friend in Florida

(A) Let Cindy know she is hurting you Ask her to stop. If she does, you will know she really likes you. If she doesn't stop, drop her.

Streaker with hobby horse gallops away

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Ye Olde Meat Shoppe was streaked recently by a young man with a sense of the appropriate.

The nude man entered the store astride a hobby horse, looked over the meat, and galloped off.

The shoppe sells only horse meat.

It was reported that one of the witnesses remarked, as the nude stranger disappeared into the sunset: "Who was that unmasked man, anyway?"

"Miracle Cure"

5,000 YEAR OLD CHINESE HEALTH REMEDY FOUND

PEKING (Special)— Health researchers in China have uncovered an amazing rare old Chinese herb remedy that possesses spectacular healing qualities and reportedly has been used for 5,000 years to cure or give relief to a host of the most common illnesses suffered by mankind. Dramatic claims are being made that this "miracle herb" called ginseng, may actually hold the key to a longer healthier life. Indeed, there is one historical case of a user living to be 256 years old.

Helps Many Illnesses

Like acupuncture, the many healing properties of this remarkable herb were once considered "folklore and superstition", but modern researchers around the world are suggesting that it may actually regulate many of the body's processes to increase SEXUAL potency, help heal ULCERS, relieve ARTHRITIS, check graying or loss of HAIR, improve DIGESTION, slow down ARTERIOSCLEROSIS, relieve ASTHMA overcome FATIGUE, improve DIABETIC conditions, relieve inflammation of the URINARY TRACT, help chronic INSOMNIA, relieve BACKACHES and PAINS and generally improve your health by increasing your body's potential to heal itself.

Safe, No Side Effects

Ginseng is not a drug, but an herb or vegetable that is extremely rich in vitamins and minerals. What's more, this amazing natural remedy is completely safe and non-toxic with no side effects. Unfortunately, high-grade ginseng is in short supply, and brokers and processors around the world are bracing themselves for a "run" on the market as the herb's purported "near miraculous" healing properties become more widely known to the general public.

Now Available in U.S.

Now you can get a generous 30-day supply of this amazing natural remedy direct from a major supplier by sending only $10.00 in check, cash or money order to Health Laboratories, Dept. I, Box 2142, Palm Springs, Calif. 92262. This wonder herb is said to have helped millions of other people, and it may help your health problem too. Isn't it worth a try?

Prop. 9 group forms in 35th Congress Dist.

CLAREMONT — Local volunteer members of the California Coalition for Proposition 9 have chosen Dr. Peter P. Dawson, Cal Poly Pomona professor of management, as chairman of the ballot measure drive in the 35th Congressional District.

The group held its organizational meeting last week and set the next meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Claremont United Methodist Church.

Dawson calls Proposition 9 "the most significant reform proposal ever placed before the voters of any state." He believes it will bring essential open-government reforms to all levels of California government, and will put the Congress on notice that citizens of this country will accept nothing less.

Dawson said that the reform measure goes beyond any legislation passed or pending before the state Legislature, and proposes not only limiting expenditures for political campaigns but also effective disclosures of lobbying and conflict of interests by a nonpartisan Fair Political Practices Committee, done at no cost and eventual savings to the taxpayer.

Proposition 9 was written at the request of Common Cause, and has been endorsed by the League of Women Voters, the Southern California Council of Churches, the American Association of Retired Persons, and the California Teachers Association.

Working with Dawson in the local drive are Mrs. Helen Collins, La Verne; Mrs. Louise Solomon, Alta Loma; and Bishop H. B. Amstutuz, Miss Florence Lerrigo and Dr. R. Wilbur Simmons of Claremont.

GERALD WOLF will serve as the 1974-75 president of Serrano Junior High School PTA in Montclair. Other new officers are Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald first vice president; Mrs. Fred Levers second vice president; Mrs. David Click secretary; Mrs. Charles Smith treasurer; Dotti Barry, auditor; and Mrs. Robert Bannister, historian.

Drug group plans Mexico gifts trip

CHINO — Approximately 30 members and volunteers from Jericho Outreach, a rehabilitation center and halfway house for drug addicts, will make a good-will trip Saturday to the small village of Ejido in Sonora, Mexico.

They will spend one day at the isolated village, said Sonny Navarro, director of Jericho Outreach. During their stay, the members will conduct church services and distribute clothing, food and toys.

Contributions of canned food and money to cover transportation costs are now being sought, said Navarro.

Persons wishing to donate food or money may contact Jericho Outreach at 5151 F St., Chino, phone 628-9266.

School, city parley in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The school board will host the City of Claremont at a workshop about joint city-school district use of facilities Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Condit Elementary School.

Superintendent R. S. Kirkendall will report on the seismic study made by a private firm at the district's Sage school site and La Puerta Intermediate School. Both locations are south of Thompson Creek flood control channel.

The city by Sept. 20 must adopt a seismic safety policy.

Reports will be received by the school board, the City Council, and the city Parks and Recreation Commission on women's sports, the extended day program at Claremont High School, summer school and adult school.

The workshop from 7:30 to 9 p.m. will also cover subjects such as tennis, gym, the Youth Activity Center, and recreation fields.

The City Council and Parks and Recreation Commission will adjourn to the Chamber of Commerce office for a joint meeting.

The council is expected to award a contract on the emergency operating center for the new police station.

The master plan for James Higginbotham Park and Sycamore Canyon will be discussed.

The school board will hold its personnel session from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. before the workshop.

At 9 p.m. the regular school board meeting will start, with a needs assessment report from district parents.

Dr. Kirkendall will report on his meeting with the Certificated Employe Council after discussion about the proposed grievance policy which would replace the school board as a final step in an employe grievance with a three-member panel.

The board is expected to approve courses for summer school, and to authorize the staff to seek appraisals of the Sage school site.

The board will review the class schedule currently used at El Roble Intermediate School.

Feminism talk slated at LVC

LA VERNE — Psychoterapist and author Charlotte Clinebell will be the principal speaker Tuesday at a La Verne College discussion on feminism.

She will discuss ideas from her book, "Meet Me in the Middle," and lead a group discussion designed to help women become more conscious of their own feelings.

The seminar will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the President's Dining Room, Davenport Dining Hall.

La Verne Fire being studied

LA VERNE — Firemen are conducting an investigation to determine the cause of a fire which did an estimated $5,000 damage to the house at 2701 Damien Ave. Saturday about 4 a.m.

They said the fire originated in the kitchen, but smoke damage was heavy throughout the house. There were no injuries.

Class offered in latest first aid

CLAREMONT — A revised standard first aid and personal safety course will be held at the Claremont Red Cross chapter, 265 N. Indian Hill Blvd., beginning Tuesday.

Classes will be held every Tuesday for five weeks from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Gary Kraus will instruct the course.

Pomona inmate escapes on ruse

POMONA — A 16-year-old burglary suspect escaped from the Pomona jail Friday afternoon by posing as another prisoner who was due to be released.

According to police, the youth threatened another smaller youngster with injury and forced him to switch indentification bands.

When the second boy's mother arrived to obtain her son's release, the 16-year-old was released by the jailer and simply walked out of the police station.

The escape wasn't discovered until the woman again asked for her son's release.

Square dancers in library show

POMONA — A demonstration of square dancing and calls and a brief talk on the history and meaning of dances will be held in the north patio of the Pomona Public Library Tuesday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Performing will be members of the Sawdusters Square Dance Group. Howard McCreery of Upland will be the caller.

The group offers weekly lessons from September through May. Otis Mitchell of Pomona, 624-3186, is the president of the Sawdusters.

Peg-Leg Smith and the Strange Black Pebbles

Thomas L. Smith was born in Garrard County, Kentucky, in 1801. He became a Missouri riverboat man, a ferocious fighter, a fearless adventurer.

Perhaps tiring of the "crowds" of settled America, he took up fur trapping in the vast wilds of what are now the states of New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona. While in the Grand River country he was shot in the left leg by an Indian. He asked his companions to amputate his leg, but they were afraid to do so. Having a distaste for a slow death by gangrene poisoning, he took a knife and cut off his own leg. Surprisingly, he lived, fashioned a palo verde peg for himself, and stumped into the history of the West. His courage won him great prestige with the Utes, and he lived with them for many years. They called him Wa-be-to-co.

Sometime between 1829 and 1836 Smith and some companions forded the Colorado and headed across the desert for the Mexican pueblos along the coast. When they became lost, Peg-Leg climbed the tallest of three closely grouped buttes. After getting his bearings he saw some odd black pebbles, and put a few in his pocket. Time passed and Smith found himself in San Francisco, where he had the pebbles assayed. They were almost pure gold, with a black encrustation. From this point on the mystery of where Peg-Leg's mine lay takes a hundred different routes. There was no mine, really — merely the exposed nuggets of what must have been a fabulously rich vein.

But Peg-Leg never found it again. Neither has anyone else, although professional and amateur prospectors have scurried about the desert wastes for more than 125 years. Some authorities say the lost lode was in a valley called Holcomb in the San Bernardino Mountains, which contained three small buttes and a fairly rich layer of alluvial gold just a few inches under the topsoil. All of this was grubbed up by eager prospectors nearly 100 years ago. There's no real proof Smith's find was there, though. Perhaps it's still waiting to be discovered!

Along with his trusted Utes, Smith spent the next 20 years stealing horses from the Californios. In 1848 he carried out the greatest horse-stealing raid of all time, in which prized stock from San Diego to Santa Clara was swept up. Eyewitnesses told of a dust cloud visible 30 miles away as 5,000 horses were sent racing up the Cajon Pass. Some of these horses were shipped as far as Galveston, Texas, and on to the West Indies. Peg-Leg and his pals found horse stealing far more profitable than fur trapping or hunting for a golden butte. They didn't stop stealing horses until California came under the American flag. Smith lived mostly in San Francisco after that, and died in 1862. And the last of the wild horse herds, formed all those years ago by horses that couldn't match the fierce pace of the Indian outriders, was exterminated by hunters in Apple Valley in 1948.

Have you thought of looking for Peg-Leg's butte?

It could be a marvelous pastime — as long as you make sure that's all it becomes. Because looking for a lost mine that untold thousands have been unable to find is no way to prepare for the future. It's a lot more satisfying to know that your savings are growing steadily and safely... to know you have the brand of security and growth that comes with a savings account at Upland Savings.

Upland Savings is the largest California chartered savings and loan association in the Upland/Ontario area, with assets now in excess of $30,000,000. We can give you the nation's highest interest on your savings. In fact, no other insured financial institution, regardless of size or location, can legally pay you higher interest or offer you greater insurance than we do.

Here's just one example. Save $50 a month for 15 years, and at today's interest rates you would then be able to take an income of $50 a month for as long as you wanted, without ever touching your capital. And all the while we'd be reinvesting your savings in your community, helping to make it a better place for all of us.

Why don't you stop by and ask us about the many different types of accounts we can offer you? You'll find a host of free services to choose from, too. All yours with a friendly, personal we're-your-neighbors touch.

So forget about Peg-Leg's mine. (And don't try horse stealing; feed and stall space cost an awful lot these days!) Begin a savings program at Upland Savings instead. It's one good habit you should have.

Teen in house, Dad's a loser

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK

Our teen-age son was rummaging around our bathroom the other day when he yelled to his father, "Where do you hide your aftershave lotion?"

My husband opened the medicine chest, handed him the bottle and observed, "You didn't have any trouble finding my tennis shorts."

"Mine are dirty," he said defensively. "I suppose you want me to streak at the tennis courts and get my name in the paper. By the way, you're out of mouthwash. Better pick up some your next trip out."

"Thanks," said his father dryly.

"Incidentally," he said, "you don't mind if I borrow your sweater, do you? You never wear it."

"How can I when it's never off your back," said his father. "And while we're on the subject, that's my racket."

"Don't worry about it," he said. "I'll probably never use it. It's just a back-up in case I break a string. Actually I've never cared much for your racket. It's too light and the grip is too small. Why dn't you try a bigger grip the next time?"

"I'll remember," said his father.

"Where are your car keys? They were here on the chest a few minutes ago and now they're gone. I swear someone is always walking off with them. I'm late now," he said shaking a watch and holding it to his ear. "That is, unless your watch is gaining again. You know, Dad, I think this dude has had its day."

His father reached for the hat on his head, turned it over and read his own initials inside. "THAT'S MY HAT!" he exclaimed.

"I know. I left mine in Buck's car. Besides, how can I wear your shirt without the hat? It matches."

"That's true," mumbled his father.

"Incidentally, Dad, you got a few bucks in case we don't get the court right away and we have to kill some time eating?"

His father dug in his pocket and peeled off two one-dollar bills. "What time will you be home?" he asked.

At that moment, the son's body in the borrowed apparel looked at his father incredulously, "Dad! For crying out loud. Do you realize how old I am? I'm not a child anylonger. I'm my own man who stands on his own two feet. I'm a person who has to swing free and make his own life. You've gotta let go. Don't you understand? I've gotta be me!"

My husband and I exchanged glances. Somehow, it made more sense when Sammy Davis Jr. sang it.

'OP' SCULPTURE — Helical and spiral coils and stamped formed elements fabricated in Detroit by the W. M. Chase subsidiary of GTE Sylvania are used by Kristi Riddle to create a piece of "op" sculpture. The material consists of two or three metals having widely different coefficients of thermal expansion. After bonding, the result is thermostatic metal or bimetal. Its most important characteristic is that it bends or deflects proportionally with temperature change and so can perform mechanical work.

Bit of the 1920s appears in new fashions for men

NEW YORK (UPI) — A little bit of the '20s look came into the picture at the recent Paris showings of winter men's fashions, including short haircuts on the models.

Popular were blazer-type cuts of jackets, wide trousers, highbuttoning waistcoats. Many of the jackets featured notched, wide lapels.

Vests showed up most in the country weekend fashions, tweedy stuff with jackets slightly shorter than we're seeing now and many without back vents.

Most of the pants were cuffless, but wide the full length. Narrow pants seem to be out, at least so far as French designers are concerned.

Coats and topcoats were predominantly just below-the knee in length, with roomy, rather straight designs. Turned back cuffs and raglan shoulder lines caught most of the attention. Belted models featured extra large collars, many of them furred.

Pleated pockets, both for suits and coats, were on many models, large and wide. Patch and flapped pockets were also popular, especially on the heavier overcoats.

Colorwise, big checks remained very much in evidence, particularly in the casual range of jackets and jeans. It looked like corduroy would be making a strong comeback, and there were quite a lot of gabardines.

The trenchcoat was, of course, still on the scene, a little bulkier in the new styles, narrowly belted and often with heavy fur collars.

For suiting there was less color splash than in some of the more recent showings and many of the outfits were shown in soft shades, green and brown predominating.

Vegetable supplies decrease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer supplies of fresh vegetables from April through June will be about 5 per cent smaller than in the same period last year, an Agriculture Department report showed today.

The report said potential production for 14 vegetable crops raised for the "fresh market" is currently estimated at 37.2 million hundredweight compared with 39 million hundredweight in the spring quarter od 1973.

The report indicated April-June production of tomatoes would be 3.986 million hundredweight compared with 4.567 million hundredweight last year. sweet corn production was expected to drop from 4.143 million hundredweight last spring to 3.137 million hundredweight this year.

Declines were also expected for cabbage, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole, lettuce and green peppers. partly offsetting those drops will be increases for snap beans, carrots, cauliflower and spinach, the report added.

American's book angers Yugoslavs

BELGRADE (UPI) — A new book by an American diplomat has angered the Yugoslav Communist Party hierarchy for contradicting the official version of the Partisan struggle against the German occupiers during World War II.

Yugoslav newspapers have attacked Walter Roberts' "Tito, Mihailovic and the Allies, 1941-45" as a "slanderous pamphlet" which has "falsified history."

The book, which is banned in Yugoslavia, seeks to restore the reputation of the discredited General Dragoljub-Draza Mihailovic, leader of the Chetnik remnants of the Yugoslav royalist forces, and says that President Tito was prepared to collaborate with the occupying Nazi forces in the last years of the war.

Roberts, an assistant director of the United States Information Agency, based his work on hitherto unpublished U.S. diplomatic archive material which recorded that in 1943 Tito sent a three-man delegation to negotiate an exchange of prisoners with the Germans and discuss calling a truce.

Roberts backed this up quoting from a telegram written by the German minister in Zagreb during the war, Siegfried Kasche, to German foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Referring to the German-Partisan talks Kasche said it was possible "that Tito and his supporters will cease to fight Germany, Italy and Croatia and retire to the Sandzak in order to settle matters with Mihailovic's Chetniks..."

Roberts, who was U.S. embassy counsellor in Belgrade from 1960-66, said no such agreement was made because Ribbentrop vetoed it. But Roberts' evidence that Tito tried to call it quits has seriously contradicted the official Yugoslav version of those years which pictures Tito and his Partisans as never wavering in their struggle against the Fascist occupiers.

It also adds irony to the fact that in 1946 Tito had Mihailovic executed for collaborating with the Germans--which, according to Roberts, Tito was prepared to do himself.

Military sources here, who are veterans of the war years, confirm that delegations were sent to hold talks with the Germans on exchanging prisoners, on securing recognition of the Partisan army in order that prisoners would be treated under the Geneva Convention, and to learn what kind of terms would be acceptable for a truce.

These sources maintain, however, that the Partisan delegations went tongue-in-cheek to such talks and did not take the discussions seriously. Their purpose was also partly to gather information, in the Yugoslav version.

In gegneral, Roberts' book pays tribute to the achievements of Tito and his Partisans even though the Yugoslavs complain, as one reviewer wrote, that he has used "proofs" that "do not correspond to the historical truth."

Witch doctor seen aid for mental cases

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A clinical psychologist who spent two years studying how Tanzanian witch doctors treat mental patients has concluded that less primitive cultures "have a lot to learn" from them.

"Western man is in a state of turmoil about the values by which he is going to live and...no one is treating the real problem," Dr. Herbert Rappaport of Temple University said Sunday. "We do have a lot to learn from them."

Rappaport said interviews with medicine men in Dar Es Salaam and tiny African tribal villages convinced him the witch doctors were "charasmatic men' who have an "astute awareness" of how such things as jealously or family conflicts can affect people.

He said medicine men sometime prescribe herbal remedies, perform an exorciso rite or other ceremonies to relieve their patients' mental problems.

Rappaport, given a two-year Fulbright Fellowship to study the Tanzanians, said that in a rite called Tambiko—used to overcome bad luck—a person's relatives participate in dances, rituals and feasts to help rid him of guilt and fear.

Confessions of backyard bird-watcher

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Notes from a birdwatcher's diary:

This has been a fine winter and early spring for viewing the unusual, at least for us more or less amateur nature-lovers, at our 38-hundredths of an acre backyard "sanctuary" on the oitskirts of Franklin, Ind.

First, there was the brown thrasher which showed up at our kitchen windowsill feeding station on Christmas Day. Our bird books show these thrashers may winter in small numbers this far north, but we never before had seen one except in summer. During that season, they observe dietary habits similar to their thrush family cousins, the robins.

But here was a thrasher invading our feeder and taking potluck with the more common bird varieties, pecking at sunflower and mixed seeds with his long curved bill.

He must have liked what he got, for he has come back irregularly ever since and was seen feeding as late as a recent Sunday when the spring snow obscured any available ground fare.

Kinglet arrives

Even more unusual have been the antics of a ruby crowned kinlet, one of the tiniest varieties in the North American bird kingdom, little larger tha hummingbirds.

Kinglets are not rare in winter in Indiana, but we are told they seldom frequent feeding stations. Ours came the first time early in January, attracted by a bag of "bird candy" suspended from a lilac bush twig three feet from our kitchen window. The "candy" was a mixture of suet, peanut butter and seeds, cooked together and cooled and cut into slabs like fudge.

Our kinglet friend surprised us by fluttering his wings and hovering like a hummingbird at the side of the net bag, frequently poking his bill into the suet. Daily observations showed he favored the peanut butter, which collected at the bottom of the cooling pan.

Kinglet stays

A little later, he learned to cling to the net bag and dine in a more comfortable position at a more leisurely pace. But he still often played hummingbird, much to our delight, and remained a regular visitor morning, afternoon and evening far into the month of March. In fact, we think we may be feeding him all summer.

In the past we've been able to lure a purple finch to the feeder only occasionally—maybe only once or twice all winter. This year was quite different. Finches came almost daily, many females and perhaps some juvenile males which resemble the females, and a few males. The males are a beautiful raspberry color. The females are brown streaked much like plain old ordinary house sparrows.

No grosbeaks

No evening grosbeaks were sighted this season, but then we never have had more than one at a time. In the 1972-73 winter, it was a pretty female with her pale green beak. We always wanted to see a flock of them in our yard, like many other people in Indiana reort viewing from time to time.

Neither did we have any redbreasted nuthatches. One recent winter, a pair of these fed at our "restaurant" almost daily. They never have returned. Maybe they didn't like the food.

In less than 10 years of bird watching, my wife Alice and I have logged 85 varieties in or from our own small yard. And of these, 23 varieties have been at our feeding station.

We recommend birding to people of all ages. It's a great hobby, healthful, educational and rewarding.

Crafty bank robber knocks out camera

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — A bank robber took careful aim with his pistol and shot out the surveillance camera before robbing a Bank of America branch of an undetermined amount of cash, police said.

"Hit the floor, lie down and don't move," ordered the robber. He then leaped over the counter, scooped cash from two drawers and fled.

What beasts fight about

What are animals most apt to fight about? Females? Food? Threats to their young? No, sir. It's that thing called territorial rights. Among men and beasts, that culprit who's most likely to be challenged is the trespasser. Or so an animal expert tells me. Calls to mind the previously reported claim of a Seatle lawyer of lengthy experience: Disputes over property boundaries bring on more lawsuits than anything else.

The cars outnumber the mechanics now by about 130 to one.

Quite right, the mouse and the giraffe each has seven bones in its neck, that's all.

If words were cylinders, the average English-speaking conversationalist would posses about 20,000 of same, misfiring along daily on only about 3,000.

Q. 'How does the fuel consumption of the supersonic jet called the Concorde compare to that of subsonic planes?'

A. Burns about four times as much, reportedly. And there are those who contend the rising costs of fuel now leave all supersonic jets not only dead on the runway, but dead on the drawing boards.

Family friend named A. D. White came by the place the other night, limping badly. Asked him if he'd had an accident. 'No,' he said, 'heifer stomped on me.' Asked him if he didn't call that an accident. 'No,' he said, 'She done it on purpose.' That's western humor. Eastern humor coming up. Don't miss it.

That day of the week when you're most apt to come down with a cold is Monday. Or so it would appear from a six-year study of almost 15,000 cases of respirator illness. A University of Michigan epidemiologist named Dr. Arnold S. Monto was the researcher on this one. He says the second worst day for the common cold is Sunday. Others have pointed out that these are the two days when drinkers are most vulnuerable to hangovers, too.

An astute botanist with a computer has figured out that just one little old bumblebee in a single hour's work can pollinate a sufficient number of blossoms in the orchard to produce nine bushels of apples. You call that trivia? I call it a Divine wonder.

Some farsighted souls are said to be buying their caskets ahead of time and using them as pool cue racks or gun cabinets. An outfit called the Rocky Mountain Casket Company is promoting that notion. At $125 per casket, plus shipping costs. For an extra $10, the firm will toss in a couple of removable shelves, or some cue holders, or even wine racks.

Sunday, April 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid situations today that smack of competition. You may find yourself pitted against one who hates to lose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may feel your ideas are better than another's. It behooves you to keep them to yourself to avert friction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your self-discipline will not be all it should today. Overindulgence in some form is likely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Steer clear of strong-willed companions. One in particular is far too bossy for you to effectively cope with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to push yourself physically today more than you should. If exercising, don't do anything too strenuous.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not the day for you to try anything that has an element of risk. Let your practical nature dominate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) I don't believe you'll find much peace and comfort around home today. Why not pack the family in the car and go elsewhere?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very careful of what you say today, and to whom. It's a day when others are likely to read different meanings into your words.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Given the right set of circumstances, you could be very foolish where money is concerned. Not your day to take a flyer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Let others think for themselves today. If you try to run things, you'll get a lot of hostile feedback.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone is going to tell you something in apparent confidence. Don't repeat it. They are using you as a dupe to further their aims.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You still have to be on guard where friends and business propositions are concerned. A false move will get you in a mess.

April 14

This year can be very rewarding if you don't have too many irons in the fire at one time. Concentrate on your most promising project.

For Monday, April 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A disruptive influence is about to upset the delicate balance in a relationship you deem important. Watch for the unexpected.

TAURUS (pril 20-May 20) Something you want to achieve is not as sure a thing as you presently believe. Strengthen your foundations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't assume that just because you've told an associate your ideas he's in accord with you. Get a definite commitment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're counting on another for aid, get it in your hands first. Then and only then, take your next step.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Just to be a nice guy you're likely to agree to something you'd rather not do. It's best to voice your disapproval instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Calculate very carefully expenses involved for work or service you're having done or doing for another. Something is being overlooked.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be equally attentive to two individuals you'll be involved with today. One will wind up with hurt feelings if he feels he's ignored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll get a lot of advice today regarding something you're working on. If you heed it, confusion will result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to yield to pressure and change plans to plesse someone else. You won't have as much fun if you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's going to be hard to stay within your budget while shopping today. You're apt to buy the deluxe model instead of the standard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will not be as firm about holding to your resoulutions as you should. At the last minute you'll give in to temptation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You initial appraisal of a business situation is apt to be your best, but self-doubts will arise and lead you to think otherwise.

Your Brighday April 15

You will form two important associations this year. One will advance your hopes and interests, while another may prove to be of dubious value.

Worship of ancient gods is revived by Icelanders

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —In the year 1000 Iceland officially became Christian, but old traditions don't die fast and today this island nation is seeing a rebirth of heathenism with worship to such gods as Thor and Odin.

In the old days the Vikings used to offer humans and animals as sacrifices to their gods. Today the offerings consist mainly of wine and corn.

The Viking cult, started two years ago, was granted recognition last year by Prime Minister Olofur Johannesson over the protest of the official Lutheran Church of Iceland.

Dag Thorleifsson, one of the leaders of the new heathens, said in an interview there were more than 100 active members now "and many more are following this new religion and coming to public meetings."

Some people, including Iceland's only Nobel Prize winner, Halldor Laxness, have said Icelanders never really became Christians and are still infatuated with their old Viking god heroes—Thor, Odin, Tyr, Aegir, and others.

"I am sure that Iceland is the most ideal country for the Viking cult because of the big interest in the old gods and our sagas which link us to the old times when Thor and Odin ruled,'' said Thorleifsson, 37.

"This is the first honest attempt to revive the cult in Europe," he said.

The so-called high priest of the cult is Sveinbjoern Beinteinsson, a 47-year-old farmer and a well known Icelandic singer.

In place of the oldtime human sacrifices—usually captured enemies—today's heathens place corn and wine on a statue of Thor.

Most of the sacrificing is done inside homes, but last year a large ceremony was held in the open air where the participants afterwards drank Icelandic root beer spiced with aquavit.

Cling to heritage

The Icelanders remind themselves of their heritage in many ways. For instance during the recent fishing rights dispute with Britain in which Icelandic ships fired across the bows of British trawlers, every one of the Icelandic gunboats was named after an old god.

According to Thorleifsson when the cult grows in popularity, Iceland will be divided into areas, each with a high priest.

"During the past years Christians have said God is dead," he said, "but we know that God is alive and that he appears in many forms including the old gods of the heathen times."

The cultists still do not have their own house of worship, but have asked the city of Reykjavik to provide them with land to build one.

Everything's up to date

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Kansas City presently boasts 11,000 hotel rooms and that number is expected to double by 1978 as new hotels and motels are added as part of a $3.4 billion building boom, according to Dutton Brookfield, president of the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

Sheepmen howling mad over coyotes, ban on poison

THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming rancher Stan Smith has all but given up his fight to find effective ways to keep coyotes from preying on his sheep.

"I've seen so many attempts to get help fail, that it looks to me like the easier fight is to quit sheep and go completely into cows," he said in an interview. "Hell, they don't even listen to you back in Washington—they've got their minds made up before you start."

Some ranchers say that coyotes preying on sheep, coupled with low wool prices and consumer taste for beef, eventually will bring the wool growing industry in Wyoming to the small, "farm flock" stage, a pale imitation of its once powerful and influential past.

Since 1972, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has banned the use of poisons against coyotes, and ranchers say the alternative methods are ineffective.

Want poison permission

"Ten years ago when I ran for county commissioner, there were 26,000 sheep in Hot Springs County," Smith said. "Now it's about 17,000 because of people quitting sheep and going to cows.

Also down sharply nationally is the number of sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter. The Agriculture Department reported that as of March 1 the figure was 878,000 head, down six per cent from a year ago. The early lamb crop this year was down 11 per cent from the same time in 1973, the department said.

"My operation is mostly cattle now," said Smith, a state senator, vice president of the Wyoming Woolgrowers Association and owner of 12,000 acres of Big Horn Basin grazing land. "It just seemed like a good idea to get away from sheep and all the problems."

Ranchers want permission to use a poison called "1080," and Smith said they would be satisfied if a 1080 program was administered solely by government trappers, such as was the case prior to the EPA's 1972 anti-poison ruling.

"It's a poison specific to canines," Smith said. "It takes eight times as much to kill a mouse as a dog. There was no evidence that the 1080 program was affecting other wildlife— they just assumed that."

Lamb losses

Smith went into a dusty, dimly-lit room in the cabin of one of his ranch hands, and retrieved a mayonnaise jar filled with a powdered poison called thalium.

"This came from New York a long time ago," he said. "I could use it on my own land because I got it before the EPA banned it in interstate commerce. But I'm afraid of it. It's deadly to all wildlife, and you even have to wear gloves to handle it."

Without a toxicant program, the only coyote-killing methods available are hunting, trapping, and killing the spring cubs while they're still in the dens.

"Ninety per cent of my losses come during the lambing season, in April and May," Smith said. "Ten years ago, every 100 ewes would produce about 120 lambs, but now a good number is 90. Most of that loss is predator."

Smith owns about 2,300 ewes and said he lost about 230 lambs last year to coyotes.

Other problems

The predators, however, aren't the only problems wool growers have to face. Dan Healy, a 58-year-old rancher from Worland, Wyo., said there is also a scarcity of year-round herders and the price of wool has been low or unsteady for a number of years.

"When I took over this ranch, we were running about 10,000 ewes," he said. "But now we're down to about 2,500. I'm not going to blame the coyotes for all our trouble, but I don't know why people don't understand that when you manage range or wildlife you've got to manage the predator as well."

Healy said he's been following sheep since he's been able to walk, and he's worried about what will happen if the sheep men, who have been the primary activists against predators, leave the business.

"Then the cattlemen will start feeling the pinch," he said. "And the coyotes will start killing the calves.

"I've been on the range since it was all team wagon and horseback. I can remember in those days, you'd never see any deer or elk—but lots of coyotes. When the coyotes went down, you saw wildlife again. But now that the coyotes are back on us again, you don't see any deer or elk anymore."

Ford's son: no more interviews

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — Jack Ford, son of Vice President Gerald Ford, says he won't give any more interviews to newsmen, but not because of family reaction to some statements he made about President Nixon.

"I stand by my previous statement," said the junior Ford. "My parents don't interfere."

Jack, a 22-year-old forestry student at Utah State University, had been quoted in a Salt Lake City newspaper that he is "disillusioned" with Nixon.

The story appeared in newspapers across the country and prompted a telephone call from his mother.

"She spoke her mind as one person to another," said Jack. But he said the family has not told him to quit talking to the press.

The publicity "hasn't caused any problems within the family," said Jack. But he said he will not give any more interviews.

"It's interfering with my schoolwork because I am constantly being called by reporters."

EGGED-ON . . . AND LOVING IT

Hundreds of children found candy eggs in Ganesha Park, Pomona, Saturday in the annual hunt sponsored by Pomona Fireman's Association and Parks and Recreation Department. A blast of a fire truck siren opened the hunt at 10:15 a.m. In five minutes the lawn was picked clean. The pre-school children ambled, but kindergarten through second grade boys and girls scrambled over the park filling baskets and bags. There were hunts at seven other city parks.

Highway patrol defends 'highway robbery' case

As a taxpayer in the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino, I wish to bring to the attention of Action Line something I believe to be nothing but highway robbery.

I have owned a small cabin at Running Springs for more than two years. During that time when it snowed I have parked on the highway off the shoulder. There is not a sign of any kind saying not to park.

On the weekend of March 2-3 I parked there while it was snowing almost all weekend.

On Saturday, March 9, I parked there again about 7 a.m. Around noon I went back to my car to get more things, but no car.

I went to the California Highway Patrol office but it is closed Saturday and Sunday. A man who lives above the office said my car had probably been towed to Don's Garage, across the street from where I had parked.

At the garage a man said it would cost $21 to get my car, including $3 for storage.

Whoever towed my car forced entry, which I think is most illegal. There were maps and other things from my glove compartment all over the front seat.

After strongly voicing my objections, I reluctantly paid the bill but my car would not start.

The same man came and said that was done so that dishonest people couldn't drive their cars away. There were two or three things he had to do to start my car.

In the 30 minutes I was there two more cars were brought in. Four cars already had been towed in.

In my opinion this is a racket and should be stopped. I have never been given a warning not to park in this area. I would like to get my $21 back and see if there is something people who own property in Running Springs can do about this racket.— A. R., Claremont.

Lt. C. L. Chase, California Highway Patrol commander for the Arrowhead area, says your car was ordered stored by Officer Gary Holtz under Section 22651 (b) of the California Vehicle Code.

Your car was parked partially blocking a lane of Highway 18 and was, in the officer's opinion, a traffic hazard and interfered with snow removal equipment.

The charge made by Don's Garage is not considred excessive by Chase. He said any reduction would have to be be negotiated with the garage.

Business hours of the CHP office at Running Springs are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday but units work around the clock and are dispatched out of the San Bernardino central dispatch point.

Chase said the highway is not posted for "No Parking Any Time" because under most conditions a vehicle may be legally parked next to the highway.

When the width of the highway is affected by snow, a vehicle may not be parked there because it interferes with traffic and snow removal equipment.

Chase sent us a leaflet explaining snow parking and we sent it to you.

I am writing concerning my income tax return for 1972.

It was sent in during February 1973 but I have never received my refund. I haven't even received a letter.

I wish you would find out what happened.

Enclosed is my Social Security number and the name of the place which employs me. — G. W., Pomona

We are glad you included your Social Security number. Some people who inquire about income tax refunds, Social Security, etcetera, fail to do so.

We couldn't find out what happened because the Internal Revenue Service had no record of a 1972 return for you.

You were sent forms and instructions to enable you to file a duplicate return.

THE TASTE OF GRASS

Shane Ryerson, 4, of Claremont found the taste not to his liking Saturday at Memorial Park during the Easter egg rolling contest. It seems that while his nose was doing the egg pushing, his tongue was dragging. Giving Shane a pat on the head as he reaches the finish line is one of the city park workers. About 300 youngsters took part in the event.

Flood control job slated for southwest Pomona

POMONA — Construction of a major storm drain system to protect homes, businesses and industries in southwest Pomona is expected to start next summer.

The 1.5-mile San Jose Creek system, costing about $2.3 million, will follow the toe of Elephant Hill and connect to an existing channel which can carry locally collected water to the Whittier Narrows spreading grounds, said Ed James, city engineer.

The new channel, to follow the route of an existing natural watercourse, will serve as a collector system for storm drains already installed in the Phillips Ranch and Westmont areas.

It will also relieve flood hazards to the Pomona Valley Humane Society, the Pomona water renovation plant, plus adjacent agricultural and industrial properties, he added.

The channel route is located in a rural agricultural area which is slowly developing into a light manufacturing district. New industrial plants have been constructed on sites between the Orange Freeway and Roselawn Avenue, said officials.

The project will begin near the humane society office at Roselawn and Mission Boulevard and proceed north parallel with Roselawn past the Union Pacific railroad tracks.

It then will turn west on the north side of the tracks, go under the Orange Freeway, then join an existing section of the San Jose Creek channel west of Temple Avenue.

An unusual feature will be the construction of an 1,100-foot natural watercourse within the city's proposed Vejar Park. The park is being developed in conjunction with the Phillips Mansion, an early California home.

This project will include a 30-inch reinforced concrete pipe connected to the Pomona sanitation plant to direct reclaimed water to the re-created channel. This flow will then be directed back to the concrete channel near the Orange Freeway.

This cost will be paid by the Los Angeles County Flood Control District as part of the total channel work. In addition, the City of Pomona will purchase needed right-of-way property and also landscape the natural watercourse.

The improved channel will carry the flow capacity from the present 900 cubic feet of water per second to 3,890 cubic feet. It will serve as a drain for 2,018 acres.

That portion of the channel between the Phillips Mansion and Temple Avenue will stay open. The remainder will be enclosed. The channel size will range from eight to 30 feet wide and five to nine feet deep.

The project will also include a 15-foot wide access road constructed along the open channel.

County officials are expected to award the job contract during June, with work starting in July. The project is expected to take two years to complete.

Describing the need for the enlarged channel, officials said the existing earth channel along the railroad tracks on several occasions has "flowed bank full." Also, the channel around the south side of the water renovation plant has flowed full on numerous occasions, causing concern about the plant's safety.

"Under present conditions, when a major storm occurs there is always concern about the wide range of public health problems that could be caused by flooding the sewage treatment plant," they added.

"In recent years, significant development has taken place in the upstream watershed to increase the anticipated run-off. Preliminary studies indicated that under capital storm conditions the earth channel can be expected to overflow, in which case the sanitation district's water renovation plant and industrial buildings adjacent to the channel will be in jeopardy."

The channel project cleared one legal hurdle Wednesday night when the Pomona Planning Commission approved its environmental impact report.

Opinion

"I am the resurrection..."

It had been a shattering weekend. The young man shuddered slightly as he recalled the dark hours. First it was the strange, ominous Friday storm. Then the long awaited birth of their first child . . . a joyous event turned to tragic disappointment when the boy, a beautiful child, had semed to be dead. True, a spark of life had been discovered, but so faint, so tenuous as to be almost nonexistent. And his wife . . . almost a child herself . . . so worn by labor, so saddened.

As he lay this Sunday morning on the shaded lawn outside the city, the young man fought back the black depression, the tears of disappointment. He had wandered away from the sad home during the night, unable to sleep, seeking silence and loneliness.

As his thoughts drifted he suddenly realized someone was near him. He felt embarrassment, for after all he was a trespasser. But when he looked up into the man's face, he saw not a reprimand, but compassion, understanding, friendship. The man was tall, and strong and handsome in a rugged way. Yet there was about him an ineffable sense of beauty, a radiance that warmed and strengthened.

Before the troubled youth could move or speak the man raised his hand slightly as if in a benediction. His smile was slight, but it spoke love and blessing and encouragement. Then, as the man turned away, the young father thought he heard a baby's cry. His baby? But how, this far away?

Breathless, he reached the little room, and as he entered he knew. The joy on his wife's face was enough. Their child truly lived! It was not to be taken from them.

Suddenly, from somewhere in his memory came words that once had seemed so strange . . . "I am the resurrection, and the life." A man had spoken them, and he had overheard. Could it have been? . . . Yes, it must have been the same man, the strong man of great compassion.

As he looked down upon his wife and first born, the young father knew a repose he had never felt before. And a wonder, a wonder which would grow and grow . . . just as it would grow in the hearts of many others, in many places, in many centuries to come.

The Solzhenitsyn case is not closed

The expulsion of dissident author Alexander Solzhenitsyn appears to have been a brilliant stroke by the Kremlin. Western intellectuals note with chagrin that the wave of outrage that swept the world in the wake of the action has ebbed as quickly as it began. Diplomatic repercussions seem to have been nil.

More adverse publicity may be in store for the Soviet regime when translations of Solzhenitsyn's expose of Stalinist terror, "The Gulag Archipelago," come out in the West. Even so, it will have gained very much and lost very little — at least in the short run — by ridding itself of a prominent figure who was attacking the very ideological underpinnings of the Soviet style of socialism.

This should not be surprising. Bold, lightning strokes have paid off for the Kremlin in the past — the quelling of the revolution in Hungary in 1956 and the incipient revolution in Czechoslovakia in 1968, in both cases by massive armed invasion. Compared to these brutal events, the exiling of Solzhenitsyn and his family appears positively benign.

Yet it all mounts up. Each exposure of the true face of communism in Russia has cost the Kremlin dearly. Today, only the most radical or naive socialists outside the Soviet Union still look to it as the "motherland" or model of Marxist revolution. It is seen for what it is, a dictatorial, nationalistic power even more repressive of human freedom than was Russia in the days of the czars.

In the Soviet Union itself, bootleg copies of "The Gulag Archipelago" are reportedly fetching fantastic prices in Moscow and are being worn out by intense circulation among intellectuals and young people.

By physically removing Solzhenitsyn, the Kremlin may have solved its immediate problem. But the man's ideas and the truths he proclaimed continue to have a life of their own, and an influence on the younger generation of Russians whose effects no one can now foresee.

Thoughts for today

"And in the last days it shall be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams;"—Acts 2:17.

The Washington globetrotters

WASHINGTON — Spring has smitten members of Congress with a familiar old virus called wanderlust. Once again, they are setting out from Capitol Hill in droves to explore the world.

Such is the scope of the great migration that it can be said the sun never sets on Congress during the tourist season.

The unabashed King of the Road, despite the stiff competition, is California's Rep. Richard Hanna, a diminutive Democrat and former vaudeville dancer, who occasionally does a softshoe onto the House floor.

He has shuffled around the East, both Far and Near, so frequently that the bellhops know him on sight. The New Year had scarcely passed this year before he was off again, visiting such distant exotic spots as Indonesia, Yemen and Saudi Arabia.

Now he is preparing for another junket this month to Egypt, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. But for Hanna, this is mrerely an average year of globetrotting largely at the taxpayers' expense.

He took his first trip to the Orient in 1967. Two years later, he arranged four overseas odysseys to Europe, Latin America and the Far East.

In 1970, he managed just one trip to Asia. But in 1971, he visited South America, the Far East and Europe. In 1972, he got to Europe in April, to South America and Asia in August and to Europe, the Middle East and Far East in November and December.

While he was in Japan, Hanna demanded the full, red-carpet treatment, including a request for a military helicopter to lift him over the traffic jams that lesser tourists must cope with in Tokyo.

He went overseas three times in 1973, going all the way to the Soviet Union and Africa. He was in Cairo when the October war exploded and the airport was shut down. But this didn't slow down the veteran vagabond. He hopped a train to Alexandria, boarded an Egyptian freighter and made his way to Greece.

Hanna is merely the most peripatetic member, however, of the Washington Globetrotters. Here are the travel plans of some others:

—This weekend, a delegation of 63 persons — congressmen, their wives and staff members — will fly by military plane to the Far East for a trip that has been postponed twice because of the energy crisis. The official excuse is to exchange visits with legislators from South Korea and Nationalist China.

The expedition will be led by House Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill who will take along his daughter, Rosemary. The group will also bring their own "physician in attendance," Adm. Carey Freeman, who will be provided by the Navy. Each traveling congressman, including the ubiquitous Richard Hanna, will be permitted to spend up to $75 a day in U.S.-owned foreign currencies.

—Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., just returned from a jaunt, with his wife and daughter, to the Far East. Arrangements were made for him by the State Department, according to official cables, including an "elephant ride, sightseeing tour and gem shopping" in Ceylon.

—Cabinet officers, too, like to travel. Treasury Secretary George Shultz has announced his intention to leave government. But this hasn't prevented him from taking a jaunt to South America. Now again on Monday, he will head for Australia, Indonesia, Singapore and Malaysia where, according to a spokesman, he will "talk about general economic matters." In Jakarta, Shultz will be joined by — guess who? — Rep. Richard Hanna, who will ride the secretary's plane to Malaysia.

—Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, who is supposed to occupy himself with farm problems at home, has departed for Thailand, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Taiwan, Japan and Korea. His last stop will be Hawaii, where he will spend a couple of days inspecting pineapple, papaya, sugar cane and cattle farms. "You'd be surprised how much agriculture there is on those tiny islands," said a spokesman.

VIP travel abroad has become so intense, State Department officials told us, that American embassy staffs are kept busy carrying luggage, arranging sightseeing tours and making appointments. So many visitors are tramping through Taiwan, for example, that the U.S. embassy there complained to the home office. "This influx of visitors. . ." cabled Ambassador Walter McConaughy, "is straining embassy resources to the full."

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY: George Parkhurst, the former Mideast coordinator for Standard Oil of California, may be in trouble with a Senate subcommittee for his testimony about an embarrassing memorandum prepared by the economics department.

"Our economics department was not and is not part of any planning process," he swore under oath. "We didn't do any global planning at SoCal because we were not able to."

This is in direct conflict with statements made by other top SoCal officials. For example, Ed Cahill, an official in the economics department, is on record as saying:

"The general function of the economics department is to set the stage on an industry basis worldwide on which the Standard Oil Company of California has to plan and conduct its worldwide operations."

Parkhurst told my reporter Steve Solomon that he still stood behind his sworn testimony. Cahill claimed there was no real conflict between the two statements. The planning was done, he said, on a company, not industry, basis.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We recently reported that many reductions in wholesale food costs weren't being passed on to the consumers. The information from Agriculture Department files mistakenly listed Marcor as owner of Jewel, and General Host as owner of Swift Meats. We apologize to both companies for not double-checking. . .Attorney General William Saxby, who was a strong advocate of the people's right to know when he was a senator, has assigned a lobbyist to fight an amendment that would strengthen the Freedom of information Act. The lobbyist is Robert Saloschin, who himself once promoted more freedom for reporters. Now he is trying to curtail the freedom amendment. . .Spec. 4 Robert Donley, a decorated Army reporter, was fired as editor of his Yongsan, South Korea, base newspaper after Col. King Coffman, the garrison commander, found an article on prostitution "distasteful." Coffman declined comment when we reached him in South Korea. Shortly after our call, however, the Army quietly gave Donley a job with armed forces radio.

Gossip for today

Even though a recent study indicates that the average man's medical costs are now six times more than they were 20 years ago, there is possibly one way you can eliminate some of those expenses. Just eat, drink and make merry and tomorrow you may not die. —

I offer that interesting prescription for better health on the strength of a recent study made at the Johns Hopkins University school of medicine. The results of that study seem definitely to indicate that a shot glass of prevention is worth many dollars worth of cure.

"Most people," says the doctor who conducted that study, "can benefit from the therapeutic use of alcohol."

★ ★ ★

An article in "Medical Times" warns that the noise levels in our large cities could become lethal during the next 30 years. — A recent medical study indicates that hepatitis can be brought on by ear piercing. — And yet, with exotic ailments such as those to choose from, do you know what brings 65 per cent of the patients to doctors' offices! The prosaic truth, according to still another media survey, is because they're just too lazy to exercise properly.

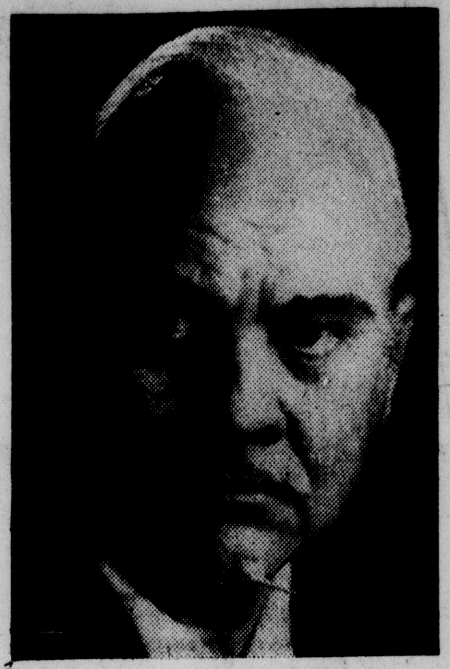
Forum audience will see film on Utah canyonlands



DAVE JONES

POMONA — "The Enchanted Wilderness of Canyonlands," a color film shot in Utah, will be shown before the Pomona Forum audience Monday at 7:45 p.m. in the Education Center auditorum.

It will be narrarated by the producer, Dave Jones of Quartsite, Ariz., who is billed as the world's only deaf film lecturer.

The feature-elngth film shows areas of Utah most people have never heard of, much less seen, according to Jones.

There are scenes shot in Arches National Park with 88 known arches, action on the Slick Rock Bike Trail, 15 miles over petrified sand dunes, and the rims of precipitous cliffs.

Jones shows Miners Basin, a one-man ghost town 10,000 feet up in the La Sals, and a boat ride down the Coloradoo River then back up by sandbuggy over the White Rim Trail.

A few seats will be available to the public at $1 each.

2nd try for mini-warehouse plan

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will hear for the second time an appeal filed on the failure of the Planning Commission to approve a conditional use permit for the construction of a mini-warehouse development at 2735 N. Towne Ave.

Commissioners on Feb. 13 were deadlocked 3-3 in two motions to deny and to approve the permit, resulting in denial of the request.

The applicant, T. D. Caswell of Saf-T-Storage, filed an appeal to the city council. Councilmen held a hearing March 25 on the appeal but also were deadlocked, 2-2, in trying to hand down a decision.

Because of the council tie, the commission's denial was allowed to stand. The council did vote 4-0 to rehear the appeal next Monday.

Among other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Hearing on the Planning Commission's recommendation for a street name change from Roselawn Avenue to Humane Way between Mission and Valley boulevards.

—Recommendation of the Merit System Commission for denial of a request to hire an experienced police patrolman at two steps higher than the starting salary.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation against proposed modification of Precise Alignment No. 17 to delete a portion of Camerota Avenue from Garey Avenue to Sallycrest Way.

—Emergency and first reading of an ordinance to raise wages of all hourly personnel to at least $2 an hour in complicance with new federal legislation.

—Resolution of intention to amend the ordinances granting a franchise to Nation Wide Cablevision Inc. for installation of a cable television system in the city.

—Resolution awarding a contract for sanitary sewer relocation and storm drain improvements in the vicinity of the Pomona Financial Center under construction, and a second resolution requesting an allocation from the County Aid to Cities Funds for the improvement of Mission Boulevard and Main Street.

—Resolution authorizing a corporation grant deed to the Redevelopment Agency for the sale to the agency of vehicle parking district parking lot on the west side of Garey south of the Chungking Restaurant.

—Recommendation of the Community Redevelopment Commission for entering into an agreement granting Robert A. Zetlen a 180-day exclusive right to master plan and propose a development for an area bounded by the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks, Garey and Towne Avenues, and Mission Boulevard.

—Resolution of Vehicle Parking District No. 3 recommending elimination of 25-cent, all-day parking on the southwest corner of Third and Main streets, and establishment of two-hour free parking.

—Resolution authorizing a corporation quitclaim deed to Fredericks Development Corp. for sewer easement west of Falcon Street, between Fuego Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

—Resolution authorizing a cooperative agreement with the Los Angeles County Flood Control District for improvements at the south fork of San Jose Creek.

—Resolution confirming summary abatement taken at 1732 Elaine St.

—Five resolutions assessing the costs of removing abandoned vehicles from 464 W. 8th St., 895 Asbury Ave., 1123-25 W. Fernleaf Ave., 871 Hallwood Ave., and 803 Hyde Ave.

—Recommendation for preparation of documents for installation of fencing to curb foul ball problem at Ralph Welch Park.

—Submission of petitions with 143 signatures for installation of restrooms at Sharkie and Cherrieville Parks.

WILSON RILES

State school chief to visit L.V. College

LA VERNE — Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public insturction will discuss "Today's Critical Issues in Education" at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in La Verne College's La Fetra Hall.

Riles is currently campaigning for re-election to the state's top education post which he has held since 1970.

The talk is open to the public at no charge.

Hacienda unit to mull horse zone changes

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Amendments to the zoning ordinance regulating the keeping of horses will be discussed at a general membership meeting of the Hacienda Heights Improvement Association Monday at 8 p.m. at Newton Junior High School.

The speaker will be Robert Kincaid, Head of the county Regional Planning Commission's ordinance studies section.

Directors and zoning committee members of the association will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday. They will board a bus and tour "problem" areas of Hacienda Heights. Frank Donahue and Vern Grimshaw are chairmen of the zoning committee.

Association members have scheduled their annual dinner dance Nov. 16 at the VFW Hall. A Hacienda Heights queen will be crowned. Girls wishing to enter the conetst are asked to contact Rosemarie Schmidt at 213 330-0435. Girls must be between 16 and 21 and have sponsors who live in Hacienda Heights.

Sondra Jean Stratton is current queen.

Demo McVittie backs political reform plan

ONTARIO — Bill McVittie, Democratic candidate in the 65th Assembly District, endorsed the goals of Proposition 9 in recent remarks before the Ontario Speedway Lions Club.

Proposition 9 deals, in part, with conflicts of interest, financial disclosure, limitations on campaign expenditures, and regulation of lobbyists.

McVittie declare that "Proposition 9 represents a major step towards the specific remedies that must be taken to avoid future Watergates. It is a responsible measure whose outcome will be watched by the rest of the country."

"A direct vote by California citizens for more open, responsive and accountable government on June 4, can become our first step towards new and healthy political patterns."

Expert sees hydrogen as next energy tool

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — There's enough hydrogen energy in the world's oceans to provide mankind with all the energy it needs for billions of years, starting early in the next century.

So, says Stanley G. Schaffer who is president of the Pennsylvania Electric Association and from whom that assurance comes, while more immediate energy needs remain a worry the world is not going to have any "long-range energy problem."

Schaffer, a York, Pa., native who heads both PEA and Pittsburgh's Duquesne Light Co., said:

"Our use of energy ultimately can go onward and upward, geared to knowledgeable people making necessary decisions promptly."

Schaffer's optimism is based on his belief in power from fusion—the joining of hydrogen atoms to produce heat-power.

Technology "Close"

Technological feasibility "is very close," he said, adding:

"The oceans are loaded with heavy atoms of hydrogen. Estimates indicate there are enough to provide the world all the energy it needs for the next 4.5 billion years—roughly the time the earth has existed."

He said three universities are working on the fusion power process—Princeton, Cornell and Texas University at Austin— and "Princeton believes it is very close to technological feasibility."

Schaffer predicts the next step — practical adaptation—will come "in the first quarter of the new century—2000 to 2025— about the same time period needed for nuclear power."

He said the two principal barriers to use of fusion power have been (1) the 100 million degrees centigrade needed to join deuterium and tritium and (2) "some sort of box to put it in."

Schaffer said Princeton experts believe a field of magnetic force may be used as a figurative box. There is also the alternative potential of laser-targeted fusion using small pellets of deuterium and tritium for more manageable quantities of hot gas.

$100 million research

Research for fusion is now hitting $100 million a year on funding via the Electric Power Research Institute by the federal government, manufacturers and the electric industry.

"It's still early to determine costs," Schaffer said, "but since the basic fuel exists in such profusion, presumably its recovery can come at lower cost than some fuels."

As to the ecological ramifications of fusion, "there are essentially none. The process would produce some helium atoms, some short-life radioactivity."

Other exotic energy possibilities, Schaffer believes, are minimal to limited.

No windmills

"Solar energy is fabulously expensive — though better housing designs with proper overhang and construction oriented to the sun can be useful.

"Geothermal energy (tapping the earth's molten core) has some growth potential in the western U.S.—particularly California-but, again, that is limited. Ditto windmills," he said.

Current energy problems, meantime, remain problems, Schaffer acknowledged.

"Further conservation may be necessary," he said. "For example, if turning back home and business thermostats six degrees this year saved, say, the equivalent of one year's growth, what do you do for an encore?

"You'll have new houses, new families and new demands, and you can't go on turning back the thermostat yet another six degrees."

Still problems

For the intermediate years— 1980-2000—Schaffer said the rapid completion of new nuclear power plants and increased use of coal will have to provide the answers.

He noted Pennsylvania Power & Light Co.'s acquisition of new production from southwest Pennsylvania, and said some strip and deepmine operations can be increased for general use.

"But a large percentage of Pennsylvania's best coal is owned by steel companies, and coal companies have certain mines committed to specific needs of certain customers.

"They are not going to deplete those reserves for general use," Schaffer said, "and Duquesne Light is in exactly the same position."

Windmill power set for homes

RICHMOND (UPI) — A Swiss-type windmill is soon to sit atop a breezy bluff in Pt. Richmond.

The windmill will be used to supply electrical power to two yet-to-be-built houses; the first in the area to receive electricity in this manner.

The project is the work of Interactive Resources, a Pt. Richmond firm of environmental planners, a engineers, architects and builfers.

"We hope to get the windmill up in time so we can use the electricity to run our power tools when we build the houses," said architect Tom Butt.

The $50,000 to $60,000 homes will each contain 56 storage batteries which is enough power to last up to three days without wind. In addition, the homes will be wired into Pacific Gas and Electric Co. just in case.

The cost of the windmill electrical system will be about $3700 per home. Although that may sound steep, Butt said: "I'm convinced that on a large scale windmills will become a major source of power."

The windmill is patterned after ones used in remote areas of the Swiss Alps and can provide six killowatts of electricity per hour in a 17-mile-per-hour wind.

YOU CAN BECOME SLIM AND TRIM AGAIN

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — A new vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, is reportedly gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation. Testimonial files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) Vita-E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new combination of ingredients that curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. A person with in improper diet, deficient in vitamins and exercise, can with the help of this diet plan "hasten" the utilization of body fat and carbohydrates causing loss of weight.

Will success spoil the 'Bewitched Isles'?

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Naturalist Charles Darwin found some of the beginnings of life on them, marine biologist Jacques Cousteau has explored the sea around them, Princess Anne of Britain has marveled at their stark beauty.

Now, many Ecuadorians fear that success—namely tourism— will spoil the remote and strange Galapagos Islands.

"Uncontrolled tourism has endangered the rare species and the ecology of the islands," says Ecuadorian city planner Milton Barragan.

The Galapagos, a cluster of 14 main islands and numerous smaller ones covering about 23,000 square miles of the equatorial Pacific, lie roughly 600 miles off the coast of Ecuador. They are considered unique in the world in terms of the plant and animal life—giant tortoises, iguanas, flightless cormorants, penguins and seals.

The "Bewitched" Isles

Discovered in 1535 by the Bishop of Panama, Fray Tomas de Berlanga who called them "the bewitched islands," the Galapagos were used mainly as pirate hideouts until they were claimed and renamed in 1832 by Ecuador which used them first for a penal colony. The most frequent visitors to the island during the last century were whaling ships, like author Herman Melville's in 1841 which took on fresh water and a supply of turtle meat.

The tortoises — Galapagos means giant turtles — were found by Darwin to weigh up to 500 pounds. Darwin arrived in September, 1835, with the British ship Beagle. As the ship's naturalist, he was fascinated with the Galapagos which he described as "infinitely strange, unlike any other islands in the world."

Darwin found the species differed from island to island. He counted 26 species of land birds, who were practically tame.

Not only scientists are drawn to the islands. Actor Gregory Peck made a film there recently and Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips included a stop in the Galapagos on their honeymoon last year.

Controlled tourism?

The Ecuadorian government hopes to attract more visitors to the Galapagos and asked Spain to provide technical advice on increasing the tourist trade.

"Tourism—along the lines of the Spanish model—would be the end of the enchantment of the Galapagos," Barragan objects.

Some Ecuadorians recommend that there should be a "quota" of tourists for the Galapagos. Too many people would overwhelm the tame penguins and seals.

Currently, 4,000 persons reside on the islands, but certain areas are wildlife preserves and colonization is not allowed.

"Bluntly, man is persona non grata in these islands whose principal value is their natural inhabitants—the birds, animals, and plants," Barragan argues. He has many supporters.

Most observers believe some kind of controlled tourism will be put into effect. Ecuador wants the tourist dollars but it also knows that longterm an overflooding of tourists would destroy the very uniqueness that makes the Galapagos Islands an attraction to travelers.

Imprisoned Rudolf Hess has his eyes on the stars

BERLIN (UPI) — In the waning years of his life, imprisoned Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy, has turned his eyes to the heavens.

"He almost lives in space," said a Western Allied official who saw Hess in four-power Spandau Prison in the British sector of Berlin, where he has been held for 33 years.

"In his cell in addition to a bed, chair, and small table he has moon exploration charts on the wall," the official said.

At the approach of Hess's 80th birthday April 26, his son expresses cautious hope that the Russians may relent and accept a Western Allied proposal to free the Nazi deputy fuehrer' who has taken on the appearance of a haggard, bony scarecrow in his long years of captivity.

But Western officials do not share the cautious optimism of Wolf Ruediger Hess, a 35-year-old engineer.

"The Russians seem so determined to make him serve out his life term that I wouldn't be surprised if they even tried to keep his body after he dies," one Western official said.

Hess doesn't hope

Hess himself apparently does not hope for release.

"I will die in captivity," he often has told prison guards. "The Russians want it that way. They still don't believe I only was trying to bring about peace when I flew to Scotland just before the invasion of Russia. They think I wanted to get Britain out of the war to clear the way for the attack on Russia."

The six other top Nazis who escaped the hangman's noose and were sent to Spandau with Hess by the International Military Tribunal at Nuernberg either have served out their sentences or been granted amnesty.

Only Hess remains, the only prisoner in the 103-year-old red brick prison built for 600 inmates.

American, British, French and Russian wardens, a military guard that changes every month and a whole prison staff that cost West Berlin $292,000 a year are retained only for Hess.

His reading censored

Hess is given four German newspapers to read every day. He reads three West German newspapers but gives back untouched the Neues Deutschland, the East German Communist party newspaper.

The newspapers, as his letters, are censored. Anything considered unacceptable such as references to Nazism, are cut out.

He also is allowed four books a month and most ot them are on space travel.

"He probably is one of the best informed laymen in the world on space travel," a Western official said.

Hess has read all the official Russian and American reports on space exploration as well as countless scientific works about it.

Does not repent

Although Hess would like to be released he always has refused to submit a petition for mercy to the victorious World War II powers who hold him.

He takes the position that he did nothing wrong, committed no crime and therefore can not ask for forgiveness.

Hess never has shown the least sign of regret for any of his own acts or those of the Nazis. He still is Hitler's most loyal disciple, Western officials say.

Hess has been a captive since he flew to Scotland May 10, 1941, in a mad attempt to offer Britain peace in return for Nazi hegemony on the continent.

One of his conditions was the firing of Winston Churchill as premier. He said Hitler never would deal with such a "warmonger."

Hess flew without Hitler's knowledge, apparently in an attempt to regain his influence with Hitler by scoring a diplomatic coup. Hess, a muddled and confused thinker, was in eclipse with Hitler at the time.

Threatened British

In Britain Hess threatened if the British rejected his peace offer the entire nation would be wiped out by bombing and a submarine starvation blockade.

Britain did not even consider his offer. His British interrogators have since described their talks with him as being like the Mad Hatter's tea party in Alice in Wonderland.

It is now the British, backed by the Americans and French, who are leading the campaign to try to get an amnesty for Hess. But the Russians repeatedly have rejected all the amnesty overtures.

Homosexuals hail action on illness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the American Psychiatric Association have voted by a 58 per cent margin to stop classifying homosexuality as a mental disorder, the APA announced this week.

The APA trustees in December had decided to eliminate the stigma on homosexuality as an illness, setting off a furor inside the group which produced petitions forcing the psychiatric group to hold a referendum.

The votes were tabulated this week, with 5,854 members voting in favor of the trustees' action, 3,810 against, and 367 members abstaining.

It was the first time in the 129-year history of the APA that the membership had forced a vote on an action of the trustees.

New York psychiatrist Charles Socarides, who had circulated the petition demanding the vote, had called the trustees' action "the medical hoax of the century."

The action, he said, contradicted a historical fact "that male and female are programmed to mate with the opposite sex, and this is the story of 2 ½ billion years of evolution and any society that hopes to survive.'

By contrast, the action had been hailed by the National Gay Task Force as an 'instant cure' for many problems of the nation's homosexuals.

Homosexuals had actively lobbied for approval on grounds that the stigma of having their sexual orientation listed as a disease had long been used to deny them jobs, child custody and other rights.

The trustees themselves overwhelmingly approved the decision in December, with 13 voting for eliminating the stigma, two abstentions and four members absent.

'In the future, it will have a considerable impact on the lives of homosexuals,' said an APA spokesman.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Some 595,386,000 tons of soft coal was mined in the United States in 1972, of which 275,730,000 tons (46 per cent) was strip-mined, The World Almanac notes. Kentucky Knetucky strip-mined the most soft coal, 55.8 million tons; followed by Ohio, 34.1 million; Illinois, 33.3 million; Pennsylvania, 26.3 million and Indiana, 24.5 million tons. In 1964, only 152 million tons (31 per cent) of America's soft coal production was strip-mined.

Stockton still leads Masters by one

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Dave Stockton doesn't lack confidence. He made his one-stroke lead stand up through the hot and humid third-round Saturday. And he believes he'll win the 38th Masters golf championship Sunday.

"I'm not concerned about anybody," said the 32-year-old former PGA champion. "If I play the course the way I know how, everybody else is in trouble."

South African Gary Player and Kansan Jim Colbert lurked one shot behind Stockton's nine-under-par 207, which he forged with a two-under 70 Saturday.

Player, putting out on No. 18 while a spectator who later died of a heart attack, laid in a coma near him, strung together five straight birdies on the back nine for a six-under 66. Then he said it was "the worst I've played out of three rounds — and that's the honest truth."

Stockton started his round with a 90-yard wedge shot for an eagle 3 at the 555-yard, par 5 second hole. Then he knocked in a 10-footer on No. 3 for a birdie and toured the front nine in 33.

His lead, which was as much as four shots at one time, began slipping away on the back nine.

The Westlake Village, Calif., pro suffered his first bogey in two days on No. 11 when he missed the green. He birdied the 13th with a four-foot putt.

On the par 5 15th, Stockton laid up in front of the water, found his ball laying on the edge of a divot, but chose to go for the pin, anyway. His sand wedge shot landed 10 feet short of the green and backed into the water. Stockton dropped and bogeyed the hole.

He parred in to make his one-shot lead stand up.

Player said, because of the man who died, "It was kind of a scary last hole. Someone fainted and was breathing real heavy. We held up for about a minute. It was a funny feeling with the guy laying there."

Player two-putted from 25 feet, however.

Player started his five-birdie string on the par 3, 155-yard 12th hole. He slapped a 7-iron one foot from the cup and tapped it in.

Successively, he then dropped 15, 7, 20 and 6-foot birdie putts to post a five-under 31 on the back side. The lithe 37-year-old also birdied No. 2 when he chipped within eight feet and sank the putt.

Stockton said he was aware that Player was tearing up the course.

"I knew exactly what everybody was doing," said Stockton, who also had a 66 Friday. "I'm glad to have company, to tell the truth. If Gary has another round like that tomorrow, he'll probably win the tournament."

Colbert, the 33-year-old from Overland Park, Kan., sprang to the fore with three birdies in four holes on the back nine for a 69.

He had a chance to tie for the lead on No. 17, but his six-foot putt broke inside the cup.

"I thought it was a right-edge putt," said Colbert. "But it broke all the way across the hole and missed left."

Behind the top three were Bobby Nichols and Phil Rodgers, who had 68s, at 209. Tom Weiskopf and Hale Irwin were locked at 210 and Frank Beard was alone at 211.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, a four-time champion here, was coupled with Hubert Green at 212. Nicklaus had an even-par 72 Saturday, suffering bogeys on two of the last three holes.

The weather was hot and muggy —the humidity was 72 per cent —on the 7,020-yard, par 72 Augusta National course after showers ended during the morning. The forecast called for a 30 per cent chance of more showers Sunday.

Stockton, who won the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open earlier this year, will be making a run at the $35,000 first prize, which was announced Saturday. the top prize is $5,000 more than Tommy Aaron pocketed when he won last year.

THE LOOK OF AN EAGLE

A beaming Dave Stockton reaches for a congratulation slap from his caddie after sinking an eagle putt in the third round of the Masters' Golf Tourney in Augusta. Stockton holds a one-stroke lead over Jim Colbert and Gary Player entering today's final round of play in the golf classic.

Old foe bugs Palmer; putting still brings pain

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer looked as if he had just taken a punch, maybe one of George Foreman's Sunday shots, to the belly.

He stood there on the 18th green, doubled up, the pain was so intense.

Not physically, only emotionally.

Arnold Palmer had just missed a 10-footer, which would've not only saved his par but also given him an exceptional round instead of a merely good one.

When he saw the ball roll past the cup, missing the hole only by a couple of inches, Palmer knew it meant his second bogey of the day instead of a par, a 70 instead of a 69, and no more chance at all in the Masters instead of maybe a long-shot one in Sunday's finale.

Arnold Palmer put his head down so far you could no longer see his face.

Both hands went to his knees, and his putter dropped across his feet where he let it lay for some time before he picked it up again, rather wearily, and holed out to finish his round.

With 18 more holes to go, Palmer's 54-hole total of 217 leaves him 10 shots behind persistent Dave Stockton, the leader, who can get help by calling his father long distance in San Bernardino, Calif.

Anything can happen in a golf tournament, any golf tournament, but Arnold Palmer knows that even if Dave Stockton should somehow blow up over the final 18, there is little or no chance to win because there are too many other competitors, 25 by actual count, in between.

Besides, there really is no place he can go for the kind of help he needs. Palmer's problem still is his putter —he took 33 putts in Saturday's third round —and the only one who can really help him with that is himself.

"It wasn't that bad a round," someone tried consoling Palmer after he came back into the clubhouse.

"Not good enough," he said, shaking his head. "Same old trouble —putting. I think it's all probably mental. You've got to have the confidence, that's all there is to it.

Palmer was watching Phil Rodgers putt on the TV set in the clubhouse.

"Now there's a guy who can putt," he said, pouring the remains of some beer into his glass.

"How many putts did I take out there today?" he asked Doc Giffin, his administrative aide.

Giffin consulted his scorecard and began counting them.

"Thirty-three," he answered.

Palmer nodded wordlessly.

Leos sweep in Arizona, crush G.C.

PHOENIX — La Verne College rolled to an easy 12-1 victory over Grand Canyon College here Saturday.

The win was the fifth straight and gave the Leos a sweep of both Arizona State and Grand Canyon on their Arizona trek. ASU was fifth ranked nationally in the University Division standings with a 27-15 mark prior to the La Verne series. Grand Canyon was second rated nationally in the NAIA Division.

La Verne, now 17-5 for the season, returns home to resume SCIAC action Tuesday afternoon at Whittier.

Big Mike Alonso led the Leopards Saturday. The 6-4, 225-pound designated hitter lashed five hits in six at-bats including a two-run homer and a double. He wound up scoring four runs and driving in three.

Hank Merenda had a two-run single and a stolen base. Jim Sherman doubled in two runs. Nick Leyva had a double and single, scored two runs and drove in one. Art Sanchez doubled in a run.

Grand Canyon starter Gene Ingram started off the game by throwing eight straight balls to Merenda and Paul Flemming. However, Merenda was picked off.

Alonso slammed Ingram's first offering over the left field fence for a home run and the Leos were off and running.

They added two more in the third on singles by Alonso and Leyva and Sherman's double. A single by Eric Frazier and back-to-back doubles by Alonso and Leyva netted two more in the fourth.

In the five games in Arizona, La Verne totaled 65 hits and 54 runs to the opposition's eight runs, seven of which were earned.

Sox nip Halos for 1st win

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Bobby Winkles really didn't think his California Angels would win them all.

The Chicago White Sox also didn't feel they would keep losing.

Wilbur Woods' knuckle ball carried the White Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Angels at Anaheim Stadium Saturday night for Chicago's first victory this season after five losses and two ties.

The defeat drops the Angels' record to 5-2 as they maintain their one-game lead in the American League West standings.

"You can't win 'em all," Winkles told writers after the game. "I really didn't think we would go 161-1 this season. We just have to start another streak tomorrow. Maybe we'll go 160-2."

For the Angeles to even come to such a remarkable record, they need a solid fourth starter in their pitching rotation behind Nolan Ryan, Bill Singer, and Frank Tanana.

Veteran lefthander Rudy May got his chance to show what he can do Saturday night and it wasn't exactly impressive. In 6 2-3 innings, May allowed six hits and five earned runs.

"May pitched just so-so," Winkles said. "His stuff was good but he kept getting behind the batters. We need to find a fourth starter."

At this moment, Bill Stoneman, who was recently purchased from the Montreal Expos, will get his chance Wednesday night against the Twins.

"We got Stoneman and we got to use him," Winkles said. "Stoneman says his arm is okay but his rhythm is off because of the lack of work."

Asked if that means May is not in his plans, Winkles added, "this is not a no-confidence vote on May, but I got to think of Stoneman. It's conceivable May could pitch next Wednesday instead of Stoneman."

When Ken Henderson knocked May out of the game with his triple in the seventh inning, the White Sox enjoyed a healthy 5-2 lead.

But the Angels rallied to make it interesting.

Mike Epstein opened the bottom half of the seventh with his second home run of the season to cut the margin to two runs.

Hot-hitting Lee Stanton, who has hit safely in all eight games with a solid .467 average, followed with a long double to left. He moved to third on Ellie Rodriguez' ground out and scored on Winston Llenas' sacrifice fly to make it 5-4 and excite the 23,712 fans.

After Mickey Rivers walked, he stole second despite Wood almost picking him off first; but Rivers was able to beat Dick Allen's throw. Dave Chalk was hit by a pitch, but Wood was finally able to get out of the jam by retiring pinch-hitter Richie Scheinblum.

The Angels went out quickly in the eighth inning, but came close to tying it in the bottom of the ninth.

Sutton hurls L.A. to victory

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner each drove in two runs with back-to-back hits in the fourth inning Saturday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers, behind Don Sutton's pitching, ended a four-game Houston Astros win streak with a 6-3 victory.

Los Angeles put together three singles to open the big fourth with Steve Garvey driving in the first run. After Bill Russell walked to load the bases, Lopes singled for two runs and Buckner doubled for two more to drive Houston starter Don Wilson from the mound.

The Dodgers, gaining their sixth win against three losses, added their sixth run one inning later on Von Joshua's double.

Sutton, an 18-game winner last year, went the distance for his third win without a loss.

But he was in trouble in two innings. In the first, Cesar Cedeno doubled to drive in Greg Gross and Roger Metzger and Cedeno scored in the sixth on Doug Rader's single.

Aztecs greet Mexican team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The new Los Angeles Aztecs of the North American Soccer League will play Atlante of Mexico City at East Los Angeles College Stadium today.

In their debut here last weekend, the Aztecs scored a 2-1 victory over Monterrey, Mexico, before a crowd of 12,349.

Los Angeles will face two other Mexican pro teams this month, Club America April 21 and Universidad April 28.

UUUUUP . . . AND OVER

Buddy Williamson clears the bar in the pole vault at the ITA meet Saturday to win the event at 17-8. Bob Seagren finished second at 17-0, and Steve Smith was last.

Jipcho makes it a run-away

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGLES — The Pomona entries had to settle for the runnerup spots, while Ben Jipcho stole the show Saturday afternoon during an International Track Association meet at the L.A. Sports Arena.

The former Pomona stars, pole vaulter Bob Seagren and women sprinters Mabel and Willa Mae Fergerson, settled for one first place, a second and a third. But Jipcho, the distance superstar from Kenya, brought the crowd of 6,892 to their feet with two wins.

Jipcho ran away from the rest of the mile field, which also consisted of well knowns Jim Ryun and Kip Keino, with a little over half of the race remaining. He held as much as a 30-yard lead before Ryun began to close on the leader. But the lead was just too much.

The Kenyan broke the tape at 4:00.8, with Ryun finishing a little over four seconds and 23 yards back. As soon as Jipcho hit the tape, the Arena crowd came to its feet to give the distancer a rousing ovation on his victory lap.

"A four-minute mile depends on more than just myself," stated Jipcho after the victory. "I had to run on my own the last half mile. It is difficult to run under four minutes that way. I need to be pushed the last half and also have a good pace.

"I am only 50 or 60 per cent fit now," he added. "It's a personal reason for my not being 100 per cent. Next year I might prepare myself to 80 per cent fitness."

About an hour after his mile win, Jipcho had to put on a strong kick on the final lap to hold off Tony Benson in the two-mile run. Again the Kenyan claimed victory with a time of 8:52.0. Benson was just four-tenths of a second behind.

The big upset of the day came in the pole vault, where Seagren and Steve Smith figured to duel for first place.

The two made it interesting with their strategy, but Budddy Williamson was the one who climbed the triumph.

Smith made the first move.

After both Seagren, who started his pole vaulting career at Pomona High and Mt. San Antonio College, and Smith passed the first two heights at 16-0 and 16-6, Smith decided to take it a step further.

Seagren made his first try at 17-0 and cleared it on his first attempt, but Smith passed.

The bar was lifted to 17-4, where Seagren made the "psych" move by passing. Smith made his first attempt at the height and missed.

Meanwhile, Williamson was performing the best vaulting of his life by not only clearing 17-0, but also going over 17-4 with ease.

Even though he missed at 17-4, Smith consented to pushing the height 17-8 where he would have two more attempts.

Neither Smith nor Seagren could make the new height, but Williams did again.

"I think the emphasis on the competition between Smith and Seagren helped me today," Williams said after the big upset. "I was irritated because it's like no one else is in the event. You have to have a certain amount of respect and I do. All their (Seagren and Smith) psychology of passing to get the edge on each other got me up."

As it turned out, Seagren finished second at 17-0 and Smith failed to finish at all since he didn't clear at any height.

The Fergerson girls, Ganesha High and Cal Poly products, picked up a third and a first.

In the 60 yard dash, Mabel grabbed a third behind Wyomia Tyus (6.7) and Barbara Ferrell 6.9 at 6.9.

Then in the mixed mile relay, Mabel and Willa Mae combined with Ferrell and Lacy O'Neal to compete against Chris Fisher and DaveWottle.

Each girl ran a 440, while the men ran an 880 apiece. And when it was all over, Mabel held off a late Wottle surge to win at the wire. Mabel had trailed Wottle when she took the baton on the last leg of the relay, but immediately sprinted to the lead.

Randy Matson, one-time world record holder outdoors at 71-5½, got his best ever performance indoors to win the shot put with an encouraging put of 68-7¾.

Fisher held off late challenges by Tom Von Ruden and Wottle to win the 1,000 yard run in a respectable 2:07.1.

World record holder Rod Milburn equaled the track record of 7.0 seconds in the 60-yard high hurdles. Harrington Jackson registered an upset in the men's 60 by uncorking a blazing burst of speed in the final 20 yards to win in 6.0 seconds over former Olympian John Carlos.

In other good performances, Carlos won the 300 in 32.1 seconds, Ed Caruthers captured the high jump at 7-0, and Larry James won the 400 in 49.0.

National League roundup

Ron Fairly sparks Expos

By United Press International

Ron Fairly's fifth major league grand slam homer capped an eight-run uprising in the fourth inning Saturday to spark the Montreal Expos to a 13-3 victory over Chicago in the second game of a doubleheader after the Cubs had won the opener, 7-4.

In the nightcap, Montreal collected 15 hits, including four singles by Ron Hunt.

Cubs' starter Bill Bonham got a bad break after one out in the fourth when first baseman Billy Williams, the hero in the opener, dropped an easy throw from third baseman Bill Madlock, allowing Bob Bailey to reach first safely. Singles by Jim Cox and Terry Humphrey loaded the bases and pitcher Mike Torrez walked, allowing Bailey to score.

Hunt singled home Cox and Tim Foli's single scored two more runs before Bonham was lifted. After reliever Mike Paul got Willie Davis on an infield out, Ken Singleton was purposely walked to load the bases. Fairly then unloaded on Paul's first pitch for Montreal's first homer of the 1974 season.

In the opener, Williams and Madlock knocked in two runs apiece to help southpaw Ken Frailing to his first major league victory.

Lynn McGlothen, with ninth inning relief help from Orlando Pena and Pete Richert, won his first National League start as the St. Louis Cardinals handed the Pittsburgh Pirates their sixth straight setback, 6-4.

McGlothen, acquired over the winter from the Boston Red Sox, allowed nine hits, struck out seven and walked two before tiring with one out in the ninth. Pena came on to get one out but was replaced by Richert after walking Richie Hebner and Richert recorded the final out to preserve the Cardinals' sixth win in seven games.

Cincinnati routed Atlanta 10-3, Los Angeles stopped Houston 6-3 and San Francisco beat San Diego, 3-2.

Dave Johnson cracked a three-run homer and Ralph Garr drove in three runs with a double and a triple as Atlanta routed Cincinnati. Marty Perez and Mike Lum also homered in a 13-hit assault on four Red pitchers which enabled Carl Morton to gain his first victory of the season.

Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner each drove in two runs with back-to-back hits in the fourth inning and the Dodgers ended a four-game Houston win streak with the victory.

San Francisco took a 3-0 lead is the first two innings and made it stand up to beat the San Diego Padres and earn rookie John D'Acquisto his second win without a loss. D'Acquisto also drove in the deciding run with a sacrifice fly.

Broncos and Cougars win college twinbills

Cal Poly and Azusa Pacific both swept doubleheaders in Saturday's college baseball action.

Cal Poly beat UC Riverside by scores of 5-3 and 8-6 to break a seven-game losing streak in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

John Riddle hurled the Broncos to the opening game win, and Cal Poly came from behind to beat UCR 8-6 in an eight-inning nightcap.

Dennis Sherow and Dale Biggs both had four RBIs in the twinbill for Poly.

APC blasted Cal Baptist 16-6 and 10-3 in their twinbill. John Tully and Chuck Van Schoych both blasted two homers in the Cougars' dual win.

Cal Poly is now 15-19 overall and 4-9 in the CCAA. APC sports a 17-10 season ledger and is 9-2 in the NAIA Southern Division.

Gagnon goal gives Kings playoff win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Unheralded Germain Gagnon scored the only goal 40 seconds after the opening faceoff and Tony Esposito made it stand up for his fourth career playoff shutout Saturday night as the Chicago Black Hawks blanked the Los Angeles Kings 1-0 to take a commanding 3-0 in their NHL Stanley Cup quarterfinal series.

The defense-minded Black Hawks, who won the first two games 3-1 and 4-1, could wrap up first round action Sunday night when the fourth game is played at the Forum.

A crowd of 15,505, including NHL President Clarence Campbell, was hardly settled when Gagnon fired in a 25-foot shot for his first ever playoff point.

MSAC trackmen post five-way win

FULLERTON — Mt. San Antonio College's track team claimed another victory Saturday afternoon in a "free-for-all" at Cal State Fullerton.

The Mounties racked up 94 points, with Army (86), Cal St. Fullerton (66), UC Bakersfield (34) and Chapman (7) also competing.

Only claiming four wins, MSAC picked up most of its points with nine second-place finishes.

High jumper Steve Miller won his event with a jump of 6-8, and just missed at 7-0. Javelin thrower of 223 feet, 3 inches. Stan Bland captured first place in the triple jump for the Mounties, leaping a distance of 45 feet, 11 inches.

MSAC's 440 relay team of Dwight Owens, Bland, John Huston and Irwin Duarte also came up with a first place—clocked at 42.4 seconds.

The Mounties' mile relay team turned in its best time of the season by placing second behind Army with a time of 3:19.4.

MSAC hosts San Diego Mesa next Friday in South Coast Conference action.

American League Roundup

Rangers rout Blue

Jim Bibby pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 Saturday and Jeff Burroughs gave him all the help he needed with a three-run first-inning homer in leading the Texas Rangers to an 10-3 victory over the Oakland A's.

The Rangers, now 3-4, routed Vida Blue for six of their 11 hits in one and one-third innings and sent the A's lefthander down to defeat in his initial decision.

Jim Fregosi added a two-run single in the second and Tom Grieve belted a two-run homer in the ninth to share hitting honors with Burroughs.

In other games Boston whipped Detroit 8-1, Milwaukee edged Baltimore 3-2, Kansas City nipped Minnesota 6-5 in 10 innings, and Cleveland beat New York 8-5.

Bernie Carbo doubled home a pair of runs and Doug Griffin tripled in two more during a six-run first inning as Boston clubbed Detroit in a nationally-televised game hampered by rain and cold weather.

Rick Wise, acquired by Boston in an off-season trade from the St. Louis Cardinals, went the distance, allowing only six hits, to notch his first American League victory. Wise struck out seven and walked only one.

Eighteen-year-old shortstop Robin Yount, whose error in the eighth allowed Baltimore to tie the score at 2-2, homered off Ross Grimsley in the bottom half of the inning to power the Brewers over the Orioles.

The home run was Yount's first and only his second big league hit.

The Brewer win broke a string of 10 consecutive losses to Baltimore, dating back to last July.

Vada Pinson's two-out single in the 10th inning scored Fran Healy from second base to give the Royals their victory over Minnesota.

Healy led off the 10th with a double off reliever Tom Burgmeier. After Fred Patek and Jim Wohlford both flied to center, Pinson sliced a single to right off Bill Campbell, the fourth Minnesota pitcher, to score Healy.

Dave Duncan's second homer of the season triggered an eight-run third inning and the Indians hung on to pin the defeat on the slumping Yankees.

Duncan's home run hightlighted the big third inning rally that sent 12 Indian batters to the plate. George Medich was the New York starter and loser.

Andrade, Ice in Pom Lanes bowling wins

POMONA — Diane Andrade of Chino and Len Ice Jr. of Pomona were the winners Saturday in the Bowl-Your-Way to-Europe rolloff at Brunswick Pom Lanes in Pomona.

The two winners will travel to Washington, D.C. and compete against the rest of the Brunswick-operated centers winners May 24. The grand prize there will be all-expense paid trips to Europe for one week for two persons for each male and female winner.

Mrs. Andrade bowled the best game of her life to earn her trip to the nation's capitol. The Chino woman bowled her first 200 game, a 207 score which was 84 pins over her average. An orange packer, she is employed by Sunkist.

Len Ice was 38 pins over his average in a 208 game. He is from Pomona and is employed as a welder. He bowls in the Northwestern League.

212 tests for your car at JCPenney Scientific Test Center.

Special 9.88

In less than one hour we put your car through 212 electronic tests. We check your steering and front end. Engine performance, transmission, brake system performance, entire electrical system and lots more. You watch the results come out on our electronic typewriter.

The written report shows you the results. It indicates what tested parts of your car are strong and what parts 'need attention'. A trained diagnostician will go over the report with you. If you wish, he'll give you an estimate of any necessary repairs. No obligation to have any of the work done. You decide what to fix and where to fix it.

Feuerbach breaks own mark

Shotput record set

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — World record outdoor shotputter Al Feuerbach of Long Beach, Calif., cut his long, sandy-colored hair, but unlike the Biblical Samson, he believes it made him stronger instead of weaker.

Feuerbach, six-foot, 250 pounds, Saturday broke his own 69-8 ¾ Texas Relays and Memorial Stadium shot put record set in 1973 with a 70-foot, 1 ½-inch toss.

And Feuerbach credits his recent intense mental and physical conditioning program for the record mark.

"I cut my hair shorter," he said, running his huge hand through his mod-length curly hair, "because it was part of my new discipline.

"It's some type of psychological thing."

Feuerbach said his hair had grown so long that it was hampering his throws.

"I mean I was going out to throw and getting hair in my hands," he said. "Right now I'm rebuilding my discipline and confidence."

The main reason he began the intensive program is Pacific Coast Track Club teammate George Woods, the world indoor shot put record holder, who scratched on all three of his preliminary attempts at the relays Saturday and was dropped from the competition.

"Especially after George's third foul my motivation was gone," Feuerbach said. "I like to feel I can get it on any throw —if there is competition, that is."

Feuerbach said he actually wished Woods had not fouled out because he felt the competition would have helped his throws.

"Going into this meet he was considered the best shot putter in the world," Feuerbach said, "and he's still the man to beat."

Feuerbach is building up for his masterpiece throw, which he predicts will be 74 feet.

"I'm building up for the world record so I won't ever have a letdown," he said. "I'm more or less aiming at the '76 Olympics," Feuerbach said. "It's more or less in the back of my mind."

Naturally, part of the buildup is intensive mental discipline which he said has really changed his attitude and his throws.

"It (attitude) was getting to me more and more all the time," he said. "It was like my attitude was getting where I thought nothing could hurt me."

Buffalo beef rejected by NBA boss Kennedy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Braves' season and their National basketball Association playoff series against the Boston Celtics ended officially Saturday when NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy rejected a protest by the expansion club.

The Braves contended there was one second left after Boston guard JoJo White sank two free throws to give the Celtics a 106-104 victory and the clinching game in their best-of-seven first round series in Buffalo Friday night.

Kennedy upheld the decision of officials Mendy Rudolph, Darrell Garretson and Manny Sokol and denied the protest, which was made after Braves' officials viewed video tapes of the frantic final seconds of the game.

The referees said that Rule 5, Section 3, applied and that under it, if a foul occurs at approximately the instant time expires for a period, the period officially ends after the free throws are attempted.

"The word here is approximate," said Braves General Manager Eddie Donovan. "It wasn't approximate because there was time left. We said there was one second or more left when the foul was called."

Donovan added that Sokol, who was the alternate referee at the game, confirmed there "was one or maybe two seconds left when the foul was called."

The final seconds of the game before 18,257 screaming fans, went like this:

With the Braves down 104-102, Bob McAdoo stole an inbounds pass from Boston's Dave Cowens and tied it with a dunk shot with seven seconds showing on the clock.

Boston called time out and took the ball at mid-court, passing to veteran John Havlicek, whose 12-foot jump shot was blocked by McAdoo.

White picked up the loose ball, took a wild shot and Garretson called a hacking foul on McAdoo. White, with no time showing on the scoreboard clock, stepped to the foul line with three attempts to make two shots.

He missed the first but calmly sank his next two tries and the Celtics were in the second round of the playoffs.

The fans reacted wildly to the bizarre ending, tossing garbage and shouting taunts at the officials.

Bulls, minus Sloan, had alibi they didn't need playoff win

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls had a built-in alibi when they played the Detroit Pistons on national television Saturday with a chance to win a National Basketball Association playoff for their first time at stake.

The Bulls had to play without star guard Jerry Sloan riding the bench with torn muscle fiber in the arch of his left foot. Well, nobody would have expected them to win without Sloan.

Instead, the Bulls played the game almost the same way they did when Sloan was playing, grabbing a big lead, losing it, and then finally winning in the last minute, 96-94.

The Bulls led in the third period by as many as 19 points. But with 2:04 left in the game, the Pistons had wiped out the lead and tied the score 92-92. The Bulls won on a basket by Chet Walker and two free throws by Norm Van Lier in the final 1:44 of the game.

"It was an emotional game," Bulls' Coach Dick Motta said. "They knew they had to do it. This was when we needed the bench and it came through. The whole team is drained out.

"We won it in defense and rebounding, not so much the number of rebounds but in getting the crucial ones. Any time you shoot less than 40 per cent and win it's your defense that does it."

Coach Ray Scott of the Pistons thought center Cliff Ray was the difference. "Our guy was getting beat and they dished off to Cliff for easy shots. We weren't confused by Ray playing under the basket. His performance surprised me. He was phenomenal in everything he did."

It was the first time the Bulls ever have won a playoff round. Last year, they lost in the first round to Los Angeles, while in previous ventures they lost first round series against Atlanta, Los Angeles and St. Louis.

Down by 19 at one point in the third period, they hung on doggedly, closing to within nine points at 80-71 after three periods.

A pair of free throws by Stu Lantz with 7:40 remaining pulled the Pistons to within 84-82 and the Bulls never could get more than a four-point lead thereafter. The Pistons each time matched baskets and finally evened it at 92-all on Bob Lanier's two free throws with 2:04 to play.

Walker hit from outside with 1:44 left to put the Bulls in front and Van Lier dropped in a pair of free throws at 1:31 to give the Bulls a 96-92 lead.

Dave Bing scored with 28 seconds left to cut the gap to two. When the Bulls ran out a 24-second violation, the Pistons had a last chance to play from out of bounds with three seconds to go.

Bing passed in but Dennis Awtrey, who came into the Bull lineup at that time deflected the ball. Van Lier picked it up and dribbled the time away.

Name 39 high school All Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scholastic magazine has named 39 high school seniors and one junior as those most likely to have their parents jerk the phone out of the wall—in other words, the 1974 All-America high school basketball squad.

Their phones have been ringing almost constantly as college recruiters seek their services.

The most highly recruited of these 40 cagers is 6-foot-11 Moses Malone of Petersburgh, Va. Malone averaged 39 points and 26 rebounds a game in leading his team to its second straight state championship.

The only seven-footer on the squad, and the only junior, is Bill Cartwright of Elk Grove, Calif., whose parents must suffer through another year of incessant recruiting.

New York, with four choices, was tops in representation, followed by California, Illinois and Ohio with three each.

Throughout the season, Butch Lee and Alex Eldridge battled for recognition as New York's top guard, so their selection as All-Americans comes as no surprise. Eldridge is headed for Massachusetts, while Lee's choice is said to be Duke.

The other New Yorkers named to the team were St. Anthony's Tom Hicks, who made a game-winning steal in the Dapper Dan Classic, and New Utrecht's 6-7 George Johnson.

Joining Cartwright in the California contingent were Marvin Thomas of Los Angeles and Mark Wulfemeyer, an outstanding 6-1 guard from Fullerton who averaged 36.5 points a game.

Mike Phillips, Larry Boston and Larry Harris are the Ohio representatives, with Phillips the only one indicating a college preference, either Ohio State or Tennessee.

Audie Matthews, a 6-4 Chicagoan who averaged 28 points, is called by many scouts "the best player in Illinois." He is joined on the squad by fellow Chicagoans Billy Lewis and James Jackson.

Among those named to the All-America group were a number of players already counted as prize catches by college coaches.

Minnesota's Bill Mussleman landed 6-7, 220-pound Mark Olberding and Illinois State snuck in for a real steal in Detroit's Cyrus Mann.

Carpetbagging Frank McGuire needed only a guard for his South Carolina team and captured an All-America in Jack Gilloon from West New York, N.J.

And the Atlantic Coast Conference is hard at work preserving its reputation as the elite of college basketball.

Maryland scored with Brad Davis of Monaca, Pa., and North Carolina talked Rocky Mount's Phil Ford into staying in his home state. Clemson made a big stride in its efforts to compete with the conference powers by landing Baltimore's Skip Wise, who was rated the top guard in the nation by a panel of college coaches which included UCLA's John Wooden.

Memphis State's new head coach Wayne Yates is confident he has gotten off on the right foot after winning the recruiting war for 6-9 homegrown product, John Gunn.

In the near future, such stars as Bruce Campbell of Wilbur Cross High School in New Haven, Conn., Brett Vroman of Provo, Utah, and Earl Evans of Port Arthur, Tex., will make their decisions.

Then, 40 homes will gain a solitude absent for the past two years.

Ken Dryden getting lumps on defense

TORONTO (UPI) — Former NHL superstar goalie Ken Dryden is not having an easy time in his new position as neophyte defenseman for the Toronto Lakeshore League team Vulcan Industrial Packaging.

The Canadian magazine reported Saturday that the 26-year-old Dryden, who quit the Montreal Canadiens of the NHL last summer to take a year's apprenticeship with a Toronto law firm has had more than his share of bumps with the VIP's, as he tried to keep his hand in on the ice.

"In one early game an opponent rammed him heavily into the boards. The damage consisted of a black eye and a seven-stitch cut," the magazine said.

"Three more than I received in the last 10 years playing goal," Dryden said. As the season progressed, Dryden said, "It became painfully obvious that I wasn't a defenseman. So it was no big deal for them to go out and bounce around a displaced goalie."

Dryden evaluated his own performance as "okay. I don't think I hurt the team. I don't help them either."

The magazine article said Dryden will return to pro hockey after the stint with the law firm is over, but reported the goalie has not yet decided which team or league he will join.

In the NHL, Dryden is still technically the property of the Montreal Canadiens, the team he left because it wasn't paying him enough money.

And in the World Hockey Association, the Toronto Toros have first choice on Dryden. But contrary to rumors, Dryden's wife Lynda said, he has not signed with the Toros.

Sears Highway Passenger
Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out.
We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.
Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.
Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

Camera shop to mark 20th year

POMONA — Hundreds of prizes, free seminars, product demonstrations and free refreshments highlight the 10th anniversary festivities of Gordon Ayers Camera Shops, Inc. beginning Monday and running through next Saturday, April 20.

The celebration will feature the grand opening of a new store located at 600 N. Indian Hill Blvd. "Hawaiian Movie Week" will climax with a free drawing for a Kodak Ektasound movie camera.

In addition, free orchids will be given to the first 50 ladies coming into each of the three stores on both Friday and Saturday.

The public is invited to try their luck at opening a treasure chest in each of the locations for hundreds of prizes. "South Pacific—picture Padise" a color and sound travel movie featuring Hawaii will be shown free of charge.

In addition to the Indian Hill store, other locations of Gordon Ayer Camera Shops are: 117 W. Holt Blvd., Ontario, and 228 Pomona Mall West.

Stock prices move lower; trading on NYSE very light

NEW YORK (UPI) — With rising interest rates looming larger as a market depressant, stock prices moved lower this holiday-shortened week in very light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 2.73 to 844.81, indicative of the noncommittal attitude most investors have taken, faced with a 10 per cent prime lending rate, rising short-term money market rates, inflation, and the growing poassibility President Nixon may face impeachment.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined 0.89 to 92.12. There were 1,126 losers, 592 gainers among the 1,956 stocks traded.

Sales for the four sessions totaled 43,190,040 shares, compared with 58,298,010 a week earlier, and with 76,173,505 shares the year before. On Thursday, trading dwindled to its lowest level since last August, totaling only 9,970,000 shares.

The nation's securities exchanges closed for the Good Friday holiday.

The move by major banks raising their prime lending rates to the record-equalling 10 per cent level held the spotlight throughout the week. On Monday, Bankers Trust of New York kicked off the increase, and the Dow reacted with its biggest loss of the week—7.58 points.

The 10 per cent prime began to spread among the nation's lending institutions Tuesday, but the stock market enjoyed its best day of the week. The Dow rose nearly seven points, but there was little conviction behind the advance: gainers just barely outnumbered losers, and sales totaled about 11 million shares.

In the last two sessions, investors sat on their hands and the market showed little movement as Wall Street wondered whether a continued rise in short-term money rates would force the nation's banks to boost the interest rate charged to best business customers past the record 10 per cent level.

Many analysts, including Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co., expressed the fear, if the prime moves beyond the current 10 per cent, "the stock market will crack."

Inflation also helped to keep investors sidelined. On Tuesday, budget director Roy Ash said—to no one's surprise—the first quarter inflation rate will be "considerably higher" than 1973's five per cent overall rate.

And on Thursday, the House Judiciary Committee and President Nixon appeared headed for a showdown. The House unit subpoenaed 41 tape conversations concerning the Watergate affair, and failure to comply with the order could lead to Nixon's impeachment.

Stocks whose operations include Canadian mining were sold heavily, following a decision Wednesday by the Canadian government raising mineralization taxes in the province of Ontario. Dome Mines plunged 21, Campbell Red Lake 14 ¼, and Texasgulf, Inc. 3 ½.

Texasgulf's losses occurred despite news the company earned 85 cents a share on the first quarter, compared with 29 cents the same period the previos year.

Burroughs tumbled 11 ⅝, with investors apparently unimpressed by the company's first quarter results. Burroughs earned 55 cents a share in the period, compared with last year's 43 cents.

Mountain Fuel Supply advanced 6 ⅝. On Monday, the firm said it discovered oil and noncombustible gas at its Brady unit well No. 14 in Wyoming.

Walt Disney slumped 4 ⅞. Early in the week, a Wall Street columnist cited analysts' fears Disney might report lower earnings for the year ending Sept. 30. On Wednesday, the company said second quarter earnings totaled 32 cents a share, against 36 cents in the comparable period last year.

Natomas, a firm involved in oil and natural gas production, said Wednesday first quarter earnings soared to $3.18 a share, up from one cent the comparable period in 1973. The stock climbed 4⅝ on the week.

IBM reported its net income grew by 26.8 per cent in the first quarter but, in the market's current mood, the Big Board's premier glamor fell 4.

Nixon victim of staff goof, says Reagan

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan suggested that a White House staff "goof" caused President Nixon to lose a $576,000 tax deduction for his Vice Presidential papers.

Reagan, addressing a $50-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner recently said much of the President's current tax predicament was based on a "technicality in the law."

The California Republican said other public officials had donated their official papers and got a tax break, but that Nixon apparently didn't know that law was outdated after 1968.

"He (the President) thought he had done it in time," Reagan said. "Somebody in his shop just goofed."

In the oil category, Connie Newton won first in landscape and second in still life. In watercolors, she took second and honorable mention in marine painting and two honorable mentions in landscape.

In oils, Bessie Carooll won first in marine and honorable mention in landscape and floral. In watercolors she took first in marine. She won second and third in the miscellaneous media division.

Other winners in oils were (landscape) Gerri Bowman, second and third; Goldie Wright, honorable mention; (marine) Anna Ruth Pritchett, second; Betty Hook, third; Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Bowman and Louise Buckelew, honorable mention; floral) Patty Kruggel, first; Marie Hoover, second and third; Mildred Weybright, honorable mention; (portrait) Nancy Kasten, first; Mrs. Bowman, second and honorable mention); Mary Savoie, third; (still life) Mildred Weybright, first; Edrie Hughes, third; Lydia Venable and Betty Hook, honorable mention; (miscellaneous) Mrs. Savoie, first; Mary Royse, second and honorable mention; Marian Dowden, third.

In watercolors, Shirley Bonneville won first in floral, second and third in landscape, and third in marine. Gladys Nichols took first in landscape and miscellaneous and second in floral.

Other winners in water color were (floral) Mary Stark, third; Mrs. Hook, honorable mention; (still life) Mrs. Stark, first; Mrs. Buckelew, second; (miscellaneous), Mrs. Buckelew, second.

Mrs. Hughes won first in the miscellaneous media division and Mrs. Venable won honorable mention.

Two artists schedule exhibition

CLAREMONT — Don Huffman and Steve Nagler, master of fine arts degree candidates at Claremont Graduate School, will have an exhibition of pottery and sculpture in the Libra Gallery Wednesday through Sunday.

Each will show six pieces. Huffman's work is coiled and thrown clay wine containers and servers two to four feet high. Nagler's work is mixed media sculpture. He uses wood, clay, fiber and plastic in large forms that are puns and metaphors.

The show will open with a public reception at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Show hours during the rest of the exhibition will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. on the weekend. Libra Gallery is at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue.

Art lessons for crippled youngsters

CLAREMONT — Free art lessons for crippled children will be offered at Howard Johnson's, 721 S. Indian Hill Blvd., starting April 23 under the auspices of the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society of Los Angles County.

Classes in drawing, painting and clay modeling will be taught by Claremont artist Margaret Dorman. They will be held at 2:30 p.m. each Tuesday. In July the classes will be switched to Saturday mornings. Regular exhibits of the young artists' work are planned.

Miss Dorman is looking for five teen-agers who will volunteer to help the children in exchange for free art instruction.

John Q. Adams was dedicated

John Quincy Adams served his nation in government from the age of 14, when he went to Russia as secretary to the United States Minister, until nearly 80, when he was fatally stricken in the House of Representatives in 1848.

POMONA — Oil paintings by Lynda Todd of Yorba Linda are now on display in the lobby gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave.

The exhibit, to continue through April, includes seascapes, still lifes, and portraits.

A member of the Orange County and South Bay Art Associations, Mrs. Todd has more than 300 paintings in circulation. They are displayed at galleries in Torrance, Yorba Linda, Covina and Utah are in a private collection in Azusa.

Her portrait, "Madonna," has won four awards, including the judges award in a Los Angeles County Art Show over 3,000 other entries.

Pilgrim Place has Mideast art exhibit

CLAREMONT — An exhibition of art objects and artifacts from Palestine, Jordan, Syria and Egypt is on display this month and next at Pilgrim Place.

Many of the items were loaned by Mrs. Cletea K. Terrill, whose husband was a YMCA secretary in Israel for more than a decade. One of the prizes of her collection is a small jug from the days of the prophet Amos (800 B.C.) which was excavated in 1937.

The Rev. Jack Warford, also of Pilgrim Place, has exhibited tiny Egyptian scarabs which are viewed through a magnifying glass.

Other items on display are Roman Glass, tear bottles from the First Century, Bedouin embroidery, fine-crafted copper and silver, paintings and tapestries.

The Mideast exhibit was arranged by Miss Oline Nicholson, Mrs. Arthur McIntosh, Mrs. Ann Watson and Mrs. Terrill.

Reservations for a guide to the exhibit can be made by calling the Rev. Maxwell Chamberlain, 624-4161, or the Pilgrim Place office, 624-5006.

Lyric Opera Association plans sale

LAGUNA BEACH — "Spring Thing," an art exhibit, swap meet and flea market sponsored by the Lyric Opera Association of Orange County, will be held on the Festival of Arts grounds at Laguna Beach May 4, 5, 11 and 12.

Some 200 booths are available to sellers of antiques, art works, crafts, collectibles, and "junque."

Proceeds from the sale will support the opera association which will be presenting Verdi's "La Traviata" and "The Wizard of Oz" next fall.

Information on renting booths for "Spring Thing" can be obtained at 494-0709.

Show of German works to open

PASADENA — An exhibition of German Expressionist painting and sculpture from California collections will open Tuesday at the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art. It continues through June 2.

The exhibit was organized by Melinda Wortz in observance of the 50th anniversary of the museum.

The exhibition will present the historical context out of which grew PMMA's Galka E. Scheyer Collection, featuring the work of the Blue Four artists—Feininger, Jawlensky, Kandinsky and Klee.

Multi-media exhibit showing at Griswold's

CLAREMONT — "Nicole Schoening: Multi-media," an exhibition of oils, watercolors, photography, sculpture and jewelry, is now being held at Griswold's Art Gallery. It continues through April.

The show encompasses Miss Schoening's early award-winning photography from her San Francisco museum shows; her "Ladies of Laguna" and their companion soft sculptures, the "Sun Dolls"; and her latest oil series, "Tin Types" and "Navajo Season". She is also exhibiting jewelry, assembled sculptures and some of her modern cubist series.

Miss Schoening exhibited last year in a group exhibition at Laguna Beach Museum, a large-scale invitational showing at Brand Library Gallery and openings at Canyon Gallery II in Los Angeles and Art Design Gallery in Laguna Beach.

Her future plans include a return one-woman show at the Brand Library Gallery in a new media of her own devising and a proposed show in Tokyo, Japan.

Her work has appeared in many publications such as Artforum, West Art, Contact, Modern Photography, and Theater Arts.

Frozen dessert is ancient

Nero Claudius Caesar (A.D. 54-68) enjoyed frozen desserts! He sent teams of runners into the mountains for snow which was relayed to his table where it was flavored with honey, juices and fruit pulps.

New flat rate pay proposed for bee losses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bee keepers would be given a new flat rate payment scale for the present flexible loss-assessment system used in its pesticide indemnity program under a plan proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Bee keepers would qualify for federal payments if their bees were killed or damaged by pesticides used by nearby farmers, under the plan.

Indemnities provided in the new proposal would be $22.50 for a totally destroyed colony in place of the present $15 rate; $15 for a severely damaged colony in place of the present $10; and $5.50 for a moderately damaged colony or a destroyed queen nucleus instead of the present $5 rate.

Burglar bitten by rabid dog

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Police said a burglar broke into a liquor distillery and while fleeing with money he was bitten by a rabid dog.

Police issued a call for the criminal to come to the city's only anti-rabies center. They said that immunization could save his life, but not his freedom.

Swedish spying angers Finland

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finland, in a unique location as the only neutral country bordering the Soviet Union, has long been aware that it is a popular base for spies of the East and West.

But the revelation a few weeks ago that her Nordic neighbor and friend, Sweden, was among the most vigorous in espionage resulted in a verbal protest and an eventual meeting of the two government leaders. The issue is now officially dead but few Finns will forget.

Finnish newspapers for several months reported dettailed information of alleged syping by Swedish intelligence (IB) agents. The government remained silent but, as it developed later, was conducting its own investigation.

The newspapers said the Swedes for several years had been overflying Finnish military installations on photo missions, that they had buried large amounts of radio equipment in Lapland, that a spyboat took on supplies in a Finnish harbor, and that IB agents set up a radio listening post in a hotel on the Finnish-Russian border.

Ambassador protests

The parliamentary Committee on Foreign Policy accepted a government report on the matter March 13, voted not to investigate further and to keep the findings secret despite demands by the Communists for a fuller investigation and report.

Hours later, the government apparently changed its mind, and announced that its ambassador to Stockholm, Max Jakobson, had on Feb. 18 protested to Swedish Foreign Minister Sven Andersson about the spying.

"Ambassador Jakobson submitted that the government of Finland regards such activity as highly deplorable and cannot sanction it," the foreign ministry said.

After the Finns publicized Jakobson's protest, Andersson publicly admitted that one spyboat did take on supplies in a Finnish harbor and it was a mistake, but he denied all other charges.

Kekkonen angered

That denial reportedly angered Finnish President Urho K. Kekkonen who decided not to let the matter stop there. Kekkonen was due to fly to Sweden the following weekend for a private fishing trip and he announced he would lunch on the last day of his visit with Swedish Premier Olof Palme and Andersson.

During that Stockholm lunch March 17, Palme reiterated that the ship incident was a mistake, but said he had no evidence that photos had been taken while Swedish planes overflew Finnish territory. Kekkonen reportedly replied the evidence was very strong that illegal action had taken place.

Officials said Palme pledged Sweden would honor the Finnish position that spying was unacceptable and a communique said later: "The discussions were fruitful and the matter is concluded between the countries."

Later Palme told the press, "It is good that the relationship between Finland and Sweden is so good that these type of matters can be discussed at the top level."

Questions unanswered

One source at the meeting said, however, that Palme did not answer all of Kekkonen's questions and he invoked the rule of secrecy several times. He explained an small country like Sweden must keep secrecy in such matters to protect its neutrality.

Few Swedes had ever heard much about their intelligence service until three journalists last year wrote about IB activities. They were arrested and sentenced to one year imprisonment each for espionage, but an appeal court lowered one of the sentences to 10 months.

Swedish author Jan Myrdal, 47, known for his descriptive books on India and China, took up the journalists' case with appeals to the Finnish press to print the full IB story. Those appeals increased the tempo for an IB investigation in Finland, producing one of the few public spats the two countries have had in more than 30 years.

Group seeking streamlining to save fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nation Science Foundation has called for the streamlining of big intercity trucks to reduce their air drag by 10 to 30 per cent.

The Foundation said this would save an estimated two billion gallons of fuel a year.

The government agency recently awarded two contracts totaling $171,300 to research companies to design relatively simple and inexpensive streamlining shields, vanes and round corner moldings to be fitted to tractors, trailers and vans.

Buckley urges Nixon to skip Moscow visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, (R-N.Y., Tuesday strongly recommnded President Nixon cancel his summer trip to Moscow in June.

Buckley, who recently recommended Nixon resign, said the failure of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to work out a strategic arms limitation agreement during a recent presummit trip to Moscow has "made it clear that the President's political differences at home have served to harden Soviet attitudes and positions."

"I strongly recommend against a presidential visit to Moscow while impeachment proceedings are still underway," Buckley said in a statement.

Coast Guard will forbid unsafe trips

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard soon will have authority to eliminate one of its biggest headaches—unsafe voyages by private individuals that usually wind up costing the government millions of dollars in search and rescue operations.

Beginning April 17, a Coast Guard district commander will have the authority to terminate an intended voyage if he determines that the vessel is unsuited to make the voyage.

In a preamble to the regulation published recently, the Coast Guard notes that on the average there usually are about four manifestly unsafe voyages attempted each year, such as a canoe trip across the Atlantic, or a rubber raft voyage to Japan from California.

As a result, search and rescue teams spend a "disproportionately large commitment" of resources—money and manpower — in tracking and rescuing the participants when the missions abort, the Coast Guard said.

It pointed out that there was no plan to investigate every potential transoceanic voyage, but only those that have the earmarks of disaster.

The decision to terminate a proposed voyage will be up to the Coast Guard district commander, who may designate a specific craft as being "unsafe for a specific voyage on a specific body of water." He cannot re-delegate this authority but must make the determination himself.

An original proposal to allow the termination decision to be made because of operator incompetency was omitted from the final rule.

Specifically, the district commander may rule a boat unsafe for a specific voyage due to:

—Unsuitable design or configuration.

—Improper construction or inadequate material condition.

—Improper or inadequate operational or safety equipment.

The person (or persons) against whom the rule is imposed has the right under the Administrative Procedures Act to petition for reconsideration and repeal of the district commander's ruling.

In the last quarter century, millions of dollars have been spent in search operations and a number of lives have been lost because of foolhardy voyages that never should have been permitted to leave shore in the first place, Coast Guard officials say.

'Right-to-reply' bill defeated

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — The North Carolina Senate voted 24-19 Tuesday to defeat a "right-to-reply" bill that would have forced newspapers to publish replies from persons claiming they had been assailed in editorials or news stories.

The vote came after an hour of debate.

The bill would have required replies to be printed in the letters to the editors section of the paper. Editors would have been allowed to delete any "libelous, vulgar or profane" language from the replies.

Program is helping the elderly in need

DETROIT (UPI) — Tucked away in ethnic pockets in all large American cities are thousands of poor and disadvantaged senior citizens, many of them immigrants who do not speak English and are unaware of aid available to them.

A federally funded effort to reach and assist these elderly is now making inroads in four midwestern cities including Detroit, and the success rate is so high the project will probably expand to other regions of the country.

The unique program called "Senior Ethnic Find," was initiated in Chicago in 1972 by VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) under the sponsorship of then Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. Since then, the program has expanded under local sponsorship to Gary, Ind., Cleveland and Detroit, and new programs are being planned in Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

The program is the brainchild of Myron Kuropas, regional director in Chicago of ACTION, the federal agency which administers VISTA, the Peace Corps and other volunteer agencies. Kuropas had been looking for a program that could address itself to a specific constituency he felt was being ignored—white ethnic Americans.

"Being white ethnic myself," the son of Ukranian immigrants explained, "I had the general feeling that when it came to social action programs, these people felt they had been left out, and all the programs were for so-called minorities and not for them."

Many elderly poor

The pilot program in Chicago uncovered an almost incredible amount of poverty among the aged. The great majority of the neglected elderly, it was found, were immigrants to their present environment, either from foreign nations or an entirely different rural environment. Many knew only enough English to get by at work, and many others knew none at all.

The language difficllty became the springboard for one of the program's basic premises: to assist the ethnic elderly, you have to speak their language.

Each of the 58 VISTA volunteers working in the four Midwestern programs is bilingual; in fact, most are ethnic elderly themselves, from the same or similar communities.

"They are displaced people, they still feel strange in this country," said Mrs. Clare Kowalski, a spritely 56-year-old Polish-speaking volunteer who works in the Detroit enclave of Hamtramck, a colorful area of Old World Poles, Russians, Yugoslavs and Ukrainians. "They don't want welfare— they're above that—and they don't think other benefits like state property tax rebates or rental rebates affect them."

Churches help

She recalled a case in which she helped an English-speaking woman with eye trouble find a Polish speaking ophthamologist.

"Sometimes they understand English but only want to verify it in their own language," she said.

The volunteers contact the elderly through a variety of church, civic and community groups, and through advertisments in ethnic newspapers and commercials on ethnic radio and TV stations. Once they have been completely accepted by the community, many of their new contacts are through word of mouth.

One of the toughest chores is trying to convince the aged the government is not the ogre it may have been in their native land, and they have a right to apply for food stamps or rent rebates.

"They feel like beggars taking handouts," explained Alex Rackauskas, 63, a VISTA worker in Chicago's Lithuanian community. "It's pride from the old country. Many are so grateful for just being in the United States that they would never complain."

"Father" Uncle Sam

Antonio Faustini, 73, an Italian with 19 years experience as a radio announcer, agreed. "I explain that the United States government is like a father. It takes care of all its citizens."

Since the first program began 1 ½ years ago, VISTA up to March had placed 20 workers in seven ethnic communities in Chicago; 17 workers in 13 ethnic centers in Cleveland; 8 in 5 centers in Gary; and 13 in 10 centers in Detroit, which is the newest program. VISTA is also working with Suomi College in the Michigan Upper Peninsula town of Hancock to prepare a project to aid the area elderly which will involve college and high school students.

The key to the program's success appears to be the ability of the VISTA workers to identify with the communities in which they work.

Acceptance is key

"You really need to be an insider," said Betty Brown, acting director of the Detroit "Find" project. "You need the language skills and the time, but you must also fit in. You can't stick out like a sore thumb."

The point can be illustrated by the experience of a Chicago volunteer contacted by a middle-aged woman who was having marital problems with her husband and filial difficulties with her wayward son.

The volunteer politely explained that he primarily dealt with the elderly, and in any case he was not prepared to offer competent assistance at such a personal level. He suggested that the woman contact her pastor.

"But I already talked with my priest," the woman explained. "He's the one who referred me to you."

Caverns open to the public

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (UPI) — Blanchard Springs Caverns opened officially to the public last summer under the auspices of the U.S. Forest Service and is Arkansas answer to Carlsbad Caverns.

A $5.3 million project put the caves in shape for public touring. Although Blanchard Springs is not as large as Carlsbad Caverns or Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, many of those who have seen all three say Blanchard Springs offers the most in natural beauty.

Dolls on scene for Boy Scouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Guess What? The Boy Scouts are involved with dolls these days.

The "dolls" are Scout Action Figures. They are the latest offspring of the GI Joe doll craze —a "doll" figure for boys that come complete with parachutes, scuba diving equipment and other sorts of soldier gear nearly 10 years ago.

The GI Joe figures were the toy industry's answer to the yen for tin soldiers. Only, like everything these days, they were bigger and better than tin soldiers. And more expensive.

With the decline in war figures and the rise of interest in less warlike toys, the people who put out GI Joes turned to the scouting scene. That's when they came up with Scout Action Figures. Notice —the doll is called a figure, not a doll.

The "figures" are called Steve Scout and Bob Scout. One is black. One is white.

Owen T. Wilkerson, who passes on this information, is with the Boy Scouts of America, in North Brunswick, N.J., Scout headquarters for the country.

He expects the scout figures to be around a long time. The Boy Scouts have been around 64 years.

Wilkerson reports:

"These Scout Action Figures appear to be catching on quite fast. They expect to hit the retail market this spring and really take over by Christmas.

"Will boys play with dolls?" That's a big question.

"It beats selling cookies," Wilkerson said.

PREVIEW OF HOME Mrs. Henry D. Mitman, center, entertains two committee members for Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women's home tour. With her are Mrs. Adele Schoene, left, and Mrs. Margueritte Mansfield. The Mitman home will be on the Saturday tour.

Homes of Claremont

AAUW tour charted Saturday

TODAY'S
Women

Historical and contemporary, panoramic views of the populated valley and the mountain wilderness, rural and city settings—these and other contrasts await those attending the 8th annual home tour sponsored by Claremont Branch of the American Association of University Women.

The event is scheduled from 1 to [illegible] .m. Saturday and will assist members in raising money for AAUW Fellowship Funds which provide an opportunity for deserving women to work on graduate degrees. Locally, the chapter also supports students at the undergraduate level.

Mrs. Margaret Beck of Glendora and Mrs. Arlene Barnett are chairman for the tour, which will feature five homes selected by a committee.

Heading the selection committee is Mrs. Lenore Jacoby of Pomona. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Grace Starrh, 626-0263.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitman is of Mediterranean design by architect Douglas Henderson. The family's Oriental collections strike an interesting contrast to the architecture. A violin-shaped pool and an outstanding Claraboya view are among the other highlights of the home.

Two of the homes are in the country. The Wilbert Kaufman home sits on two and one-half acres of wilderness. The spacious and and functional house, with features including a dream kitchen, was designed by the Kaufmans over the years.

The Padua home of Mr and Mrs. Arthur Ames offers a magnificient view and reflects well the owners' way of life. Both are artists and the house features two large studios.

A special treat is in store for the visitors in old Claremont—the home of the Colin Wrights. This is a Helen Wren house, built in 1928, complete with hand-hewn beamed ceilings and hardwood floors. The Wrights have done all the renovations themselves, and only the kitchen has been altered from what it was nearly 50 years ago..

Tea will be served throughout the afternoon at the Athenaeum, former home of the president of Claremont Men's College. The house is now used by the school for formal entertaining and as a meeting place for students.

Committee chairmen for the fund-raising event this year include Mmes. Marcella Brown, Ann Beumer, Nina Thayer, all of Glendora; Deborah Spaulding, Adele Schoene, Ruth Vermilyea, Mary Scogin, Lois Keith, Barbara Janda, Joel Brightfelt, Sheryl Salveson, Diann Ring and Maudeane Weil.

OLDER HOME IN CLAREMONT Mrs. Judy Wright, left, welcomes Mrs. Arlene Barnett to her home which will be one of the houses on the tour planned by Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women.

SETTING FOR TEA Mrs. Diann Ring, Dr. Sally Seven and Mrs. Deborah Spaulding pause at the Athena eum in Claremont as they make arrangements for the tea to be held there as part of AAUW home tour.

About Peace in world

Young girls are concerned

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — As revealed in a Girl Scout contest, the concerns of a group of 7 to 17-year-old girls come over loud and clear. They're concerned about peace in the world, about ecology, about racial discrimination.

"Let's Spread Peace" was the slogan of Lilli-ann Mozner, 10, of Morton Grove, Ill. Her message was on a wall hanging of terry cloth base which included not only the letters in yarn, but an illustration of a slice of bread, made of styrofoam, being spread with the word "peace." Lilli-ann's other materials included aluminum, for the knife, and fringe, for trim.

Lilli-ann was one of two first award winners in a "Letters to the World" contest sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

The other first went to Debbie Blanchard, 14, of Cohoes, N.Y. Her entry was a papoose-like figure, three-dimensional, done in cloth, yard and lace. Its message: "Humanity Yearns for Harmony."

The national wall hangings contest was sponsored jointly by the American Crafts Council and American Girl magazine, the Girl Scout publication.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art's Junior Museum Studio has the results on exhibit, the first such of its kind in Met history.

Peace was the motif of several other hangings, including one done by Bernetta J. Abramson, 17, of New York, who spelled out "Peace, Let It Be" in red felt, cut in the shape of a a guitar, with a dove cutout to accent the message.

One of the most imaginative entries belonged to Sue Schreiber, of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., who won honorable mention with her "Love Romforth Like Sunshine after Rain," complete with a white felt cloud and the sun peeking over it.

Other honorable mentions went to:

Debra Jager, 9, of Huntsville, Ala., who used a burlap base with yarn forming the silhouette of a bird and carrying the message, "Help Protect Wildlife."

Patricia Gray, 13, of Fort Thomas, Ky., used cloth, tie dyed, to depict a silhouette of a burned-out forest and the message, "Is Anybody There, Does Anybody Care, Does Anybody See What I See?"

Barbara Pontius, 13, of North Canton, Ohio, used felt, yarn, foil, and stuffed cloth to spell out an anti-discrimination message: "Day and Night Aren't as Different as They Seem".

Pamela Petsick, 17, of Oajwood, Tex., used cloth, embroidery and Magic Marker for her slogan of "Children Have Overcome."

And Sara Starkey, 9, of Odessa, Fla., combined felt, cloth and yarn for a stick-figure of black and white children

Others stressed the brotherhood of man, as in 13-year-old Mary Lucifer's entry, "Balloons are Beautiful in All Different Colors, and So Are People." Miss Lucifer is from Hatfield, Pa.

Crystal Novota, 17, of Overbrook, Ill., used a red felt background and felt cutouts in black and white making a piano keyboard. The message, "Just Remember, It Takes the Black and White Keys to Play the Star Spangled Banner."

Star of West charts Guest Night Monday

Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will have "Easter Parade" as the theme for Guest Night Monday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Guest officers filling the stations will be: Mrs. Tony Crowder, Rim of the World Chapter, worthy matron; Ron Cobbold, Upland Chapter, worthy patron; Mrs. Carolyn Keifer, Colton Chapter, associate matron; Edgar Rains, Colton Chapter, associate patron; Mrs. Ardene Nichols, Euclid Chapter, conductresss; Mrs. Irene Link, Euclid Chapter, associate conductress; Mrs. Odessa Worstine, Euclid Chapter, treasurer; Mrs. Sara Cowell, Claremont Chapter, secretary; Mrs. Betty Jackson, Euclid Chapter, chaplain; Mrs. Helen Carow, Upland Chapter, marshal; Mrs. Doris Meon, Chino Chapter, Mrs. Donna Endicott, Pomona Chapter, Mrs. Patricia Erp, Euclid Chapter, Mrs. Leila Bess, Claremont Chapter, and Mrs. Sylvia Julian, Upland Chapter, serving as star points Adah, Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa; Floyd Kellner, Upland Chapter, warder; John Childers, Pomona Chapter, sentinel; Charles Butler, Euclid Chapter, flag bearer; and Ted Carow, Upland chapter, prompter.

Special escort will be given Mrs. Jean Powers, deputy grand matron of the 59th District of the Grand Chapter, and to Mrs. Irma Gustafson, worthy matron, and Lorren Walrod, worthy patron of Star of the West chapter.

Mrs. Beverly Foley, hostess chairman, will be assisted by Mmes. Onlee Forbis, Edwina Gatov, Thelma Deardorff, Gertrude Smyers, Mildred Jochimsen, Myrtle Hainline, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blaney and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williamson.

Smorgasbord, dance set by Norwegians

The annual smorgasbord and dance of Sundfjord Lodge 65, Sons of Norway, is slated Saturday evening at the Pomona Moose Lodge, 300 S. San Antonio Ave.

The dinner will be served from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and dancing will begin at 9 p.m. Foods served at the smorgasbord are traditional Norwegian recipes prepared by lodge members.

Sons of Norway has 200 lodges in the United States and Canada comprised of families of Nowegian descent. It sponsors and supports cultural and philanthropic projects.

Persons qualifying for membership and wishing information about the group or the dinner may call 626-8718 or 622-6795. Tickets for the dinner can be purchased at the door.

Methodist Women set workshop

Hand crafts will be made at the Thursday meeting of the United Methodist Women of the Chino United Methodist Church.

During the activity day at 10 a.m. in the church social hall, members will also be given hints of how to arrange flowers for the church sanctuary and make corsages.

The noon luncheon will be served by members of the Edna Smith Fellowship Group with Mrs. Howard Williams as chairman.

Boss Night planned by secretaries

The 16th annual Bosses Night of the Ontario Legal Secretaries Association is scheduled Saturday at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn, Claremont.

Festivities will include the announcement of the Boss of the Year and Secretary of the Year awards. Attorneys, judges and secretaries so honored are chosen by the members of the association for their outstanding contributions to the advancement of legal secretaries and the legal field, to the club, and for their professionalism.

Cochairmen Kathy Beckley and Joy Teeple have planned a surprise program.

Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m. and dinner, at 7:30.

All secretaries in legal or related fields, their husbands, employers and spouses are invited to attend. Reservations are due by Monday with Kathy Beckley, (714) 986-1134.

CLIFTON KING

Dreams topic for talk

"How to Understand Your Dreams" is the topic chosen by Clifton King for the program he will present for the Women's Auxiliary to Tri-County Dental Society Thursday at 11:45 a.m. at the Castaway.

Mr. King has made numerous guest appearances on television including the Dorothy Gardner, Art Linkletter, Dr. Loriene Chase, Jack LaLanne shows and also on Tempo. He is a minister-at-large with the Santa Anita Church in Arcadia.

Mr. King is currently executive director of the Chase-King Personal Development Center in Upland.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. William Sinclair, 624-0137, by Monday.

Miss Lewis to marry in May

Miss Dianne Lewis and Thomas White will be married on May 25.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Lewis of Pomona is a Pomona High School graduate. She attended Mt. San Antonio College and is employed by General Telephone Company, Pomona.

Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew White of Compton. He graduated from Centennial High School. Mr. White attended Cal Poly Pomona for two years and was a member of the football team.

He is employed by Super-Grate Steel Company in Maywood.

The couple plans to reside in Pomona.

DIANNE LEWIS

OES to fete deputy grand matron here

The theme will be "A Reign of Flowers" when Mrs. Robert Poers, deputy grand matron of the 59th district of the Grand Chapter, State of California, Order of the Eastern Star, makes her official visit to Claremont Chapter at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple.

She will be honored with a special escort and will receive her carrying piece and a special presentation as gifts of the chapter.

Mrs. Chester Olson, associate conductress, will make the presentation and will be assisted by the star points, Mmes. Elvin Diehl, William Schaefer, Sidney Hopkins and Richard Bess.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mmes. Virgil Hansen, chairman; Kenneth Baughman, James Putman and George Redmond.

Volunteers schedule session

WOMEN FORE the Music Center, a support group of over 400 volunteers, will meet at 10 a.m. April 26 in the Eldorado Room of the Center's Dorothy Chandler Pavilion.

Addressing the group will be Jean Stapleton of "All in the Family" fame and currently starring in "The Time of the Cuckoo" at the Ahmanson Theater; and Robert Fryer who, in addition to serving as Ahmanson Theater's managing director, is a Broadway and film producer.

The agenda will include a report on the progress of the Music Center Arts and Education Fund campaign and in particular the progress of the WOMEN FORE the Music Center toward their $250,000 goal. There will also be a report on The Performing Tree, the joint venture of the Reachout Committee and the Junior League of Los Angeles.

Girl Scouts collecting newspapers

A number of Girl Scout troops within the Pomona Neighborhood have been collecting old newspapers and submitting them to the Recycling Resources Company, according to Mrs. John Hawkins, chairman of District 2, Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council.

"The girls have found that the project is worthwhile and that it doesn't take long to obtain funds to subsidize troop campouts, plan a troop trip to San Diego or aid their troop progam," she says.

Girl Scouts have been involved in conservation since the founding of the organization 62 years ago. The local scouts are helping to conserve forest lands by collecting newspapers and delivering them for recycling.

Recently, Mike Macardican, owner of the recycling company, contributed $100 to the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council for the Palomar campsite development fund because of the enthusiasm of the girls involved in the newspaper project.

Hair facts

Hair grows about a half inch a month or approximately six inches a year and tends to grow faster in warm weather. Hair also grows fastest between the ages of 15 to 25. And when most hair reaches 10 inches in length, it slows down to about half of its normal growth rate.

Policeman to address Navy Mothers

Lt. Arthur Traber of the Pomona Police Department will address the afternoon meeting of Pomona Navy Mothers Club on Tuesday.

The public is invited to the 1 p.m. meeting at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 1700 E. 1st St., when Lt. Traber will show the film "Lady Beware."

Lt. Traber has been with the Pomona Police Department since 1955. He received his A.A. degree in police science at Mt. San Antonio College and has taken additional training from California Peace Officers Standards and Training Commission.

The Navy Mothers will meet at 10 a.m. for a business meeting with a potluck luncheon scheduled at noon.

Pomona College dean

Cited for dedicated career

By VONNE ROBERTSON

Assistant Women's Editor

In recognition of her outstanding performance as a dean for 25 years at Pomona College, Dr. Jean B. Walton will be presented the Scott H. Goodnight Award at the opening banquet of the 56th annual conference of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators today in Chicago.

The annual award for Outstanding Performance as a dean memorializes Scott Goodnight, first president of NASPA in 1919-1920.

As dean of students for the college in Claremont, Dr. Walton was cited as "a woman whose courage has been characterized by the sometimes unspectacular virtues of patience, duty, and integrity throughout a quarter of a century of service to the students of Pomona College."

In commenting on her many years of service, Dr. Walton said in an interview "They've been enjoyable. I've always been impressed with the friendliness and extremely human quality of the students and have been stimulated by my close contact with them.

"I've always respected their opinions and have worked to understand the meaning behind their actions," she added.

"While the students at Pomona College have, for the most part, been serious, dedicated students, I do see some changes in attitudes over the years" added the tall, charming woman.

"Today's students have greater expectations for the future. Girls tend less to view marriage as the next immediate step after graduation, seeking a career first.

"Students want to have more voice in the operation of the college and in the planning of their own lives. They seek a greater range of choices in their educational and living patterns."

"They are much more mobile," continued Dean Walton. "We find them taking leaves of absence to work, to travel, and to explore other alternatives. Then the students return to continue their studies with a more defined direction."

HONORED — Dr. Jean B. Walton, dean of students at Pomona College, will be honored today in Chicago. She stands before a hanging which was painted especially for her while she was teaching in Japan.

While, in the past years, Dr. Walton's duties have included an increasing amount of administrative work, she still finds time to consult with students interpreting college policies, helping them with emergencies and handling the out-of-the-ordinary situations.

Dr. Walton graduated from Swarthmore College with highest honors and received her master's degree in mathematics at Brown University. She obtained her doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1949, she came to Pomona College as dean of women, a post she held until 1969 when she was appointed dean of students and dean of women. Her department works closely with the deans and other administrative officers in all the Claremont Colleges.

Dr. Walton serves as chairman of a faculty-student Commission on the Education of Women. Among the charges, the commission was asked to study and make recommendations concerning the employment opportunities for women. Commission members agreed that there is an urgent educational need for a substantial increase in the number of women on the faculty.

Dr. Walton pointed out that Pomona College, like other colleges and universities, has been engaged in recruiting qualified women and minority group teachers. There are a few more on the faculty each year, she added.

Dr. Walton has also been active in programs to provide broader opportunities for the study of questions related to the changing role of women in society.

She spent a year as Fulbright Lecturer in Counseling and Guidance at Japan Women's University in Tokyo, in 1955-56. In 1972, she spent the fall semester traveling within the United States studying recent developments in the Women's Movement and considering their impact on undergraduate education.

Since the returning, Dr. Walton has worked with a student group, "The Concerned Women of Claremont," and has spoken frequently in the valley.

As a person who loves travel and the out-of-doors, the busy dean still finds time to garden and hike. Her travels have taken her to Europe, the Orient and Africa.

After receiving her well-deserved award, Dr. Walton will remain in Chicago for the week-long conference which is expected to draw several thousands delegates.

Dispensing drugs topic for study

The basic knowledge needed to understand current drug therapy will be provided for registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and others responsible for dispensing drugs in a health care facility will be offered at a UCLA Extension workshop May 4 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The workshop in Clinical Pharmacology and Therapeutics will be held at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, 1322 N. Vermont Ave.

Course chairman is Dr Paul R. Torrens, professor of public health and chairman of the division of health services and hospital administration at the UCLA School of Public Health.

Instructing will be Dr. Frank J. Briganti, program coordinator and director of Pharmacy at Carson Inter-Community Hospital, and Lance R. Aamot, medical representative for Abboyt Laboratories in Los Angeles.

Further information is available by writing P. O. Box 24902, Department of Continuing Education in Health Sciences, University Extension, Los Angeles, 90024.

Youth Aliyah lunch charted by Hadassah

Sharon and Eastland chapters of Hadassah will jointly sponsor their annual Youth Aliyah luncheon on Tuesday. The group will gather at 11 a.m. at the Via Verde Country Club, 1177 Via Esperanza, San Dimas.

Mrs. David Goodman, president of Southern Pacific Coast Region of Hadassah, will speak on her personal impressions of her recent tour of Israel. She will bring members up to date on the current direction of the Youth Aliyah immigration movement.

As was reported at the 59th annual Hadassah National Convention in Denver, Youth Aliyah's children's villages have been acknowledged the world over for their creative work in child rescue and rehabilitation since their inception in 1934 as a refuge for the child victims of the Nazi holocaust.

Among the later waves of immigrant families from Arab countries and Eastern Europe to Israel, some were unprepared to send their children away to these residential schools, so Youth Aliyah provided day centers near the rural development towns.

Now, with Hadassah's help, Youth Aliyah is planning to build day centers in Israel's two most populous cities, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. Another Hadassah-sponsored program will provide mental health in-service training for the Youth Aliyah personnel in the day centers throughout Israel.

Also to address the luncheon will be Mrs. Ray Wolters, regional leadership training chairman.

The musical portion of the program will be presented by Emily Georges, who plays the guitar and sings traditional Jewish melodies.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. George Rosenfeld, 982-1630, and Mrs. Arthur Madorsky, 624-7714.

Sisterhood antique sale planned

An antique show and sale is planned Saturday and Sunday by the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Ami at 3508 E. Garvey Ave., West Covina.

Thirty-one dealers will be participating in the show and items including antique clocks, gold and silver coins, antique jewelry, cut glass, art glass, turquoise, oak pieces, furniture will be on display.

An outstanding artist will have on display and for sale original watercolors and prints.

Candy, greenery, potted plants in handmade stoneware pots will also be for sale.

Mrs. Wallace Siegel is chairman for the event and among those assisting her are Mrs. Robert Sheldon, Mrs. Morris Stark and Mrs. Howard Stone.

Saturday hours will be 8 p.m. to midnight, and Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Gibson to address San Antonio Auxiliary

New officers will be elected at the Monday meeting of San Antonio Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary in Aita Auditorium at the hospital.

The speaker, Mrs. Thomas A. Gibson, will have as her topic "Rx for Health Education." A member of the auxiliary, Mrs. Gibson is also president of the California Medical Society Auxiliary.

The speaker has been on the Upland School Board for 12 years and has been a member of the San Bernardino County School Board for six years. She is a delegate to the California State Commission for Teacher Credentialing.

Luncheon will be served at noon and the program will begin at 12:40 p.m. Women in the community are welcome. Reservations may be made by calling Jean Grace, 985-2811.

The auxiliary will sponsor a Trump Brunch on April 29 in the hospital auditorium, starting at 10 a.m.

Brunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. Reservations are due by April 25. Proceeds are for the Women's Auxiliary Chapel Fund.

YWCA spring classes registrations begin

The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is now accepting registration for spring classes.

Classes in fitness and crewel embroidery will begin Monday at the La Verne Church of the Brethren. The fitness program, for six weeks on Monday evenings, will include exercise to music, figure analysis and diet discussion. It will be led by Nelleen Moran.

Crewel embroidery is to be taught by Chrissy Vaughn.

Other classes being offered by the YWCA include beginning golf on Wednesday mornings for eight weeks at 10 a.m. at the Claremont Golf Course with Pat Patton instructing. Golf will begin on Wednesday.

Tennis instruction will again be given by Margaret Overin at Palomares Park on Thursday mornings beginning April 25.

Classes in crocheting, patchwork quilting and Red Cross First Aid will start Tuesday at the YWCA building, 207 E. Monterey St. Child care is available during all morning classes.

For information on classes, call the YWCA at 622-1269, or come to the office between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Membership gathering set by BPW

An informal membership meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. by the La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club.

Members are invited to bring their guests to the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Gabriel Valley, located at Bonita and D Streets, La Verne.

Impressionist, solon art work at museum

LOS ANGELES — "Impressionists and the Salon," an exhibition of work by Impressionist and Salon painters, will open Tuesday at the county Museumof Art.

The exhibit, including paintings, drawings, prints, watercolors and sculpture, continues through May 11. Admission is free.

In April 1874, a group of independent artists who came to be known as the Impressionists exhibited together for the first time at the studio of photographer Nadar in Paris. To celebrate that event, this exhibition was organized by students working under Kahterine Mead of the history of art deparment at UC Riverside.

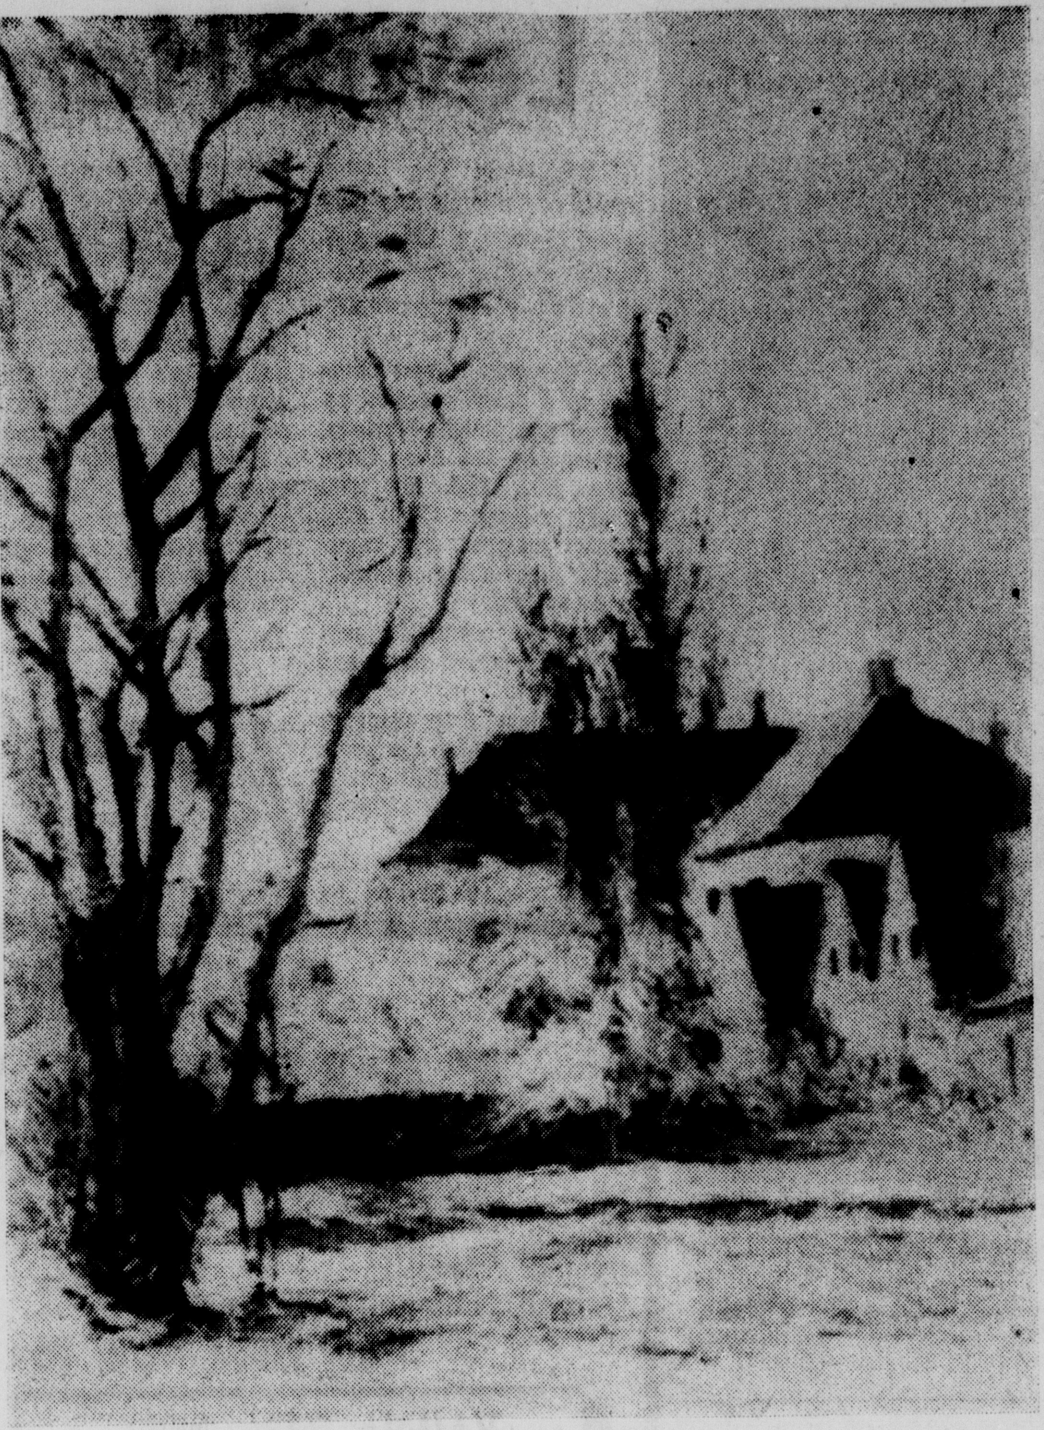
Drawn entirely from California collections, the works reflect the rich diversity in terms of style and subject matter of French art executed from 1874 to 1886, the years during which the eight Impressionist exhibitions took place. Over 40 artists including Cezanne, Gauguin, Degas, Monet, Manet, Mary Cassatt, Bouguerau, Forain, Berne-Bellecour and Meissonier are represented in the exhibition.

Works by Salon artists include "La Berceuse," by william A. Bouguereau, "Reception of the Duc de Conde at Versailles," by S.L. Gerome, "Algerian Girl" by F. Roybet, and a painting of a cardinal titled "The Red Portfolio" by genre painter J.G. Vibert.

Schultpre is represented in the exhibition with a polychorme bust of a Greek woman by Cordier, a bronze by Auguste Rodin titled "Je Suis Belle" and work by one of Rodin's masters, Carrier Belleuse, titled "L'Enlevement" and executed in a baroque tyle.

Among the Impressionist works are Mary Cassatt's "Mother about to Wash Her Sleepy Child"; a watercolor, "Vue de Pontoise," by Camille Pisarro; "Paysage d'Hiver a Copenhague" by Paul Gauguin; a Degas pastel of a dancer; a pastel portrait of Degas' friend, Italian painter De Nittis, by J.L. Forain; and a painting titled "Effet de Neige a Limetz" by Claude Monet. It was a painting by Monet titled "Impression, Sunrise" shows in the first exhibition of 1884 that led to the term "Impressionism."

In addition to the art works, interesting peripheral material can be seen, such as photographs of major academic artists in their studios, in some cases showing paintings that are included in the exhibition.



WINTER IMPRESSIONS—"Winter Landscape, Copenhagen," by French artist Paul Gauguin, is one of the works in an exhibition by Impressionist and Salon artists opening Tuesday at the county Museum of Art. The oil on canvas, painted about 1885, has been loaned to the exhibit by Leona Cantor of Beverly Hills. Admission is free.

2 ballet companies joining for program

RIVERSIDE — The Riverside Ballet Arts Theater in conjunction with the Ballet Society of Los Angeles will present "Ballet for All," a program of four popular works, in the Riverside Municipal Auditorium at 3 p.m. April 28.

Tickets at $3.50 general admission, $2 for students, are on sale at the box office and at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Thr four ballets, "Graduation Ball," "Once upon a Time," "Ballet School" and "Gran Tarantella,' constitute a wide range of classic and folk-influenced styles.

Mary Lynn, founder and artistic director of the Riverside organization, and Tatiana Riabouchinska-Lichine, founder-director of the Los Angeles company, chose works from the repertoire of each.

Kenneth Kreel, who directed last year's production of "The Nutcracker," presented in several performances in each area, is artistic director of the Los Angeles company.

"Graduation Ball," choreographed by the late David Lichine in 1940 for the celebrated Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, still reamins among the best-loved works in Ballet Russe repertoire. It will be staged by Miss Riabouchinska, who was Lichine's co-worker and wife.

Lewis Homes in Chino

CHINO — The Lewis Homes of California has purchased 55 acres at Chino and Norton avenues for development of single family homes.

The property is now occupied by a dairy, operated by Bernie and Ralph Preciado. Bernie, who has lived there since 1932, and his son, Ralph, a former Chino City Council member, are transferring their dairy operation to San Jacinto.

They will operate a new dairy there on 535 acres and with 500 cows.

The building firm plans to build 200 homes on the property. The project will adjoin another housing development, called The Countryside.

"When the Preciados decided to put their land on the market, we were quite eager to purchase it," said Ralph M. Lewis. "The location was a natural one for us to be excited about.

"Our adjoining development has had extremely rapid sales and we are quite optimistic about the future growth in the southwestern part of Chino."

Lewis cited two important reasons for Chino's rapid growth. "The first is that people from all over Southern California are discovering the many benefits of the City of Chino. It offers a way of life which is rapidly disappearing from other cities.

"Open fields, freedom from urban congestion and excellent schools are some major appeals of Chino. People are also discovering they can get more home for the money because land prices and improvement prices are considerably less."

A second reason for Chino's growth, added Lewis, is the "excellent city staff which is working hard in overseeing the city's orderly development."

He praised Gale Carr, director of community development, and Dennis Chinaeff, associate planner, as exemplifying the city staff. "They are fair to developers, easv to work with, and firm in maintaining their standards for developments in the city."

The new development will have 219 houses to be constructed within a three year period. These will be similar to those built at The Countryside.

These homes, located on Pipe Line Avenue between Chino and Schaeffer avenues, are priced from $31,350 to $37,850. The one and two story structures offer up to 1,982 square feet of floor space. Five model homes are open daily.

MORE LEWIS HOMES—Construction of 219 more homes in Chino by Lewis Homes of California is discussed by builders, property owners and city officials. The homes will be constructed on land owned by Bernie and Ralph Preciado. The property adjoins another Lewis Homes project, The Countryside (seen in background). Discussing the new development are, from left, Randall Lewis, Bernie Preciado, Ralph Preciado, Ralph Lewis, Dennis Chinaeff, Chino associate planner, and Gale Carr; director of community development. Homes will be built during a three year period.

Realtors hold seminar in Claremont

CLAREMONT — An educational seminar on "Organization of A Brokerage Office" and "Budget Planning for Brokerage Office," will be held April 25 at Griswold's Restaurant.

This is being sponsored by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors (PVBR) and the California Real Estate Association (CREA), said J. Stan Heckmer, education chairman.

The all-day session is open to the public. Members of the PVBR and CREA may earn a unit of credit toward the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

"This is an opportunity for real eastate practitioners to broaden their knowledge and understanding of the profession," said Heckmer.

"The course features advanced materials designed to help Realtors and salesmen who already have a good working knowledge of real estate business, but who want to learn more, especially new techniques for helping their clients."

The faculty and materials are provided by CREA with the local board making other conference arrangements.

The speakers are Ptrick McVay, "Organization of Brokerage Office" and George Schnarre, "Budget Planning for Brokerage Office."

McVay, of Huntington Beach, operates two real estate offices. Schnarre, a San Bernardino Realtor, is also a real estate instructor at San Bernardino Valley College.

Contents of the course include:

Organization of Brokerage Office—A review of the functions and duties of typical real estate office personnel. Analysis of efficiency and a time study of various duties. Planning for growth is explored, including analysis of costs and time needed.

Budget Planning for Brokerage Office—Analysis of that portion of brokerage income remaining after all the commissions have been paid—the "company dollar." Formula is presented for estimating expenses of the firm as more salesmen are added or reduced. Advertising, salaries, telephone expenses, rent and service costs are explored.

The registration fee is $15, which includes course materials, examination, coffee service and luncheon. Registration begins at 8:45 a.m.

For more information, persons may contact the PVBR, 665 N. Garey Ave. The telephone number is 623-1607.

At Realtors meeting:

Housing needs outlined

WASHINGTON — What is the proper approach to solving the nation's housing problems?

Members of the National Association of Realtors received mixed opinions at their annual legislative conference held recently in Washington, D.C.

Speakers included Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., who criticized the Administration's approach; James T. Lynn, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), who expressed disappointment at a housing bill recently passed by the Senate; and William Simon, federal energy administrator, who warned against resuming old habits of "thoughless energy consumption."

"As you well know, a wide gap exists between the Administration and the Congress—and, I believe, the people—on what course should be taken on housing in the months and years ahead," declared Sparkman. "I sometimes wonder if the Administration has a course."

He described provisions of Senate Bill 3066 recently passed by the Senate. Terming this a "landmark housing bill," Sparkman said this would bring together housing programs and community development programs.

In terms of housing, he said existing Federal Housing Administration (FHA) programs would be converted to two basic programs of housing for low income families—a home ownership program and a rental program.

Regarding community development, Sparkman said a number of categorical programs are being consolidated into a single community development program. The principal categorical programs affected are those for urban renewal, model cities and water and sewer facility construction.

The speaker had introduced last year Senate Bill 1744, the Community Development Assistance Act of 1973, which constituted the basis of the new program, he said.

Sparkman described the major features of the housing portion of the act as including: a limitation on eligibility for assistance to families with income of less than 80 per cent of the median; counseling for applicants to reduce defaults; warranty requirements and provisions for reimbursement for defective workmanship; and speci consideration for the elderl by requiring that from 15 t 25 per cent of rental ass tance contracts be earmarke for projects for the elderly.

The senator was also criti cal of HUD, questioning its "concern that it does not have the capability of managing an FHA subsidy program, or for that matter, any FHA program. "I just cannot believe the program is incapable of being administrated," he added. Referring to FHA scandals of the 1950s, he said: "I wonder how we have been fortunate relative to the public housing programs and the urban renewa program, each of which hav involved many billions of d lars, without a major scand involving corruption (fraud."

In another speech, Lynn r ported there are more important decisions to be made now in the field of housing and related areas than perhaps any other time in recent history.

The HUD official touched briefly on some of the concerns his agency faces. He listed the Better Communities Act, designed to delegate the decision-making authority to local governments; Congress' struggle to produce an omnibus housing bill; and subsidized housing for lower income families.

Lynn expressed disappointment at the housing bil recently passed by the Se ate. He said it contains number of provisions the A ministration proposal did r recommend—principally a r turn to subsidized new ho ing not unlike the former p grams on which the Ad istration placed on mora rium in January, 1973.

"I am still optimistic, ho ever," he added. "I feel th House is somewhat mor sympathetic to our approaches, and a win is still possible.

"By a win, I mean a conference bill which provides meaningful legislation for the country and for which the President can sign."

Much has been said about housing for the low-income American and the elderly, he noted, and an appropriate topic for discussion might be housing for the middle American.

"While the track record over the past two decades is impressive, by any measure you use—and fewer and fewer people are living in substandard housing—there are forces which are making a continuation of that trend more and more difficult."

He cited inflation as a principal force "under which rising prices for virtually everything purchased leaves less and less for the mortgage or rental payment." He also noted the need for a healthy growing economy, particularly in the fields of housing and mortgage credit.

"Right now, the savings and loan associations and other thrift institutions constitute the largest single factor in housing finance," he said. "When they experience net outflows, as was true late last year, the effects on mortgage credit is immense."

The private money market must be tapped to a much greater extent to provide a broader spread of mortgage credit, said Lynn. He made these recommendations:

—Mortgage interest tax credits. These would provide instituions with investible assets a tax credit on the interest they receive from funds invested in residential mortgages, starting with one per cent when 10 per cent of assets are so invested, ranging up to 3½ per cent with 70 per cent or more of the funds are in mortgages.

—Government reinsurance of private mortgage insurers to forestall any possible failures and increase of use the secondary market.

—Revitalize the FHA by freeing the interest rate so that it rises and falls with the market. By using co-insurance where-by the loan originator assumes part of the risk, this increases his incentive toward careful underwriting.

In his speech, Simon called for "the determination and will to translate our present anxieties about the energy shortage into new values and patterns of concern."

Predicting that when the full effect of the lifting of the Arab embargo is felt, he said there may be a temporary surplus or at least sufficiency.

"Between now and the end of this century, we will design and construct as many homes, offices and industrial buildings as we have today. Within a quarter of a century, we will have developed a second America."

Simon discounted suggestions that he and President Nixon disagree on the scope of the problem.

"He was the first President ever to send a message entirely devoted to energy to the Congress," said Simon. Despite that message and other early warnings, a panic mentality set in last fall as dire forecasts of surging unemployment, drastic gasoline shortages and city-wide blackouts were heard.

"It did not happen. No more than one-half of one per cent of the workers had lost their jobs. More people are, in fact, employed than last November and there have been no blackouts."

Simon expressed disappointment that Congress had not yet provided the manpower and budget to establish a permanent energy office.

"The problem did not start with the embargo and it will not end when it is fully lifted," he said. "All industrial nations will continue to have energy problems with enormous economic implications."

President Nixon is determined to make America self-sufficient by 1980, declared Simon. And he has made a five year, $10 billion commitment to that "despite the significant obstacles of cost and demand on the spirit and strength of the people."

Realty week marked with 'open house'

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Board of Realtors will hold an open house Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, at its offices, 665 N. Garey Ave.

This will mark the start of Realtor Week, April 21-27. This will be observed by 500,000 Realtors and associates across the nation.

The local program is sponsored by the realty board's public relations committee. This includes Peggy Vick, chairman, Nancy Glasscock, co-chairman, and Virginia Albany, Cleon Cravens, Penny Huss, Evelyn Kridler, Lynda Thomason and Wayne West, members.

Coffee and rolls will be served those attending the open house.

Most homes at 'Orchard' are sold

UPLAND — More than two-thirds of the two and three bedroom condominium homes have been sold at Orchard Lane here.

The $4.5 million residential development features eight different exteriors in contemporary and Spanish architectural styling. Officials said 223 of the project's 256 homes have been sold.

These were built by Fredricks Development Corp., builder of 10 communities in California.

The homes, priced from $19,900, feature wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, built-in kitchen appliances, vinyl flooring, luminous kitchen ceilings and inside laundry areas. Fireplaces are included in some plans.

These also have air conditioning, fenced patios, and electric outlets and exterior lighting for patio dining and entertaining.

The complex includes a children's playground, swimming pool, hydro-massage pool and cabana.

Furnished model homes display the floor-plans and features of the condominium homes. These are open daily.

Persons can reach the Orchard Lane community by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to Mountain Avenue, go north to Seventh Street and then west to the model complex.

Law candidate has court date

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — On the ballot for the June 4 election, Jerry L. Lawrence, 32, a candidate for sheriff of Orange County, lists his occupation as "herb dealer."

Lawrence is scheduled to go on trial in Superior Court the day before the election on charges of possessing several pounds of marijuana.

Capital punishment still a way of life in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — In prison yards around the Soviet Union, the rattle of firing squads still can be heard with grim regularity.

The Soviet press is quick to condemn what it considers to be executions of a political nature in the West, for example the recent garrote-killing of two convicts in Spain.

The other side of the coin is that so far this year at least 23 persons have been sentenced to die in the Soviet Union, many of them for crimes that would not be considered capital in the West.

This indicates an increase in the rate, of executions, since courts are known to have passed about 95 death sentences in the past three years. More often than not, newspapers report the sentences after they have been caried out.

The method used is always the firing squad.

Probably not all executions get into the newspapers, particularly those for murder and rape—crimes which, in any case, are played down in the press here.

Wartime collaboration with the Nazis and economic crimes against the state, such as bribetaking and fraud, are the chief causes for those death sentences that are reported.

Lenin approved

V.I. Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state, approved capital punishment as a means of establishing Communist order, despite the fact his own brother had been executed by Czarist authorities.

The death penalty has several times been abolishzd and reinstated during more than 56 years of Communist rule.

The official position on the subject, according to one legal authority, is that capital punishment is an "exceptional and temporary measure" which will be kept in force until Soviet society is mature enough to abolish it completely.

There are no signs that this will come about soon. On the contrary, there have been these signs of a stiffening in attitude:

—A meeting of the nation's highest law enforcement and legal officials under President Nikolai V. Podgorny recently called for tougher measures to prevent crimes against state property. A committee now is drawing up a working paper on the subject.

Execution at 16

—A public prosecutor, Yuri Kostanov recommended some time ago in Literaturnaya Gazeta that the age at which a person can be sentenced to death should be lowered from 18 to 16. "Young people grow up faster than before," he said.

—In the free-wheeling southern republic of Azerbaijan, the Communist Party newspaper Bakinski Rabochii appealed recently for the execution of a government official who took bribes.

The official, F. Kadyrov, had been given the maximum prison sentence under Soviet law of 15 years.

"To pass such a mockingly weak and mild sentence instead of ordering the firing squad is a disgrace for the Communist and the revolutionary," the newspaper said.

—In the neighboring republic of Georgia, party chief Eduard Shevardnadze decried the activities of bribe-takers and speculators.

"They shouldbe caught and shot down—Lenin said it," he told fellow Communists.

Important period of life

New hope looms for older persons

CHICAGO (UPI) — The image of aged Americans hopelessly living out their days on a park bench in Florida must be swept aside in a new emphasis on the opportunities of the later years of life.

That was a key point made by a panel of medical and social scientists at an American Medical Association conference on aging this past week.

Bernard E. Nash, executive director of the American Association of retired persons, said the fact that the 46 national organizations joined the AMA in sponsoring the meeting was of utmost significance.

"Twenty years ago, nobody would have dreamed of devoting two and a half days to discussions on the quality of life in the later years," he said. "At long last, we are moving toward a more intelligent approach to the later years of life.

Important persons

"We are beginning to put that period of life in perspective, without expressions of maudlin sympathy for the 'poor old folk.' Finally, we are looking upon the elderly as people who can continue to relate to all other ages and to make significant contributions to society."

One big problem in the effort to improve the outlook for the aged is the image old people have in the United States. Dr. Daniel T. Peak, a psychiatrist at Duke University's Center for Aging, said the whole concept of aging in America connotes something unpleasant.

"Aging has been presented as one hopeless, unremitting downward drift into despair, deprivation and desolation," said Dr. Eric Pfeiffer, associate director of Duke's Center for Aging. "The images of aging which have been presented in the public media have focused on disease, poverty and social isolation.

Aged have problems

"To be sure, the plight of the aged exists. It is real. It is painfully real for many aged persons themselves, for their families and for those who, vocationally or avocationally, have a role in caring for the aged."

But Pfeiffer said bad news about aging has been common too long. He said the U.S. has allowed the aging experience to become a national disgrace.

"I would like to see us here in Chicago start a small boomlet for making the aging experience not a national disgrace, but a cause for national celebration."

There are more than 30 million Americans who are 60 years old or older.

For too long, Nash said, the emphasis has been on the group of older Americans in need of protective services of the government and institutions. They should be helped, he said, but it is time to pay attention to the much larger group of elderly who are eager and able to give creatively to society.

Succesful youth

Peak contended that successful aging is a result of a successful youth. But he said if one has arrived into his later years somewhat tarnished by his earlier days, it is not too late to begin to change his ways.

"We have become conditioned to accept the idea that growth and development stops when one reaches the early adults," he said. "This social delusion we have that development stops is an all too common occurrence."

A key issue of aging, said Dr. Carl Eisdorfer, is the reintegration of older people into society. He says the retired make up a largely untapped pool of talent which could contribute effectively to American society. Yet, he said the nation does not have a strategy for utilizing the capabilities of the aged.

"We're so busy protecting jobs at the front end that we're almost cavalier about cutting off jobs at the far end," said the chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Gallup says Watergate 'to linger'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pollster George Gallup Jr. predicts the American public will not forget Watergate as easily as it has past scandals and that its effects will linger for many years.

Gallup, attending an American Personnel and Guidance Association convention recently, acknowledged the public tends to forget many incidents after a few years and cited the Chappaquiddick episode as an example.

"Sen. (Ted) Kennedy's popularity took a tailspin after Chappaquiddick," he said, "But he appears to have regained most of that lost ground since 1971."

But Watergate, because of its many ramifications and lengthy time span, will not fade so quickly in the public mind, said Gallup.

He said his regular surveys of the nation show the Republican Party's popularity has dropped to its lowest point among college students since 1967, when his group started polling them as a separate class.

Gallup said that among the population at large, fewer people admit allegiance to the GOP now than since the 1930s.

"Watergate is the key factor in all of this," said Gallup.

"Regardless of the ups and downs, about three out of four people polled believe Nixon was involved to at least some extent in Watergate."

But he admitted the president "gets his major points on foreign policy and this is still holding him in very good stead, actually."

Atlanta mayor: Ford & Brooke bad for Demos

CHICAGO (UPI) — Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson said recently that Democrats "could be in real trouble" with a Republican presidential ticket pairing Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

Jackson, in Chicago to speak at the Chicago State College, had similar forebodings on a Democratic ticket of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Aalabama Gov. George C. Wallace, claiming the combination "would rip the Democratic party apart.

"Wallace could run with 100 Kennedys, and he'd still be George Wallace to black people."

Jackson, 36, the first black elected as mayor in a major southern city, said, "The Democrats could be in real trouble if the Republicans ran Sen. Edward Brooke with Ford."

Woman enjoys job; dumping garbage cans

PORTOLA, Calif. (UPI) — Carol Ross, a 24-year-old blonde, says she gets a lot of compliments on her job but "nobody has whistled at me."

Her work is dumping garbage cans.

Mrs. Ross, who is 5-foot-4, began trash collecting six years ago while dating Portola Garbage Co. owner, Woody Ross.

He jokingly asked her if she would like the job, "so I said I'd try," Mrs. Ross told an interviewer recently.

"I like picking up garbage much better than doing housework," she said. "Woody paid me. $75 a week then. Now it is a joint operation."

Not UFO, only burning trash

CROWLEY, Tex. (UPI) — Reports by citizens of a ball of flame crashing into the farmland in North Central Texas sent Crowley police searching for wreckage recently.

The dispatcher in the Crowley police station said officers found a farmer burning trash in his back lot near Burleson, Tex., located about five miles southeast of Crowley.

"There are no unidentified flying objects," the dispatcher said. "No little green men. And no plane crashes. It's just some sparks from the trash."

"HE IS RISEN!"

". . . I am the resurrection, and the life: He that believeth in Me shall never die." John 11:25.

"Why are you looking among the dead for one who is alive? He is not here; He has been raised. Remember what He said to you while He was in Galilee: 'The Son of Man must be handed over to sinful men, to be nailed to the cross, and rise to life on the third day.'" Luke 24:6-7.

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

Let us put a Want Ad to work for you . . .

DEAR POLLY — It is so hard to press seams open when making young children's slacks so I made myself a small ironing board. DEAR POLLY — I have a neat trick for making 'pulls' in polyester and other such fabrics virtually disappear. Thread both ends of a 10-inch thread through a needle. This makes a loop. THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

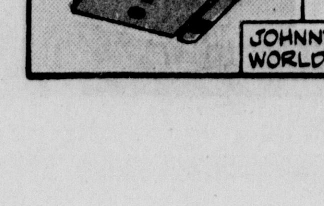
ZINA SIMONS OF WARWICK, BERMUDA, ASKS:

"HOW DO YOU GET A CAVITY?"



AFTER YOU EAT, TINY BITS OF FOOD ARE LEFT BETWEEN YOUR TEETH. IF THESE BITS OF FOOD ARE NOT BRUSHED AWAY, THEY MAY FORM ACIDS THAT ATTACK THE TOOTH. WHEN THE TOOTH STARTS TO DECAY, WE CAN SEE A SMALL BROWN SPOT THAT WE CALL A CAVITY. UNLESS THE DENTIST CLEANS THE SPOT AWAY, THE DECAY ACIDS WILL EAT RIGHT THROUGH THE HARD TOOTH COVERING TO THE SOFT, SENSITIVE CENTER OF YOUR TOOTH AND GIVE YOU A TOOTHACHE. THE BEST WAY TO HELP PREVENT CAVITIES IS TO BRUSH YOUR TEETH AND RINSE YOUR MOUTH AFTER EVERY TIME YOU EAT.

Doctor tells how he cured hearing flaws

By WILLISTON WIRT

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF DR. SAMUEL ROSEN, Alfred Knopf $9.95

(Williston Wirt, is a staff member of Pomona Public Library.)

Mystery buffs are aware that no matter how farfetched the who-dun-it plot, it never actually happened. Well, here is a true-life plot that really did happen!

To me, it proved as exciting as any of the mysteries at the Pomona Public Library! It tells how Dr. Rosen, operating on mastoids and other ear troubles, happened to be operating on a young man of 20 he calls "Edward Lawrence". As he probed with his instrument, suddenly hearing was restored for his patient. Dr. Rosen "was thunderstruck!"

Realizing that this was a new development , Dr. Rosen knew he was in for a long period of experimentation; not on live bodies, but on dead ones. So for months he worked with the ears of cadavers, training his fingers and exercising his mind to discover the secret of malfunctioning hearing.

He had special instruments made, and when at last his experiments on live humans was undertaken, the results

Book on Daley's Chicago falls short of the target

By NICHOLAS C. POLOS

AN AMERICAN VERDICT by Michael J. Arlen. Doubleday, $6.95.

In his excellent and recent book The Plundered Past, Karl Meyer writes: "The past is an interest without a constituency; it has no effective lobby. . .the past is menaced by the very civilization that has evolved from it."

(Nicholas C. Polos is assocate professor of history at La Verne College).

Arlen's book is a form of a reportorial lobby. However, the reader is never sure which lobby he is standing in.

This little book is about Mayor Daley's Chicago. More specifically it is the story of the trial that took place after two members of the Black Panther Party were killed in Chicago (December 1969), and others wounded, by gunfire from a raiding party of police who had been sent by the Cook County State's Attorney.

The surviving Panthers said that the two men had been murdered, while the 12 policemen argued that they had fired in self-defense.

The "American Verdict" is about the trial of the Cook County State's Attorney and the 12 policemen. The story has a familiar ring to those of us who know the recent history of law enforcement in the City of the Angels.

While David Halberstam contends that "An American Verdict" is "a singularly important book about life in America," the reader will soon find that although there is more than enough powerful drama to satisfy even a Tolstoi, the subject is really not monumental, primarily because the overtone of a strident indictment of racism permeates and clouds the author's objectivity that reduces the subject or theme to one of polemic legalism.

This is unfortunate because Arlen is a gifted writer, a superb reporter "with a cosmic itch," to weave a large tapestry out of a few strands of thread.

Granted that Chicago with its naive game of "Cops and-or Robbers," may not be the supportive model of American constitutionalism, the implication that the entire society is sick, cannot possibly be extrapolated from one legal verdict.

Yeats once said all there is to say about regional writing: "the core of a thing must be local or national and yet infinitely translatable."

It is very difficult to translate Arlen's message. Ever since the days of the famous and infamous Gunfight at the O.K. Corral we know that a shoot-out often results in deadly cold statistics just as in a war truth becomes the first casualty.

Arlen's attempt to move the events out of the "twi-light zone" into what he considers the cold light of reportorial reality is without basis of proof, or the foundation of fact. He wears his political views upon his sleeve, and plays his cards as though he were holding the entire deck in his one hand!

Jesus viewed as threat to establishment

JESUS IN BAD COMPANY by Adolf Holl Holt, Rinehart and Winton $5.95.

This interpretation of Jesus, by the Catholic chaplain of the University of Vienna, describes Jesus not as a superstar but as a social misfit.

He says, "Jesus stood the traditional class system on its head, with its attendant apparatus of status symbols and prestige-seeking. His attacks against all rigidity and authoritarianism made him a true stumbling block to all forms of authority—paternal, bureaucratic, educational, economic, and military."

In support of this thesis, the author states that Jesus rejected his family. "In the virgin birth, we have a very old and successful attempt to emancipate Jesus from everything to do with family —and sexuality."

He says Jesus turned his back on the temple as God's dwelling place. "The stable at Bethlehem has links not with the priests and their temple in Jerusalem, but rather with the open country of the nomad; it reminds us of the God who wanted no roof over his head."

And he points to the companions Jesus chose — itinerant shepherds, lowly fishermen, despised tax gatherers, women of no reputation. He further states, "in historic terms, it is doubtful if Jesus regarded his last meal with his disciples as the beginning of a Christian cult."

We are told that this book is a "surprising new European best seller". In America, one doubts, its message will stir up much enthusiasm, since it postulates a Jesus with who few will agree.

Writer uses Malcolm X in search to end racial strife

By JOHN K. ROTH

ONE DAY, WHEN I WAS LOST, by James Baldwin. The Dial Press, $7.50.

Americans are plagued by problems. Prices rise. Watergate drones on. Gas station lines may shorten, but there is really no end in sight for frustration and inconvenience, corruption and tragedy.

(John K. Roth is professor of philosophy at Claremont Men's College.)

Apparently we must get used to the idea that life is one headache after another. Even old issues which may now treat us with benign neglect are sure to demand attention again.

Tensions between blacks and whites have not been headline issues in recent months. Nonetheless, "One Day, When I was Lost" makes timely reading. It prevents us from forgetting that racial questions still smoulder under a surface calm which holds momentarily in this area of our national life.

Two important Americans are brought together in this book Both are black. Each has much to say about future life in the United States. An eloquent and influential writer, James Baldwin, has taken Malcolm, a dynamic and insightful leader, as his subject.

The book is a screenplay, based on the widely read autobiography which Malcolm X wrote with the assistance of Alex Haley. Malcolm X was dead before either book appeared, assassinated in 1965 by rival blacks who mistrusted his vision and his growing power.

With minor exceptions, Baldwin accurately follows "The Autobiography of Malcolm X." We see the progression that leads to martyrdom.

As a boy, Malcom Little, son of a militant black preacher who was killed by whites, watches his family disintegrate under the pressures of racial prejudice and injustice. He seeks his fortune in Boston and New York. Hustling leads to drugs, crime, and prison.

Behind bars, he rediscovers books, undergoes religious conversion. He emerges as a reformed man, dedicated to the Black Muslim faith. Malcolm X becomes a Muslin minister.

Militantly opposed to white power, he works to cultivate a sense of black pride and hope. Rejecting Martin Luther King's philosophy of nonviolent resistance, Malcolm X and the Black Muslims strike fear in white hearts no less than they encourage and strengthen black spirits.

From start to finish, Malcolm X was a man in search of himself Thus, his own journey of self-discovery does not cease even when he attains a position of influence in the Black Muslim movement.

He makes a pilgrimage to Mecca and travels widely in Africa. As Malcolm X sees diverse ethnic and racial groups united as brothers in the Islamic faith, his own concept of brotherhood broadens.

He remains suspicious of Christinaity and white inten-

Special help is trademark at Wellins

POMONA — Special services such as ear piercing for men and women are part of the personal touch offered at Larry Wellins Jewelers, 1595 Pomona Valley Center Mall.

"We're the first store locally to offer ear piercing and free engraving on the premises," says owner Larry Wellins. Watch repairing and custom-made mountings are other featured services at the facility.

Wellins' second store opened late last year, and has been doing a "booming business," he indicates. A longtime Pomona resident and jeweler, he has been operating on Pomona Mall East since 1963.

The new store, located just west of Sears Roebuck and Co., was designed and decorated by Wellins' wife, Fran.

Tim Cordry, the manager, has been a Pomona resident for 43 years and attended local schools.

Wellins, a former president of the Pomona school board and still active in civic affairs, says he offers a tradition of fine services not equalled by anyone.

Included in his stock are Keepsake diamonds, and well-advertised watches such as Longines, Bulova, Wittnauer, Mathey-Tissot and Accutron.

Custom jewlery such as Trifari, Eisenberg ice and Marcell Boucher also is available at the store, along with a complete selection of 14-carat gold earrings, charms, lockets and identification bracelets. Genuine emeralds and rubies may also be purchased.

April is "Diamond Month," Wellins has been reminding his customers. One of the personal touches offered at the store is the time spent helping patrons find the "right" engagement ring.

Wellins claims to have the "largest selection of diamonds in the Pomona Valley."

He also prides himself on serving a "second generation" of customers. "We sold to the parents, and now we're servicing the kids."

Watch repairing at the store is done by Chuck Huber, who has logged some 40 years of experience.

One reason for opening a second store, says Wellins, was because "We feel Pomona has a future and we'd like to give patrons service in the evenings."

The PVC facility is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays and Fridays, and 10 to 6 other days, except Sunday.

Fremont students win speech honors

POMONA — Two girls and two boys, all eighth graders at Fremont Junior High School, have won trophies in oratorical contests conducted by the Pomona Breakfast Optimist Club.

"This is the first oratorical honor Fremont has ever had," said assistant principal Melvin E. Banks. "The whole school is very proud."

The winners

Cathy Hobart, 13, of Pomona, won first place in the girls' category. She is eligible to speak in zone competitions April 17 at Cal Poly.

Joyce Flohr, 13, of Pomona, was first runnerup in the girls' category and is alternate to the finals. Miss Flohr said a friend, Yvonne Govea, who is a student at Fremont, helped prepare her speech.

Terrence Magee, 14, of Pomona was first runnerup in the boys' division and is an alternate in the finals.

Robert Cummings, 14, of Pomona, was a third runnerup in the boys' division.

Recognition

All four students were awarded trophies, plaques bearing the Optimists' creed, and certificates.

They said school counselor Betty Shorr and teachers Agatha Maitland and Ora Kruger helped them in public speaking.

The subject on which all students spoke was "I'm Just One."

Three Bonita coeds honored by San Dimas Women's Club

JULIE MISHLER

By KITTY WOODALL
Bonita Reporter

The San Dimas Women's Club recently honored three Bonita coeds, Julie Mishler, Kimberly Myers, and Kitty Woodall, for academic achievement and participation in extra-curricular activities in high school.

A luncheon was held in their honor at the San Dimas Civics Center. Mildred Bernstein, Bonita girl's vice principal, accompanied them to the event.

Miss Mishler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mick Mishler of College Lane, was selected by the scholarship committee to receive the $100 award. She has been an active member of California Scholarship Federation and the Chamber Singers. She has participated in drama and dancing productions and the Methodist's Church Fellowship Youth Group. She plans to attend Cal Poly next fall and will either major in English or pursue a career in the medical profession.

Law career

Miss Myers, the daughter of Jack Myers and Joyce Delaware of Mildred Street, has been a participant in the Mentally Gifted Minors Program for the past two years. She has been a member of Job's Daughters, CSF president, and Future Teachers of America secretary. She plans to attend Pomona College in Claremont as a political science major and eventually become a lawyer.

Miss Woodall's hobbies include art work and writing. She has been CSF secretary and vice president; FTA treasurer and president; and Foreign Exchange Club president and historian for two years. She is currently serving as the ASB historian and was secretary of Clubs and Communications last year. She has been involved in speech and essay contests. She has been accepted by La Verne and Scripps colleges and will major in English with a concentration in the area of journalism.

Chaffey writers advance

Four journalism students from Chaffey High School in Ontario have qualified for the 1974 Southern California Journalism Education Association Write-offs.

The competition will be held April 27, at Santa Fe High School in Santa Fe Springs.

The qualifying Chaffey students are Doug Hollaway, fourth in sports writing; Rick Antonio, seventh in sports; David McFadden, 10th in editorials; and Kim Hams, eight in features.

The Chaffey team placed fifth in sweepstakes.

FFA winners at Nogales

Four Nogales High School students received second place awards and two received first place awards in the 20th annual Future Farmers of America Farm Program competition sponsored by Security Pacific Bank.

The top winners were Henry Cisneros, who won with a horticulture project, and Jackie Sullivan, who won in animal husbandry.

Second place winners were Edward Wage, Steve Reed and Lee Wentworth, in horticulture; and Kevin Stueve, in dairying.

Elks award two $25 scholarships

Julianne Elizabeth Vagnozzi, a senior at Pomona Catholic High School, and Peter Ivan Hill, a senior at Claremont High School, have been awarded third-place, $25 scholarship savings bonds by Pomona Elks Lodge.

JULIANNE VAGNOZZI

They were honored at a recognition dinner held at the Elks Lodge. In addition to the bonds, they were presented framed certificates. Elmer F. Lemke is the Elks scholarship chairman.

Miss Vagnozzi plans to tend Cal Poly, major in li al studies and eventually tain a multi-subject crede to teach grade school.

Hill plans to enroll at University of Colorado obtain a degree in langu arts or English.

Miss Vagnozzi's parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V nozzi. Hill is the son of and Mrs. Cecil L. Hill.

New classes teach boys to cook, sew

Are "Bachelor Survival Courses" the American male teen ager's answer to the liberated woman?

Hundreds of such courses are being offered this semester in public high schools throughout the country, and the schools report heavy enrollment.

In some schools they're called "bachelor living." Others have labeled them "bachelor pad" or "independent living." Usually they're sponsored by the schools' home economics departments.

Boys are taught to cook, sew on buttons, iron, use the washing machine, make minor clothing and appliance pairs, polish furniture, flo and silverware, budget mo and buy intelligently.

Give parties

They also learn how to tertain.

Good grooming is ofte part of the curriculum.

Educators feel the bache survival courses, while r tively new, are providing formation that will be hel to the teen agers long a their bachelor days are ov

A future course the b might sign up for could called "What girls consi most desirable in a prosp tive husband."

Strong self image helpful at parting

The more a girl really likes herself, the easier it is for her to bounce back from a break-up.

According to an article in the April Seventeen, it has to hurt, especially if he's the one who wants it, but girls who are secure in themselves as individuals have the least trouble recovering.

Those who feel they are unattractive without a friend, or who build t lives around him, are ones who suffer most.

Breaking up isn't a g time for anybody. Howe there are ways to avoid m ing it worse. First, d blame yourself. Second, d try to persuade him to cha his mind. Third, don't spr mean stories about him.

1937 CLASSIC—A STAR IS BORN

Fredric March and Janet Gaynor will, once again, appear together in "A Star Is Born," the 1937 version of the classic film, a KTTV Special airing Sunday at 6:30PM on Channel 11. "A Star Is Born," is the story of a screen idol whose rapidly slipping popularity becomes secondary to his interest in a young country girl . . . March stars as the idol, Norman Maine—Janet Gaynor as the girl whose talents are to carry her to fame and fortune far beyond any he ever knew. They fall in love and marry—and the resulting drama is inevitable.

Filmed on location at the popular celebrity gathering places of the Thirties, "A Star Is Born," is a nostalgic look at the Hollywood of 40 years ago. The world famous Trocadero, The Brown Derby, Grauman's Chinese Theatre, Santa Anita Race Track, The Hollywood Bowl, The Hollywood Legion Stadium, The Biltmore Bowl during the annual Academy Awards presentation—and the corner of Hollywood and Vine are locations popular then . . . "A Star Is Born" was produced by David O. Selznick, directed by William A. Wellman and costumed by Omar Kiam.

EVA MARIE SAINT: THE HISTORIC CHALLENGE

When Eva Marie Saint was cast in the role of Edith Bolling Wilson, wife of the 28th President of the United States, in "The First Woman President," hour-long drama special airing Sunday at 9:30PM on CBS, she faced some major artistic challenges. How does a slender, blonde actress of medium height convincingly portray a very tall, buxom, dark-haired lady who was a real significant character in America's history?

"With a little help from my friends the technical artists," says Miss Saint, "and a tremendous assist from Edith Wilson herself." When she received the assignment, the actress admits that she knew very little about Mrs. Wilson. "After reading the script, I went to the library and set myself a cram course on the history of the period. Then I read Edith Wilson's Memoirs—a fascinating book. Even though our show has already been taped, I am still reading and re-reading that book," she says. "The more you read about a person, the more you develop a personal feeling about that person. As an actress, I formed the character from reading—formed it in my mind and with the empathy that developed between us."

A large part of that empathy, Miss Saint explains, came from the little, intimate glimpses the Memoirs gave her into the everday habits, the likes and dislikes, the emotional reactions of Edith Wilson. "That knowledge is what fills in the gaps and brings the person to life as a three-dimensional human being," she continues.

"For instance, I read that Edith loved orchids. I mentioned that to our art director, Robert Tyler Lee. (That's where the friends come in.) When we began the actual shooting of the show, he had added bowls of orchids to the completed set—on tables and in Mrs. Wilson's private quarters. In a significant way, they made me feel more 'at home' with her. "I also read that she was especially fond of opals. I have an opal pin that was given to me by my father. I had never worn it—but I found it, and wore it all through the show."

The physical resemblances, Miss Saint believes, are unimportant compared to the delineation of the character. "We made no attempt to make me look like Mrs. Wilson," she explains, "except for careful attention to the details of costume and hairdress (by more helpful friends) that correctly reflect the fashion of the time. "We are doing a drama, not a documentary, so we have considerable license. What we attempt to portray is Mrs. Wilson, the woman . . . not a physical portrait."

Eva Marie Saint and Richard Basehart star in "The First Woman President," a drama special focusing on the political circumstances which surrounded President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson after the President suffered a sudden breakdown in 1919.

'THE LAST ANGRY MAN'

The place is Brooklyn and the time is the mid-1930's. A frustrated but good-hearted medical doctor attempts to save the life of a young petty thief in Screen Gems' "The Last Angry Man," the ABC Movie of the Week, Tuesday at 8:30PM. This film also serves as a pilot for a projected hour long series on ABC.

Pat Hingle stars as Dr. Samuel Abelman, a long time resident in an ethnically-mixed lower middle class neighborhood in Brooklyn. Sam is bewildered by the things that are happening around him. An inspector wants to cut his tree down because "the roots are too big"; hospitals won't admit dying patients until forms are filled out; his own patients refuse to pay him; and the young galoots ("a guy who thinks the world owes him a living") are stealing wallets. He wants to move out of the area and into the nicer section, as his friend and fellow M.D., Max Vogel, has done. His wife, Sarah, and 16-year old daughter, Eunice, have often heard his desire to move, but know he won't do it. Fancy offices and paid up patients aren't his style.

When Dr. Abelman learns that a neighborhood "galoot," Frankie Parelli, has been having convulsions, he talks Dr. Vogel into running some tests on Frankie (via his expensive equipment), despite Vogel's objections when he recognizes the teenager as the one who recently lifted his wallet. When Frankie is told he's going to be hospitalized, he runs away but is eventually talked into coming out of hiding by Eunice. The diagnosis is not a good one, and some anxious moments for the Parelli family —as well as for Sam Abelman—lie ahead.

Pat Hingle stars as Sam Abelman, a bewildered but likeable medical doctor of the mid-1930's in "The Last Angry Man."

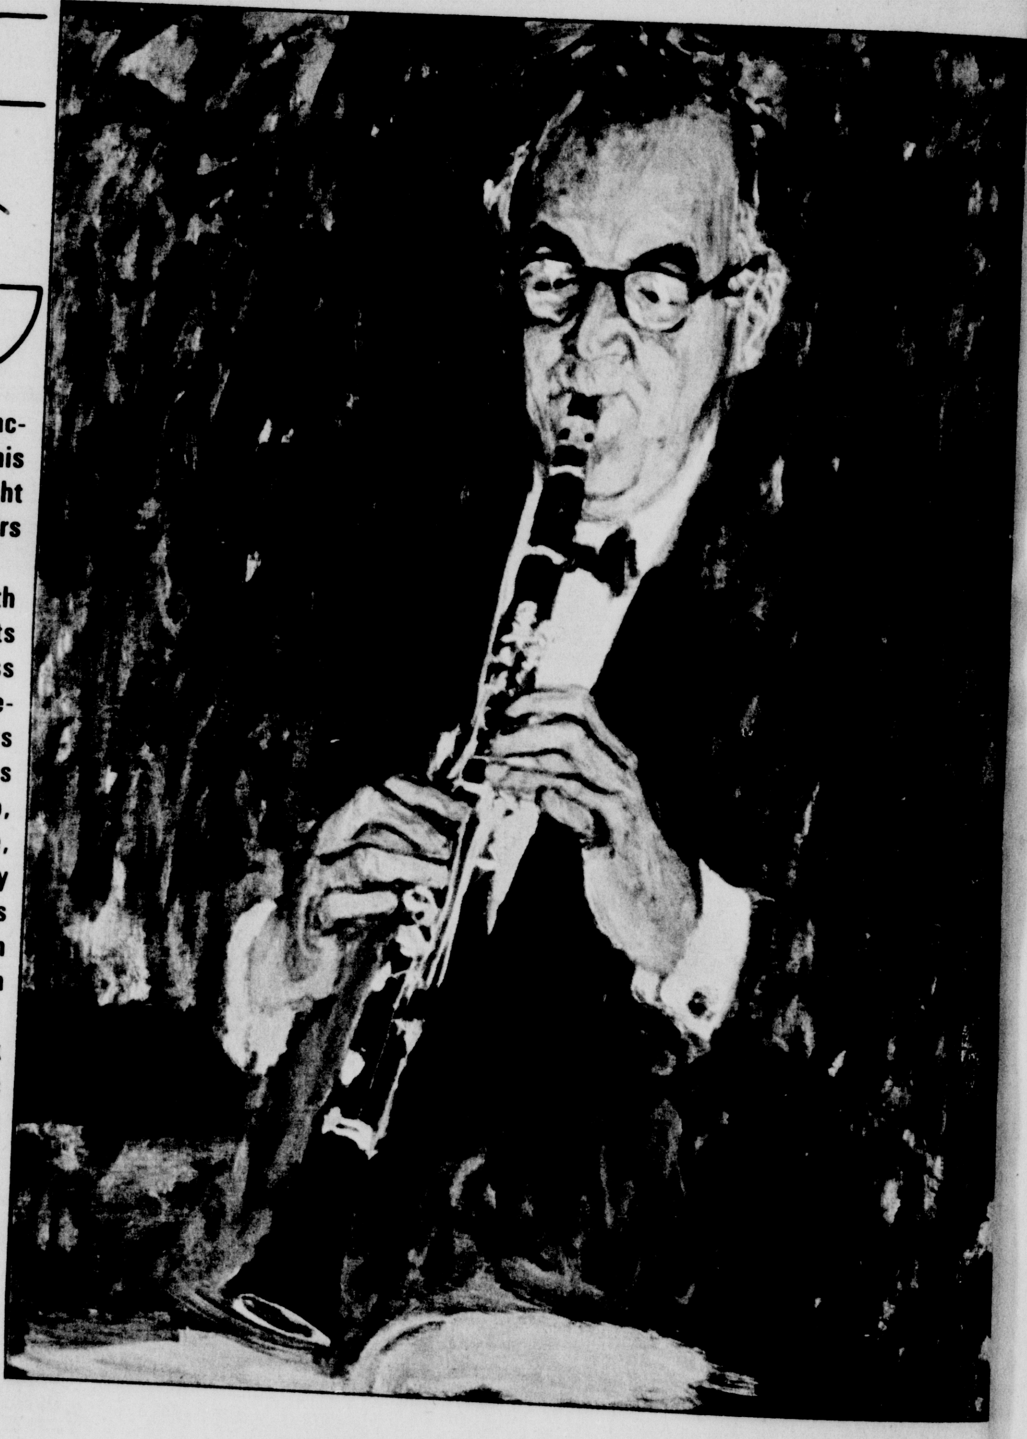
WINTER KILL

As a series of brutal murders moves a mountain resort community toward panic, Andy Griffith, as Chief of Police, desperately searches for the mysterious murderer before he can strike again in "Winter Kill," on the ABC Monday Night Movie at 9PM. Joining Griffith, who plays Chief of Police Sam McNeill, is special guest Sheree North as Betty, a waitress and close friend of Sam's; John Calvin as Patrolman Jerry Troy; and Louise Latham as Doris Clayton, Sam's switchboard operator. Guest-starring are John Larch as Dr. Hammond; Tim O'Connor as Bill Carter; Lawrence Pressman as Peter Lockhard; Eugene Roche as the town mayor, Clinton Bickford; Charles Tyner as Charley, and Joyce Van Patten as Grace Lockhard. Elayne Heilveil is seen as Cynthia.

KING OF SWING



Benny Goodman, the universally acknowledged King of Swing, stars in his own television Special, "Monsanto Night Presents Benny Goodman," which airs Sunday at 8:30PM, KTTV Channel 11.

Airing just six weeks prior to his 65th (May 30) birthday, Goodman's guests include Mel Torme, British songstress Cleo Laine, in her American variety television show debut, and a host of greats from the jazz world, including: Ms. Laine's husband, John Dankworth; Red Norvo, Slam Stewart, Hank Jones, Grady Tate, Bobby Hackett, Zoot Sims and Bucky Pizzarelli. A special attraction is Benny's daughter Rachel, who joins her father on "Grand Duo Concertant," at the Goodman home in Stamford, Conn.

Filmed entirely on location in New York City and Stamford, the hour-long music show includes a Carnegie Hall concert segment which marks the 36th anniversary of Goodman's record-breaking jazz concert there in 1938.

TV WEEK'S COVER CLOSE-UP

'BEST SEAT IN THE HOUSE'

The "billboard" motto heard each weekend tells the story: "Spanning the globe to bring you the constant variety of sport, the thrill of victory, the agony of defeat, the human drama of athletic competition."

It's ABC's Wide World of Sports, the nation's most popular regularly-scheduled television sports program, and one of the longest and most successful ventures in broadcasting history (Saturdays, 5-6:30 PM).

Americans are an increasingly sports conscious people, and for 13 years since the series was conceived by Executive Producer Roone Arledge, President of ABC Sports, young and old, men and women alike, have been attracted in growing numbers to the unique 'Wide World' presentations.

Part of the appeal of ABC's Wide World of Sports is its sheer diversity. Each telecast consists of from one to three separate segments, depending upon the nature of the sports being covered. And the competition covers the spectrum of sport, from World Heavyweight Championship fights, to the Indianapolis and Daytona "500" auto races, to World Figure Skating Championships, World Swimming and Diving Championships, Little League World Series, World Wristwrestling Championships, and daredevil Evel Knievel's death-defying motorcycle leaps . . . more than 100 different types of sport to date.

'Wide World' is international in scope. During the past year (editor's note: calendar 1973), for example, the program went to 25 states and more than 15 foreign countries to present exclusive network television coverage of the premier competitions across the spectrum of sport.

And, this January, ABC introduced a new Sunday version (3:30-5PM) of Wide World of Sports, following the same format and including additional coverage of new and different sporting events. This Sunday afternoon 'Wide World' was planned to be a winter replacement program, and will go off the air this month. But, speculation is strong that the Sunday edition will return to the airways again next year. In its brief run, the program has already attracted twice as many viewers as the National Basketball Association telecasts and a whopping three times as many as the National Hockey League programs.

Yet another reason for 'Wide World's' success has been its skillful blending of some of television's best-known and most-honored sportscasters with guest experts and color commentators who have been stand-out performers in their respective sports. Series host of "Wide World of Sports" is Jim McKay, who has won two Emmys from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for "outstanding individual achievement in sports," and other honors including the prestigious George Polk Memorial Award.

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS

Joining McKay on the ABC Sports broadcast team are many of the finest broadcasters in their field, among them Keith Jackson, Bill Flemming, Chris Schenkel, Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford.

'Wide World's' list of guest experts reads like a "Who's Who" of sports greats past and present. Commenting on their sports specialties for home viewers have been Muhammad Ali, world driving champion Jackie Stewart and racing superstar Stirling Moss, Marty Liquori and Bob Seagren on track and field, Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain on basketball, O.J. Simpson, Joe Namath and the late Coach Vince Lombardi on football, Donna De Verona on swimming, Dick Button and Carol Heiss on skating, Mickey Mantle and Ted Williams on baseball, and many more.

Yet another key to 'Wide World's' popularity is the philosophy that "there is no such thing as a minor sport."

As Roone Arledge puts it, "If men and women can devote ten or twenty years of their lives to a sport, then certainly ABC can devote ten or twenty minutes to that sport."

The result is that the series has given viewers superb coverage to the broadest range of sports, and, in the bargain, has introduced many of those sports to millions of new fans and participants.

ABC's Wide World of Sports combines the excitement of competition with the color and spectacle of the events themselves and a healthy mix of background facts and information not only about sports, but about the many lands and regions where they are played, and about the people who play them.

For the casual viewer and the true sports buff alike, "ABC's Wide World of Sports" is the next best thing to the best seats in the house—and, often, it's even better.

'A FIGHT FOR INDIAN CENTER'

An Indian deputy sheriff in New Mexico aids an Indian girl's civic group in their battle to save an old mission, slated for an historical center, from destruction by a large corporation in "Nakia," Screen Gems' 90-minute Movie of the Week for ABC, airing Wednesday at 8:00PM. The film is a pilot for a projected hour-long drama series for ABC.

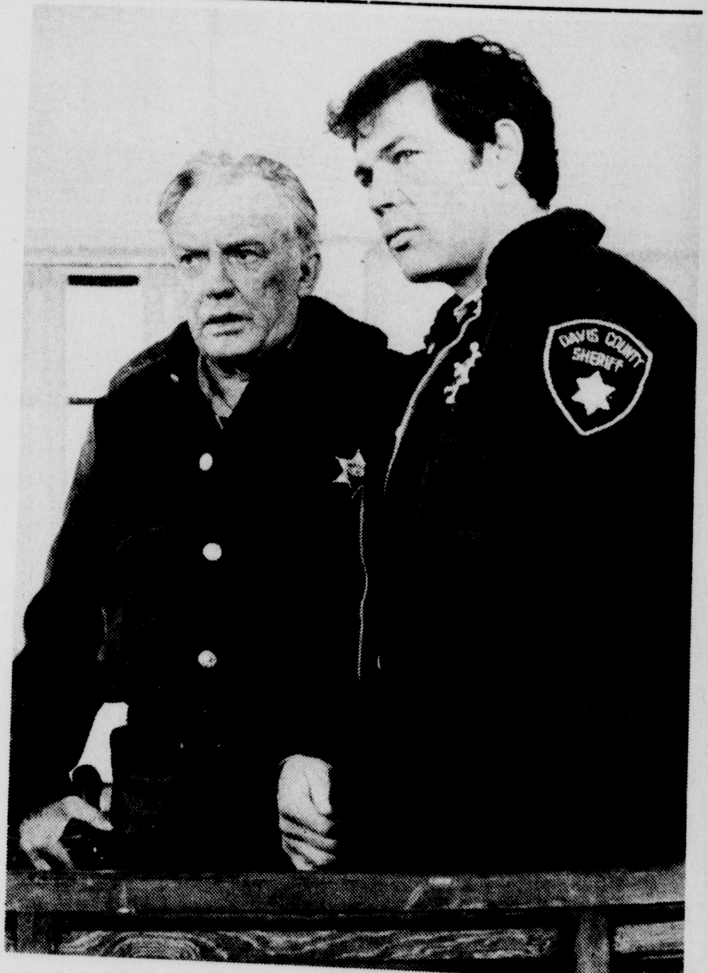
Starring in the title role of the deputy sheriff, Nakia Parker, is Robert Forster. Co-starring is Arthur Kennedy as Sheriff Jericho and Linda Evans as the town attorney, Samantha Lowell. Also cast in the television movie are Stephen McNally, George Nader, Taylor Lacher, Maria-Elena Cordero, Joe Kapp, Barbara Sigel, Chris Stone, Robert Donner, Joe Renteria, Jed Horner Jr., Helene Nelson and George Clutesi.

Conflict in the drama is between an interested citizen's group led by a young Indian girl, Diana Little Eagle (Maria-Elena Cordero), who wish to save an ancient mission in a New Mexico town for an Institute of Southwest Studies; and local businessman Alvah Chambers (Stephen McNally) who stands to profit handsomely if he can get the land turned over to a large corporation wanting to build a factory on the property. Nakia sympathizes with the civic group, particularly when Chambers uses strong harrassing tactics against the group. But Nakia is frustrated because his badge prevents him from taking sides.

Finally, following a town council meeting at which the Indian group apparently loses their battle, even though the town attorney (Linda Evans) sympathizes with their aims, Nakia turns in his badge to Sheriff Jericho (Arthur Kennedy). He then goes into the desert to converse with an old Indian shaman (George Clutesi). While returning to town he is attacked by four of Chambers' henchmen who leave him unconscious.

Recovered, and after a painful struggle through the desert back to town, he arrives in time to find an unruly mob about to storm the mission where the Indian group is staging a sit-in as a final protest to save it from the bulldozers. Nakia and Jericho then face Chambers in a decisive confrontation.

"Nakia" was filmed entirely on location in New Mexico with sites including Albuquerque's Old Town, Ysleta Pueblo and Sandoval County Court House in Bernallilo. The old mission is the 150 year ol ruins of San [illegible]dro church, which, until recently was used as a theater.



Robert Forster (right), starring in the title role, and co-star Arthur Kennedy form a law team in "Nakia."

'NBC NEWS PRESENTS: YOU'RE TOO FAT!'

There are 70 million overweight Americans and at any given time, between 10 and 20 million are involved in diets or activities designed to remove the excess poundage. The universal problem is the subject of a one-hour documentary, "NBC News Presents: You're Too Fat!", airing Sunday at 10PM.

Paul Cunningham, producer and reporter for the program, went from coast to coast to interview some of the nation's leading authorities on obesity, at such universities as Harvard, Yale, Stanford, U.C.L.A., Johns Hopkins and Columbia. While simple diet and exercises are sufficient in weight loss for most people, Mr. Cunningham learned about some highly exotic methods of reducing.

News Correspondent Paul Cunningham interviews 345-pound patient, Mrs. Jill Bacon, at Clinical Studies Center, Harbor General Hospital, Los Angeles, Calif.

"There's a bypass operation," he reports, "in which 90 percent of the intestine is shunted aside. There's a hospital ward where men are virtually starved for as long as four months. And there are cases where an extract from the urine of pregnant women is injected into both men and women."

Many people believe their excess weight is due to metabolic or glandular disorders. Apparently, that is a false premise, true in less than 10 percent of the cases. The basal metabolism in most humans is similar, and any changes usually occur after a person becomes over weight.

Moreover, the number of cells people carry through their lives is determined before they are five years old. The establishment of these cells may begin before birth. If a person is fat as a child, he has a 90 percent chance of being fat as an adult. Thus, some people must diet all their lives. But automatic, painless diets may be part of the future. Researchers hope some day to isolate a substance that will trigger the hypothalamus of the brain to release fat stores.

The program develops the point that for loss of weight, a person must not only diet, but must change, or modify, an entire life style. Experiments in behavior modification, along with diet, have produced the most promising results. Also, there is a new emphasis on exercise, which must become a regular part of one's life. Occasional exercise doesn't help. There is general agreement on one basic fact—if a person is between 10 and 20 pounds overweight, he has a 15 percent chance of shortening his life span.

Red Buttons, as the delightful "Alexander," doffs his hat to the little town he calls home—where three lucky children share exciting adventures with him—in the ABC Afterschool Special, Wednesday at 4:30PM.

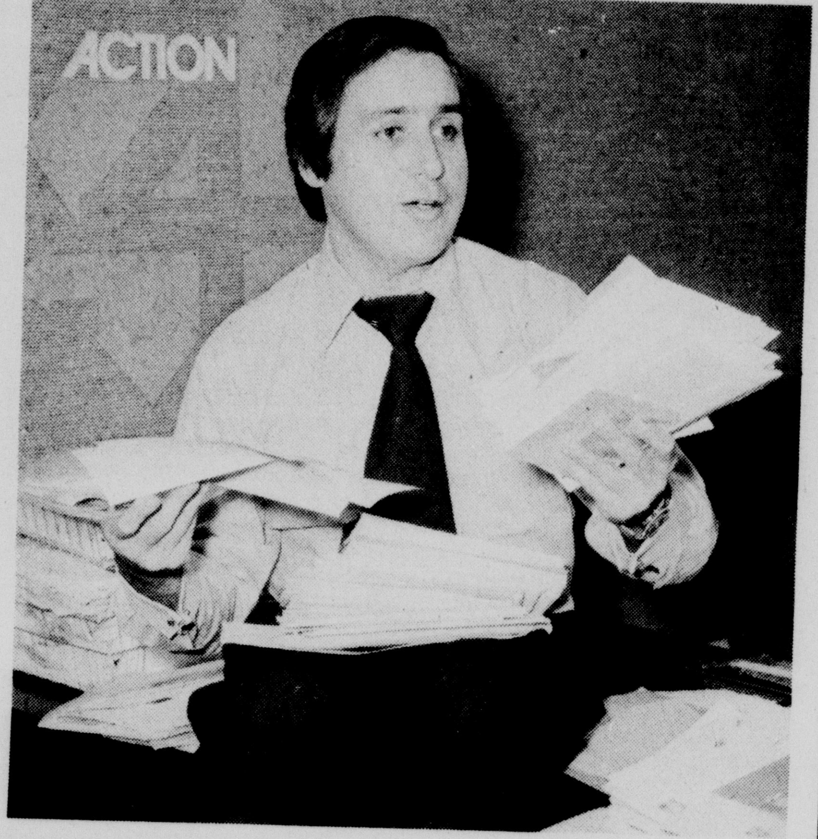
Fred MacMurray and Kathleen Maguire star as a man and wife fighting to hold their family together under the pressures of modern life in "The Chadwick Family," the concluding film in the "Special Wednesday Double Feature Movie of the Week" on ABC at 9:30PM.

YEAR ONE FOR 'ACTION 4'

In March, 1973, KNBC/Channel 4 inaugurated its consumer ombudsman service, Action 4, as a regular feature on the 5PM KNBC Newservice. One year and over 50,000 letters later, the program, helmed by consumer reporter David Horowitz, celebrates its first year anniversary with a million-dollar success record.



Money that had been retrieved for viewers has ranged from 79¢ for a defective oven thermometer, to $12,000 for a disability claim. ACTION 4 has also been responsible for obtaining new cars for four dissatisfied car-buyers; while others have taken the money that ACTION 4 has received for them and turned it over to charity.

During its year of operation, ACTION 4 has also paved the way for legislative reforms. As the result of one viewers complaint, ACTION 4 uncovered an outdated city charter provision, which failed to recognize the peacetime veteran in its ten-point benefit plan. Councilman Ed Edelman is now proposing a charter revision to include ALL veterans. In other legal action, Assemblyman Robert Cline (R-64th District) is undertaking a bill to require automobile dealers to check with the Department of Motor Vehicles before selling a used car, a proposal suggested by ACTION 4 in an effort to minimize the number of stolen cars in the market.

ACTION 4 has also cooperated with various governmental agencies to uncover cases of illegal operations, which range from violations in automotive repair forms, to false claims by mail order houses.

As it enters its second year, ACTION 4 boasts a reputation as the only consumer service of its scope on any television station in the country. In addition to Horowitz, a six-person staff, composed of Marie Shibuya, Gloria Coodley, Dan Wolf, Arline Sherri Gordon, Dorothy Keyes and Caryn Weiss, perform the behind-the-scenes operations. They hold the responsibility of investigating complaints and answering all the mail that flows into the department. Now widely recognized as, what Horowitz terms, the "court of last resort," ACTION 4 presently brings in mail at the rate of 1500 letters per week, indicating its overwhelming success as a vehicle for consumer action.

LAST OF THE SEASON—The final Bob Hope Special of the '73—'74 season will be colorcast by NBC, Friday at 8:30PM, with Ann-Margret and Bob Newhart as guest stars. The comedy-variety Special will be Hope's annual "vaudeville show", a yearly tradition in recent seasons. Additional guests will be announced shortly. Ann-Margret will do a production number, an excerpt from her nightclub act "Until It's Time For You To Go."

'WAR AND PEACE'

The nine week serialization of what has been called "the greatest novel ever written," Tolstoy's "War and Peace," will be repeated over KCET, Channel 28, beginning Thursday at 9PM. The equivalent in length of seven feature films, "War and Peace," which centers around the invasion of Russia by Napoleon's army in 1812, was adapted by the BBC.

Anthony Hopkins

Morag Hood

The Tolstoy epic, three years in preparation and one in the making, will be shown in a combination format with the first and last installments presented as two-hour specials, and the remaining seven running 90 minutes each.

The large cast, portrayed by some of England's finest actors, includes: Anthony Hopkins as Pierre; Natasha, Morag Hood; Prince Andrei Bolkonsky, Alan Dobie; Nikolai, Sylvester Morand; Maria, Angela Down; Count Rostov, Rupert Davies; Countess Rostova, Faith Brook and Napoleon, David Swift. A thousand men of the Yugoslav army were used in the reconstruction of the battles of Austerlitz, Borodino and the retreat from Moscow, which were filmed in Yugoslavia. Tolstoy's monumental story, with its enormous number of characters, the variety of its actions and scenes, is an accurate portrait of 19th century Russia and its people.

The television dramatization was made by Jack Pulman, the director was John Davies and the producer, David Conroy, whose classic serial productions for BBC include "Vanity Fair", "The Portrait of a Lady", "Nana", Tolstoy's "Resurrection", and the 13 part dramatization of the Jean-Paul Sartre triology "The Roads to Freedom".

AN OPERA IS . . .

An opera is a play in song . . . Fred Rogers writes the opera and his good friend, Metropolitan Opera star John Reardon, makes a special visit to sing it with the characters of the Neighborhood of Make-Believe on KCET, Channel 28, Friday at 11:30AM and 5PM.

The title of the new opera is "All in the Laundry" and is as preposterous as children like some pretend stories to be. It involves a handball—football game, an 18 carat diamond, dirty sheets from an apartment house and the Latrobe Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co., which a rich Miss Morgan (Betty Aberlin) buys for $23,000,000,000,000,000 (23 quadrillion) because she's in love with the sheet washer.

Betty Aberlin appears as "rich Miss Morgan" in the premiere performance of a new children's opera on KCET's Mister Rogers' Neighborhood.

Adult opera buffs who admire John Reardon's rich baritone and who have heard him sing some of the most important roles in modern opera today might have some high good fun listening to him complain about "dirty work, dirty work, all I do is dirty work" to his employer "Lady Elaine" who owns the laundry: "the dirtiest clean place in town."

Fred Rogers firmly believes that music is fun and is a natural part of a child's imaginative play. Grown-up opera is, after all, adult fantasy set to more sophisticated music.

What's more, putting on an opera takes a great deal of co-operation and compromise . . . even in a make-believe neighborhood.

More than any other programs in the Mister Rogers' Neighborhood series the operas are intended for families. Young children will understand the opera better in the company of their parents while the music and drama will offer real pleasure for adults. The humor is always responsive to the interest of school-age children and adolescents.

"See how you can put together a make-believe opera using a lot of people's ideas?" Fred Rogers asks the five million children who watch him faithfully every day. "That's really what playing with others is often about, isn't it?"

"TELE-TALK"

"I saw a man stabbed 17 times;" "I've seen men come in as Jesse James and be Jesse James all day and Marilyn Monroe all night;" "My sister's dead . . . she O.D.'d in January . . ." Southern California viewers may not believe what they hear at first —but, once they realize that the speakers are not actors but incarcerated men—convicts, prisoners, the message is crystal clear. Metromedia Television's KTTV Channel 11 is airing seven 60 second public service announcements—messages produced in association with "Prison Preventers," a crime-deterrent organization of convicts from The California Institution for Men at Chino. The seven one minute messages were totally conceptualized, totally taped, edited and produced by KTTV Broadcast Explorer Scouts.

Airing at various times throughout the day, they were edited down from five hours of tape shot on two occasions when the six participating convicts were brought, under escort, to Channel 11 studios. Racially balanced, each announcement contains the remarks of a black, a brown and a white in varying sequences. The convicts' sentences range from six months to life; their crimes include: forgery, pimping, dealing and possession of dangerous drugs, armed robbery and murder; they range in age from 23 to 55.

The spontaneity achieved in these messages was accomplished by putting a blinder around the red light on the camera and, while most of the Explorers assumed their various production roles, (director, stage manager etc.), one would sit in a chair off camera and "rap" with the convict . . . one to one. In some instances statements were edited for time, otherwise no material is in any way falsified, no subject is off limits and no statement has been censored by any party whatsoever.

Although one of the public service announcements, "About Myself," includes the Explorer questions prompting the answer—it was discovered that most answers were sufficiently clear and prophetic to stand on their own. KTTV Broadcast Explorers—11 have attempted to show convicts as the human beings they are and, in turn, hope all age groups will recognize that very little effort and, in some cases, too little effort can bring about the consequences. Transcripts of all seven announcements will be made available to the public upon request.

Curtis Mayfield is recognized as one of the top performers in the music world currently but he is also known as one of the country's most influential black songwriters. Songs such as "Gypsy Woman," "Amen," "I'm So Proud," "Keep on Pushin'", "People Get Ready," "We're a Winner," "Choice of Colors" and "This Is My Country" have established Mayfield as a major contributor to today's music.

"I was always writing," Curtis recalls. "I was writing when I was 10, I guess. I suppose a lot of it had to do with my mother and grandmother. My mother used to love poetry and would recite poems written by Paul Lawrence Dunbar. My grandmother was a preacher with the Travelling Soul Spiritual Church. These two influences had a lot to do with how I write and why I do write.

I used to write church songs too," says Curtis. "I also used to write gospel and sing in gospel groups. All the tunes I write are very important to me, either through experience or through things I see. That's the way I write—through things I observe, through people and happenings around me. I'm not singing protest, I'm only singing happenings — the actual reality of what's going on around us."

'VARIETY FOR CHILDREN'

The "Make Their Dreams Come True" Variety Telethon '74 will be sponsored April 20 from 11PM through April 21 at 6PM. (Sat-Sun) by the Variety Club of Southern California Tent 25, on KTLA, Channel 5. Monty Hall is host of the first telethon conducted for the benefit of this group which is a chapter of Variety Clubs International, known as "The Greatest Children's Charity in the World," and the Showmen's organization devoted to aiding needy children.

The founding of Variety stems from a warm, charitable incident. A baby girl was found abandoned Christmas Eve, 1927, in the lobby of Pittsburgh's Sheridan Square Theatre. And from this, eleven showmen formed a club to help care for the abandoned baby, who was named Catherine Variety Sheridan. Variety Clubs are now established in 40 major cities throughout the United States, Canada, France, Ireland, Mexico, Israel, the Channel Islands and Puerto Rico. Between Variety and its women's auxiliaries, the total membership now exceeds 11,000. Variety's membership roster embraces all segments of the entertainment industry, the press, and associated industries.

The slogan of Variety Clubs International is "The Heart of Show Business that Helps Needy Children" and the primary reason for Variety's existence is the support of a world wide network of children's charities. Over the years Variety has raised more than $242 million to support hospitals, schools and institutions for children who are ill, handicapped or underprivileged, and for research into obscure children's diseases.

All monies collected in Southern California remain here, and the major projects supported are: the Variety Boys Club in East Los Angeles, the James H. Nicholson Children's Heart Clinic—a pediatric heart center located in the Medical Center of UCLA, under the supervision of Dr. Forrest Adams; the Electronic Limb Bank under Dr. Yoshio Setoguchi, head of the Child Amputee Prosthetics Project at UCLA; Sunshine Coach Program, which provides permanent transportation to various children's institutions; Cedars-Sinai Hospital which is presently developing a medical center that will house a completely self-contained pediatric hospital; the William Thedford Scholarship Fund with awards scholarships to Boys Club members with high scholastic achievements and no financial ability to continue on.

In the Play Therapy Room at UCLA's Medical Center, James H. Nicholson Children's Heart Clinic, little Shelley (Ronda Michele) Burns learns from Dr. Forrest Adams and Roberta Deutschman how things might look in the actual operating room. Caps, masks, operating tables, etc. etc. etc. are presented as "play" in miniature to young patients and the innovative concept seems to take all the fear from the youngsters. Shelley, who will be five in June, was born with a heart defect which will—hopefully—be corrected.

Little Mark Goffeney, who will be five in May, shows Dr. Yoshio Setoguchi how he can open the swing at the UCLA's playground. Mark, born without arms, has been fitted with artificial ones at the Prosthetics Project, UCLA, since birth. Now, for the first time, he gets to try out his new ones which have electronic elbows and permit much more flexibility. He's overjoyed with his "new arms".

GEORGE KENNEDY HOSTS 'FLIM FLAM'

"You're revealing secrets"—"If I heard this once, I heard it fifty times during the year it took to make 'Film Flam'," stated the show's producer, Wayne Thomas. "I had the idea to do a special on the unheralded geniuses of the motion picture and TV business for some time. The special effects men are the wizards who create rain on a summer day; gunfire that doesn't kill; snow that is hot; cars that flip and a million other 'special effects'," continued the producer.

"When I phoned the various movie studios to ask their cooperation I got one of two answers. 'Great' I think they deserve the tribute. And 'Why should we show how it's done?' "

Wayne Thomas continued his perserverance and finally convinced the right people that showing HOW special effects are created would only increase the public's interest in watching television or going to movies. The result of the year's effort can be seen in the Special, "Film Flam," hosted by the Academy Award-winning star, George Kennedy, and airing Sunday at 6PM on KHJ, Channel 9.

There are over thirty incredible examples of film artistry using the special effects from seven different movies including the spectacular "snowstorm" and plane crash scene in Ross Hunter's "Lost Horizon," filmed during summer in the Hollywood Hills, to the making of a $10,000 replica of Ray Milland's head.

Viewers also see why it took $4,000 to rebuild a 1931 Packard to be 'driverless' in Walt Disney's "Charlie & The Angel," how a car was rigged in France to blow up in "HIT," and the safe burning of a house in Jim Garner's film, "They Only Kill Their Masters." KHJ took a crew to Joe Lombardi's special effects studio in Hollywood where they used a 'live' actor in demonstrating the techniques used to knife, shoot, spear and stab actors—without a casualty. An added highlight of the Special is that viewers not only see how special effects are created and achieved, but clips from the motion pictures will be shown to see the finished product on screen.

Walt Baker was executive producer for "Film Flam" which was directed by Jaime Shandera.

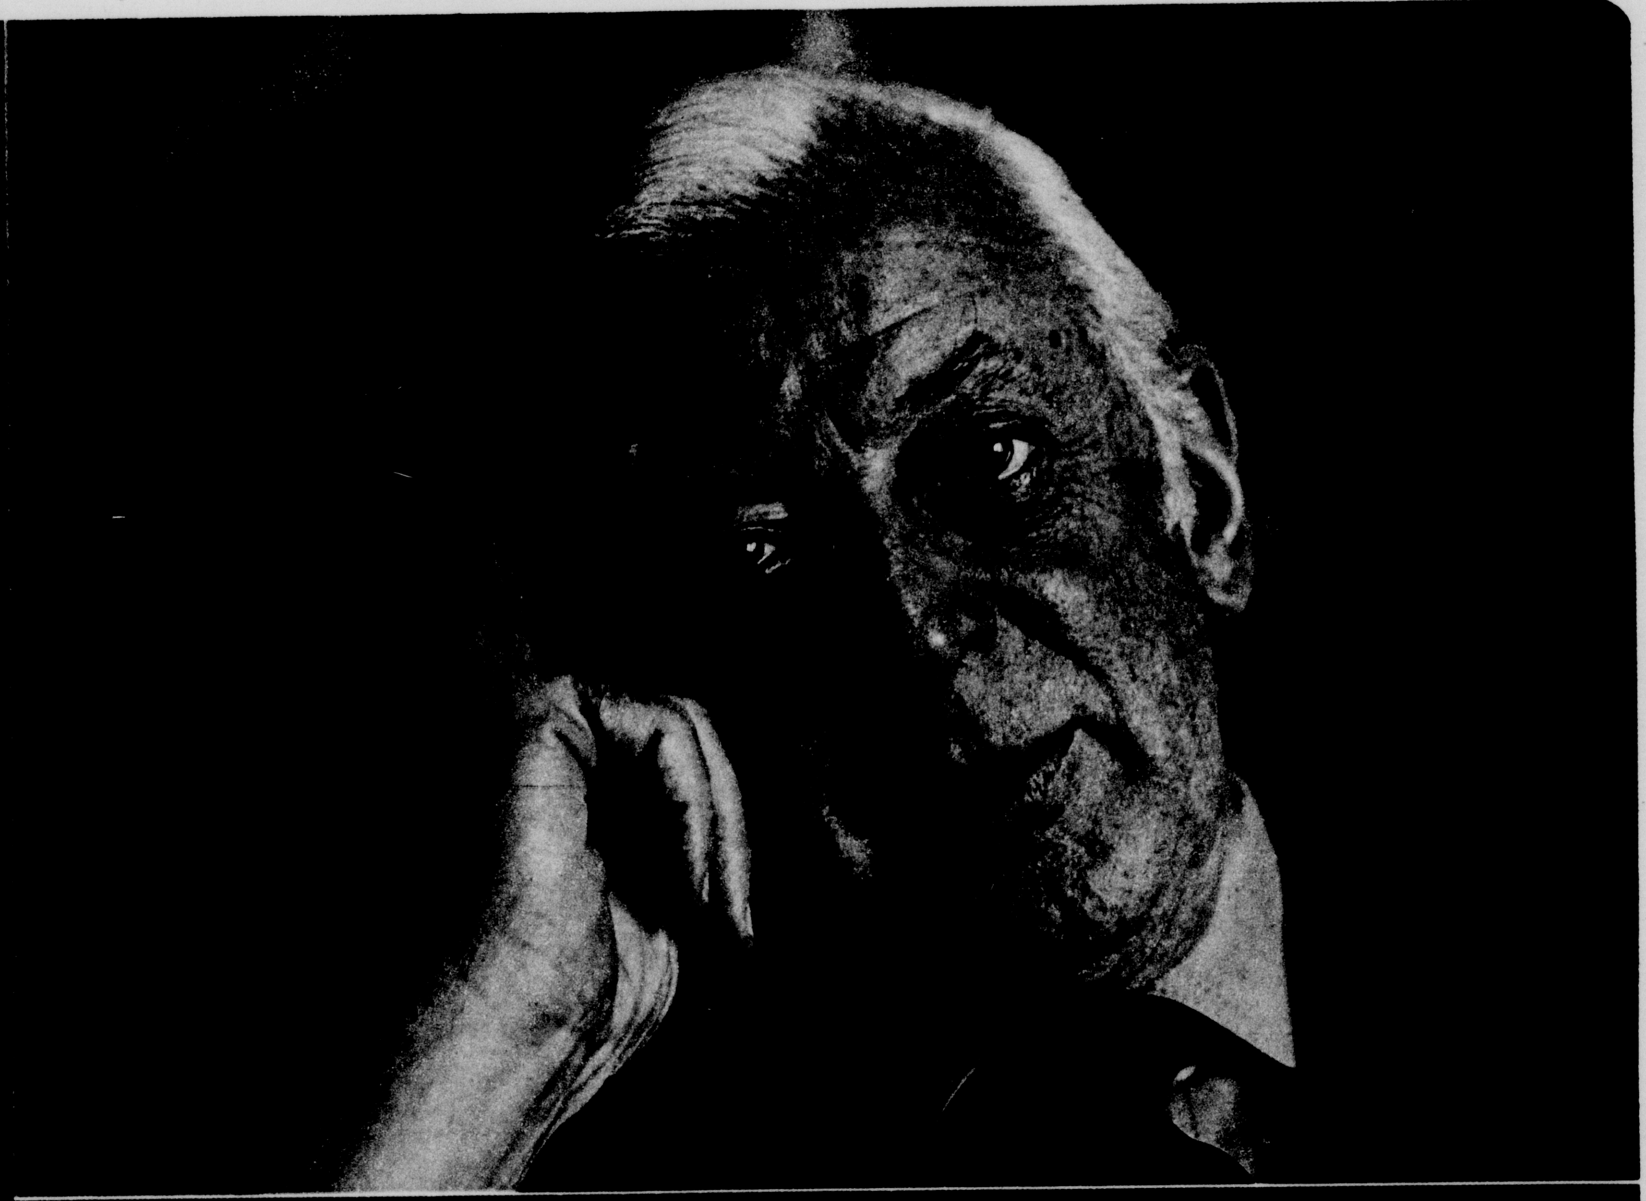
Our Small Towns, By a Critical And Ardent Traveler: Alistair Cooke



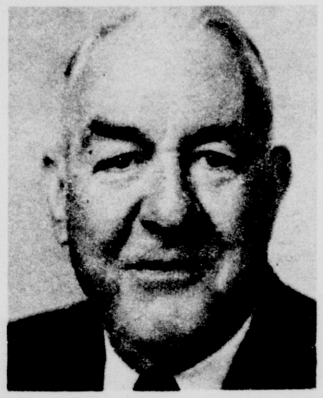
"One of the great and lasting pleasures of traveling around the U.S. was discovering the great variety of small towns, each true to its own region, in a country that—I had been led to believe by every Englishman who had ever paid a week's visit to New York—was a continent of dreary 'standardization.'"—Alistair Cooke

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. SAM J. ERVIN, JR. (D-N.C.)

I thought everybody was against genocide. How could you oppose the international treaty making it a crime?—N. G., Hattiesburg, Miss.



● Nobody knows what it means. This treaty provides, among other mysterious things, that a person is guilty of genocide if he inflicts mental harm on a person of another race or nationality. It does not say what "mental harm" is, but I have offered in the Senate some very wise bills and the Senate has rejected them; and every time they rejected one of my wise proposals, it gave me mental harm.

FOR KATHY LENNON

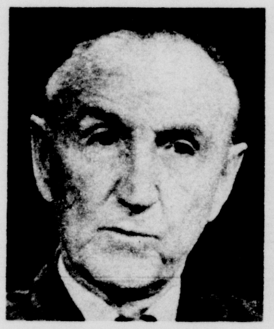
You come from a large Catholic family. Just how many of you are there?—M. Karney, East St. Louis, Ill.

● Eleven. We Lennon Sisters are the four oldest. Mom still has seven at home. Of us four, Diane has three children, Peggy has five and Janet has three. Unfortunately, I can't have children. My husband and I want to adopt children. Not right away, but someday. We know how special they can be, because Diane's oldest is adopted.

FOR SEN. MIKE MANSFIELD (D-Mont.)

Are you still opposed to strip mining coal out West now that we need it so much?—S. P., Rutherford, N.J.

● Yep, and the reason is the total disregard still being shown for the interests of the surface owner. I don't want the West to become a backyard for the rest of the nation. Proponents of greatly expanded strip mining are just looking for an easy way out of the energy crisis, and there's not any.



FOR DONNA FARGO, singer

As an honors graduate of High Point (N.C.) College and a former English teacher, why do you still say "ain't" in public?—M. Fried, Los Angeles, Calif.

● I know better than "ain't"—just like I know better than a whole lot of other things I say. But I keep right on saying them because I like the way they feel. I think not saying those things is a kind of prejudice. We've got so many prejudices, you know, and one of them is a language prejudice.

FOR GERALDO RIVERA, TV journalist

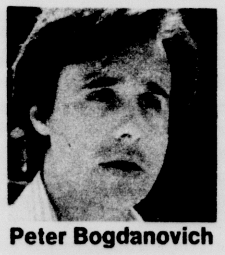
Why did you give up a promising law career to become a TV newsman?—Donna Loftin, Corpus Christi, Texas

● While I was a lawyer I could only effect change on a one-to-one basis. It became a losing battle. I'd save one mother's son, only to turn around and find a hundred others who needed saving. When the chance came to be a TV newsman, I grabbed it. As a newsman I'm able to expose conditions and situations in which I can bring help to hundreds of people at once.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Why did movie director Peter Bogdanovich swear he'd never have actor Timothy Bottoms in one of his pictures again? Is it because of competition over Cybill Shepherd, Bogdanovich's beautiful actress-model girl friend?—Mary Bolen, Augusta, Ga.

● No. The trouble with Bogdanovich and Bottoms is not the result of a romantic involvement, but rather a professional relationship. According to Bogdanovich, Bottoms did not know his lines during the filming of "The Last Picture Show," which delayed shooting of key scenes. He also said Bottoms behaved like a "neurotic kid." But Bottoms' career does not seem to have suffered. He's now starring in the enormously successful film, "The Paper Chase."



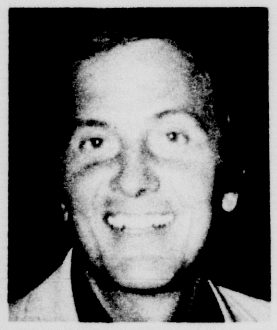
Peter Bogdanovich

Timothy Bottoms

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What do your children think about the crazy things you write in your column?—Susan Williams, Santa Ana, Calif.

● Shhhhh! My children don't know what I do. I told them once I work for a newspaper. They think I deliver it.



FOR PAT BOONE

I read that you baptized some people in Phyllis Diller's pool. Is this true? And are you an ordained minister?—D. L. H., Pocahontas, Va.

● Yes, it's true. During the month I rented Phyllis Diller's house in Las Vegas, I baptized several people who asked my help in their obedience to Jesus. I'm just a Christian, a professional singer, and not ordained by any official organization.

FOR DICK HAYMES

You've worked with such greats as Benny Goodman, Harry James and Tommy Dorsey. Who, in your opinion, was the greatest?—M. Lawrence, Pound Ridge, N.Y.

● Without question, Tommy Dorsey.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"

On the outside, the Bunker house seems to have an aluminum combination door. Yet when someone arrives at the front door during the show, the combination door is not there. Who slipped up?—Mrs. Harvey Maurer, Reese, Mich.

● By golly, you're sharp-eyed! I suppose you're referring to the opening shots of the row of houses. Those pictures were taken in Queens, N.Y., just to establish ambience and location. None of those houses exactly matches our inside set. But you certainly are observant. I guess we'll have to call it "set designer's license."

"The small towns that bred the Presidents are dying. And they are dying very fast. Like the compact Mormon towns I once knew in Utah, they are now bulging with layers of petticoats . . . that merge into the petticoats of the next town."

Small Town Life in America: Is the U.S. Losing Something Important?

By Alistair Cooke

For most people, I suppose, between Tibet and Tacoma, their favorite small town is the one they live in. Which only goes to show the toughness of the human race, when you consider the collections of shacks and gas stations, dingy streets and neighboring factories, hillside cottages tumbling down to the river, that call themselves towns across three or four continents.

This sounds very hard-hearted. But that's because it's the view of the guy on the outside. In other words, we can all stay cool and critical about the places where other people live, but we are blind to the ugliness or frailty of our own town mainly because we have to pretend we chose it.

The fact is that the vast majority of the 3.5 billion people who inhabit this globe have very little say about where they are going to live. They are born in Bombay or Four Forks, Iowa, and it's a hundred to one they will marry a boy or girl born in Bombay or Four Forks. Their drugstore has got to be the model of what all drugstores should be. Old Doc Merryweather may not have the fancy equipment that's available to Marcus Welby, but he delivered young Tom, didn't he? And he fixed old Sarah's pneumonia. So, all things considered, you probably couldn't do better than to stay in Bombay or Four Forks.

I have heard such talk in hundreds of American small towns, and I respect it. If there were no town pride, there'd be no indignant town meetings and very little motive to repave the old road or build the new school. And yet. . . . (There's always an "and yet" in America, because there's always change, always a movement to change, and—as somebody said – once things change, they never change back.) And yet, when I say, "I have heard such talk in hundreds of American small towns," I have to admit that I heard it mostly 10, 20, 30 years ago. The small towns that bred the Presidents – Staunton, Va. (Woodrow Wilson); Plymouth, Vt. (Calvin Coolidge); Corsica, Ohio (Harding, you fool!); West Branch, Iowa (Herbert Hoover); Independence, Mo. (Harry Truman, of course) – are dying. And they are dying very fast. Like the compact Mormon towns I once knew in Utah, they are now bulging with layers of petticoats – real estate offices, secondhand-car lots, lunch counters, billboards —that merge into the petticoats of the next town.

The greatest change in the physical structure of America since the last World War has been the breakdown of the old division between big cities and small towns, and the arrival of the split-level suburb on the freeway. At the turn of the 20th century, about seven Americans in ten lived on farms. By 1940, it was four in ten. Today, it is well below one in ten.

This, I think, is the single drastic explanation for the end of the small town in this country. Most (literally most) Americans now live neither in cities nor in country towns. They live in suburbs. And any year now – maybe any day! – we shall have our first suburban President. Richard Nixon is, in manner, very nearly it, but he isn't it by origin. For Whittier, Calif., in his day, had ceased to be the rude Quaker settlement named after John Greenleaf Whittier. Even in 1936, when Nixon was only 22, his hometown was described in the federal guide (in spite of his current folksy hometown memories) as "a wealthy residential city in a citrus, avocado and walnut district." It would have completely overwhelmed real small-town boys, like Hoover or Truman.

There's no question that, in Lyndon Johnson, we saw the last of the frontier Presidents. And, all politics aside, I for one lament it. Johnson grew up in what he maintained to his dying day was paradise on earth. It was, in fact, an endless barren stretch of goat and armadillo country. But he grew up knowing different peoples with different traditions. The next town was a German farming town, and the one after that was mostly Mexican.

So the new small town is going to be a suburb. And, thanks to the prefabrication boys and the Florida builders who set the original style in the early 1950's, it's going to be very much the same in Portland, Maine, and San Diego, Calif. This worries me. One of the great things about America, as recently as the early 1950's, was that small towns distilled the character of their region. Smack in the middle of Nevada, the town of Eureka—the "Ore City" – had many buildings that showed the gray smear of the soot that had poured from smelter stacks in its heyday 70 years before. And there still stood the Colonnade Hotel and the Opry House.

Livingston, Ala., was another jewel I well remember from an automobile trip in 1937. It was as far in time and character from Eureka, Nev., as Athens is from Las Vegas. Livingston, in the 1930's, was a serene and beautiful small town where an Englishman to whom I was showing the country decided he would wish to live and die. (He didn't. He chose instead the exquisite Colonial town of Newfane, Vt., which has the most beautiful courthouse in the U.S., not excluding the pompous Greek wedding cake of the new U.S. Supreme Court building.) Well—I was saying—Livingston had a charm and serenity that belied its violent past. It was the scene, during Reconstruction days, of the murder of a New York abolitionist and a black political agitator. It was also the happy hunting ground of one Steve Renfroe, who rode into town one day on a milk-white horse. The word eventually got around that just such a cavalier had been responsible for knocking off both the agitator and the abolitionist. So naturally Renfroe was made sheriff.

His appointment was the signal for a wave of petty crime—thefts of horses from stables, of silverware from homes and, in time, the pilfering of county funds and the burning down of the courthouse that contained the records. In the end, there was no doubt about it, the crimes all pointed to the sheriff. He must be the only man in American history who was lynched by his best friends with the parting words: "Steve, we are doing this for your own good."

None of this colorful stuff was apparent in the Livingston I knew. But it retained a character unlike that of any small town in Michigan or New York. The place was shady with old oaks. There was the Confederate Monument. There was a bored well that provided mineral waters that Alabamians from far and near swore would cure everything from a hacking cough to multiple sclerosis. There was a very handsome teachers college built in the graceful style of the 1840's—before Queen Victoria laid her heavy Gothic hand across the ocean. Livingston is also famous for Miss Julia Tutwiler, who started the shocking revolution known as coeducation.

"There's no question that, in Lyndon Johnson, we saw the last of the frontier Presidents. And, all politics aside, I for one lament it."

One of the great and lasting pleasures of traveling around the U.S. was discovering the great variety of small towns, each true to its own region, in a country that—I had been led to believe by every Englishman who had ever paid a week's visit to New York—was a continent of dreary "standardization." Today, he may be right. You arrive at the airport — which could be an airport in Texas, East Africa or Japan. And you drive five or ten or twenty miles past an anonymous litter of car lots, neon saloons, chicken parlors, hamburger drive-ins, and all the rest of the garish stuff. And you have no idea if you are in Florida or Ohio, for they have cut down the butternut, the cypress, the Sitka cedar, the hickory, the cottonwood—all the God-given natural signs that His bounty was rich and various.

I have a few favorites that are still comparatively undefiled (I'd like to think it is because of strict ordinances voted by alert citizens, but I'm afraid they are places sufficiently remote from traffic as not to be worth an invasion by hot-dog chains): Newfane, Vt.; Litchfield, Conn.; Port Gibson, Miss.; Southold, N.Y.; Robles Del Rio, Calif.; and New Castle, Del.

Leesburg, Va., is worth a special commendation, since it has forbidden store signs to be wider than two feet and has abolished all billboards in Loudoun County, of which it is the seat. With the help of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, it is paying its own splendid tribute to the Bicentennial by clearing out the accumulated junk of the past 50 years, and restoring its pristine appearance as a composite 18th-19th-century small town of the American South.

Is this a lament for what we have done to the landscape and the characteristic small town that nestled in it? You bet it is! Nobody loves his country like an American, and nobody respects it less. The way we're going, we'll have nothing to show across a 3,000-mile continent but commercial junk, neon hamburger signs and endless flocks of billboards. (One exception: Vermont. Vermont has abolished all billboards. I wish the other 49 states could follow that example.)

At this point, this boiling point, somebody is bound to ask me: Which is your favorite small town? I have two. One is in London. It is a very small town, inside Mayfair, bounded on the north by South Audley Street, on the east and south by the noble Grosvenor Square, on the west by a public garden that is lovingly tended by the gardeners and cherished by old folks and hippies alike, so that no cola bottle, no wisp of paper ever tarnishes the emerald of its lawns or the neatness of its flower beds. The other is closer to home. It is a tiny neighborhood in New York City. I used to live there. It's between Lexington and Park avenues, from 72nd to 70th streets. Inside this snug compound there are the essentials of any decent small town. That is to say, the friendly people who make the life of a community, however small, worth living: the grocer, the butcher, the drugstore clerk, the health-food nut, the old one-eyed man at the newsstand, the nervous guy who runs the pet shop, the little lady who bravely tries to make a go of selling books.

It is the good people, whether within a mile or two blocks, who make a neighborhood. And a neighborhood is what makes a livable small town. There is no such thing as a livable big city.

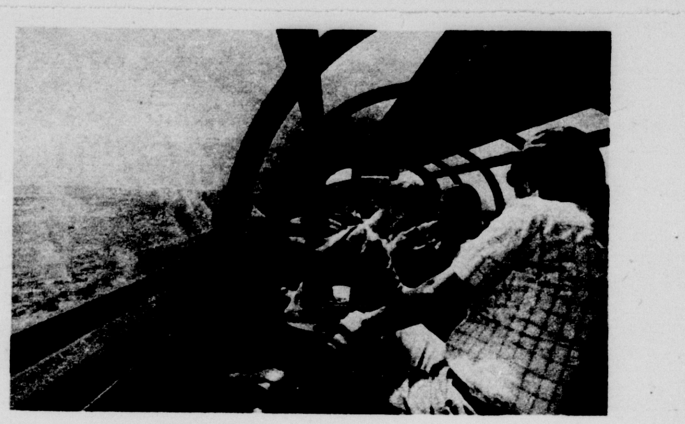
According to Amtrak: America's Six Most Beautiful Train Trips

By Jay Freeland



Nevada stretches before dome-car passengers on Amtrak's San Francisco Zephyr.

From waterfalls to nudist beaches—there are certain things you just can't see by car!

This summer, thousands of Americans, discouraged by gasoline shortages and flight cutbacks, will be rediscovering the railroads. Passenger rail service is not only here to stay, it is—albeit somewhat haltingly—a "boom industry."

So it seemed fitting that FAMILY WEEKLY should speak up for the beauties of rail travel. We asked Amtrak executives: "Of the hundreds of thousands of miles of passenger track in the U.S., which stretches are the prettiest?" This is their list:

1. The Coast Daylight/Starlight, which makes a 1,489-mile daily run from Los Angeles to Oakland (Daylight), then Oakland to Seattle (Starlight). This track has 113 miles of especially spectacular scenery as it skirts the Southern California coast from Ventura to San Luis Obispo. Besides the surf crashing against the cliffs, there are interesting people to see along the route—even a nudist beach near Santa Barbara!

Taking the Starlight section of the coast trip on north, you awaken with the sunrise just north of Klamath Falls in Oregon's Cascade Mountains. Here is some of the most dramatic mountain and forest scenery you'll encounter in America. For many miles the train skirts Upper Klamath Lake, summer home of a huge flock of white pelicans. After traversing the tunnel at Cascade Summit (alt. 4,840 feet), you follow the shores of Lake Odell, then run beside Salt Creek. The rhododendron display in June is worth the trip by itself.

2. Amtrak calls the 436 miles between New York City and Buffalo via Albany the Empire Service. The old New York Central promoted it as the "Water-Level Route," and that's what makes it so spectacular: First the 142 miles from Manhattan along the east bank of the Hudson to Albany-Rensselaer, with views of beautiful Westchester County estates, Washington Irving's "Ichabod Crane" country and, across the river, West Point and Storm King Mountain. Next comes the 95 miles along the Mohawk River from Schenectady to Rome, a historic land where you can almost hear the "Drums Along the Mohawk."

3. The Broadway Limited is basically a New York-to-Chicago train whose route takes it through a heavily industrialized area. But there's one leg that Washingtonians and Baltimoreans can take to a junction at Harrisburg, Pa., following the east bank of the Susquehanna River for 65 miles. For much of the way the river seems virtually untouched by man. And the sunsets in this area are often spectacular.

4. The North Coast Hiawatha, which begins in Chicago and follows the Lewis & Clark Trail for much of its way through the West, has proved so popular it will begin operating daily (instead of three times weekly) on May 19, serving Yellowstone National Park and Spokane, where Expo '74 is being staged this summer. Two especially scenic stretches are (a) following the Yellowstone River for 340 miles between Glendive and Livingston, Mont., and (b) the rugged mountain scenery between Billings and Butte, Mont. (alt. 4,761 feet).

5. The Empire Builder, Amtrak's northernmost train, serves Glacier Park on its 2,289-mile-long daily run between Chicago and Seattle. And the glacier-topped peaks of the park are a panoramic sight from your dome-lounge seat. The Empire Builder also serves Spokane and is expected to be heavily booked through the city's Expo '74 this summer. Between Spokane and Seattle, the Empire Builder slashes through the Cascade Mountains and glides through the fruitful Yakima Valley.

6. Amtrak's longest single route, that of the San Francisco Zephyr, extends 2,420 miles from Chicago through Denver to the Oakland/San Francisco terminal. Most dramatic of all the scenery en route is that encountered crossing the Sierra Nevada between Reno and Sacramento. This is the Mother Lode country. Truckee (alt. 5,819 feet) is a stop serving Lake Tahoe and Squaw Valley, the Olympic skiing center.

Amtrak, incidentally, has an extensive tour program, offering complete package vacations with reserved train space and accommodations in America's most scenic areas. Information is now available from Amtrak ticket and travel agents. Their advice is to book even earlier this year if you wish to travel during the most popular months.

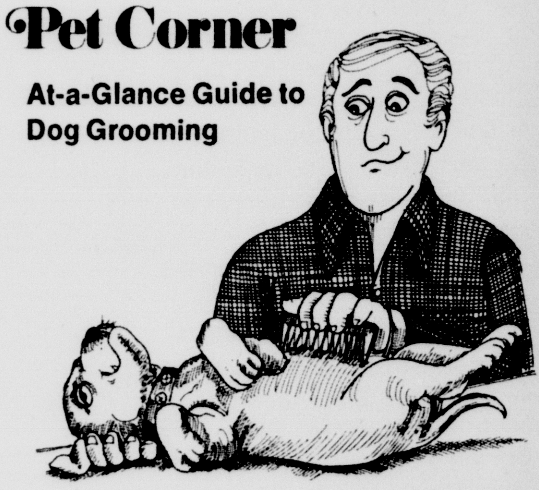
The Diet Watch

How to Eat Restaurant Food—And Still Stay Slim

If you eat lunch in restaurants or at drugstore counters, you can cleverly choose dishes that won't wreck your diet, even though the menus discouragingly list dishes swamped in calories. For example, most restaurants will willingly give you a double order of their side-dish salad. And the average restaurant can make up almost any salad you want. Some good ones: A whole can of tunafish (tell them to drain it) on a plate, with slices of tomato and lettuce leaves. Ask for vinegar or lemon for dressing. With plain tea or coffee you've then had a filling lunch with 24 grams of protein (as much as meat) and only about 200 calories! Or order a can of sardines fixed the same way. Or try these: two sliced hard-boiled eggs with lettuce and tomatoes; sprinkle with vinegar (no calories), for a total of less than 200 calories. A plate of cottage cheese with celery and tomatoes. Or three of the lowest-calorie vegetables the restaurant has. If they have only one low-calorie vegetable, order a double portion. Use lemon or vinegar for dressing. The more frequently you eat at the same restaurant, the more obliging they are about making up such dishes, an important help to your waistline. If a restaurant is reluctant to be cooperative, try to find and cultivate one that is cooperative. It may take some tramping around, but it will be worth it.—By Harriet La Barre

Pet Corner

At-a-Glance Guide to Dog Grooming



You shouldn't bathe the average dog more than once every two months, but you do need to groom him regularly. Unless your pup is a poodle, you can easily learn to do the job yourself. For shaggy dogs, get a comb with widely spaced teeth and a brush with long bristles. For shorthairs, use a short-bristled brush or hound glove; for wirehairs, a stripping comb. Blunt-end scissors and special nail clippers are also necessary. You can find them all at pet stores. A dog enjoys his grooming session more if you put him on a table. Comb first, cutting out any mats you can't comb through. Follow with vigorous brushing. For shorthairs, a daily rubbing down with a hound mitt should keep his coat clean and shiny. For nail clipping, consult your vet for best techniques.

What's New For Beautiful Hair?

A professional haircut is the basis for any good style. Once your hair "falls" right, you have the insurance you need to guarantee its minimum upkeep, whether you have it set or blown dry.

Hairstyles by Louis Rinaldi; Photographs by J. Frederick Smith

Still confused by all those new hair products and services? How to choose a hairdresser? What kind of cut—or color—is right for you? Here's help for your tangled (or untangled) crop!

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Women's Editor

"Casual," "real" and "no-fuss" are typical descriptions of what today's woman is looking for in a hairstyle. And she wants to be able to take care of it herself!

There's a distinct way to put order into your hairdo life—beginning with a good professional haircut.

A good haircut is the basis for everything else you might do for your hair. (If you haven't dared to have your hair cut in years, you haven't found the right expert. Check our tips on how to choose one.) A good hairdresser can help you find the shape that will do the most for your face and enhance the natural tendencies of your hair.

Consider these facts: You can push and bend your hair into just about any style, but if you're fighting the natural "pull" of your hair—the cowlicks, the waves and the curls that won't give up—you'll come out second best. Each hair is going to grow in its own direction, and it will take a professional to "read" your hair correctly.

Hair texture is an important consideration, too. If your hair is fine and thin, you should have a blunt haircut, with all the ends the same length. If it is thick or hard to manage, you should have a layered cut to minimize bulk. Once a good haircutting specialist has set you on the right track, you can be on your own for a while. (You should be able to go from one to three months without another haircut, depending on the length of your hair.)

How Do You Find a Haircutting Expert You Can Trust?

1. Talk to your friends, especially the ones who have the type of styling you want. Ask about prices, location, hours, attitudes and anything else that is important to you.
2. Check the salons that sound like the best possibilities, and go to see the shop. If you stop by when it's busy, you can watch other patrons as they leave. Do they all look alike, or do they look as if each cut was styled for the individual head? Do the sets look like "salon-only" styles, or styles you can manage at home? Don't be intimidated. You're entitled to comparison shop for a hairdresser.
3. When you've decided to make an appointment, be honest about what you want. Don't pretend that you're going to go every week if you only plan to go a few times a year. That will affect the hairstyle recommended.
4. If you're hesitant, avoid a major haircut change at first. Keep an open mind and listen to suggestions. However, if someone tries to persuade you to do something you really don't want or tries to sell you a raft of expensive products, don't be afraid to get up and walk out. A good hairdresser is there to help you. That means finding the most suitable hairstyle for the way you live and the way you want to look.

Nice 'n Easy

Nice 'n Easy haircolor. It never looks fussed over or phony. It always gives me beautiful coverage. Healthy-looking hair. And absolutely natural, honest-looking hair color. Now, whether you want to color or conceal, change a little or a lot, what more could you ask for?

That's why I never ask for anything else.

Nice 'n Easy® haircolor

It sells the most.

Reaching the fabulous forties doesn't intrude on Jane Carson's modeling or amateur-painting activities. To cover her gray hair we used Loving Care color lotion.

Going "naturally" red is easily attainable. The likeliest candidates are women with lively, florid complexions. Used here: dark auburn Nice 'n' Easy shampoo-in hair coloring.

Blonde Can Be Soft! Brunette Can Be Young! Gray Can Be Bright! Here's How...

Beautiful hair color can make you feel fantastic—and it's one of the first things people notice about you. How often have you heard, "She's the pretty redhead," or "She's the one with the long blonde hair"?

There are products available to help you do just about anything you want—from covering a little gray to making a complete change. But it all depends on the hair color you're starting with.

Three Kinds of Hair Coloring—Which Is Right for You?

If you simply want to give your own color a lift—add some highlights, make the color richer or cover the gray—try hair colorings that wash away after four to six shampoos. (These are called semipermanent hair color.) They can cover the gray without changing your natural hair color.

Usually it's best to choose the shade closest to your own. You can make your hair darker or add golden or reddish highlights with these hair colors, but they will not achieve a lighter shade. You can only do that with permanent hair color (a shampoo-in tint), which lasts until the hair grows out. Be sure to examine the package of hair coloring thoroughly to get the type you want.

Temporary color rinses, a final category, will help perk up natural hair color, but they will not give you as rich a color or cover gray as the "four-six shampoo" category does. Temporary rinses are useful to refresh blonde shades between applications. They wash away with each shampoo.

What About Those Shampoo-In Tints?

Shampoo-in tints offer the ultimate convenience in hair coloring. Easy to apply, they last until the hair grows out. (Hair grows in at approximately a half inch per month.) Shampoo-in tints condition hair, add color, lighten or darken, and cover gray all in a single step.

The secret of using shampoo-in tints is to start with the right shade. Don't choose your shade solely by the color on the front of the package. That's the color you'd get if you put the product on white hair. It has to be pictured that way in order to show the true hair color.

Turn the package around and look for the color chart on the side or back. This will give you an idea of how the shade will look on your color of hair. Say the tint is red. If you put that on dark-brown hair, the result will be medium reddish brown. On medium-brown hair, bright reddish brown will result.

In the package directions, you'll find a chart that tells you in words what the chart on the package shows in color. Although these indicators are pretty accurate, every head of hair will react differently. The only way to know exactly what the color result will be on your hair is to make the all-important strand test. Don't neglect it. Directions for the strand test appear in the package directions.

Frosting and Streaking: Put in Some Sunshine!

If your hair goes light in the summer and you'd love to keep that sunny look all year long, you're a candidate for frosting and streaking. This is really fun. You can put the lightness just around your face or wherever you want it.

There are kits that make it easy to streak, frost or tip your hair. If it's already light, you can simply add lightened streaks where you please.

Glamorize Your Gray—Without "Covering" Anything

If you have lots of gray, you may want to keep it. Beautiful soft white hair can be the most flattering color for mature skin tones.

What you want to avoid is the yellow discoloration that ruins the beauty of silver or gray hair. There are special colorings for gray hair that minimize the yellow and make the gray prettier. You can use hair coloring that lasts through four to six shampoos (semipermanent) or that rinses away with one shampoo (temporary).

If you have lots of yellow and want a white effect, try the platinum shades. If you prefer color that adds depth, look for the smoky shades.

Oily Hair, Thirsty Hair, Frizzy Hair, Tangled Hair—What's Good for Which?

To keep your hair lively and lustrous, you need the right shampoo, rinse or conditioner. Here's how to choose.

Which Shampoo Should You Use?

You need a shampoo for oily hair if your hair loses its general fluffiness, feels sticky and flattens down a few days after you wash it.

If your hair is flyaway, sparks with electricity when you brush and doesn't get dirty when you skip your regular shampoo, you need a preparation for dry hair.

Normal hair falls between those two extremes. If you're not troubled by either excessive oiliness or dryness, choose the shampoo for normal hair that you like best.

If you color your hair regularly, shampoos that are tailor-made for color care make more sense. They're designed to pamper and protect hair shades, whereas regular shampoos can contribute to fading.

When Should You Use Creme Rinses?

All hair that tangles after shampooing requires a creme rinse. Chose body-building creme rinses for hair that's limp and fine. It's important to untangle this type very gently after shampooing since it's more susceptible to breakage when wet. Creme rinses work by smoothing down the roughened hair shaft so hairs slide next to each other instead of catching together. Be careful to find a rinse that doesn't leave your hair too soft. (According to experts, if a creme rinse is making your hair too soft, it's usually because too much is being used. Don't use more than directed, or use less.) Use the special rinses for long hair if yours is long and requires extensive untangling after shampooing. You don't want to pull and tug at that hair. It needs gentle treatment to avoid split ends.

If your hair tends to be frizzy, you need creme rinses that help soften it and mold it into place. Try a spray-on creme rinse that stays in the hair and helps it behave.

When Do You Need Conditioners?

Regular monthly treatments with a deep-penetrating conditioner will help to keep all hair at its very best. If your hair is not performing the way you want it to—if it seems to break easily, is dry, or has been chemically treated or abused by excessive exposure to sun, teasing, brushing or setting—it is a candidate for conditioning. If your hair falls into the above categories, however, don't be afraid to deep-condition as often as once a week, since these hair types are really "thirsty" for conditioning. Should your hair get noticeably oily after frequent deep-conditionings, you can cut down on the treatments.

If your hair seems to need shine or body between deep-penetrating conditioning sessions, you can use a quick-lotion conditioner, which works on the surface of the hair shaft.

WHAT DO YOU DO WHEN . . .

. . . Your Hair Won't Hold a Set?

If your hair won't hold a set, you may be trying to make it do something it hasn't been cut properly to do. In that case, you might need a body permanent and should certainly use a good setting lotion. As a finishing touch, try a hair mist to help maintain your style. There are good non-lacquer products available that eliminate that "stiff" look.

. . . You Need to Do Your Hair In a Hurry?

Electric styling appliances can be a great help in an emergency or in the day-to-day program of keeping your hair in shape. An air brush can help bend your hair in the desired direction—under or flipped up—in minutes, as you dry it. For a curlier look, try electric rollers. They can set long-lasting curls in minutes. Or touch up a wilting hairdo with an instant steam styling wand. You can roll up waves in seconds with one of these modern-day versions of the old-fashioned curling iron. A little touch of steam helps persuade unruly locks, and also protects hair from drying out.

A working girl's blonde hair does not have to look like straw. Used here to add body: Clairol's Condition.

. . . Your Hair Is Oily on Top—Dry at the Ends?

Brush! It will distribute the oil evenly throughout the hair. You can also use an instant dry shampoo to keep your hair clean between shampoos. The new generation of dry shampoos really works!

. . . Your Hair Is Too Curly?

If your hair is in good condition, a hair relaxer or straightener would help remove the curl. When setting your hair use large plastic rollers and stretch the wet hair around the roller, making sure the ends are flat.

. . . Your Hair Is Frizzy?

The frizzies are usually caused by humid weather. An electric comb or air brush is the best way of removing moisture from hair and straightening it. Also, long hair can be wrapped around your head, using your head as one big roller.

. . . You Have Split Ends?

Split ends often belong to women with longer hair. They're simply an indication that the hair is wearing out. Once split ends start, they tend to travel up the hair shaft. The only solution is to cut off those ends and try to prevent further splitting by treating the hair gently and using the creme rinses and conditioners that help to avoid hair damage. Since no product can eliminate split ends completely, you should get your hair trimmed regularly. Even if you're letting your hair grow, it's important to have the ends trimmed a half inch at least every three months. Since your hair grows a half inch a month, you'll still get length, but you'll eliminate the splitting.

. . . Your Hair Is Brittle?

When hair is in good shape, it's elastic. You can stretch it out past its normal length-and it will spring back. But brittle hair breaks when you stretch it. It needs a deep-penetrating conditioner to help put the bounce back. Use it at least once a week for a few months and cut down on the teasing and brushing.

Two Hockey Players' Wives:
Here's How the Experts "Made Them Over"

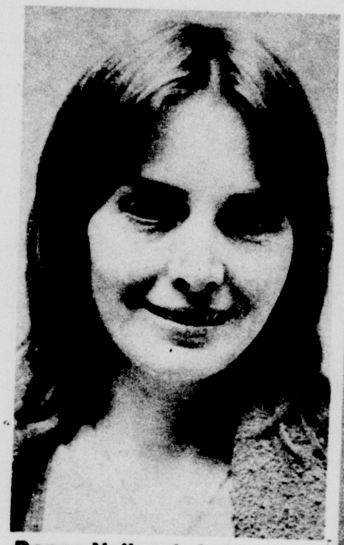
Beauty & You
Continued

Donna Neilson and Audrey MacGregor, along with other wives of members of the New York Rangers hockey team, recently attended a hair-care seminar and achieved these dramatic results:

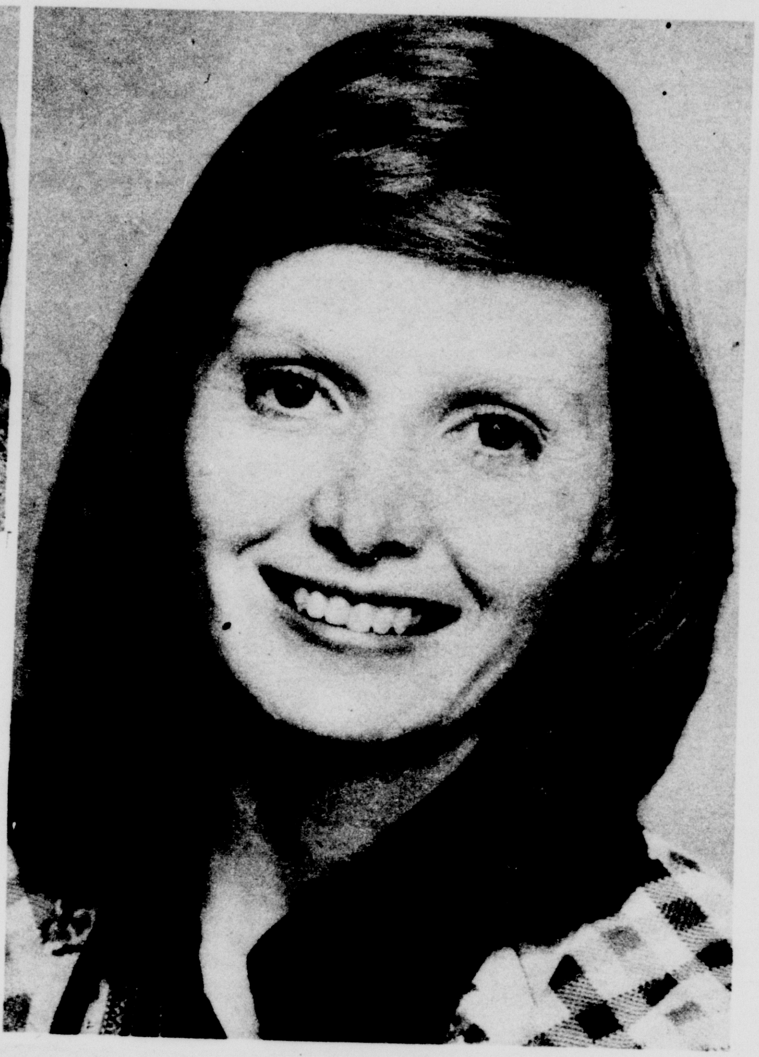
Donna Neilson had all the enviable characteristics of a natural strawberry blonde—an ivory complexion, China-blue eyes and a natural outdoor look. The prescription: to subtly capitalize on—but not change—Donna's attributes. First, her long, layered hair needed conditioning to smooth split ends and add a needed all-over shine. Then an expert stylist blended the grown-out layers by cutting about 1½ inches off each layer and blow-drying the hair for a fuller, softer look while maintaining its long appearance. Her new look was completed after a consultation with master makeup artist Stan Place, who applied a bit of peach cheek blusher, dark mascara, soft blue shadow and a gilded copper-tone lipstick.

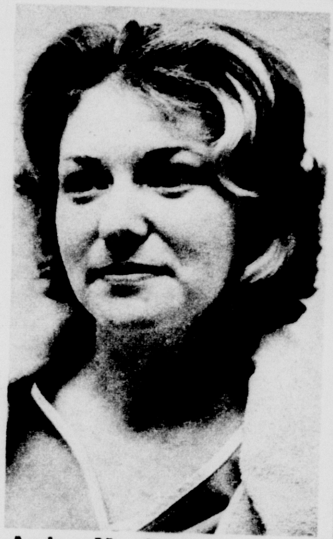
Audrey MacGregor, a low-keyed, unassumingly pretty woman, was ripe for change. She admitted she'd grown tired of her streaked hair color. She needed a style change, too, something chic and new, yet practical for a busy mother. The beautiful result was a return to her medium-brown color, blown-dry and brushed smoothly into a Gatsby style with soft waves and curls that further softened her full-faced, pretty features.

Audrey's new cosmetic touches included a sunny-peach frosted blusher to light up her face, muted green eyeshadow and mascara to heighten her eyes, a soft blending of liner in the crease above the eyelid to add depth and a final smooth-on of a bronze-tone lipstick.

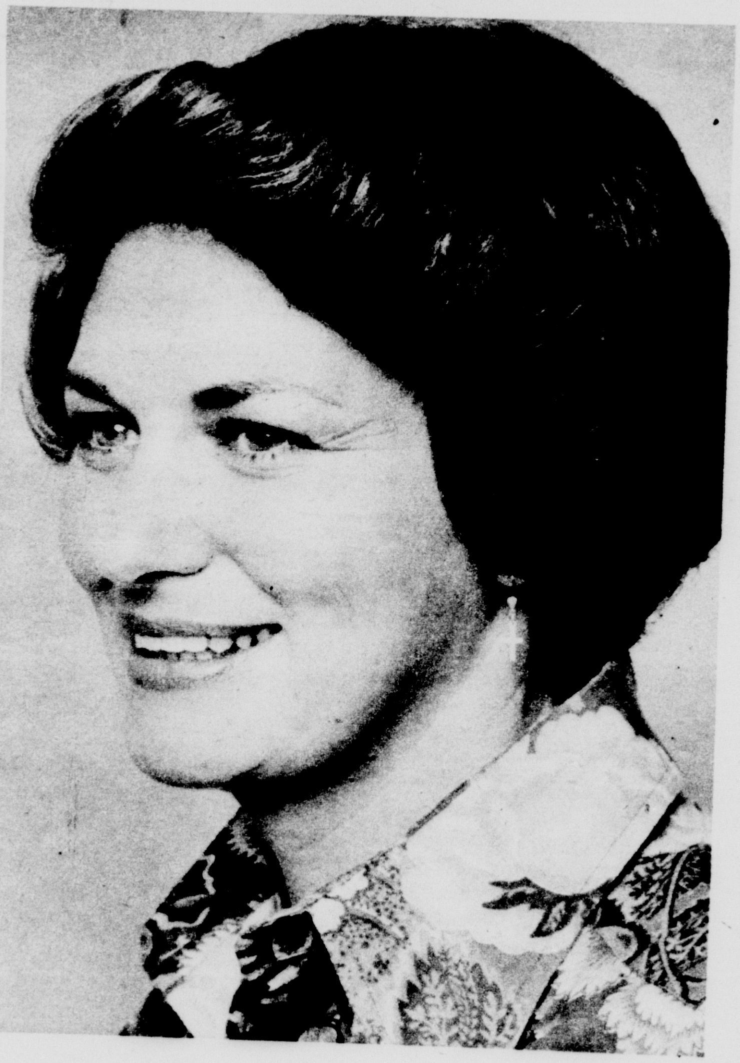


Donna Neilson's hair needed a conditioner and a trim before being blown-dry. A makeup consultation completed her "new look."





Audrey MacGregor's Gatsby style was based on a return to her original hair color. Her makeup was also subtly changed.



Where to Go (or Write) For Help (All They Need Is A Lock of Hair!)

If trying a variety of hair products, reading up on advice from the experts and consulting with your neighborhood stylist do not solve your problems, there are still places to find aid.

Free Help From Salons

One-to-one advice might be as near as your local department store. Many fine stores house beauty salons that are owned and operated by the Glemby Company. These salons have various names, among them: Canned Ego, Hair Now, Hair In and Hair 70's. Periodically they feature "Hair Help"—a free "how to" program that teaches you how to work with your hair.

To find a Glemby Salon in your area write to Glemby, 120 East 16th Street, New York, N.Y. 10003.

You can also phone or write Clairol for personalized advice. A staff of professional consultants will be happy to help you find the right products for hair care and/or hair coloring. They will even examine a lock of hair if you enclose it in a letter. Cut a piece large enough (from the lower part of the back of the head) and as close to the roots as possible. Also enclose a description of your hair problem or a picture of the hair color you want. They'll promptly tell you exactly what to use to alleviate your hair problems or achieve a particular color. Be sure to tell them what hair product you are currently using, if any. Write: Consumer Satisfaction, Clairol, 345 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022; or you may call: (212) 644-2990.

4 months ago I was a gray, plump mother of 3. Now I'm a trim, brunette college freshman.

I'm still a mother of 3. But I'm a whole lot more. And nobody's happier about it than Jim and the children! I guess it all happened because I saw my "babies" growing up so fast, needing me less and less.

If they missed a meal my whole day would seem shot. And I knew I had to do more with the next decade of my life than sit around counting my birthdays and gray hairs, making my children feel guilty for leading their own lives!

I think the whole thing got going the day I got the courage to color my hair. I'd always been a little afraid of haircolor, but I'd heard that Loving Care® lotion was a very different proposition. And it is!

It's not a permanent dye or a peroxide thing. It doesn't change your own color. It just rinses away the gray. And looks really natural—with soft natural highlights.

Well, it was so exciting to get my own brunette color back it gave me the encouragement for once to really stick to my diet. And now here I am—starting college! Of course, I only go part time. But it's a start.

But that's what's so great. To see, at this point in my life, so many things ahead. To feel, in so many ways, I've only just begun!

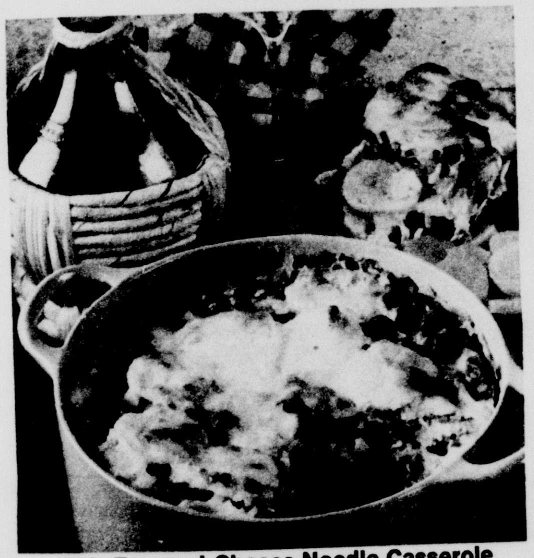
For Special Occasions

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a great party dish. She says, "Don't throw away those Easter eggs! They're a great excuse for a party! And the casserole is so easy to make, it might become an old family favorite!"

A Party Casserole–Using Leftover Easter Eggs!



This Egg-and-Cheese Noodle Casserole is perfect for serve-yourself parties.

EGG-AND-CHEESE NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) spinach or egg noodles, ¼ inch wide
3 qts. boiling water
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 cups milk*
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¾ teaspoon Italian seasoning or blended herbs
Few twists freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 cup ricotta or cottage cheese
2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded mozzarella or Muenster cheese
5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease a 2-qt. casserole.

2. Cook noodles in 3 qts. boiling water, to which 1 tablespoon of salt has been added, for 6 minutes, or until just tender. Drain, rinse with cold water, drain again.

3. Make sauce: In medium saucepan, heat butter until melted. Stir in flour smoothly. Add milk all at once. Bring to boiling, stirring with wire whisk until bubbly. Season with seasoned salt, Italian seasoning, pepper and instant minced onion.

4. Layer ingredients in prepared casserole as follows: ⅓ of noodles, ½ of ricotta, ½ of mozzarella, ⅓ of sauce and ⅓ of eggs.

5. Repeat with remaining ingredients, topping casserole with sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese.

6. Bake for 45-50 minutes, or until casserole is bubbly throughout. Makes 6 servings

*Use whole milk, or half whole and half skim milk.

[Party tip: Choose a colorful oven-to-table casserole dish: white, yellow or orange would be great. Also, try to use either spinach noodles or else half spinach and half regular. The Italians call green and white noodles paglia e fieno, "straw and hay."]

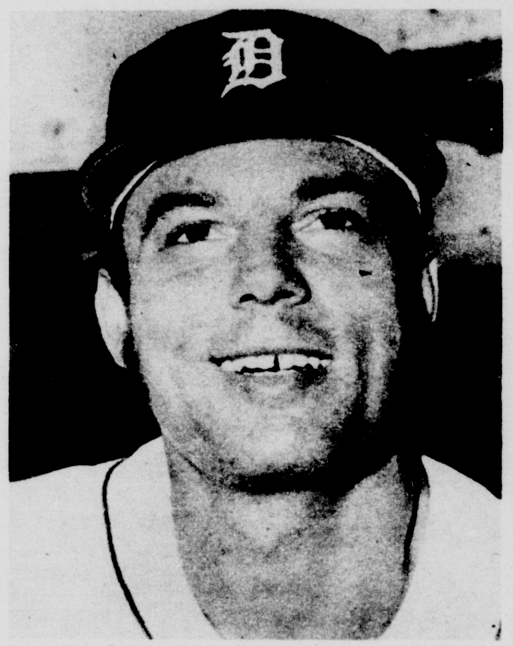
Sports Mini-Profile

Death Was in the Batter's Box And the Count Was 3 and 2....

Pitcher JOHN HILLER



John Hiller: "I'm a better man for what I went through."

John Hiller's amazing comeback from a siege of heart attack marks one of the most heartwarming sagas in sports. The 30-year-old relief pitching ace of the Detroit Tigers set a major-league record with 38 saves last season and was such a workhorse he appeared in 65 games and had a hand in 56 percent of his team's victories. He saved more games than any other Tiger pitcher in history and was voted "Comeback Player of the American League" and "Fireman of the Year" by The Sporting News. He also received an award from the National Heart Association. . . . Sports observers had assumed Hiller's career was over when he experienced his sudden heart attack early in 1971. And it almost was. He had to undergo complicated heart bypass surgery and completely change his life-style. He even had to sell furniture for a while to make ends meet. . . . But he was determined to play baseball again. Heart specialists finally agreed that it was "better for him to play than not to play," and he worked his way back to duty in the Tiger bullpen. He proved his recovery was complete with his dazzling 1973 performance, which teammate Jim Northrup described as "the best job I've ever seen since I've been in the major leagues." Slugger Frank Howard characterized Hiller's '73 season as "the kind of thing you see once in a lifetime.". . ."I think I'm a better man for what I went through," Hiller says. "I 'big-timed' it too much before my heart attack. I think I was just trying to fool myself. I also put too much pressure on myself. I've learned not to do that any more. Now I know I just have to do the best I can, and if that's not good enough, so be it." . . . A native of a Toronto suburb, Hiller is one of the few Canadians to succeed in major-league baseball. He started to play in the Toronto sandlot league, then slowly worked his way up the minor-league ladder to the Tigers. Hiller now makes his home in Duluth, Minn., with his wife Janice and a son and daughter.—By Barry Abramson

Rosalyn Abrevaya

Always a favorite, this style is easy to slip into and secures with a simple tie belt. But this version of the wraparound makes additional fashion points with a rounded collar and roomy patch pocket. Make it in a cotton, linen or jersey.

Size 12 takes approximately 3 yards of 44-inch fabric. Standard body measurements for size 12 are: Bust 34, Waist 25½, Hips 36.

Senior Citizens: Avoid 'Bargain' Medicare Supplements

Look for the Excellent Health Care Protection you find with Blue Shield's

Coronet Senior®

If you are 65 or near 65, you should be looking for good health care protection for the years ahead. But don't be fooled by the price tag on so called bargain plans. Often they pay only a few of the costs Federal Medicare misses. That may not be enough protection when illness or accidents strike, especially now that recent changes in federal coverage have increased the amount you must pay for services.

At Blue Shield we provide health care coverage you can count on. Our medical care experts have designed Coronet Senior to give you broad coverage when you need it most. Not only does Coronet Senior supplement Federal Medicare benefits, but it also pays benefits for services not covered by Medicare—such as prescription drugs and in-hospital private duty nursing.

If you are eligible Coronet Senior will cover pre-existing conditions from the day you enroll. No health statements required during open enrollment.

Study the fine print before you subscribe to any Federal Medicare supplement and be sure you have the kind of protection offered by Blue Shield's Coronet Senior.

Now, a blunt promise by an eminent dermatologist:

You can make your face look as though time was running backwards!

Revealed by an eminent dermatologist (see his word-by-word statement below): How, with the proper scientific instruction, you can literally look ten to twenty years younger than your real age . . . erase wrinkles, blemishes and coarseness . . . and do it all using nothing more than such simple ingredients as water, soap, and (especially) salt!

The Art of Looking Younger
Bedford Shelmire, Jr. M.D.
The dynamics of skin conditioning explained in a revolutionary guide to a youthful appearance.
Carl Fischer

This is, quite frankly, a vital message about what is perhaps the most revolutionary home-medical-guide ever published on facial care . . . facial beauty . . . renewed facial youth. Its results are so spectacular, its documentation is so overwhelming, and its methods are so vital to your future life that we must repeat, in full, two more quotes from its opening pages:

"As a matter of fact, we have only recently acquired the ability to really do something about the more serious changes in appearance that accompany aging . . .

"In the past, the average person stood very little chance of being able to look younger. Without wealth or the right genes, there was very little hope. The advent of modern skin care has changed all this. Now it is no longer necessary to pamper yourself or be born with good skin. The idle rich no longer have any advantage . . . the genes you inherit are no longer a limiting factor, because we can now compensate for even delicate, age-prone skin . . . Thanks to modern research, we now know what causes many of the unattractive problems that appear with age. With this kind of knowledge, we have been able to develop methods that are effective in combatting or solving these problems.

"The practical application of these methods can produce spectacular results. A person can easily look ten to twenty years younger than his or her actual age, and this can be achieved with a minimum of effort. My own interest in this subject was first stimulated by an eminent dermatologist who was one of my first teachers. He was not only an early advocate of these new methods, but he practiced them himself. The results were truly impressive. At almost eighty years of age, he appeared to be in his early fifties."

This, Then, Is The Startling New Promise That Lies Right At Your Fingertips! And Here Are The Discoveries That Are Going To Give It To You!

For example—

Age is no longer a barrier to a flawless complexion, because the outer layer of your skin never stops growing! And, if you learn the right way to utilize that growth, you may actually reverse the dreaded aging process, and grow younger-looking, not older.

The ultimate moisturizer! How it can eliminate moisture loss instantly, and actually repair the ravages caused by years of facial dryness.

The three insidious structural changes that create "old" skin, and how to stop each at its source.

For example, master this simple technique of protecting the all-important "inner layer" of skin from damage, and you will never need the services of a plastic surgeon.

How your kitchen stove can make you look old, old, old—unless you learn how to use it—like this.

How certain household aids (that you use every day) actually poison your skin. Get rid of them—now.

How to keep the sun from turning your face into a wrinkled prune.

How to protect your skin against air pollution. (Otherwise, if you live in a big city, be prepared to have people guess you're ten years older than you really are.)

How to banish blocked pores and blackheads—for good.

The Number One Rule for protecting your face against all the hazards of the environment. Follow it faithfully (see page 36), and when your friends look as old as Methuselah, you'll hardly have changed at all.

Indisputable Proof That It Would Take A Century For Your Face To Look Old, If You Didn't Abuse It Like This . . .

How to "quick-clean" your face, so thoroughly, and so fast, that you take years off it, rather than put them on.

Invisible sources of skin inflammations and allergies, that may be ruining your complexion right now. In other words, how to practice modern acne therapy, right in your own home.

Why you may never have to spend a cent on commercial face-care products again. For two reasons: Because most of them are actually harmful to your skin (see list on page 67). And because none of them could ever do as much for that skin as the almost-costless preparations given to you on page 71.

For example, the best daytime base in the world (and you should wear it every minute of every day, to keep the youth-force sealed in your skin) costs only 84¢ for a six-month supply. And the best night cream you can buy costs slightly more—about 91¢ for a six-month supply.

And the best face mask in the world costs 9¢ a treatment.

And the best skin freshener probably costs a penny a day.

And not one of them contains a single ingredient that will unknowingly age your face, or dry out your face, or irritate your face. All they do is pull the filth out of that face, at the same time they seal in the youth.

But What About The Old Skin That's Marring Your Face Right Now? What Do You Do About It? THIS—

Here, on page 72, is (in our opinion at least) the really startling breakthrough in facial care in this generation. It is called, "Skin Thinning". It takes about two minutes of your time a week, and it costs about 3¢ a treatment. It's basic ingredient is salt. Plain ordinary table salt. But used in such a way that it almost instantly cuts down wrinkles. Opens clogged pores. Helps prevent age spots and whiteheads. May actually have your husband cooing with delight the very first day you use it.

And there's still more—much more—like this:

How the wrong vitamins can poison your skin. And the right vitamin therapy cause spectacular changes overnight. (See page 108.)

How dry, scaly skin can often be eliminated by a simple change in your diet. (See page 107.)

The "Young-Face Style of Life". Or how to erase ten years from the look of your skin, simply by adjusting the way you work, play and sleep. (See page 112.)

How your skin can warn you of the insidious development of diseases of the heart, circulatory system, lungs, blood, thyroid, pancreas, sex glands, liver, kidneys and much more, all by simply knowing how to read the danger signals it sends out. (See page 105.)

Two easy solutions to hand and nail problems. (See page 140.)

How to save your hair. Why you must not overbrush it. The one overlooked cause of 99 per cent of all severe hair damage. A simple immediate test that tells you, for sure, the rate of hair loss. Why the wrong use of vitamins may be causing that loss. Medical methods (your husband will bless you when you show them to him) of really compensating for that ugly loss.

And Much Much More. At Last All You Need To Never Look Your Age Again! AND WE PROVE IT TO YOU WITHOUT YOUR RISKING A PENNY!

Remember! Good skin care is one of today's best bargains . . . nothing else gives you such a high return for such a small investment! But, YOU MUST BEGIN NOW! The effects of a long lifetime of neglect and abuse can NEVER BE COMPLETELY REVERSED! You owe it to yourself—and to that special man in your life—to return the No-Risk Coupon—TODAY!

What in the World!

SOPHIA LOREN
Afraid of another Cesarean

After the well-publicized Cesarean births of her two boys, Carlo "Cipi" Ponti, Jr., four, and Edoardo, now six months, Sophia Loren has no resentment whatsoever about the difficult time she had giving birth. "I was only too grateful. There are millions of women who have their children the hard way. I know. So many wrote to me that I felt surrounded by people when I had mine. They still write. . . . It is amazing how many women are longing for children." Whether the actress will have any more remains a question. "To be truthful," she adds, "I am afraid of another Cesarean. If I could be sure I would have a daughter I might go ahead, but that is not possible, and after the third one, my doctors say no more."

Sen. William Proxmire on walking: "Walking the five miles from my office to my home every evening is a big chunk out of my life. That hour a day represents about one-sixth or one-fifth of my waking hours when I'm not actually at work. I can tell you it's a marvelously well-spent hour. Of course if you walk to or from work, as I do, you can subtract the time you would have wasted sitting in a car or bus. And what a contrast with driving. Instead of building up tensions fighting the rush-hour traffic, you pass it as you stride along. This seems to me the perfect time to do my walking. Naturally, this will vary from person to person. Early risers often walk in their neighborhoods before they go to work."

AN ARRESTING SIGN
Citizens were offended

When a sign like this was first raised in Hondo, Texas, in 1930, as a Lions Club project, it read only: "This Is God's Country Don't Drive Through It Like Hell." The townspeople were offended by the message and objected so strongly (so the story goes) that the sign had to be taken down. About two or three years later, the Lions Club tried again and raised the sign shown above, which included the word "Please." The addition pleased everybody and the sign has remained to this day. In fact, there are now two signs—one at each end of the town. Hondo is located on Route 90—about 45 miles south of San Antonio—and has a population of 5,487 people. According to Mrs. Lillian Porter of the Hondo Chamber of Commerce, the sign has "done more than all speed-limit road signs put together to stop speeders."

ALL TOGETHER NOW

A Dad I am who's not tyrannical,
Nor am I, truth be told, mechanical.
When toys are boxed in bits and
sections,
Despite the 1, 2, 3 directions,

But some parts shy or some left over.
The manufacturers endeavor
To make things simple. I, however,
Am simpler still and all atremble
When there is something to assemble.

Urgent U.N. meet over Israeli raids

EASTER PRAYER

In this unusual photo Lonna Chacon prays in front of the cross at Mt. Davidson in San Francisco as Easter lillies frame the scene. Curvature of the cross is caused by optical qualities of camera lens.

Lebanon asks for session of of Council

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations Saturday called an urgent meeting of the Security Council for Monday to discuss the Israeli raids inside southern Lebanon.

The U.N. spokesman said the meeting was called at the request of Lebanon, which asked for the session in a letter received Saturday.

The spokesman declined to release the contents of the letter.

Earlier, U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said he "deeply deplores" Friday night's Israeli raids on Lebanon and warned they may undermine current peace efforts in the Middle East.

Waldheim on Friday issued a statement deploring the Palestine Arab guerrlila attack on Qiryat Shemona in Israel.

"The Secretary General has consistently condemned such acts of violence," Waldheim said through his spokesman Saturday in connection with the Israeli raids into Lebanon.

It goes without saying that deeply deplores yesterday's raids into Lebanese territory. He repeats his view that such acts may affect adversely the efforts underway to reach a just and lasting settlement in the Middle East."

Israeli warplanes flew air strikes Saturday against Syrian forces that punched through the Golan Heights cease-fire lines near strategic Mount Hermon, the Tel Aviv military command said.

The command said the air attacks came after the Syrians fired surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) at Israeli patrol planes over the Heights, the first time the Syrians have used the weapons since the October Middle East war.

In Damascus, a military communique said Syrian defense units shot down three and possibly four Israeli warplanes. The Israelis denied the reports.

Syrian and Israeli forces also traded artillery and tank fire on the Heights for the 33rd consecutive day.

Despite the heightened tension on the Israeli-Syrian front, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger confirmed in Washington Saturday that he would return to the Middle East again, probably within the next two weeks.

Kissinger, architect of the troop withdrawal agreement between Israel and Egypt, made the announcement after receiving detailed new proposals from Syria for a troop disengagement on the northern front.

The Tel Aviv military command announced early Saturday that crack commando units had attacked a cluster of villages and blown up buildings in southern Lebanon.

The Israeli raids on the six villages came less than 48 hours after an Arab "suicide squad" struck into the nearby Israeli border village of Qiryat Shemona, killing 16 residents and two security officers. The three Arab attackers later died in an explosion.

Jerusalem has blamed Lebanon for the suicide attack, claiming Beirut gives sanctuary to the guerrillas.

"If the Lebanese government will allow terrorist headquarters to enjoy their freedom and convenience in Beirut and at night they will cross the border into Israel, I think that eventually a good part of Lebanon will be destoyed and deserted," Dayan said following Saturday's raids.

Lebanon said it would ask for an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council in New York to file a complaint against the Israeli raid.

Supervisor to seek end to L.A. County odd-even plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline distribution plan is no longer needed in the county because gas supplies are increasing, according to Supervisor James Hayes who will move Tuesday to end the program.

Hayes, chairman of the county's energy committee, announced he would introduce a motion at the next supervisors meeting to abandon the mandatory program that began March 1.

He said federal allocations of gasoline are increasing and new fuel arrivals from the Middle East are expected.

Shell Oil Co. has announced the county will receive 102 per cent of its 1972 allotment for the county fleet of 6,500 vehicles in April and probably again in May.

Hayes warned, however, against a "gas burning binge" when the odd-even plan is lifted. He said a return to panic buying and the practice of topping off gas tanks could bring it back quickly.

Communications era opens with WU satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — America's first domestic satellite was launched into a pink and orange sunset Saturday, opening a new era in communications by cutting some costs by as much as 50 per cent.

The Westar, first of two Western Union satellites, lifted off from the Cape at 7:33 p.m. EDT in what observers called a "perfectly beautiful" launch.

A Delta rocket lifted the 1,265-pound, drum-shaped satellite into orbit.

Twenty-six minutes after liftoff, the space agency reported that Westar had gone into its highly eliptical orbit and that all systems were functioning properly.

Westar will remain in the orbit ranging from about 140 miles to 22,300 miles from Earth for about 3-½ days. A spacecraft motor will then be fired to position the satellite in a stationary orbit 22,300 miles from Earth over the equator.

Western Union officials hope to have the system operational by mid-summer. "The firms that will realize the full impact are the larger companies that use long distance communications," said Robert Garbarini, group vice president for Western Union. "There will be substantial reductions on the order of 50 per cent in their bills. Smaller companies will be in a better position to use private telephone wire systems."

Telephone lines from New York to Los Angeles now costing about $2,500 per month can be acquired for about $1,000 with a functioning Westar. Television channels costing about $2.4 million per year will drop to under $2 million.

Each of the satellite's 12 channels will be able to handle 7,000 calls or one color television circuit each, or relay words and data at the rate of eight million-words per second.

For $2, a 100-word message could be sent via satellite to the nearest post office where it would be delivered to the addressee with the next mail, sometimes the same day.

A second Westar will be launched in June with a third held in reserve for backup or extra service. The satellites, built by Hughes Aircraft, cost about $8.3 million each.

Western Union pays NASA $8.7 million for the Delta rocket and launch costs connected with each satellite. Including ground stations, Western Union's total investment is about $90 million.

Weakened Pope delivers traditional message

Easter marked in solemnity, parades

By United Press International

Still weak from influenza, Pope Paul was to celebrate Easter Mass for more than 100,000 persons in St. Peter's Square Sunday, then deliver his traditional "Urbi et Orbi" message—to the city and the world.

The 76-year-old pontiff, who suffered two bouts of flu recently, passed up Holy Saturday services for rest in his private apartments.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul had fully recovered from his illness, but remained somewhat weak.

Rome was bulging with tourists and pilgrims, tens of thousands of whom stood near the Colosseum Friday night to watch the Pope—against his doctors' wishes—bear a seven-pound wooden cross in a torchlit Way of the Cross procession through Rome's ruins.

Greek Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the two million Greek Orthodox Christians in North and South America, summed up the meaning of Easter for Christians when he called it "a day that can be honored only with light, only with the early-waking spirit.

"For the day that breaks is the Day of Resurrection," the primate said in a message read in Greek Orthodox churches Saturday night. "Not even the graves can withstand the force of its coming."

The Holy Land itself was flooded with Christian tourists, but the atmosphere was hardly serene. Israeli soldiers armed with machine guns patrolled the gates of Jerusalem's Walled City on Good Friday as pilgrims chanted prayers and sung hymns, pausing at each of the 14 stations where Christ is supposed to have rested en route to His crucifixion.

In New York, short skirts may be the most appropriate accompaniment to Easter bonnets in the traditional parade down Fifth Avenue. The National Weather Service revised soggier predictions and forecast partly sunny skies and balmy temperatures.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., President Nixon remained secluded in his bayside villa for what was called a "working vacation."

Along with the President and Mrs. Nixon were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Cox, and two aides, press secretary Ronald Ziegler and White House chief of staff Alexander Haig.

The First Family is expected to attend Easter services in the Miami area and head back to Washington early next week.

Nixon aide, hired to improve links with Congress, quits

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Presidential aides confirmed Saturday that Bryce Harlow, who was hired by the White House to help improve relations with Congress, has resigned at a time when the House Judiciary Committee is investigating grounds for impeachment of President Nixon.

Nixon, who came here with his family for the Easter holiday "working vacation," remained out of sight at his bayside villa, apparently focusing on major foreign policy matters rather than his struggle against impeachment.

A White House spokesman said the President reviewed the latest flare-ups in the Middle East and discussions he had Friday in Washington with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to lay the groundwork for another summit conference in Moscow next June.

The White House account of Nixon's activities gave no indication that he had devoted any time to the impeachment battle and it made no mention of Harlow's resignation as counselor to the President, a position he assumed last July to help rebuild the Watergate-decimated White House staff.

But presirential aides, who confirmed Harlow's resignation, noted that he had said some time ago that he would be stepping down and indicated that his decision to leave would not be a major setback in Nixon's efforts to stay in office.

Harlow, 57, was widely respected on Capitol Hill after serving as head of the White House congressional liaison staff during the first two years of Nixon's initial term. It was generally known that the President asked him and former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to work at the White House last year to help improve relations with Congress as the Watergate coverup was coming unglued.

Three killed in fiery plane crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A single-engine private airplane crashed on takeoff from Bolton field and burst into flames here Saturday, killing all three persons aboard, police said.

Dennis Nicholas of the airport police said the Cherokee 140 burst into flames immediately after losing power on takeoff and crashing some 200 yards off the runway.

May be political assassination

Cuban exile leader slain

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — A Cuban exile leader whose promised invasion of his homeland failed to materialize four years ago was shot to death as he watched television in the living room of his elegant home.

Police said Saturday they had no clues leading to the assailant who Friday night fired through the living room window and fatally wounded former Cuban Agriculture Minister Jose de la Torriente, 69.

A source close to the family said Torriente had recently received a threatening note that was "political" in nature.

Miami's "Little Havana" section buzzed with speculation that it was a political assassination.

Homicide Lt. James Green said no one saw the sniper.

"It happened so fast, nobody saw anything," Green said.

"They shot him in the back," said Thomas Relado," Torriente's grandson.

"He took his risks, but he never thought anything like this could happen in a city in a country like this," Relado said. "His only enemies were the Communists."

Castro had accused Torriente, who would have been 70 next week, of working for the CIA.

Torriente had drawn the normally politically fragmented Cuban community as close together as it had been since the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion with his 1970 pledge to invade Cuba by Christmas.

That invasion never materialized, but Torriente's militant "Cuban Liberation Force" in 1971 claimed credit for launching on a raid two 31-foot speedboats from a mother ship off the Cuban coast.

The government of Premier Fidel Castro called the raid which killed two persons and left four wounded a "pirate attack."

Torriente continued to travel throughout the hemisphere seeking support for his plans for revolution, but recently had been under fire for paying too much attention to his real estate development firm and not enough to his anti-Castro activities.

There were also charges he was using money raised for exile causes for his firm, TM Land Development.

A dynamite blast wrecked a house still under construction by his firm south of here last year. But Torriente continued to deny the accusations, charging that Castro agents in Miami were trying to smear him.

Girl, man pulled from pool in Bonelli Swim Park rescues

SAN DIMAS — You can tell summer's nearly here, by the number of rescues reported at Bonelli Swim Park.

Two persons, a 12-year-old La Puente girl and an unidentified male adult, were pulled from the huge pool by lifeguards Saturday after they encountered problems while swimming.

The girl, Hortencia Cervantes of 340 N. Balham Ave., fell off an innertube at 3:45 p.m. and apparently couldn't swim, sheriff's deputieo said.

She was pulled to the surface by an adult swimmer and later given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by lifeguards. The girl was transported to San Dimas Community Hospital, where she was listed in good condition.

Deputies said the unidentified man was trying to swim the width of the pool when he ran out of breath and had to be rescued. He reportedly also was taken to the hospital but was in good condition.

THE GREAT RACE

Candy eggs were on the minds of all Saturday at Chino City Park as small legs churned into action in a mad dash for thousands of chocolate treats. Several hundred kids took part in the Easter event.

State clerks on welfare

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — As many as 11.5 per cent of California's 30,000 state clerical workers are paid so little they may qualify for welfare, an employes group spokesman says.

Hugh MacColl, legislative advocate for state Clerical and Allied Services Employes (CASE) representing about 4,000 state employes, says some of them already are on welfare rolls.

The average monthly take-home pay for many secretaries, clerk typists and filers is around $450 per month, MacColl told a news conference Friday.

Because of this, he said, many single and separated women working these jobs are unable to support their families and have turned to welfare for family survival.

"These people are not welfare loafers and chiselers," he said. "These are people who work a 40-hour week."

"A survey in a Northern California county showed that 11.5 per cent of the state clerical workers in that county qualified for welfare income supplements, such as food stamps," MacColl said.

He said his organization has not been able to get figures from the Social Welfare Department to determine the number of clerical workers receiving welfare statewide.

"But I think the 11.5 per cent may be a representative figure statewide," MacColl said.

His organization advocates that all employes receive a $100 "across the board" raise this year—$50 in salary and $50 in fringe benefits. MacColl said clerical workers make up the largest group of the state's 120,000 full-time employes.

To bolster his argument, MacColl introduced two female employes who worked for the state, qualified for, and received Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments.

"I know a lot of girls who are on welfare and work for state government," said Linda Howard, a state clerk.

Miss Howard, who is divorced and has a child, said she takes home about $362.55 each month.

Mulrooney has role in Mexico seminar

CLAREMONT — City Manager Keith Mulrooney has been given permission by the City Council to attend a training seminar for mayors at Mexico City April 18-20.

Mulrooney reported to the council the School of Administration at the University of California has a contract with the state of Mexico to provide training for governmental officials.

Dr. Wesley Bjur of Claremont will operate the program. He invited three city managers from the eastern United States and three from the western United States to participate.

All expenses will be paid by the state of Mexico.

Ruse leads to rape of woman in Pomona; two men sought

POMONA — Police are searching for two men who broke into an apartment here Saturday and raped an 18-year-old woman after tricking her boyfriend into leaving the residence.

Officers said the pair had forced their way into the apartment in the 1300 block of Murietta while the victims were asleep, about 9:15 a.m.

The victims were "religious," police indicated and offered to help the suspects. The boyfriend, Reginald Malone, 25, agreed to drive to Covina with one of the suspects on a motorcycle to pick up a car, and bring it back to Pomona.

When they arrived in Covina, the suspect spotted another motorcycle having mechanical problems, and asked the victim to get off so he could tow it.

After Malone was dropped off, the suspect drove back to Pomona and joined his companion in the assault.

The two men were described as male Caucasians, one in his 30's, both with tatoos of women. The motorcycle used in the incident was a purple Harley Davidson "chopper."

DILIGENT SEARCH

With the green lawns of the Chino City Park swept clean, the hunt Saturday for candy Easter eggs quickly focused on the park's hedges where youngsters left nothing unturned.

3 U.S. naval officers slain at Subic Bay

MANILA (UPI) — Three American naval officers were shot and killed in an ambush Saturday while inspecting road construction in an isolated corner of the big Subic Bay U.S. naval base, 50 miles northwest of Manila, a Navy spokesman said.

"There is no indication at this time" that Communist Hukbalahap guerrillas killed the officers, the spokesman, Lt. Cmdr. Keith Schacher, said in reply to a question. "We are conducting an investigation of this tragic incident and we certainly won't speculate on anything."

The three victims, all commissioned officers, were riding a jeep Saturday morning along a boundary road on the northeastern edge of the base when they were shot.

"The group was on an inspection tour traveling toward a Seabee (construction battalion) team working on the northern section of the road," Schacher said. He said the ambush site was within the base itself and about seven miles from the base headquarters.

Schacher said members of the Seabee team about half a mile away heard the shooting and rushed to the scene to find the three officers dead.

The naval station was promptly noti-

Bomb blast at Lebanese consulate

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A small bomb exploded in a hallway outside the Lebanese consulate Saturday shortly after an anonymous caller phoned UPI to take responsibility, saying "never again."

Police said the device, which went off at 2:45 p.m., caused minimal damage and there were no injuries.

Shortly before the blast, a young woman called the UPI bureau saying a bomb had been placed at the office and that Jewish people "would never be massacred again."

The caller ended the message with "never again," a common catch phrase of the militant Jewish Defense League.

House nixes hearing, says too sensitive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has dismissed as too sensitive a proposed inquiry into the controversial United States military alert during the Middle East War last October 24-25.

The resolution, introduced by Reps. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., and Fortney H. "Pete" Stark, D-Calif., required Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to turn over all the messages between President Nixon and Soviet officials and a list of all the actions taken during the crisis. It was tabled on a voice vote.

The alert, which put U.S. military forces at their highest stage of readiness and included preparation of nuclear weapons, was criticized as too precipitous and too likely to lead to a confrontation with Russia.

Pay, housing, milk prices on Walnut school agenda

WALNUT — Teachers in the Walnut School District are expected to present proposals for salary increases and fringe benefits for 1974-75 to school trustees Monday night.

The board will also consider approval of a milk price boost in district cafeterias during the 7:30 p.m. meeting scheduled for Walnut High School's multipurpose room.

Further information also will be available for the board on pupil housing plans next year in the Vejar-Walnut schools area. Trustees discussed alternatives to overcrowded classrooms at Suzanne Intermediate School and in the Diamond Bar area at the last meeting.

Board members also will consider an "affirmative action" program relating to employment practices. If approved, the district would have to actively seek members of minorities for employment.

Also on the agenda Monday will be a status report of the search for a new vice principal at Walnut High, and possible approval of a minimum day at the high school April 29 for a staff workshop on career education and development.

Water diet may be hazardous

CHICAGO (UPI) — For some, the so-called water diet may be hazardous to health, an article in the Journal of the American medical Association warns.

The diet, sometimes promoted as a quick, easy solution to obesity, requires intake of at least eight glasses of water daily and restricts consumption of carbohydrates.

The article said not only is the weight loss only temporary, but it causes an immediate rise in cholesterol. This "probably" does not harm healthy young people, the article said, but others should be wary.

"One must consider the potential effects of the prolonged or repetitve use of this diet by middle-aged persons who may have coronary artery disease," the article said.

On death row, but technically he's free man

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Sam Poole, technically a free man, will spend Easter Sunday on death row in the North Carolina Central Prison.

Poole, the last person convicted of first degree burglary under a phased-out state law which specified the death penalty for the offense, has been on death row since last August. The legislature has since rewritten the law, deleting the death penalty.

"It seems kinda screwy," said Poole's lawyer, Adam Smith of Chapel Hill.

Poole, 31, was convicted 11 months ago of a first degree burglary in which no one was hurt and nothing was stolen. He was ordered last August to death row.

But the only thing holding him from freedom now is red tape.

The North Carolina Supreme Court last Wednesday ruled there was insufficient evidence to convict Poole and ordered him released and not to be tried again.

That put it up to the court clerk, Adrian Newton, to prepare the necessary papers and mail them to Judge Maurice Braswell, who presided at Poole's original trial.

But because of Supreme Court policy Newton cannot prepare the papers until the second Monday after the decision was reached —April 22. In turn, Braswell cannot order Poole freed until he gets the papers, and prison officials say they are powerless until they hear from the judge.

Meanwhile, Poole sits in jail.

Newton said he could get the needed papers ready "within 20 minutes if the court tells me to." Four of the seven judges need only tell the clerk to do so, but he cannot do it on his own.

"Poole's entitled to his release, but there's a procedure that we go through . . ." said Associate Justice Carlisle W. Higgins, his voice trailing off.

Another of Poole's lawyers, Wayne Robbins of Southern Pines, said he plans to "pursue this immediately."

Robbins hopes to have Poole out of jail perhaps by next weekend.

Moretti raps big oil for 'cashing in'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti Saturday criticized the oil industry for "cashing in" on the "great personal hardship" created by the energy crisis.

Moretti, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said he supported a proposed initiative to place the oil industry under the regulation of the state Public Utilities Commission.

In a statement, Moretti said the top 22 oil companies earned $9.1 billion in net profits last year.

"People have every right to resent an oil industry cashing in excessively in a period of great personal hardship for most others," the Van Nuys lawmaker said.

"But the public should be outraged by the fact the oil companies will get off without paying anywhere near a fair share of taxes on those immense profits."

Moretti declared 19 oil companies shaved $1.1 billion from their tax obligation as a result of the foreign tax credit in 1970.

"Meanwhile, the cost of living spurred on by soaring fuel prices, rose so fast in 1973 that workers who were lucky enough to win a pay raise still wound up deep in the hole at the end of the year," Moretti stated.

Wiggins sets talk on radio

Congressman Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., a member of the House Judiciary Committee currently concerned with impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, will be a guest on radio station KMPC's Forum tonight at 10:05.

Wiggins will be interviewed for 25 minutes by KMPC newsmen Paul Pierce and Bob Steinbrinck.

Party host jailed

COVINA — Sheriff's deputies broke up a loud party at a residence here and arrested a 20-year-old Covina man on charges of obstructing an officer. Arnold Gene Genardini, who lives at 5114 Arroway Ave., where the party was held, was booked Friday night after he tried to stop a deputy from searching the house.

Colombianos de E.U. votaran para su pais

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los habitántes de Colombia iran a las casillas electorales el dia 21 de Abril para escoger nuevo presidente, y campanas politicas estan tomando lugar no solamente en Bogota, sino tambien en la ciudad de Nueva York donde miles de colombianos han encontrado un hogar.

La mayoria de los expatriados son, sugen la ley colombiana, elegibles para votar y los doe partidos politicos de mas importancia en Colombia, Los Conservadores y los Liberales, quieren su voto a toda costa que han organizado su cuartel general de campana en uno de los principales centros de la nacion.

Los Liberales y Conservadores tienen su cuartel general en esta ciudad.

Un vocero del partido Liberal-quien prefirio no dar su nombre, solamente dijo que tenia 86 anos de edad y era "un veterano de la Primera Guerra Mundial"-dijo que bajo la constitucion colombiana, colombianos viviendo fuera del pais tienen permiso o se les permite votar, con papeleta de ausente, y solamente en elecciones presidenciales tal como esta del 21 de este mes.

El vocero dijo que el dia de la eleccion cuatro casillas electorales estaran a disposicion de los ciudadanos colombianos en el consulado de este pais en Nueva York y otros en el centro colombiano en Manhattan.

Todo lo que los votantes deben de hacer, el dijo, es probar que son colombianos de 21 anos de edad y registrarse.

Aunque no se sabe exactamente, se figura que hay 160,000 colombianos viviendo en la ciudad de Nueva York, y mas de 500,000 en los Estados Unidos.

Tom's claim to fame may be hard to prove

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Big Red, our orange and white tomcat, has fathered most of the kittens in our neighborhood. They look just like him. Most of the neighborhood cats, I mean. Yesterday I met this fellow on the other side of the block that's claiming his male cat is the best stud in the neighborhood. He's sneaky and lucky because his male is orange and white, too, so, of course, he's claiming Big Red's kittens are his. This isn't a bit fair to Big Red and I'd like to prove this guy is all wet. How can I got about this? — N. A.

Dear N. A.: Big Red's claim to fame would be hard to prove under these circumstances unless: (a) you relied on involved and expensive laboratory procedures or (b) you actually knew which of these male cats was dominant They are close enough that undoubtedly this already has been worked out. Other things being equal, the dominant male would rate with a greater percentage of available females than would the subordinate male. Actually, for the sake of the cats in your neighborhood (and an even larger area), it would be far better to call off this contest completely and have both of these males neutered at once. Better early than late, but better late than never, in helping to reduce the surplus cat population.

Big Red and rival would be ruined romantically but they would be better pets and would probably have a longer life span in which to reminisce.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In checking over my new, to me, corn snake. I have gotten little dust-sized specks on my hand that move. They must be some kind of a bug. Could they be harmful to the snake or did they just happen to be on him? What do you think they are? Or would that have to be a wild guess? — H. H.

Dear H. H.: One "wild" guess would be that these fast-moving specks are immature mites. If so, there might be some adult females on your snake. These would appear as small but very obvious shiny red or black beads. Mites may be removed by washing the entire snake in warm water and wiping it down with cotton. It would then have to be placed in clean, mite-free surroundings.

Young sister is different

By JEAN ADAMS

DIFFERENT: (Q) My brother and sister are older than I am, and are away at college. They were never very popular in high school, but I am. My parents don't realize how different I am. They restrict me from doing things I enjoy simply because my brother and sister never did these things.

I've tried talking to them, but they just won't look at it my way. — Little Sister in Pennsylvania

(A) Every child is different and should be treated as an individual. Parents should encourage each child to develop his or her personal good points. They should also remember that customs change and must be adjusted to.

But at the same time they should guard the physical and mental health and the personal safety of each child. And they should guide the child so that he or she can be useful in society.

If your parents let you do anything you wanted to just because you are different, they might be hurting you instead of helping you. Try to see their side. If you can, and if you are understanding, it will be easier for them to see your side and understand it.

TALKER: (Q) What do you think of a girl who says she likes you but talks behind your back? I really like Cindy, but she talks about me and it hurts. — Cindy's Boy Friend in Florida

(A) Let Cindy know she is hurting you Ask her to stop. If she does, you will know she really likes you. If she doesn't stop, drop her.

Streaker with hobby horse gallops away

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Ye Olde Meat Shoppe was streaked recently by a young man with a sense of the appropriate.

The nude man entered the store astride a hobby horse, looked over the meat, and galloped off.

The shoppe sells only horse meat.

It was reported that one of the witnesses remarked, as the nude stranger disappeared into the sunset: "Who was that unmasked man, anyway?"

"Miracle Cure"

5,000 YEAR OLD CHINESE HEALTH REMEDY FOUND

PEKING (Special)— Health researchers in China have uncovered an amazing rare old Chinese herb remedy that possesses spectacular healing qualities and reportedly has been used for 5,000 years to cure or give relief to a host of the most common illnesses suffered by mankind. Dramatic claims are being made that this "miracle herb" called ginseng, may actually hold the key to a longer healthier life. Indeed, there is one historical case of a user living to be 256 years old.

Helps Many Illnesses

Like acupuncture, the many healing properties of this remarkable herb were once considered "folklore and superstition", but modern researchers around the world are suggesting that it may actually regulate many of the body's processes to increase SEXUAL potency, help heal ULCERS relieve ARTHRITIS, check graying or loss of HAIR, improve DIGESTION, slow down ARTERIOSCLEROSIS, relieve ASTHMA overcome FATIGUE, improve DIABETIC conditions, relieve inflammation of the URINARY TRACT, help chronic INSOMNIA, relieve BACKACHES and PAINS and generally improve your health by increasing your body's potential to heal itself.

Safe, No Side Effects

Ginseng is not a drug, but an herb or vegetable that is extremely rich in vitamins and minerals. What's more, this amazing natural remedy is completely safe and non-toxic with no side effects. Unfortunately, high-grade ginseng is in short supply, and brokers and processors around the world are bracing themselves for a "run" on the market as the herb's purported "near miraculous" healing properties become more widely known to the general public.

Now Available in U.S.

Now you can get a generous 30-day supply of this amazing natural remedy direct from a major supplier by sending only $10.00 in check, cash or money order to Health Laboratories, Dept. I, Box 2142, Palm Springs, Calif. 92262. This wonder herb is said to have helped millions of other people, and it may help your health problem too. Isn't it worth a try?

Prop. 9 group forms in 35th Congress Dist.

CLAREMONT — Local volunteer members of the California Coalition for Proposition 9 have chosen Dr. Peter P. Dawson, Cal Poly Pomona professor of management, as chairman of the ballot measure drive in the 35th Congressional District.

The group held its organizational meeting last week and set the next meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Claremont United Methodist Church.

Dawson calls Proposition 9 "the most significant reform proposal ever placed before the voters of any state." He believes it will bring essential open-government reforms to all levels of California government, and will put the Congress on notice that citizens of this country will accept nothing less.

Dawson said that the reform measure goes beyond any legislation passed or pending before the state Legislature, and proposes not only limiting expenditures for political campaigns but also effective disclosures of lobbying and conflict of interests by a nonpartisan Fair Political Practices Committee, done at no cost and eventual savings to the taxpayer.

Proposition 9 was written at the request of Common Cause, and has been endorsed by the League of Women Voters, the Southern California Council of Churches, the American Association of Retired Persons, and the California Teachers Association.

Working with Dawson in the local drive are Mrs. Helen Collins, La Verne; Mrs. Louise Solomon, Alta Loma; and Bishop H. B. Amstutuz, Miss Florence Lerrigo and Dr. R. Wilbur Simmons of Claremont.

GERALD WOLF will serve as the 1974-75 president of Serrano Junior High School PTA in Montclair. Other new officers are Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald first vice president; Mrs. Fred Levers second vice president; Mrs. David Click secretary; Mrs. Charles Smith treasurer; Dotti Barry, auditor; and Mrs. Robert Bannister, historian.

Drug group plans Mexico gifts trip

CHINO — Approximately 30 members and volunteers from Jericho Outreach, a rehabilitation center and halfway house for drug addicts, will make a good-will trip Saturday to the small village of Ejido in Sonora, Mexico.

They will spend one day at the isolated village, said Sonny Navarro, director of Jericho Outreach. During their stay, the members will conduct church services and distribute clothing, food and toys.

Contributions of canned food and money to cover transportation costs are now being sought, said Navarro.

Persons wishing to donate food or money may contact Jericho Outreach at 5151 F St., Chino, phone 628-9266.

School, city parley in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The school board will host the City of Claremont at a workshop about joint city-school district use of facilities Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Condit Elementary School.

Superintendent R. S. Kirkendall will report on the seismic study made by a private firm at the district's Sage school site and La Puerta Intermediate School. Both locations are south of Thompson Creek flood control channel.

The city by Sept. 20 must adopt a seismic safety policy.

Reports will be received by the school board, the City Council, and the city Parks and Recreation Commission on women's sports, the extended day program at Claremont High School, summer school and adult school.

The workshop from 7:30 to 9 p.m. will also cover subjects such as tennis, gym, the Youth Activity Center, and recreation fields.

The City Council and Parks and Recreation Commission will adjourn to the Chamber of Commerce office for a joint meeting.

The council is expected to award a contract on the emergency operating center for the new police station.

The master plan for James Higginbotham Park and Sycamore Canyon will be discussed.

The school board will hold its personnel session from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. before the workshop.

At 9 p.m. the regular school board meeting will start, with a needs assessment report from district parents.

Dr. Kirkendall will report on his meeting with the Certificated Employe Council after discussion about the proposed grievance policy which would replace the school board as a final step in an employe grievance with a three-member panel.

The board is expected to approve courses for summer school, and to authorize the staff to seek appraisals of the Sage school site.

The board will review the class schedule currently used at El Roble Intermediate School.

WHAT IS AT STAKE — WHAT ARE THE REAL ISSUES

1. Is Your Property Worthless ??
*Pomona Has over 750 vacant, abandoned homos... This is a major problem for this city. THOMAS HUGHES submitted a plan to the Pomona City Council on Nov. 2, 1973 to solve the problem. To this date, no action has been taken.
2. Over 50% of the employees on Pomona's payroll live outside the city limits.
*If a person earns his livlihood from city coffers, he has an obligation to live in Pomona and pay his fair share of the cost of city services and improvements.
3. What about Revenue Sharing Funds ??
*Outside help to finance needed improvements in Pomona is an absolute necessity. Needs in the blighted area are just too great to be met completely out of the pockets of the local taxpayer.

Feminism talk slated at LVC

LA VERNE — Psychoterapist and author Charlotte Clinebell will be the principal speaker Tuesday at a La Verne College discussion on feminism.

She will discuss ideas from her book, "Meet Me in the Middle," and lead a group discussion designed to help women become more conscious of their own feelings.

The seminar will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the President's Dining Room, Davenport Dining Hall.

La Verne Fire being studied

LA VERNE — Firemen are conducting an investigation to determine the cause of a fire which did an estimated $5,000 damage to the house at 2701 Damien Ave. Saturday about 4 a.m.

They said the fire originated in the kitchen, but smoke damage was heavy throughout the house. There were no injuries.

Class offered in latest first aid

CLAREMONT — A revised standard first aid and personal safety course will be held at the Claremont Red Cross chapter, 265 N. Indian Hill Blvd., beginning Tuesday.

Classes will be held every Tuesday for five weeks from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Gary Kraus will instruct the course.

Pomona inmate escapes on ruse

POMONA — A 16-year-old burglary suspect escaped from the Pomona jail Friday afternoon by posing as another prisoner who was due to be released.

According to police, the youth threatened another smaller youngster with injury and forced him to switch indentification bands.

When the second boy's mother arrived to obtain her son's release, the 16-year-old was released by the jailer and simply walked out of the police station.

The escape wasn't discovered until the woman again asked for her son's release.

Square dancers in library show

POMONA — A demonstration of square dancing and calls and a brief talk on the history and meaning of dances will be held in the north patio of the Pomona Public Library Tuesday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Performing will be members of the Sawdusters Square Dance Group. Howard McCreery of Upland will be the caller.

The group offers weekly lessons from September through May. Otis Mitchell of Pomona, 624-3186, is the president of the Sawdusters.

Peg-Leg Smith and the Strange Black Pebbles

Thomas L. Smith was born in Garrard County, Kentucky, in 1801. He became a Missouri riverboat man, a ferocious fighter, a fearless adventurer.

Perhaps tiring of the "crowds" of settled America, he took up fur trapping in the vast wilds of what are now the states of New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona. While in the Grand River country he was shot in the left leg by an Indian. He asked his companions to amputate his leg, but they were afraid to do so. Having a distaste for a slow death by gangrene poisoning, he took a knife and cut off his own leg. Surprisingly, he lived, fashioned a palo verde peg for himself, and stumped into the history of the West. His courage won him great prestige with the Utes, and he lived with them for many years. They called him Wa-be-to-co.

Sometime between 1829 and 1836 Smith and some companions forded the Colorado and headed across the desert for the Mexican pueblos along the coast. When they became lost, Peg-Leg climbed the tallest of three closely grouped buttes. After getting his bearings he saw some odd black pebbles, and put a few in his pocket. Time passed and Smith found himself in San Francisco, where he had the pebbles assayed. They were almost pure gold, with a black encrustation. From this point on the mystery of where Peg-Leg's mine lay takes a hundred different routes. There was no mine, really — merely the exposed nuggets of what must have been a fabulously rich vein.

But Peg-Leg never found it again. Neither has anyone else, although professional and amateur prospectors have scurried about the desert wastes for more than 125 years. Some authorities say the lost lode was in a valley called Holcomb in the San Bernardino Mountains, which contained three small buttes and a fairly rich layer of alluvial gold just a few inches under the topsoil. All of this was grubbed up by eager prospectors nearly 100 years ago. There's no real proof Smith's find was there, though. Perhaps it's still waiting to be discovered!

Along with his trusted Utes, Smith spent the next 20 years stealing horses from the Californios. In 1848 he carried out the greatest horse-stealing raid of all time, in which prized stock from San Diego to Santa Clara was swept up. Eyewitnesses told of a dust cloud visible 30 miles away as 5,000 horses were sent racing up the Cajon Pass. Some of these horses were shipped as far as Galveston, Texas, and on to the West Indies. Peg-Leg and his pals found horse stealing far more profitable than fur trapping or hunting for a golden butte. They didn't stop stealing horses until California came under the American flag. Smith lived mostly in San Francisco after that, and died in 1862. And the last of the wild horse herds, formed all those years ago by horses that couldn't match the fierce pace of the Indian outriders, was exterminated by hunters in Apple Valley in 1948.

Have you thought of looking for Peg-Leg's butte?

It could be a marvelous pastime — as long as you make sure that's all it becomes. Because looking for a lost mine that untold thousands have been unable to find is no way to prepare for the future. It's a lot more satisfying to know that your savings are growing steadily and safely... to know you have the brand of security and growth that comes with a savings account at Upland Savings.

Upland Savings is the largest California chartered savings and loan association in the Upland/Ontario area, with assets now in excess of $30,000,000. We can give you the nation's highest interest on your savings. In fact, no other insured financial institution, regardless of size or location, can legally pay you higher interest or offer you greater insurance than we do.

Here's just one example. Save $50 a month for 15 years, and at today's interest rates you would then be able to take an income of $50 a month for as long as you wanted, without ever touching your capital. And all the while we'd be reinvesting your savings in your community, helping to make it a better place for all of us.

Why don't you stop by and ask us about the many different types of accounts we can offer you? You'll find a host of free services to choose from, too. All yours with a friendly, personal we're-your-neighbors touch.

So forget about Peg-Leg's mine. (And don't try horse stealing; feed and stall space cost an awful lot these days!) Begin a savings program at Upland Savings instead. It's one good habit you should have.

Teen in house, Dad's a loser

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK

Our teen-age son was rummaging around our bathroom the other day when he yelled to his father, "Where do you hide your aftershave lotion?"

My husband opened the medicine chest, handed him the bottle and observed, "You didn't have any trouble finding my tennis shorts."

"Mine are dirty," he said defensively. "I suppose you want me to streak at the tennis courts and get my name in the paper. By the way, you're out of mouthwash. Better pick up some your next trip out."

"Thanks," said his father dryly.

"Incidentally," he said, "you don't mind if I borrow your sweater, do you? You never wear it."

"How can I when it's never off your back," said his father. "And while we're on the subject, that's my racket."

"Don't worry about it," he said. "I'll probably never use it. It's just a back-up in case I break a string. Actually I've never cared much for your racket. It's too light and the grip is too small. Why dn't you try a bigger grip the next time?"

"I'll remember," said his father.

"Where are your car keys? They were here on the chest a few minutes ago and now they're gone. I swear someone is always walking off with them. I'm late now," he said shaking a watch and holding it to his ear. "That is, unless your watch is gaining again. You know, Dad, I think this dude has had its day."

His father reached for the hat on his head, turned it over and read his own initials inside. "THAT'S MY HAT!" he exclaimed.

"I know. I left mine in Buck's car. Besides, how can I wear your shirt without the hat? It matches."

"That's true," mumbled his father.

"Incidentally, Dad, you got a few bucks in case we don't get the court right away and we have to kill some time eating?"

His father dug in his pocket and peeled off two one-dollar bills. "What time will you be home?" he asked.

At that moment, the son's body in the borrowed apparel looked at his father incredulously, "Dad! For crying out loud. Do you realize how old I am? I'm not a child anylonger. I'm my own man who stands on his own two feet. I'm a person who has to swing free and make his own life. You've gotta let go. Don't you understand? I've gotta be me!"

My husband and I exchanged glances. Somehow, it made more sense when Sammy Davis Jr. sang it.

American's book angers Yugoslavs

BELGRADE (UPI) — A new book by an American diplomat has angered the Yugoslav Communist Party hierarchy for contradicting the official version of the Partisan struggle against the German occupiers during World War II.

Yugoslav newspapers have attacked Walter Roberts' "Tito, Mihailovic and the Allies, 1941-45" as a "slanderous pamphlet" which has "falsified history."

The book, which is banned in Yugoslavia, seeks to restore the reputation of the discredited General Dragoljub-Draza Mihailovic, leader of the Chetnik remnants of the Yugoslav royalist forces, and says that President Tito was prepared to collaborate with the occupying Nazi forces in the last years of the war.

Roberts, an assistant director of the United States Information Agency, based his work on hitherto unpublished U.S. diplomatic archive material which recorded that in 1943 Tito sent a three-man delegation to negotiate an exchange of prisoners with the Germans and discuss calling a truce.

Roberts backed this up quoting from a telegram written by the German minister in Zagreb during the war, Siegfried Kasche, to German foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Referring to the German-Partisan talks Kasche said it was possible "that Tito and his supporters will cease to fight Germany, Italy and Croatia and retire to the Sandzak in order to settle matters with Mihailovic's Chetniks..."

Roberts, who was U.S. embassy counsellor in Belgrade from 1960-66, said no such agreement was made because Ribbentrop vetoed it. But Roberts' evidence that Tito tried to call it quits has seriously contradicted the official Yugoslav version of those years which pictures Tito and his Partisans as never wavering in their struggle against the Fascist occupiers.

It also adds irony to the fact that in 1946 Tito had Mihailovic executed for collaborating with the Germans—which, according to Roberts, Tito was prepared to do himself.

Military sources here, who are veterans of the war years, confirm that delegations were sent to hold talks with the Germans on exchanging prisoners, on securing recognition of the Partisan army in order that prisoners would be treated under the Geneva Convention, and to learn what kind of terms would be acceptable for a truce.

These sources maintain, however, that the Partisan delegations went tongue-in-cheek to such talks and did not take the discussions seriously. Their purpose was also partly to gather information, in the Yugoslav version.

In gegneral, Roberts' book pays tribute to the achievements of Tito and his Partisans even though the Yugoslavs complain, as one reviewer wrote, that he has used "proofs" that "do not correspond to the historical truth."

Witch doctor seen aid for mental cases

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A clinical psychologist who spent two years studying how Tanzanian witch doctors treat mental patients has concluded that less primitive cultures "have a lot to learn" from them.

"Western man is in a state of turmoil about the values by which he is going to live and...no one is treating the real problem," Dr. Herbert Rappaport of Temple University said Sunday. "We do have a lot to learn from them."

Rappaport said interviews with medicine men in Dar Es Salaam and tiny African tribal villages convinced him the witch doctors were "charasmatic men' who have an "astute awareness" of how such things as jealously or family conflicts can affect people.

He said medicine men sometime prescribe herbal remedies, perform an exorciso rite or other ceremonies to relieve their patients' mental problems.

Rappaport, given a two-year Fulbright Fellowship to study the Tanzanians, said that in a rite called Tambiko—used to overcome bad luck—a person's relatives participate in dances, rituals and feasts to help rid him of guilt and fear.

'OP' SCULPTURE — Helical and spiral coils and stamped formed elements fabricated in Detroit by the W. M. Chase subsidiary of GTE Sylvania are used by Kristi Riddle to create a piece of "op" sculpture. The material consists of two or three metals having widely different coefficients of thermal expansion. After bonding, the result is thermostatic metal or bimetal. Its most important characteristic is that it bends or deflects proportionally with temperature change and so can perform mechanical work.

Bit of the 1920s appears in new fashions for men

NEW YORK (UPI) — A little bit of the '20s look came into the picture at the recent Paris showings of winter men's fashions, including short haircuts on the models.

Popular were blazer-type cuts of jackets, wide trousers, highbuttoning waistcoats. Many of the jackets featured notched, wide lapels.

Vests showed up most in the country weekend fashions, tweedy stuff with jackets slightly shorter than we're seeing now and many without back vents.

Most of the pants were cuffless, but wide the full length. Narrow pants seem to be out, at least so far as French designers are concerned.

Coats and topcoats were predominantly just below-the knee in length, with roomy, rather straight designs. Turned back cuffs and raglan shoulder lines caught most of the attention. Belted models featured extra large collars, many of them furred.

Pleated pockets, both for suits and coats, were on many models, large and wide. Patch and flapped pockets were also popular, especially on the heavier overcoats.

Colorwise, big checks remained very much in evidence, particularly in the casual range of jackets and jeans. It looked like corduroy would be making a strong comeback, and there were quite a lot of gabardines.

The trenchcoat was, of course, still on the scene, a little bulkier in the new styles, narrowly belted and often with heavy fur collars.

For suiting there was less color splash than in some of the more recent showings and many of the outfits were shown in soft shades, green and brown predominating.

Vegetable supplies decrease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer supplies of fresh vegetables from April through June will be about 5 per cent smaller than in the same period last year, an Agriculture Department report showed today.

The report said potential production for 14 vegetable crops raised for the "fresh market" is currently estimated at 37.2 million hundredweight compared with 39 million hundredweight in the spring quarter od 1973.

The report indicated April-June production of tomatoes would be 3.986 million hundredweight compared with 4.567 million hundredweight last year. sweet corn production was expected to drop from 4.143 million hundredweight last spring to 3.137 million hundredweight this year.

Declines were also expected for cabbage, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole, lettuce and green peppers. partly offsetting those drops will be increases for snap beans, carrots, cauliflower and spinach, the report added.

Confessions of backyard bird-watcher

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Notes from a birdwatcher's diary:

This has been a fine winter and early spring for viewing the unusual, at least for us more or less amateur nature-lovers, at our 38-hundredths of an acre backyard "sanctuary" on the oitskirts of Franklin, Ind.

First, there was the brown thrasher which showed up at our kitchen windowsill feeding station on Christmas Day. Our bird books show these thrashers may winter in small numbers this far north, but we never before had seen one except in summer. During that season, they observe dietary habits similar to their thrush family cousins, the robins.

But here was a thrasher invading our feeder and taking potluck with the more common bird varieties, pecking at sunflower and mixed seeds with his long curved bill.

He must have liked what he got, for he has come back irregularly ever since and was seen feeding as late as a recent Sunday when the spring snow obscured any available ground fare.

Kinglet arrives

Even more unusual have been the antics of a ruby crowned kinlet, one of the tiniest varieties in the North American bird kingdom, little larger tha hummingbirds.

Kinglets are not rare in winter in Indiana, but we are told they seldom frequent feeding stations. Ours came the first time early in January, attracted by a bag of "bird candy" suspended from a lilac bush twig three feet from our kitchen window. The "candy" was a mixture of suet, peanut butter and seeds, cooked together and cooled and cut into slabs like fudge.

Our kinglet friend surprised us by fluttering his wings and hovering like a hummingbird at the side of the net bag, frequently poking his bill into the suet. Daily observations showed he favored the peanut butter, which collected at the bottom of the cooling pan.

Kinglet stays

A little later, he learned to cling to the net bag and dine in a more comfortable position at a more leisurely pace. But he still often played hummingbird, much to our delight, and remained a regular visitor morning, afternoon and evening far into the month of March. In fact, we think we may be feeding him all summer.

In the past we've been able to lure a purple finch to the feeder only occasionally—maybe only once or twice all winter. This year was quite different. Finches came almost daily, many females and perhaps some juvenile males which resemble the females, and a few males. The males are a beautiful raspberry color. The females are brown streaked much like plain old ordinary house sparrows.

No grosbeaks

No evening grosbeaks were sighted this season, but then we never have had more than one at a time. In the 1972-73 winter, it was a pretty female with her pale green beak. We always wanted to see a flock of them in our yard, like many other people in Indiana reort viewing from time to time.

Neither did we have any redbreasted nuthatches. One recent winter, a pair of these fed at our "restaurant" almost daily. They never have returned. Maybe they didn't like the food.

In less than 10 years of bird watching, my wife Alice and I have logged 85 varieties in or from our own small yard. And of these, 23 varieties have been at our feeding station.

We recommend birding to people of all ages. It's a great hobby, healthful, educational and rewarding.

Crafty bank robber knocks out camera

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — A bank robber took careful aim with his pistol and shot out the surveillance camera before robbing a Bank of America branch of an undetermined amount of cash, police said.

"Hit the floor, lie down and don't move," ordered the robber. He then leaped over the counter, scooped cash from two drawers and fled.

What beasts fight about

What are animals most apt to fight about? Females? Food? Threats to their young? No, sir. It's that thing called territorial rights. Among men and beasts, that culprit who's most likely to be challenged is the trespasser. Or so an animal expert tells me. Calls to mind the previously reported claim of a Seatle lawyer of lengthy experience: Disputes over property boundaries bring on more lawsuits than anything else.

The cars outnumber the mechanics now by about 130 to one.

Quite right, the mouse and the giraffe each has seven bones in its neck, that's all.

If words were cylinders, the average English-speaking conversationalist would posses about 20,000 of same, misfiring along daily on only about 3,000.

Q. 'How does the fuel consumption of the supersonic jet called the Concorde compare to that of subsonic planes?'

A. Burns about four times as much, reportedly. And there are those who contend the rising costs of fuel now leave all supersonic jets not only dead on the runway, but dead on the drawing boards.

Family friend named A. D. White came by the place the other night, limping badly. Asked him if he'd had an accident. 'No,' he said, 'heifer stomped on me.' Asked him if he didn't call that an accident. 'No,' he said, 'She done it on purpose.' That's western humor. Eastern humor coming up. Don't miss it.

That day of the week when you're most apt to come down with a cold is Monday. Or so it would appear from a six-year study of almost 15,000 cases of respirator illness. A University of Michigan epidemiologist named Dr. Arnold S. Monto was the researcher on this one. He says the second worst day for the common cold is Sunday. Others have pointed out that these are the two days when drinkers are most vulnuerable to hangovers, too.

An astute botanist with a computer has figured out that just one little old bumblebee in a single hour's work can pollinate a sufficient number of blossoms in the orchard to produce nine bushels of apples. You call that trivia? I call it a Divine wonder.

Some farsighted souls are said to be buying their caskets ahead of time and using them as pool cue racks or gun cabinets. An outfit called the Rocky Mountain Casket Company is promoting that notion. At $125 per casket, plus shipping costs. For an extra $10, the firm will toss in a couple of removable shelves, or some cue holders, or even wine racks.

Sunday, April 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid situations today that smack of competition. You may find yourself pitted against one who hates to lose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may feel your ideas are better than another's. It behooves you to keep them to yourself to avert friction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your self-discipline will not be all it should today. Overindulgence in some form is likely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Steer clear of strong-willed companions. One in particular is far too bossy for you to effectively cope with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to push yourself physically today more than you should. If exercising, don't do anything too strenuous.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not the day for you to try anything that has an element of risk. Let your practical nature dominate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) I don't believe you'll find much peace and comfort around home today. Why not pack the family in the car and go elsewhere?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very careful of what you say today, and to whom. It's a day when others are likely to read different meanings into your words.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Given the right set of circumstances, you could be very foolish where money is concerned. Not your day to take a flyer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Let others think for themselves today. If you try to run things, you'll get a lot of hostile feedback.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone is going to tell you something in apparent confidence. Don't repeat it. They are using you as a dupe to further their aims.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You still have to be on guard where friends and business propositions are concerned. A false move will get you in a mess.

April 14

This year can be very rewarding if you don't have too many irons in the fire at one time. Concentrate on your most promising project.

For Monday, April 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A disruptive influence is about to upset the delicate balance in a relationship you deem important. Watch for the unexpected.

TAURUS (pril 20-May 20) Something you want to achieve is not as sure a thing as you presently believe. Strengthen your foundations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't assume that just because you've told an associate your ideas he's in accord with you. Get a definite commitment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're counting on another for aid, get it in your hands first. Then and only then, take your next step.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Just to be a nice guy you're likely to agree to something you'd rather not do. It's best to voice your disapproval instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Calculate very carefully expenses involved for work or service you're having done or doing for another. Something is being overlooked.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be equally attentive to two individuals you'll be involved with today. One will wind up with hurt feelings if he feels he's ignored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll get a lot of advice today regarding something you're working on. If you heed it, confusion will result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to yield to pressure and change plans to plesse someone else. You won't have as much fun if you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's going to be hard to stay within your budget while shopping today. You're apt to buy the deluxe model instead of the standard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will not be as firm about holding to your resoulutions as you should. At the last minute you'll give in to temptation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You initial appraisal of a business situation is apt to be your best, but self-doubts will arise and lead you to think otherwise.

Your Brighday April 15

You will form two important associations this year. One will advance your hopes and interests, while another may prove to be of dubious value.

Sheepmen howling mad over coyotes, ban on poison

THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming rancher Stan Smith has all but given up his fight to find effective ways to keep coyotes from preying on his sheep.

"I've seen so many attempts to get help fail, that it looks to me like the easier fight is to quit sheep and go completely into cows," he said in an interview. "Hell, they don't even listen to you back in Washington—they've got their minds made up before you start."

Some ranchers say that coyotes preying on sheep, coupled with low wool prices and consumer taste for beef, eventually will bring the wool growing industry in Wyoming to the small, "farm flock" stage, a pale imitation of its once powerful and influential past.

Since 1972, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has banned the use of poisons against coyotes, and ranchers say the alternative methods are ineffective.

Want poison permission

"Ten years ago when I ran for county commissioner, there were 26,000 sheep in Hot Springs County," Smith said. "Now it's about 17,000 because of people quitting sheep and going to cows.

Also down sharply nationally is the number of sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter. The Agriculture Department reported that as of March 1 the figure was 878,000 head, down six per cent from a year ago. The early lamb crop this year was down 11 per cent from the same time in 1973, the department said.

"My operation is mostly cattle now," said Smith, a state senator, vice president of the Wyoming Woolgrowers Association and owner of 12,000 acres of Big Horn Basin grazing land. "It just seemed like a good idea to get away from sheep and all the problems."

Ranchers want permission to use a poison called "1080," and Smith said they would be satisfied if a 1080 program was administered solely by government trappers, such as was the case prior to the EPA's 1972 anti-poison ruling.

"It's a poison specific to canines," Smith said. "It takes eight times as much to kill a mouse as a dog. There was no evidence that the 1080 program was affecting other wildlife— they just assumed that."

Lamb losses

Smith went into a dusty, dimly-lit room in the cabin of one of his ranch hands, and retrieved a mayonnaise jar filled with a powdered poison called thalium.

"This came from New York a long time ago," he said. "I could use it on my own land because I got it before the EPA banned it in interstate commerce. But I'm afraid of it. It's deadly to all wildlife, and you even have to wear gloves to handle it."

Without a toxicant program, the only coyote-killing methods available are hunting, trapping, and killing the spring cubs while they're still in the dens.

"Ninety per cent of my losses come during the lambing season, in April and May," Smith said. "Ten years ago, every 100 ewes would produce about 120 lambs, but now a good number is 90. Most of that loss is predator."

Smith owns about 2,300 ewes and said he lost about 230 lambs last year to coyotes.

Other problems

The predators, however, aren't the only problems wool growers have to face. Dan Healy, a 58-year-old rancher from Worland, Wyo., said there is also a scarcity of year-round herders and the price of wool has been low or unsteady for a number of years.

"When I took over this ranch, we were running about 10,000 ewes," he said. "But now we're down to about 2,500. I'm not going to blame the coyotes for all our trouble, but I don't know why people don't understand that when you manage range or wildlife you've got to manage the predator as well."

Healy said he's been following sheep since he's been able to walk, and he's worried about what will happen if the sheep men, who have been the primary activists against predators, leave the business.

"Then the cattlemen will start feeling the pinch," he said. "And the coyotes will start killing the calves.

"I've been on the range since it was all team wagon and horseback. I can remember in those days, you'd never see any deer or elk—but lots of coyotes. When the coyotes went down, you saw wildlife again. But now that the coyotes are back on us again, you don't see any deer or elk anymore."

Ford's son: no more interviews

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — Jack Ford, son of Vice President Gerald Ford, says he won't give any more interviews to newsmen, but not because of family reaction to some statements he made about President Nixon.

"I stand by my previous statement," said the junior Ford. "My parents don't interfere."

Jack, a 22-year-old forestry student at Utah State University, had been quoted in a Salt Lake City newspaper that he is "disillusioned" with Nixon.

The story appeared in newspapers across the country and prompted a telephone call from his mother.

"She spoke her mind as one person to another," said Jack. But he said the family has not told him to quit talking to the press.

The publicity "hasn't caused any problems within the family," said Jack. But he said he will not give any more interviews.

"It's interfering with my schoolwork because I am constantly being called by reporters."

Worship of ancient gods is revived by Icelanders

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —In the year 1000 Iceland officially became Christian, but old traditions don't die fast and today this island nation is seeing a rebirth of heathenism with worship to such gods as Thor and Odin.

In the old days the Vikings used to offer humans and animals as sacrifices to their gods. Today the offerings consist mainly of wine and corn.

The Viking cult, started two years ago, was granted recognition last year by Prime Minister Olofur Johannesson over the protest of the official Lutheran Church of Iceland.

Dag Thorleifsson, one of the leaders of the new heathens, said in an interview there were more than 100 active members now "and many more are following this new religion and coming to public meetings."

Some people, including Iceland's only Nobel Prize winner, Halldor Laxness, have said Icelanders never really became Christians and are still infatuated with their old Viking god heroes—Thor, Odin, Tyr, Aegir, and others.

"I am sure that Iceland is the most ideal country for the Viking cult because of the big interest in the old gods and our sagas which link us to the old times when Thor and Odin ruled,'' said Thorleifsson, 37.

"This is the first honest attempt to revive the cult in Europe," he said.

The so-called high priest of the cult is Sveinbjoern Beinteinsson, a 47-year-old farmer and a well known Icelandic singer.

In place of the oldtime human sacrifices—usually captured enemies—today's heathens place corn and wine on a statue of Thor.

Most of the sacrificing is done inside homes, but last year a large ceremony was held in the open air where the participants afterwards drank Icelandic root beer spiced with aquavit.

Cling to heritage

The Icelanders remind themselves of their heritage in many ways. For instance during the recent fishing rights dispute with Britain in which Icelandic ships fired across the bows of British trawlers, every one of the Icelandic gunboats was named after an old god.

According to Thorleifsson when the cult grows in popularity, Iceland will be divided into areas, each with a high priest.

"During the past years Christians have said God is dead," he said, "but we know that God is alive and that he appears in many forms including the old gods of the heathen times."

The cultists still do not have their own house of worship, but have asked the city of Reykjavik to provide them with land to build one.

Everything's up to date

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Kansas City presently boasts 11,000 hotel rooms and that number is expected to double by 1978 as new hotels and motels are added as part of a $3.4 billion building boom, according to Dutton Brookfield, president of the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

EGGED-ON . . . AND LOVING IT

Hundreds of children found candy eggs in Ganesha Park, Pomona, Saturday in the annual hunt sponsored by Pomona Fireman's Association and Parks and Recreation Department. A blast of a fire truck siren opened the hunt at 10:15 a.m. In five minutes the lawn was picked clean. The pre-school children ambled, but kindergarten through second grade boys and girls scrambled over the park filling baskets and bags. There were hunts at seven other city parks.

THE TASTE OF GRASS

Shane Ryerson, 4, of Claremont found the taste not to his liking Saturday at Memorial Park during the Easter egg rolling contest. It seems that while his nose was doing the egg pushing, his tongue was dragging. Giving Shane a pat on the head as he reaches the finish line is one of the city park workers. About 300 youngsters took part in the event.

Highway patrol defends 'highway robbery' case

As a taxpayer in the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino, I wish to bring to the attention of Action Line something I believe to be nothing but highway robbery.

I have owned a small cabin at Running Springs for more than two years. During that time when it snowed I have parked on the highway off the shoulder. There is not a sign of any kind saying not to park.

On the weekend of March 2-3 I parked there while it was snowing almost all weekend.

On Saturday, March 9, I parked there again about 7 a.m. Around noon I went back to my car to get more things, but no car.

I went to the California Highway Patrol office but it is closed Saturday and Sunday. A man who lives above the office said my car had probably been towed to Don's Garage, across the street from where I had parked.

At the garage a man said it would cost $21 to get my car, including $3 for storage.

Whoever towed my car forced entry, which I think is most illegal. There were maps and other things from my glove compartment all over the front seat.

After strongly voicing my objections, I reluctantly paid the bill but my car would not start.

The same man came and said that was done so that dishonest people couldn't drive their cars away. There were two or three things he had to do to start my car.

In the 30 minutes I was there two more cars were brought in. Four cars already had been towed in.

In my opinion this is a racket and should be stopped. I have never been given a warning not to park in this area. I would like to get my $21 back and see if there is something people who own property in Running Springs can do about this racket.— A. R., Claremont.

Lt. C. L. Chase, California Highway Patrol commander for the Arrowhead area, says your car was ordered stored by Officer Gary Holtz under Section 22651 (b) of the California Vehicle Code.

Your car was parked partially blocking a lane of Highway 18 and was, in the officer's opinion, a traffic hazard and interfered with snow removal equipment.

The charge made by Don's Garage is not considred excessive by Chase. He said any reduction would have to be be negotiated with the garage.

Business hours of the CHP office at Running Springs are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday but units work around the clock and are dispatched out of the San Bernardino central dispatch point.

Chase said the highway is not posted for "No Parking Any Time" because under most conditions a vehicle may be legally parked next to the highway.

When the width of the highway is affected by snow, a vehicle may not be parked there because it interferes with traffic and snow removal equipment.

Chase sent us a leaflet explaining snow parking and we sent it to you.

I am writing concerning my income tax return for 1972.

It was sent in during February 1973 but I have never received my refund. I haven't even received a letter.

I wish you would find out what happened.

Enclosed is my Social Security number and the name of the place which employs me. — G. W., Pomona

We are glad you included your Social Security number. Some people who inquire about income tax refunds, Social Security, etcetera, fail to do so.

We couldn't find out what happened because the Internal Revenue Service had no record of a 1972 return for you.

You were sent forms and instructions to enable you to file a duplicate return.

Flood control job slated for southwest Pomona

POMONA — Construction of a major storm drain system to protect homes, businesses and industries in southwest Pomona is expected to start next summer.

The 1.5-mile San Jose Creek system, costing about $2.3 million, will follow the toe of Elephant Hill and connect to an existing channel which can carry locally collected water to the Whittier Narrows spreading grounds, said Ed James, city engineer.

The new channel, to follow the route of an existing natural watercourse, will serve as a collector system for storm drains already installed in the Phillips Ranch and Westmont areas.

It will also relieve flood hazards to the Pomona Valley Humane Society, the Pomona water renovation plant, plus adjacent agricultural and industrial properties, he added.

The channel route is located in a rural agricultural area which is slowly developing into a light manufacturing district. New industrial plants have been constructed on sites between the Orange Freeway and Roselawn Avenue, said officials.

The project will begin near the humane society office at Roselawn and Mission Boulevard and proceed north parallel with Roselawn past the Union Pacific railroad tracks.

It then will turn west on the north side of the tracks, go under the Orange Freeway, then join an existing section of the San Jose Creek channel west of Temple Avenue.

An unusual feature will be the construction of an 1,100-foot natural watercourse within the city's proposed Vejar Park. The park is being developed in conjunction with the Phillips Mansion, an early California home.

This project will include a 30-inch reinforced concrete pipe connected to the Pomona sanitation plant to direct reclaimed water to the re-created channel. This flow will then be directed back to the concrete channel near the Orange Freeway.

This cost will be paid by the Los Angeles County Flood Control District as part of the total channel work. In addition, the City of Pomona will purchase needed right-of-way property and also landscape the natural watercourse.

The improved channel will carry the flow capacity from the present 900 cubic feet of water per second to 3,890 cubic feet. It will serve as a drain for 2,018 acres.

That portion of the channel between the Phillips Mansion and Temple Avenue will stay open. The remainder will be enclosed. The channel size will range from eight to 30 feet wide and five to nine feet deep.

The project will also include a 15-foot wide access road constructed along the open channel.

County officials are expected to award the job contract during June, with work starting in July. The project is expected to take two years to complete.

Describing the need for the enlarged channel, officials said the existing earth channel along the railroad tracks on several occasions has "flowed bank full." Also, the channel around the south side of the water renovation plant has flowed full on numerous occasions, causing concern about the plant's safety.

"Under present conditions, when a major storm occurs there is always concern about the wide range of public health problems that could be caused by flooding the sewage treatment plant," they added.

"In recent years, significant development has taken place in the upstream watershed to increase the anticipated run-off. Preliminary studies indicated that under capital storm conditions the earth channel can be expected to overflow, in which case the sanitation district's water renovation plant and industrial buildings adjacent to the channel will be in jeopardy."

The channel project cleared one legal hurdle Wednesday night when the Pomona Planning Commission approved its environmental impact report.

Opinion

"I am the resurrection..."

It had been a shattering weekend. The young man shuddered slightly as he recalled the dark hours. First it was the strange, ominous Friday storm. Then the long awaited birth of their first child . . . a joyous event turned to tragic disappointment when the boy, a beautiful child, had semed to be dead. True, a spark of life had been discovered, but so faint, so tenuous as to be almost nonexistent. And his wife . . . almost a child herself . . . so worn by labor, so saddened.

As he lay this Sunday morning on the shaded lawn outside the city, the young man fought back the black depression, the tears of disappointment. He had wandered away from the sad home during the night, unable to sleep, seeking silence and loneliness.

As his thoughts drifted he suddenly realized someone was near him. He felt embarrassment, for after all he was a trespasser. But when he looked up into the man's face, he saw not a reprimand, but compassion, understanding, friendship. The man was tall, and strong and handsome in a rugged way. Yet there was about him an ineffable sense of beauty, a radiance that warmed and strengthened.

Before the troubled youth could move or speak the man raised his hand slightly as if in a benediction. His smile was slight, but it spoke love and blessing and encouragement. Then, as the man turned away, the young father thought he heard a baby's cry. His baby? But how, this far away?

Breathless, he reached the little room, and as he entered he knew. The joy on his wife's face was enough. Their child truly lived! It was not to be taken from them.

Suddenly, from somewhere in his memory came words that once had seemed so strange . . . "I am the resurrection, and the life." A man had spoken them, and he had overheard. Could it have been? . . . Yes, it must have been the same man, the strong man of great compassion.

As he looked down upon his wife and first born, the young father knew a repose he had never felt before. And a wonder, a wonder which would grow and grow . . . just as it would grow in the hearts of many others, in many places, in many centuries to come.

The Solzhenitsyn case is not closed

The expulsion of dissident author Alexander Solzhenitsyn appears to have been a brilliant stroke by the Kremlin. Western intellectuals note with chagrin that the wave of outrage that swept the world in the wake of the action has ebbed as quickly as it began. Diplomatic repercussions seem to have been nil.

More adverse publicity may be in store for the Soviet regime when translations of Solzhenitsyn's expose of Stalinist terror, "The Gulag Archipelago," come out in the West. Even so, it will have gained very much and lost very little — at least in the short run — by ridding itself of a prominent figure who was attacking the very ideological underpinnings of the Soviet style of socialism.

This should not be surprising. Bold, lightning strokes have paid off for the Kremlin in the past — the quelling of the revolution in Hungary in 1956 and the incipient revolution in Czechoslovakia in 1968, in both cases by massive armed invasion. Compared to these brutal events, the exiling of Solzhenitsyn and his family appears positively benign.

Yet it all mounts up. Each exposure of the true face of communism in Russia has cost the Kremlin dearly. Today, only the most radical or naive socialists outside the Soviet Union still look to it as the "motherland" or model of Marxist revolution. It is seen for what it is, a dictatorial, nationalistic power even more repressive of human freedom than was Russia in the days of the czars.

In the Soviet Union itself, bootleg copies of "The Gulag Archipelago" are reportedly fetching fantastic prices in Moscow and are being worn out by intense circulation among intellectuals and young people.

By physically removing Solzhenitsyn, the Kremlin may have solved its immediate problem. But the man's ideas and the truths he proclaimed continue to have a life of their own, and an influence on the younger generation of Russians whose effects no one can now foresee.

Thoughts for today

"And in the last days it shall be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams;"—Acts 2:17.

The Washington globetrotters

WASHINGTON — Spring has smitten members of Congress with a familiar old virus called wanderlust. Once again, they are setting out from Capitol Hill in droves to explore the world.

Such is the scope of the great migration that it can be said the sun never sets on Congress during the tourist season.

The unabashed King of the Road, despite the stiff competition, is California's Rep. Richard Hanna, a diminutive Democrat and former vaudeville dancer, who occasionally does a softshoe onto the House floor.

He has shuffled around the East, both Far and Near, so frequently that the bellhops know him on sight. The New Year had scarcely passed this year before he was off again, visiting such distant exotic spots as Indonesia, Yemen and Saudi Arabia.

Now he is preparing for another junket this month to Egypt, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. But for Hanna, this is mrerely an average year of globetrotting largely at the taxpayers' expense.

He took his first trip to the Orient in 1967. Two years later, he arranged four overseas odysseys to Europe, Latin America and the Far East.

In 1970, he managed just one trip to Asia. But in 1971, he visited South America, the Far East and Europe. In 1972, he got to Europe in April, to South America and Asia in August and to Europe, the Middle East and Far East in November and December.

While he was in Japan, Hanna demanded the full, red-carpet treatment, including a request for a military helicopter to lift him over the traffic jams that lesser tourists must cope with in Tokyo.

He went overseas three times in 1973, going all the way to the Soviet Union and Africa. He was in Cairo when the October war exploded and the airport was shut down. But this didn't slow down the veteran vagabond. He hopped a train to Alexandria, boarded an Egyptian freighter and made his way to Greece.

Hanna is merely the most peripatetic member, however, of the Washington Globetrotters. Here are the travel plans of some others:

—This weekend, a delegation of 63 persons — congressmen, their wives and staff members — will fly by military plane to the Far East for a trip that has been postponed twice because of the energy crisis. The official excuse is to exchange visits with legislators from South Korea and Nationalist China.

The expedition will be led by House Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill who will take along his daughter, Rosemary. The group will also bring their own "physician in attendance," Adm. Carey Freeman, who will be provided by the Navy. Each traveling congressman, including the ubiquitous Richard Hanna, will be permitted to spend up to $75 a day in U.S.-owned foreign currencies.

—Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., just returned from a jaunt, with his wife and daughter, to the Far East. Arrangements were made for him by the State Department, according to official cables, including an "elephant ride, sightseeing tour and gem shopping" in Ceylon.

—Cabinet officers, too, like to travel. Treasury Secretary George Shultz has announced his intention to leave government. But this hasn't prevented him from taking a jaunt to South America. Now again on Monday, he will head for Australia, Indonesia, Singapore and Malaysia where, according to a spokesman, he will "talk about general economic matters." In Jakarta, Shultz will be joined by — guess who? — Rep. Richard Hanna, who will ride the secretary's plane to Malaysia.

—Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, who is supposed to occupy himself with farm problems at home, has departed for Thailand, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Taiwan, Japan and Korea. His last stop will be Hawaii, where he will spend a couple of days inspecting pineapple, papaya, sugar cane and cattle farms. "You'd be surprised how much agriculture there is on those tiny islands," said a spokesman.

VIP travel abroad has become so intense, State Department officials told us, that American embassy staffs are kept busy carrying luggage, arranging sightseeing tours and making appointments. So many visitors are tramping through Taiwan, for example, that the U.S. embassy there complained to the home office. "This influx of visitors. . ." cabled Ambassador Walter McConaughy, "is straining embassy resources to the full."

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY: George Parkhurst, the former Mideast coordinator for Standard Oil of California, may be in trouble with a Senate subcommittee for his testimony about an embarrassing memorandum prepared by the economics department.

"Our economics department was not and is not part of any planning process," he swore under oath. "We didn't do any global planning at SoCal because we were not able to."

This is in direct conflict with statements made by other top SoCal officials. For example, Ed Cahill, an official in the economics department, is on record as saying:

"The general function of the economics department is to set the stage on an industry basis worldwide on which the Standard Oil Company of California has to plan and conduct its worldwide operations."

Parkhurst told my reporter Steve Solomon that he still stood behind his sworn testimony. Cahill claimed there was no real conflict between the two statements. The planning was done, he said, on a company, not industry, basis.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We recently reported that many reductions in wholesale food costs weren't being passed on to the consumers. The information from Agriculture Department files mistakenly listed Marcor as owner of Jewel, and General Host as owner of Swift Meats. We apologize to both companies for not double-checking. . .Attorney General William Saxby, who was a strong advocate of the people's right to know when he was a senator, has assigned a lobbyist to fight an amendment that would strengthen the Freedom of information Act. The lobbyist is Robert Saloschin, who himself once promoted more freedom for reporters. Now he is trying to curtail the freedom amendment. . .Spec. 4 Robert Donley, a decorated Army reporter, was fired as editor of his Yongsan, South Korea, base newspaper after Col. King Coffman, the garrison commander, found an article on prostitution "distasteful." Coffman declined comment when we reached him in South Korea. Shortly after our call, however, the Army quietly gave Donley a job with armed forces radio.

Gossip for today

Even though a recent study indicates that the average man's medical costs are now six times more than they were 20 years ago, there is possibly one way you can eliminate some of those expenses. Just eat, drink and make merry and tomorrow you may not die. —

I offer that interesting prescription for better health on the strength of a recent study made at the Johns Hopkins University school of medicine. The results of that study seem definitely to indicate that a shot glass of prevention is worth many dollars worth of cure.

"Most people," says the doctor who conducted that study, "can benefit from the therapeutic use of alcohol."

★ ★ ★

An article in "Medical Times" warns that the noise levels in our large cities could become lethal during the next 30 years. — A recent medical study indicates that hepatitis can be brought on by ear piercing. — And yet, with exotic ailments such as those to choose from, do you know what brings 65 per cent of the patients to doctors' offices! The prosaic truth, according to still another media survey, is because they're just too lazy to exercise properly.

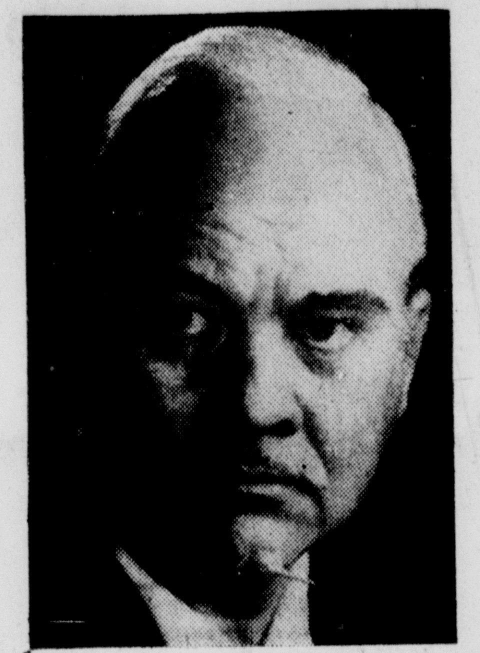
Forum audience will see film on Utah canyonlands



DAVE JONES

POMONA — "The Enchanted Wilderness of Canyonlands," a color film shot in Utah, will be shown before the Pomona Forum audience Monday at 7:45 p.m. in the Education Center auditorum.

It will be narrarated by the producer, Dave Jones of Quartsite, Ariz., who is billed as the world's only deaf film lecturer.

The feature-elngth film shows areas of Utah most people have never heard of, much less seen, according to Jones.

There are scenes shot in Arches National Park with 88 known arches, action on the Slick Rock Bike Trail, 15 miles over petrified sand dunes, and the rims of precipitous cliffs.

Jones shows Miners Basin, a one-man ghost town 10,000 feet up in the La Sals, and a boat ride down the Coloradoo River then back up by sandbuggy over the White Rim Trail.

A few seats will be available to the public at $1 each.

2nd try for mini-warehouse plan

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will hear for the second time an appeal filed on the failure of the Planning Commission to approve a conditional use permit for the construction of a mini-warehouse development at 2735 N. Towne Ave.

Commissioners on Feb. 13 were deadlocked 3-3 in two motions to deny and to approve the permit, resulting in denial of the request.

The applicant, T. D. Caswell of Saf-T-Storage, filed an appeal to the city council. Councilmen held a hearing March 25 on the appeal but also were deadlocked, 2-2, in trying to hand down a decision.

Because of the council tie, the commission's denial was allowed to stand. The council did vote 4-0 to rehear the appeal next Monday.

Among other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Hearing on the Planning Commission's recommendation for a street name change from Roselawn Avenue to Humane Way between Mission and Valley boulevards.

—Recommendation of the Merit System Commission for denial of a request to hire an experienced police patrolman at two steps higher than the starting salary.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation against proposed modification of Precise Alignment No. 17 to delete a portion of Camerota Avenue from Garey Avenue to Sallycrest Way.

—Emergency and first reading of an ordinance to raise wages of all hourly personnel to at least $2 an hour in compliance with new federal legislation.

—Resolution of intention to amend the ordinances granting a franchise to Nation Wide Cablevision Inc. for installation of a cable television system in the city.

—Resolution awarding a contract for sanitary sewer relocation and storm drain improvements in the vicinity of the Pomona Financial Center under construction, and a second resolution requesting an allocation from the County Aid to Cities Funds for the improvement of Mission Boulevard and Main Street.

—Resolution authorizing a corporation grant deed to the Redevelopment Agency for the sale to the agency of vehicle parking district parking lot on the west side of Garey south of the Chungking Restaurant.

—Recommendation of the Community Redevelopment Commission for entering into an agreement granting Robert A. Zetlen a 180-day exclusive right to master plan and propose a development for an area bounded by the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks, Garey and Towne Avenues, and Mission Boulevard.

—Resolution of Vehicle Parking District No. 3 recommending elimination of 25-cent, all-day parking on the southwest corner of Third and Main streets, and establishment of two-hour free parking.

—Resolution authorizing a corporation quitclaim deed to Fredericks Development Corp. for sewer easement west of Falcon Street, between Fuego Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

—Resolution authorizing a cooperative agreement with the Los Angeles County Flood Control District for improvements at the south fork of San Jose Creek.

—Resolution confirming summary abatement taken at 1732 Elaine St.

—Five resolutions assessing the costs of removing abandoned vehicles from 464 W. 8th St., 895 Asbury Ave., 1123-25 W. Fernleaf Ave., 871 Hallwood Ave., and 803 Hyde Ave.

—Recommendation for preparation of documents for installation of fencing to curb foul ball problem at Ralph Welch Park.

WILSON RILES

State school chief to visit L.V. College

LA VERNE — Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public insturction will discuss "Today's Critical Issues in Education" at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in La Verne College's La Fetra Hall.

Riles is currently campaigning for re-election to the state's top education post which he has held since 1970.

The talk is open to the public at no charge.

Hacienda unit to mull horse zone changes

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Amendments to the zoning ordinance regulating the keeping of horses will be discussed at a general membership meeting of the Hacienda Heights Improvement Association Monday at 8 p.m. at Newton Junior High School.

The speaker will be Robert Kincaid, Head of the county Regional Planning Commission's ordinance studies section.

Directors and zoning committee members of the association will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday. They will board a bus and tour "problem" areas of Hacienda Heights. Frank Donahue and Vern Grimshaw are chairmen of the zoning committee.

Association members have scheduled their annual dinner dance Nov. 16 at the VFW Hall. A Hacienda Heights queen will be crowned. Girls wishing to enter the conetst are asked to contact Rosemarie Schmidt at 213 330-0435. Girls must be between 16 and 21 and have sponsors who live in Hacienda Heights.

Sondra Jean Stratton is current queen.

Demo McVittie backs political reform plan

ONTARIO — Bill McVittie, Democratic candidate in the 65th Assembly District, endorsed the goals of Proposition 9 in recent remarks before the Ontario Speedway Lions Club.

Proposition 9 deals, in part, with conflicts of interest, financial disclosure, limitations on campaign expenditures, and regulation of lobbyists.

McVittie declare that "Proposition 9 represents a major step towards the specific remedies that must be taken to avoid future Watergates. It is a responsible measure whose outcome will be watched by the rest of the country."

"A direct vote by California citizens for more open, responsive and accountable government on June 4, can become our first step towards new and healthy political patterns."

Expert sees hydrogen as next energy tool

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — There's enough hydrogen energy in the world's oceans to provide mankind with all the energy it needs for billions of years, starting early in the next century.

So, says Stanley G. Schaffer who is president of the Pennsylvania Electric Association and from whom that assurance comes, while more immediate energy needs remain a worry the world is not going to have any "long-range energy problem."

Schaffer, a York, Pa., native who heads both PEA and Pittsburgh's Duquesne Light Co., said:

"Our use of energy ultimately can go onward and upward, geared to knowledgeable people making necessary decisions promptly."

Schaffer's optimism is based on his belief in power from fusion—the joining of hydrogen atoms to produce heat-power.

Technology "Close"

Technological feasibility "is very close," he said, adding:

"The oceans are loaded with heavy atoms of hydrogen. Estimates indicate there are enough to provide the world all the energy it needs for the next 4.5 billion years—roughly the time the earth has existed."

He said three universities are working on the fusion power process—Princeton, Cornell and Texas University at Austin— and "Princeton believes it is very close to technological feasibility."

Schaffer predicts the next step — practical adaptation—will come "in the first quarter of the new century—2000 to 2025— about the same time period needed for nuclear power."

He said the two principal barriers to use of fusion power have been (1) the 100 million degrees centigrade needed to join deuterium and tritium and (2) "some sort of box to put it in."

Schaffer said Princeton experts believe a field of magnetic force may be used as a figurative box. There is also the alternative potential of laser-targeted fusion using small pellets of deuterium and tritium for more manageable quantities of hot gas.

$100 million research

Research for fusion is now hitting $100 million a year on funding via the Electric Power Research Institute by the federal government, manufacturers and the electric industry.

"It's still early to determine costs," Schaffer said, "but since the basic fuel exists in such profusion, presumably its recovery can come at lower cost than some fuels."

As to the ecological ramifications of fusion, "there are essentially none. The process would produce some helium atoms, some short-life radioactivity."

Other exotic energy possibilities, Schaffer believes, are minimal to limited.

No windmills

"Solar energy is fabulously expensive — though better housing designs with proper overhang and construction oriented to the sun can be useful.

"Geothermal energy (tapping the earth's molten core) has some growth potential in the western U.S.—particularly California-but, again, that is limited. Ditto windmills," he said.

Current energy problems, meantime, remain problems, Schaffer acknowledged.

"Further conservation may be necessary," he said. " For example, if turning back home and business thermostats six degrees this year saved, say, the equivalent of one year's growth, what do you do for an encore?

"You'll have new houses, new families and new demands, and you can't go on turning back the thermostat yet another six degrees."

Still problems

For the intermediate years— 1980-2000--Schaffer said the rapid completion of new nuclear power plants and increased use of coal will have to provide the answers.

He noted Pennsylvania Power & Light Co.'s acquisition of new production from southwest Pennsylvania, and said some strip and deepmine operations can be increased for general use.

"But a large percentage of Pennsylvania's best coal is owned by steel companies, and coal companies have certain mines committed to specific needs of certain customers.

"They are not going to deplete those reserves for general use," Schaffer said, "and Duquesne Light is in exactly the same position."

Windmill power set for homes

RICHMOND (UPI) — A Swiss-type windmill is soon to sit atop a breezy bluff in Pt. Richmond.

The windmill will be used to supply electrical power to two yet-to-be-built houses; the first in the area to receive electricity in this manner.

The project is the work of Interactive Resources, a Pt. Richmond firm of environmental planners, a engineers, architects and builfers.

"We hope to get the windmill up in time so we can use the electricity to run our power tools when we build the houses," said architect Tom Butt.

The $50,000 to $60,000 homes will each contain 56 storage batteries which is enough power to last up to three days without wind. In addition, the homes will be wired into Pacific Gas and Electric Co. just in case.

The cost of the windmill electrical system will be about $3700 per home. Although that may sound steep, Butt said: "I'm convinced that on a large scale windmills will become a major source of power."

The windmill is patterned after ones used in remote areas of the Swiss Alps and can provide six killowatts of electricity per hour in a 17-mile-per-hour wind.

YOU CAN BECOME SLIM AND TRIM AGAIN

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — A new vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, is reportedly gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation. Testimonial files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) Vita-E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new combination of ingredients that curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. A person with in improper diet, deficient in vitamins and exercise, can with the help of this diet plan "hasten" the utilization of body fat and carbohydrates causing loss of weight.

E-DIET AVAILABLE

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: Vita-E Diet, Dept. D7, 11526 Burbank Blvd., North Hollywood, Cal. 91601. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied). advertisement

Will success spoil the 'Bewitched Isles'?

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Naturalist Charles Darwin found some of the beginnings of life on them, marine biologist Jacques Cousteau has explored the sea around them, Princess Anne of Britain has marveled at their stark beauty.

Now, many Ecuadorians fear that success—namely tourism— will spoil the remote and strange Galapagos Islands.

"Uncontrolled tourism has endangered the rare species and the ecology of the islands," says Ecuadorian city planner Milton Barragan.

The Galapagos, a cluster of 14 main islands and numerous smaller ones covering about 23,000 square miles of the equatorial Pacific, lie roughly 600 miles off the coast of Ecuador. They are considered unique in the world in terms of the plant and animal life—giant tortoises, iguanas, flightless cormorants, penguins and seals.

The "Bewitched" Isles

Discovered in 1535 by the Bishop ..of Panama, Fray Tomas de Berlanga who called them "the bewitched islands," the Galapagos were used mainly as pirate hideouts until they were claimed and renamed in 1832 by Ecuador which used them first for a penal colony. The most frequent visitors to the island during the last century were whaling ships, like author Herman Melville's in 1841 which took on fresh water and a supply of turtle meat.

The tortoises — Galapagos means giant turtles — were found by Darwin to weigh up to 500 pounds. Darwin arrived in September, 1835, with the British ship Beagle. As the ship's naturalist, he was fascinated with the Galapagos which he described as "infinitely strange, unlike any other islands in the world."

Darwin found the species differed from island to island. He counted 26 species of land birds, who were practically tame.

Not only scientists are drawn to the islands. Actor Gregory Peck made a film there recently and Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips included a stop in the Galapagos on their honeymoon last year.

Controlled tourism?

The Ecuadorian government hopes to attract more visitors to the Galapagos and asked Spain to provide technical advice on increasing the tourist trade.

"Tourism—along the lines of the Spanish model—would be the end of the enchantment of the Galapagos," Barragan objects.

Some Ecuadorians recommend that there should be a "quota" of tourists for the Galapagos. Too many people would overwhelm the tame penguins and seals.

Currently, 4,000 persons reside on the islands, but certain areas are wildlife preserves and colonization is not allowed.

"Bluntly, man is persona non grata in these islands whose principal value is their natural inhabitants—the birds, animals, and plants," Barragan argues. He has many supporters.

Most observers believe some kind of controlled tourism will be put into effect. Ecuador wants the tourist dollars but it also knows that longterm an overflooding of tourists would destroy the very uniqueness that makes the Galapagos Islands an attraction to travelers.

Imprisoned Rudolf Hess has his eyes on the stars

BERLIN (UPI) — In the waning years of his life, imprisoned Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy, has turned his eyes to the heavens.

"He almost lives in space," said a Western Allied official who saw Hess in four-power Spandau Prison in the British sector of Berlin, where he has been held for 33 years.

"In his cell in addition to a bed, chair, and small table he has moon exploration charts on the wall," the official said.

At the approach of Hess's 80th birthday April 26, his son expresses cautious hope that the Russians may relent and accept a Western Allied proposal to free the Nazi deputy fuehrer' who has taken on the appearance of a haggard, bony scarecrow in his long years of captivity.

But Western officials do not share the cautious optimism of Wolf Ruediger Hess, a 35-year-old engineer.

"The Russians seem so determined to make him serve out his life term that I wouldn't be surprised if they even tried to keep his body after he dies," one Western official said.

Hess doesn't hope

Hess himself apparently does not hope for release.

"I will die in captivity," he often has told prison guards. "The Russians want it that way. They still don't believe I only was trying to bring about peace when I flew to Scotland just before the invasion of Russia. They think I wanted to get Britain out of the war to clear the way for the attack on Russia."

The six other top Nazis who escaped the hangman's noose and were sent to Spandau with Hess by the International Military Tribunal at Nuernberg either have served out their sentences or been granted amnesty.

Only Hess remains, the only prisoner in the 103-year-old red brick prison built for 600 inmates.

American, British, French and Russian wardens, a military guard that changes every month and a whole prison staff that cost West Berlin $292,000 a year are retained only for Hess.

His reading censored

Hess is given four German newspapers to read every day. He reads three West German newspapers but gives back untouched the Neues Deutschland, the East German Communist party newspaper.

The newspapers, as his letters, are censored. Anything considered unacceptable such as references to Nazism, are cut out.

He also is allowed four books a month and most ot them are on space travel.

"He probably is one of the best informed laymen in the world on space travel," a Western official said.

Hess has read all the official Russian and American reports on space exploration as well as countless scientific works about it.

Does not repent

Although Hess would like to be released he always has refused to submit a petition for mercy to the victorious World War II powers who hold him.

He takes the position that he did nothing wrong, committed no crime and therefore can not ask for forgiveness.

Hess never has shown the least sign of regret for any of his own acts or those of the Nazis. He still is Hitler's most loyal disciple, Western officials say.

Hess has been a captive since he flew to Scotland May 10, 1941, in a mad attempt to offer Britain peace in return for Nazi hegemony on the continent.

One of his conditions was the firing of Winston Churchill as premier. He said Hitler never would deal with such a "warmonger."

Hess flew without Hitler's knowledge, apparently in an attempt to regain his influence with Hitler by scoring a diplomatic coup. Hess, a muddled and confused thinker, was in eclipse with Hitler at the time.

Threatened British

In Britain Hess threatened if the British rejected his peace offer the entire nation would be wiped out by bombing and a submarine starvation blockade.

Britain did not even consider his offer. His British interrogators have since described their talks with him as being like the Mad Hatter's tea party in Alice in Wonderland.

It is now the British, backed by the Americans and French, who are leading the campaign to try to get an amnesty for Hess. But the Russians repeatedly have rejected all the amnesty overtures.

Homosexuals hail action on illness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the American Psychiatric Association have voted by a 58 per cent margin to stop classifying homosexuality as a mental disorder, the APA announced this week.

The APA trustees in December had decided to eliminate the stigma on homosexuality as an illness, setting off a furor inside the group which produced petitions forcing the psychiatric group to hold a referendum.

The votes were tabulated this week, with 5,854 members voting in favor of the trustees' action, 3,810 against, and 367 members abstaining.

It was the first time in the 129-year history of the APA that the membership had forced a vote on an action of the trustees.

New York psychiatrist Charles Socarides, who had circulated the petition demanding the vote, had called the trustees' action "the medical hoax of the century."

The action, he said, contradicted a historical fact "that male and female are programmed to mate with the opposite sex, and this is the story of 2 ½ billion years of evolution and any society that hopes to survive.'

By contrast, the action had been hailed by the National Gay Task Force as an 'instant cure' for many problems of the nation's homosexuals.

Homosexuals had actively lobbied for approval on grounds that the stigma of having their sexual orientation listed as a disease had long been used to deny them jobs, child custody and other rights.

The trustees themselves overwhelmingly approved the decision in December, with 13 voting for eliminating the stigma, two abstentions and four members absent.

'In the future, it will have a considerable impact on the lives of homosexuals,' said an APA spokesman.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Some 595,386,000 tons of soft coal was mined in the United States in 1972, of which 275,730,000 tons (46 per cent) was strip-mined, The World Almanac notes. Kentucky Knetucky strip-mined the most soft coal, 55.8 million tons; followed by Ohio, 34.1 million; Illinois, 33.3 million; Pennsylvania, 26.3 million and Indiana, 24.5 million tons. In 1964, only 152 million tons (31 per cent) of America's soft coal production was strip-mined.

Stockton still leads Masters by one

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Dave Stockton doesn't lack confidence. He made his one-stroke lead stand up through the hot and humid third-round Saturday. And he believes he'll win the 38th Masters golf championship Sunday.

"I'm not concerned about anybody," said the 32-year-old former PGA champion. "If I play the course the way I know how, everybody else is in trouble."

South African Gary Player and Kansan Jim Colbert lurked one shot behind Stockton's nine-under-par 207, which he forged with a two-under 70 Saturday.

Player, putting out on No. 18 while a spectator who later died of a heart attack, laid in a coma near him, strung together five straight birdies on the back nine for a six-under 66. Then he said it was "the worst I've played out of three rounds — and that's the honest truth."

Stockton started his round with a 90-yard wedge shot for an eagle 3 at the 555-yard, par 5 second hole. Then he knocked in a 10-footer on No. 3 for a birdie and toured the front nine in 33.

His lead, which was as much as four shots at one time, began slipping away on the back nine.

The Westlake Village, Calif., pro suffered his first bogey in two days on No. 11 when he missed the green. He birdied the 13th with a four-foot putt.

On the par 5 15th, Stockton laid up in front of the water, found his ball laying on the edge of a divot, but chose to go for the pin, anyway. His sand wedge shot landed 10 feet short of the green and backed into the water. Stockton dropped and bogeyed the hole.

He parred in to make his one-shot lead stand up.

Player said, because of the man who died, "It was kind of a scary last hole. Someone fainted and was breathing real heavy. We held up for about a minute. It was a funny feeling with the guy laying there."

Player two-putted from 25 feet, however.

Player started his five-birdie string on the par 3, 155-yard 12th hole. He slapped a 7-iron one foot from the cup and tapped it in.

Successively, he then dropped 15, 7, 20 and 6-foot birdie putts to post a five-under 31 on the back side. The lithe 37-year-old also birdied No. 2 when he chipped within eight feet and sank the putt.

Stockton said he was aware that Player was tearing up the course.

"I knew exactly what everybody was doing," said Stockton, who also had a 66 Friday. "I'm glad to have company, to tell the truth. If Gary has another round like that tomorrow, he'll probably win the tournament."

Colbert, the 33-year-old from Overland Park, Kan., sprang to the fore with three birdies in four holes on the back nine for a 69.

He had a chance to tie for the lead on No. 17, but his six-foot putt broke inside the cup.

"I thought it was a right-edge putt," said Colbert. "But it broke all the way across the hole and missed left."

Behind the top three were Bobby Nichols and Phil Rodgers, who had 68s, at 209. Tom Weiskopf and Hale Irwin were locked at 210 and Frank Beard was alone at 211.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, a four-time champion here, was coupled with Hubert Green at 212. Nicklaus had an even-par 72 Saturday, suffering bogeys on two of the last three holes.

The weather was hot and muggy —the humidity was 72 per cent —on the 7,020-yard, par 72 Augusta National course after showers ended during the morning. The forecast called for a 30 per cent chance of more showers Sunday.

Stockton, who won the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open earlier this year, will be making a run at the $35,000 first prize, which was announced Saturday. the top prize is $5,000 more than Tommy Aaron pocketed when he won last year.

THE LOOK OF AN EAGLE

A beaming Dave Stockton reaches for a congratulation slap from his caddie after sinking an eagle putt in the third round of the Masters' Golf Tourney in Augusta. Stockton holds a one-stroke lead over Jim Colbert and Gary Player entering today's final round of play in the golf classic.

Old foe bugs Palmer; putting still brings pain

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer looked as if he had just taken a punch, maybe one of George Foreman's Sunday shots, to the belly.

He stood there on the 18th green, doubled up, the pain was so intense.

Not physically, only emotionally.

Arnold Palmer had just missed a 10-footer, which would've not only saved his par but also given him an exceptional round instead of a merely good one.

When he saw the ball roll past the cup, missing the hole only by a couple of inches, Palmer knew it meant his second bogey of the day instead of a par, a 70 instead of a 69, and no more chance at all in the Masters instead of maybe a long-shot one in Sunday's finale.

Arnold Palmer put his head down so far you could no longer see his face.

Both hands went to his knees, and his putter dropped across his feet where he let it lay for some time before he picked it up again, rather wearily, and holed out to finish his round.

With 18 more holes to go, Palmer's 54-hole total of 217 leaves him 10 shots behind persistent Dave Stockton, the leader, who can get help by calling his father long distance in San Bernardino, Calif.

Anything can happen in a golf tournament, any golf tournament, but Arnold Palmer knows that even if Dave Stockton should somehow blow up over the final 18, there is little or no chance to win because there are too many other competitors, 25 by actual count, in between.

Besides, there really is no place he can go for the kind of help he needs. Palmer's problem still is his putter —he took 33 putts in Saturday's third round —and the only one who can really help him with that is himself.

"It wasn't that bad a round," someone tried consoling Palmer after he came back into the clubhouse.

"Not good enough," he said, shaking his head. "Same old trouble —putting. I think it's all probably mental. You've got to have the confidence, that's all there is to it.

Palmer was watching Phil Rodgers putt on the TV set in the clubhouse.

"Now there's a guy who can putt," he said, pouring the remains of some beer into his glass.

"How many putts did I take out there today?" he asked Doc Giffin, his administrative aide.

Giffin consulted his scorecard and began counting them.

"Thirty-three," he answered.

Palmer nodded wordlessly.

Leos sweep in Arizona, crush G.C.

PHOENIX — La Verne College rolled to an easy 12-1 victory over Grand Canyon College here Saturday.

The win was the fifth straight and gave the Leos a sweep of both Arizona State and Grand Canyon on their Arizona trek. ASU was fifth ranked nationally in the University Division standings with a 27-15 mark prior to the La Verne series. Grand Canyon was second rated nationally in the NAIA Division.

La Verne, now 17-5 for the season, returns home to resume SCIAC action Tuesday afternoon at Whittier.

Big Mike Alonso led the Leopards Saturday. The 6-4, 225-pound designated hitter lashed five hits in six at-bats including a two-run homer and a double. He wound up scoring four runs and driving in three.

Hank Merenda had a two-run single and a stolen base. Jim Sherman doubled in two runs. Nick Leyva had a double and single, scored two runs and drove in one. Art Sanchez doubled in a run.

Grand Canyon starter Gene Ingram started off the game by throwing eight straight balls to Merenda and Paul Flemming. However, Merenda was picked off.

Alonso slammed Ingram's first offering over the left field fence for a home run and the Leos were off and running.

They added two more in the third on singles by Alonso and Leyva and Sherman's double. A single by Eric Frazier and back-to-back doubles by Alonso and Leyva netted two more in the fourth.

In the five games in Arizona, La Verne totaled 65 hits and 54 runs to the opposition's eight runs, seven of which were earned.

Sox nip Halos for 1st win

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Bobby Winkles really didn't think his California Angels would win them all.

The Chicago White Sox also didn't feel they would keep losing.

Wilbur Woods' knuckle ball carried the White Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Angels at Anaheim Stadium Saturday night for Chicago's first victory this season after five losses and two ties.

The defeat drops the Angels' record to 5-2 as they maintain their one-game lead in the American League West standings.

"You can't win 'em all," Winkles told writers after the game. "I really didn't think we would go 161-1 this season. We just have to start another streak tomorrow. Maybe we'll go 160-2."

For the Angeles to even come to such a remarkable record, they need a solid fourth starter in their pitching rotation behind Nolan Ryan, Bill Singer, and Frank Tanana.

Veteran lefthander Rudy May got his chance to show what he can do Saturday night and it wasn't exactly impressive. In 6 2-3 innings, May allowed six hits and five earned runs.

"May pitched just so-so," Winkles said. "His stuff was good but he kept getting behind the batters. We need to find a fourth starter."

At this moment, Bill Stoneman, who was recently purchased from the Montreal Expos, will get his chance Wednesday night against the Twins.

"We got Stoneman and we got to use him," Winkles said. "Stoneman says his arm is okay but his rhythm is off because of the lack of work."

Asked if that means May is not in his plans, Winkles added, "this is not a no-confidence vote on May, but I got to think of Stoneman. It's conceivable May could pitch next Wednesday instead of Stoneman."

When Ken Henderson knocked May out of the game with his triple in the seventh inning, the White Sox enjoyed a healthy 5-2 lead.

But the Angels rallied to make it interesting.

Mike Epstein opened the bottom half of the seventh with his second home run of the season to cut the margin to two runs.

Hot-hitting Lee Stanton, who has hit safely in all eight games with a solid .467 average, followed with a long double to left. He moved to third on Ellie Rodriguez' ground out and scored on Winston Llenas' sacrifice fly to make it 5-4 and excite the 23,712 fans.

After Mickey Rivers walked, he stole second despite Wood almost picking him off first; but Rivers was able to beat Dick Allen's throw. Dave Chalk was hit by a pitch, but Wood was finally able to get out of the jam by retiring pinch-hitter Richie Scheinbium.

The Angels went out quickly in the eighth inning, but came close to tying it in the bottom of the ninth.

Sutton hurls L.A. to victory

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner each drove in two runs with back-to-back hits in the fourth inning Saturday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers, behind Don Sutton's pitching, ended a four-game Houston Astros win streak with a 6-3 victory.

Los Angeles put together three singles to open the big fourth with Steve Garvey driving in the first run. After Bill Russell walked to load the bases, Lopes singled for two runs and Buckner doubled for two more to drive Houston starter Don Wilson from the mound.

The Dodgers, gaining their sixth win against three losses, added their sixth run one inning later on Von Joshua's double.

Sutton, an 18-game winner last year, went the distance for his third win without a loss.

But he was in trouble in two innings. In the first, Cesar Cedeno doubled to drive in Greg Gross and Roger Metzger and Cedeno scored in the sixth on Doug Rader's single.

Aztecs greet Mexican team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The new Los Angeles Aztecs of the North American Soccer League will play Atlante of Mexico City at East Los Angeles College Stadium today.

In their debut here last weekend, the Aztecs scored a 2-1 victory over Monterrey, Mexico, before a crowd of 12,349.

Los Angeles will face two other Mexican pro teams this month, Club America April 21 and Universidad April 28.

UUUUUP . . . AND OVER

Buddy Williamson clears the bar in the pole vault at the ITA meet Saturday to win the event at 17-8. Bob Seagren finished second at 17-0, and Steve Smith was last.

Jipcho makes it a run-away

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGLES — The Pomona entries had to settle for the runnerup spots, while Ben Jipcho stole the show Saturday afternoon during an International Track Association meet at the L.A. Sports Arena.

The former Pomona stars, pole vaulter Bob Seagren and women sprinters Mabel and Willa Mae Fergerson, settled for one first place, a second and a third. But Jipcho, the distance superstar from Kenya, brought the crowd of 6,892 to their feet with two wins.

Jipcho ran away from the rest of the mile field, which also consisted of well knowns Jim Ryun and Kip Keino, with a little over half of the race remaining. He held as much as a 30-yard lead before Ryun began to close on the leader. But the lead was just too much.

The Kenyan broke the tape at 4:00.8, with Ryun finishing a little over four seconds and 23 yards back. As soon as Jipcho hit the tape, the Arena crowd came to its feet to give the distancer a rousing ovation on his victory lap.

"A four-minute mile depends on more than just myself," stated Jipcho after the victory. "I had to run on my own the last half mile. It is difficult to run under four minutes that way. I need to be pushed the last half and also have a good pace.

"I am only 50 or 60 per cent fit now," he added. "It's a personal reason for my not being 100 per cent. Next year I might prepare myself to 80 per cent fitness."

About an hour after his mile win, Jipcho had to put on a strong kick on the final lap to hold off Tony Benson in the two-mile run. Again the Kenyan claimed victory with a time of 8:52.0. Benson was just four-tenths of a second behind.

The big upset of the day came in the pole vault, where Seagren and Steve Smith figured to duel for first place.

The two made it interesting with their strategy, but Budddy Williamson was the one who climbed the triumph.

Smith made the first move.

After both Seagren, who started his pole vaulting career at Pomona High and Mt. San Antonio College, and Smith passed the first two heights at 16-0 and 16-6, Smith decided to take it a step further.

Seagren made his first try at 17-0 and cleared it on his first attempt, but Smith passed.

The bar was lifted to 17-4, where Seagren made the "psych" move by passing. Smith made his first attempt at the height and missed.

Meanwhile, Williamson was performing the best vaulting of his life by not only clearing 17-0, but also going over 17-4 with ease.

Even though he missed at 17-4, Smith consented to pushing the height 17-8 where he would have two more attempts.

Neither Smith nor Seagren could make the new height, but Williams did again.

"I think the emphasis on the competition between Smith and Seagren helped me today," Williams said after the big upset. "I was irritated because it's like no one else is in the event. You have to have a certain amount of respect and I do. All their (Seagren and Smith) psychology of passing to get the edge on each other got me up."

As it turned out, Seagren finished second at 17-0 and Smith failed to finish at all since he didn't clear at any height.

The Fergerson girls, Ganesha High and Cal Poly products, picked up a third and a first.

In the 60 yard dash, Mabel grabbed a third behind Wyomia Tyus (6.7) and Barbara Ferrell 6.9 at 6.9.

Then in the mixed mile relay, Mabel and Willa Mae combined with Ferrell and Lacy O'Neal to compete against Chris Fisher and DaveWottle.

Each girl ran a 440, while the men ran an 880 apiece. And when it was all over, Mabel held off a late Wottle surge to win at the wire. Mabel had trailed Wottle when she took the baton on the last leg of the relay, but immediately sprinted to the lead.

Randy Matson, one-time world record holder outdoors at 71-5½, got his best ever performance indoors to win the shot put with an encouraging put of 68-7¾.

Fisher held off late challenges by Tom Von Ruden and Wottle to win the 1,000 yard run in a respectable 2:07.1.

World record holder Rod Milburn equaled the track record of 7.0 seconds in the 60-yard high hurdles. Harrington Jackson registered an upset in the men's 60 by uncorking a blazing burst of speed in the final 20 yards to win in 6.0 seconds over former Olympian John Carlos.

In other good performances, Carlos won the 300 in 32.1 seconds, Ed Caruthers captured the high jump at 7-0, and Larry James won the 400 in 49.0.

National League roundup

Ron Fairly sparks Expos

By United Press International

Ron Fairly's fifth major league grand slam homer capped an eight-run uprising in the fourth inning Saturday to spark the Montreal Expos to a 13-3 victory over Chicago in the second game of a doubleheader after the Cubs had won the opener, 7-4.

In the nightcap, Montreal collected 15 hits, including four singles by Ron Hunt.

Cubs' starter Bill Bonham got a bad break after one out in the fourth when first baseman Billy Williams, the hero in the opener, dropped an easy throw from third baseman Bill Madlock, allowing Bob Bailey to reach first safely. Singles by Jim Cox and Terry Humphrey loaded the bases and pitcher Mike Torrez walked, allowing Bailey to score.

Hunt singled home Cox and Tim Foli's single scored two more runs before Bonham was lifted. After reliever Mike Paul got Willie Davis on an infield out, Ken Singleton was purposely walked to load the bases. Fairly then unloaded on Paul's first pitch for Montreal's first homer of the 1974 season.

In the opener, Williams and Madlock knocked in two runs apiece to help southpaw Ken Frailing to his first major league victory.

Lynn McGlothen, with ninth inning relief help from Orlando Pena and Pete Richert, won his first National League start as the St. Louis Cardinals handed the Pittsburgh Pirates their sixth straight setback, 6-4.

McGlothen, acquired over the winter from the Boston Red Sox, allowed nine hits, struck out seven and walked two before tiring with one out in the ninth. Pena came on to get one out but was replaced by Richert after walking Richie Hebner and Richert recorded the final out to preserve the Cardinals' sixth win in seven games.

Cincinnati routed Atlanta 10-3, Los Angeles stopped Houston 6-3 and San Francisco beat San Diego, 3-2.

Dave Johnson cracked a three-run homer and Ralph Garr drove in three runs with a double and a triple as Atlanta routed Cincinnati. Marty Perez and Mike Lum also homered in a 13-hit assault on four Red pitchers which enabled Carl Morton to gain his first victory of the season.

Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner each drove in two runs with back-to-back hits in the fourth inning and the Dodgers ended a four-game Houston win streak with the victory.

San Francisco took a 3-0 lead is the first two innings and made it stand up to beat the San Diego Padres and earn rookie John D'Acquisto his second win without a loss. D'Acquisto also drove in the deciding run with a sacrifice fly.

Broncos and Cougars win college twinbills

Cal Poly and Azusa Pacific both swept doubleheaders in Saturday's college baseball action.

Cal Poly beat UC Riverside by scores of 5-3 and 8-6 to break a seven-game losing streak in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

John Riddle hurled the Broncos to the opening game win, and Cal Poly came from behind to beat UCR 8-6 in an eight-inning nightcap.

Dennis Sherow and Dale Biggs both had four RBIs in the twinbill for Poly.

APC blasted Cal Baptist 16-6 and 10-3 in their twinbill. John Tully and Chuck Van Schoych both blasted two homers in the Cougars' dual win.

Cal Poly is now 15-19 overall and 4-9 in the CCAA. APC sports a 17-10 season ledger and is 9-2 in the NAIA Southern Division.

Gagnon goal gives Kings playoff win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Unheralded Germain Gagnon scored the only goal 40 seconds after the opening faceoff and Tony Esposito made it stand up for his fourth career playoff shutout Saturday night as the Chicago Black Hawks blanked the Los Angeles Kings 1-0 to take a commanding 3-0 in their NHL Stanley Cup quarterfinal series.

The defense-minded Black Hawks, who won the first two games 3-1 and 4-1, could wrap up first round action Sunday night when the fourth game is played at the Forum.

A crowd of 15,505, including NHL President Clarence Campbell, was hardly settled when Gagnon fired in a 25-foot shot for his first ever playoff point.

MSAC trackmen post five-way win

FULLERTON — Mt. San Antonio College's track team claimed another victory Saturday afternoon in a "free-for-all" at Cal State Fullerton.

The Mounties racked up 94 points, with Army (86), Cal St. Fullerton (66), UC Bakersfield (34) and Chapman (7) also competing.

Only claiming four wins, MSAC picked up most of its points with nine second-place finishes.

High jumper Steve Miller won his event with a jump of 6-8, and just missed at 7-0. Javelin thrower of 223 feet, 3 inches. Stan Bland captured first place in the triple jump for the Mounties, leaping a distance of 45 feet, 11 inches.

MSAC's 440 relay team of Dwight Owens, Bland, John Huston and Irwin Duarte also came up with a first place—clocked at 42.4 seconds.

The Mounties' mile relay team turned in its best time of the season by placing second behind Army with a time of 3:19.4.

MSAC hosts San Diego Mesa next Friday in South Coast Conference action.

American League Roundup

Rangers rout Blue

Jim Bibby pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 Saturday and Jeff Burroughs gave him all the help he needed with a three-run first-inning homer in leading the Texas Rangers to an 10-3 victory over the Oakland A's.

The Rangers, now 3-4, routed Vida Blue for six of their 11 hits in one and one-third innings and sent the A's lefthander down to defeat in his initial decision.

Jim Fregosi added a two-run single in the second and Tom Grieve belted a two-run homer in the ninth to share hitting honors with Burroughs.

In other games Boston whipped Detroit 8-1, Milwaukee edged Baltimore 3-2, Kansas City nipped Minnesota 6-5 in 10 innings, and Cleveland beat New York 8-5.

Bernie Carbo doubled home a pair of runs and Doug Griffin tripled in two more during a six-run first inning as Boston clubbed Detroit in a nationally-televised game hampered by rain and cold weather.

Rick Wise, acquired by Boston in an off-season trade from the St. Louis Cardinals, went the distance, allowing only six hits, to notch his first American League victory. Wise struck out seven and walked only one.

Eighteen-year-old shortstop Robin Yount, whose error in the eighth allowed Baltimore to tie the score at 2-2, homered off Ross Grimsley in the bottom half of the inning to power the Brewers over the Orioles.

The home run was Yount's first and only his second big league hit.

The Brewer win broke a string of 10 consecutive losses to Baltimore, dating back to last July.

Vada Pinson's two-out single in the 10th inning scored Fran Healy from second base to give the Royals their victory over Minnesota.

Healy led off the 10th with a double off reliever Tom Burgmeier. After Fred Patek and Jim Wohlford both flied to center, Pinson sliced a single to right off Bill Campbell, the fourth Minnesota pitcher, to score Healy.

Dave Duncan's second homer of the season triggered an eight-run third inning and the Indians hung on to pin the defeat on the slumping Yankees.

Duncan's home run hightlighted the big third inning rally that sent 12 Indian batters to the plate. George Medich was the New York starter and loser.

Andrade, Ice in Pom Lanes bowling wins

POMONA — Diane Andrade of Chino and Len Ice Jr. of Pomona were the winners Saturday in the Bowl-Your-Way to-Europe rolloff at Brunswick Pom Lanes in Pomona.

The two winners will travel to Washington, D.C. and compete against the rest of the Brunswick-operated centers winners May 24. The grand prize there will be all-expense paid trips to Europe for one week for two persons for each male and female winner.

Mrs. Andrade bowled the best game of her life to earn her trip to the nation's capitol. The Chino woman bowled her first 200 game, a 207 score which was 84 pins over her average. An orange packer, she is employed by Sunkist.

Len Ice was 38 pins over his average in a 208 game. He is from Pomona and is employed as a welder. He bowls in the Northwestern League.

Feuerbach breaks own mark

Shotput record set

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — World record outdoor shotputter Al Feuerbach of Long Beach, Calif., cut his long, sandy-colored hair, but unlike the Biblical Samson, he believes it made him stronger instead of weaker.

Feuerbach, six-foot, 250 pounds, Saturday broke his own 69-8 ¾ Texas Relays and Memorial Stadium shot put record set in 1973 with a 70-foot, 1 ½-inch toss.

And Feuerbach credits his recent intense mental and physical conditioning program for the record mark.

"I cut my hair shorter," he said, running his huge hand through his mod-length curly hair, "because it was part of my new discipline.

"It's some type of psychological thing."

Feuerbach said his hair had grown so long that it was hampering his throws.

"I mean I was going out to throw and getting hair in my hands," he said. "Right now I'm rebuilding my discipline and confidence."

The main reason he began the intensive program is Pacific Coast Track Club teammate George Woods, the world indoor shot put record holder, who scratched on all three of his preliminary attempts at the relays Saturday and was dropped from the competition.

"Especially after George's third foul my motivation was gone," Feuerbach said. "I like to feel I can get it on any throw —if there is competition, that is."

Feuerbach said he actually wished Woods had not fouled out because he felt the competition would have helped his throws.

"Going into this meet he was considered the best shot putter in the world," Feuerbach said, "and he's still the man to beat."

Feuerbach is building up for his masterpiece throw, which he predicts will be 74 feet.

"I'm building up for the world record so I won't ever have a letdown," he said. "I'm more or less aiming at the '76 Olympics," Feuerbach said. "It's more or less in the back of my mind."

Naturally, part of the buildup is intensive mental discipline which he said has really changed his attitude and his throws.

"It (attitude) was getting to me more and more all the time," he said. "It was like my attitude was getting where I thought nothing could hurt me."

Bulls, minus Sloan, had alibi they didn't need playoff win

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls had a built-in alibi when they played the Detroit Pistons on national television Saturday with a chance to win a National Basketball Association playoff for their first time at stake.

The Bulls had to play without star guard Jerry Sloan riding the bench with torn muscle fiber in the arch of his left foot. Well, nobody would have expected them to win without Sloan.

Instead, the Bulls played the game almost the same way they did when Sloan was playing, grabbing a big lead, losing it, and then finally winning in the last minute, 96-94.

The Bulls led in the third period by as many as 19 points. But with 2:04 left in the game, the Pistons had wiped out the lead and tied the score 92-92. The Bulls won on a basket by Chet Walker and two free throws by Norm Van Lier in the final 1:44 of the game.

"It was an emotional game," Bulls' Coach Dick Motta said. "They knew they had to do it. This was when we needed the bench and it came through. The whole team is drained out.

"We won it in defense and rebounding, not so much the number of rebounds but in getting the crucial ones. Any time you shoot less than 40 per cent and win it's your defense that does it."

Coach Ray Scott of the Pistons thought center Cliff Ray was the difference. "Our guy was getting beat and they dished off to Cliff for easy shots. We weren't confused by Ray playing under the basket. His performance surprised me. He was phenomenal in everything he did."

It was the first time the Bulls ever have won a playoff round. Last year, they lost in the first round to Los Angeles, while in previous ventures they lost first round series against Atlanta, Los Angeles and St. Louis.

Down by 19 at one point in the third period, they hung on doggedly, closing to within nine points at 80-71 after three periods.

A pair of free throws by Stu Lantz with 7:40 remaining pulled the Pistons to within 84-82 and the Bulls never could get more than a four-point lead thereafter. The Pistons each time matched baskets and finally evened it at 92-all on Bob Lanier's two free throws with 2:04 to play.

Walker hit from outside with 1:44 left to put the Bulls in front and Van Lier dropped in a pair of free throws at 1:31 to give the Bulls a 96-92 lead.

Dave Bing scored with 28 seconds left to cut the gap to two. When the Bulls ran out a 24-second violation, the Pistons had a last chance to play from out of bounds with three seconds to go.

Bing passed in but Dennis Awtrey, who came into the Bull lineup at that time deflected the ball. Van Lier picked it up and dribbled the time away.

Buffalo beef rejected by NBA boss Kennedy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Braves' season and their National basketball Association playoff series against the Boston Celtics ended officially Saturday when NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy rejected a protest by the expansion club.

The Braves contended there was one second left after Boston guard JoJo White sank two free throws to give the Celtics a 106-104 victory and the clinching game in their best-of-seven first round series in Buffalo Friday night.

Kennedy upheld the decision of officials Mendy Rudolph, Darrell Garretson and Manny Sokol and denied the protest, which was made after Braves' officials viewed video tapes of the frantic final seconds of the game.

The referees said that Rule 5, Section 3, applied and that under it, if a foul occurs at approximately the instant time expires for a period, the period officially ends after the free throws are attempted.

"The word here is approximate," said Braves General Manager Eddie Donovan. "It wasn't approximate because there was time left. We said there was one second or more left when the foul was called."

Donovan added that Sokol, who was the alternate referee at the game, confirmed there "was one or maybe two seconds left when the foul was called."

The final seconds of the game before 18,257 screaming fans, went like this:

With the Braves down 104-102, Bob McAdoo stole an inbounds pass from Boston's Dave Cowens and tied it with a dunk shot with seven seconds showing on the clock.

Boston called time out and took the ball at mid-court, passing to veteran John Havlicek, whose 12-foot jump shot was blocked by McAdoo.

White picked up the loose ball, took a wild shot and Garretson called a hacking foul on McAdoo. White, with no time showing on the scoreboard clock, stepped to the foul line with three attempts to make two shots.

He missed the first but calmly sank his next two tries and the Celtics were in the second round of the playoffs.

The fans reacted wildly to the bizarre ending, tossing garbage and shouting taunts at the officials.

Name 39 high school All Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scholastic magazine has named 39 high school seniors and one junior as those most likely to have their parents jerk the phone out of the wall—in other words, the 1974 All-America high school basketball squad.

Their phones have been ringing almost constantly as college recruiters seek their services.

The most highly recruited of these 40 cagers is 6-foot-11 Moses Malone of Petersburgh, Va. Malone averaged 39 points and 26 rebounds a game in leading his team to its second straight state championship.

The only seven-footer on the squad, and the only junior, is Bill Cartwright of Elk Grove, Calif., whose parents must suffer through another year of incessant recruiting.

New York, with four choices, was tops in representation, followed by California, Illinois and Ohio with three each.

Throughout the season, Butch Lee and Alex Eldridge battled for recognition as New York's top guard, so their selection as All-Americans comes as no surprise. Eldridge is headed for Massachusetts, while Lee's choice is said to be Duke.

The other New Yorkers named to the team were St. Anthony's Tom Hicks, who made a game-winning steal in the Dapper Dan Classic, and New Utrecht's 6-7 George Johnson.

Joining Cartwright in the California contingent were Marvin Thomas of Los Angeles and Mark Wulfemeyer, an outstanding 6-1 guard from Fullerton who averaged 36.5 points a game.

Mike Phillips, Larry Boston and Larry Harris are the Ohio representatives, with Phillips the only one indicating a college preference, either Ohio State or Tennessee.

Audie Matthews, a 6-4 Chicagoan who averaged 28 points, is called by many scouts "the best player in Illinois." He is joined on the squad by fellow Chicagoans Billy Lewis and James Jackson.

Among those named to the All-America group were a number of players already counted as prize catches by college coaches.

Minnesota's Bill Mussleman landed 6-7, 220-pound Mark Olberding and Illinois State snuck in for a real steal in Detroit's Cyrus Mann.

Carpetbagging Frank McGuire needed only a guard for his South Carolina team and captured an All-America in Jack Gilloon from West New York, N.J.

And the Atlantic Coast Conference is hard at work preserving its reputation as the elite of college basketball.

Maryland scored with Brad Davis of Monaca, Pa., and North Carolina talked Rocky Mount's Phil Ford into staying in his home state. Clemson made a big stride in its efforts to compete with the conference powers by landing Baltimore's Skip Wise, who was rated the top guard in the nation by a panel of college coaches which included UCLA's John Wooden.

Memphis State's new head coach Wayne Yates is confident he has gotten off on the right foot after winning the recruiting war for 6-9 homegrown product, John Gunn.

In the near future, such stars as Bruce Campbell of Wilbur Cross High School in New Haven, Conn., Brett Vroman of Provo, Utah, and Earl Evans of Port Arthur, Tex., will make their decisions.

Then, 40 homes will gain a solitude absent for the past two years.

Ken Dryden getting lumps on defense

TORONTO (UPI) — Former NHL superstar goalie Ken Dryden is not having an easy time in his new position as neophyte defenseman for the Toronto Lakeshore League team Vulcan Industrial Packaging.

The Canadian magazine reported Saturday that the 26-year-old Dryden, who quit the Montreal Canadiens of the NHL last summer to take a year's apprenticeship with a Toronto law firm has had more than his share of bumps with the VIP's, as he tried to keep his hand in on the ice.

"In one early game an opponent rammed him heavily into the boards. The damage consisted of a black eye and a seven-stitch cut," the magazine said.

"Three more than I received in the last 10 years playing goal," Dryden said. As the season progressed, Dryden said, "It became painfully obvious that I wasn't a defenseman. So it was no big deal for them to go out and bounce around a displaced goalie."

Dryden evaluated his own performance as "okay. I don't think I hurt the team. I don't help them either."

The magazine article said Dryden will return to pro hockey after the stint with the law firm is over, but reported the goalie has not yet decided which team or league he will join.

In the NHL, Dryden is still technically the property of the Montreal Canadiens, the team he left because it wasn't paying him enough money.

And in the World Hockey Association, the Toronto Toros have first choice on Dryden. But contrary to rumors, Dryden's wife Lynda said, he has not signed with the Toros.

Sears Highway Passenger
Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out.
We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.
Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.
Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

Camera shop to mark 20th year

POMONA — Hundreds of prizes, free seminars, product demonstrations and free refreshments highlight the 10th anniversary festivities of Gordon Ayers Camera Shops, Inc. beginning Monday and running through next Saturday, April 20.

The celebration will feature the grand opening of a new store located at 600 N. Indian Hill Blvd. "Hawaiian Movie Week" will climax with a free drawing for a Kodak Ektasound movie camera.

In addition, free orchids will be given to the first 50 ladies coming into each of the three stores on both Friday and Saturday.

The public is invited to try their luck at opening a treasure chest in each of the locations for hundreds of prizes. "South Pacific—picture Padise" a color and sound travel movie featuring Hawaii will be shown free of charge.

In addition to the Indian Hill store, other locations of Gordon Ayer Camera Shops are: 117 W. Holt Blvd., Ontario, and 228 Pomona Mall West.

Stock prices move lower; trading on NYSE very light

NEW YORK (UPI) — With rising interest rates looming larger as a market depressant, stock prices moved lower this holiday-shortened week in very light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 2.73 to 844.81, indicative of the noncommittal attitude most investors have taken, faced with a 10 per cent prime lending rate, rising short-term money market rates, inflation, and the growing poassibility President Nixon may face impeachment.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined 0.89 to 92.12. There were 1,126 losers, 592 gainers among the 1,956 stocks traded.

Sales for the four sessions totaled 43,190,040 shares, compared with 58,298,010 a week earlier, and with 76,173,505 shares the year before. On Thursday, trading dwindled to its lowest level since last August, totaling only 9,970,000 shares.

The nation's securities exchanges closed for the Good Friday holiday.

The move by major banks raising their prime lending rates to the record-equalling 10 per cent level held the spotlight throughout the week. On Monday, Bankers Trust of New York kicked off the increase, and the Dow reacted with its biggest loss of the week—7.58 points.

The 10 per cent prime began to spread among the nation's lending institutions Tuesday, but the stock market enjoyed its best day of the week. The Dow rose nearly seven points, but there was little conviction behind the advance: gainers just barely outnumbered losers, and sales totaled about 11 million shares.

In the last two sessions, investors sat on their hands and the market showed little movement as Wall Street wondered whether a continued rise in short-term money rates would force the nation's banks to boost the interest rate charged to best business customers past the record 10 per cent level.

Many analysts, including Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co., expressed the fear, if the prime moves beyond the current 10 per cent, "the stock market will crack."

Inflation also helped to keep investors sidelined. On Tuesday, budget director Roy Ash said—to no one's surprise—the first quarter inflation rate will be "considerably higher" than 1973's five per cent overall rate.

And on Thursday, the House Judiciary Committee and President Nixon appeared headed for a showdown. The House unit subpoenaed 41 tape conversations concerning the Watergate affair, and failure to comply with the order could lead to Nixon's impeachment.

Stocks whose operations include Canadian mining were sold heavily, following a decision Wednesday by the Canadian government raising mineralization taxes in the province of Ontario. Dome Mines plunged 21, Campbell Red Lake 14 ¼, and Texasgulf, Inc. 3 ½.

Texasgulf's losses occurred despite news the company earned 85 cents a share on the first quarter, compared with 29 cents the same period the previos year.

Burroughs tumbled 11 ⅝, with investors apparently unimpressed by the company's first quarter results. Burroughs earned 55 cents a share in the period, compared with last year's 43 cents.

Mountain Fuel Supply advanced 6 ⅝. On Monday, the firm said it discovered oil and noncombustible gas at its Brady unit well No. 14 in Wyoming.

Walt Disney slumped 4 ⅞. Early in the week, a Wall Street columnist cited analysts' fears Disney might report lower earnings for the year ending Sept. 30. On Wednesday, the company said second quarter earnings totaled 32 cents a share, against 36 cents in the comparable period last year.

Natomas, a firm involved in oil and natural gas production, said Wednesday first quarter earnings soared to $3.18 a share, up from one cent the comparable period in 1973. The stock climbed 4⅝ on the week.

IBM reported its net income grew by 26.8 per cent in the first quarter but, in the market's current mood, the Big Board's premier glamor fell 4.

Nixon victim of staff goof, says Reagan

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan suggested that a White House staff "goof" caused President Nixon to lose a $576,000 tax deduction for his Vice Presidential papers.

Reagan, addressing a $50-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner recently said much of the President's current tax predicament was based on a "technicality in the law."

The California Republican said other public officials had donated their official papers and got a tax break, but that Nixon apparently didn't know that law was outdated after 1968.

"He (the President) thought he had done it in time," Reagan said. "Somebody in his shop just goofed."

Two artists get six awards each in show

UPLAND — Two women took six awards each in the recent juried show of the Associated Artists. Norman Yeckley and Robert Fleck were judges. The show was held at the First United Methodist Church.

In the oil category, Connie Newton won first in landscape and second in still life. In watercolors, she took second and honorable mention in marine painting and two honorable mentions in landscape.

In oils, Bessie Carooll won first in marine and honorable mention in landscape and floral. In watercolors she took first in marine. She won second and third in the miscellaneous media division.

Other winners in oils were (landscape) Gerri Bowman, second and third; Goldie Wright, honorable mention; (marine) Anna Ruth Pritchett, second; Betty Hook, third; Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Bowman and Louise Buckelew, honorable mention; floral) Patty Kruggel, first; Marie Hoover, second and third; Mildred Weybright, honorable mention: (portrait) Nancy Kasten, first; Mrs. Bowman, second and honorable mention); Mary Savoie, third; (still life) Mildred Weybright, first; Edrie Hughes, third; Lydia Venable and Betty Hook, honorable mention; (miscellaneous) Mrs. Savoie, first; Mary Royse, second and honorable mention; Marian Dowden, third.

In watercolors, Shirley Bonneville won first in floral, second and third in landscape, and third in marine. Gladys Nichols took first in landscape and miscellaneous and second in floral.

Other winners in water color were (floral) Mary Stark, third; Mrs. Hook, honorable mention; (still life) Mrs. Stark, first; Mrs. Buckelew, second; (miscellaneous), Mrs. Buckelew, second.

Mrs. Hughes won first in the miscellaneous media division and Mrs. Venable won honorable mention.

Two artists schedule exhibition

CLAREMONT — Don Huffman and Steve Nagler, master of fine arts degree candidates at Claremont Graduate School, will have an exhibition of pottery and sculpture in the Libra Gallery Wednesday through Sunday.

Each will show six pieces. Huffman's work is coiled and thrown clay wine containers and servers two to four feet high. Nagler's work is mixed media sculpture. He uses wood, clay, fiber and plastic in large forms that are puns and metaphors.

The show will open with a public reception at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Show hours during the rest of the exhibition will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. on the weekend. Libra Gallery is at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue.

Art lessons for crippled youngsters

CLAREMONT — Free art lessons for crippled children will be offered at Howard Johnson's, 721 S. Indian Hill Blvd., starting April 23 under the auspices of the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society of Los Angles County.

Classes in drawing, painting and clay modeling will be taught by Claremont artist Margaret Dorman. They will be held at 2:30 p.m. each Tuesday. In July the classes will be switched to Saturday mornings. Regular exhibits of the young artists' work are planned.

Miss Dorman is looking for five teen-agers who will volunteer to help the children in exchange for free art instruction.

John Q. Adams was dedicated

John Quincy Adams served his nation in government from the age of 14, when he went to Russia as secretary to the United States Minister, until nearly 80, when he was fatally stricken in the House of Representatives in 1848.

POMONA — Oil paintings by Lynda Todd of Yorba Linda are now on display in the lobby gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave.

The exhibit, to continue through April, includes seascapes, still lifes, and portraits.

A member of the Orange County and South Bay Art Associations, Mrs. Todd has more than 300 paintings in circulation. They are displayed at galleries in Torrance, Yorba Linda, Covina and Utah are in a private collection in Azusa.

Her portrait, "Madonna," has won four awards, including the judges award in a Los Angeles County Art Show over 3,000 other entries.

Pilgrim Place has Mideast art exhibit

CLAREMONT — An exhibition of art objects and artifacts from Palestine, Jordan, Syria and Egypt is on display this month and next at Pilgrim Place.

Many of the items were loaned by Mrs. Cletea K. Terrill, whose husband was a YMCA secretary in Israel for more than a decade. One of the prizes of her collection is a small jug from the days of the prophet Amos (800 B.C.) which was excavated in 1937.

The Rev. Jack Warford, also of Pilgrim Place, has exhibited tiny Egyptian scarabs which are viewed through a magnifying glass.

Other items on display are Roman Glass, tear bottles from the First Century, Bedouin embroidery, fine-crafted copper and silver, paintings and tapestries.

The Mideast exhibit was arranged by Miss Oline Nicholson, Mrs. Arthur McIntosh, Mrs. Ann Watson and Mrs. Terrill.

Reservations for a guide to the exhibit can be made by calling the Rev. Maxwell Chamberlain, 624-4161, or the Pilgrim Place office, 624-5006.

Lyric Opera Association plans sale

LAGUNA BEACH — "Spring Thing," an art exhibit, swap meet and flea market sponsored by the Lyric Opera Association of Orange County, will be held on the Festival of Arts grounds at Laguna Beach May 4, 5, 11 and 12.

Some 200 booths are available to sellers of antiques, art works, crafts, collectibles, and "junque."

Proceeds from the sale will support the opera association which will be presenting Verdi's "La Traviata" and "The Wizard of Oz" next fall.

Information on renting booths for "Spring Thing" can be obtained at 494-0709.

Show of German works to open

PASADENA — An exhibition of German Expressionist painting and sculpture from California collections will open Tuesday at the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art. It continues through June 2.

The exhibit was organized by Melinda Wortz in observance of the 50th anniversary of the museum.

The exhibition will present the historical context out of which grew PMMA's Galka E. Scheyer Collection, featuring the work of the Blue Four artists—Feininger, Jawlensky, Kandinsky and Klee.

Multi-media exhibit showing at Griswold's

CLAREMONT — "Nicole Schoening: Multi-media," an exhibition of oils, watercolors, photography, sculpture and jewelry, is now being held at Griswold's Art Gallery. It continues through April.

The show encompasses Miss Schoening's early award-winning photography from her San Francisco museum shows; her "Ladies of Laguna" and their companion soft sculptures, the "Sun Dolls"; and her latest oil series, "Tin Types" and "Navajo Season". She is also exhibiting jewelry, assembled sculptures and some of her modern cubist series.

Miss Schoening exhibited last year in a group exhibition at Laguna Beach Museum, a large-scale invitational showing at Brand Library Gallery and openings at Canyon Gallery II in Los Angeles and Art Design Gallery in Laguna Beach.

Her future plans include a return one-woman show at the Brand Library Gallery in a new media of her own devising and a proposed show in Tokyo, Japan.

Her work has appeared in many publications such as Artforum, West Art, Contact, Modern Photography, and Theater Arts.

Frozen dessert is ancient

Nero Claudius Caesar (A.D. 54-68) enjoyed frozen desserts! He sent teams of runners into the mountains for snow which was relayed to his table where it was flavored with honey, juices and fruit pulps.

New flat rate pay proposed for bee losses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bee keepers would be given a new flat rate payment scale for the present flexible loss-assessment system used in its pesticide indemnity program under a plan proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Bee keepers would qualify for federal payments if their bees were killed or damaged by pesticides used by nearby farmers, under the plan.

Indemnities provided in the new proposal would be $22.50 for a totally destroyed colony in place of the present $15 rate; $15 for a severely damaged colony in place of the present $10; and $5.50 for a moderately damaged colony or a destroyed queen nucleus instead of the present $5 rate.

Burglar bitten by rabid dog

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Police said a burglar broke into a liquor distillery and while fleeing with money he was bitten by a rabid dog.

Police issued a call for the criminal to come to the city's only anti-rabies center. They said that immunization could save his life, but not his freedom.

Swedish spying angers Finland

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finland, in a unique location as the only neutral country bordering the Soviet Union, has long been aware that it is a popular base for spies of the East and West.

But the revelation a few weeks ago that her Nordic neighbor and friend, Sweden, was among the most vigorous in espionage resulted in a verbal protest and an eventual meeting of the two government leaders. The issue is now officially dead but few Finns will forget.

Finnish newspapers for several months reported dettailed information of alleged syping by Swedish intelligence (IB) agents. The government remained silent but, as it developed later, was conducting its own investigation.

The newspapers said the Swedes for several years had been overflying Finnish military installations on photo missions, that they had buried large amounts of radio equipment in Lapland, that a spyboat took on supplies in a Finnish harbor, and that IB agents set up a radio listening post in a hotel on the Finnish-Russian border.

Ambassador protests

The parliamentary Committee on Foreign Policy accepted a government report on the matter March 13, voted not to investigate further and to keep the findings secret despite demands by the Communists for a fuller investigation and report.

Hours later, the government apparently changed its mind, and announced that its ambassador to Stockholm, Max Jakobson, had on Feb. 18 protested to Swedish Foreign Minister Sven Andersson about the spying.

"Ambassador Jakobson submitted that the government of Finland regards such activity as highly deplorable and cannot sanction it," the foreign ministry said.

After the Finns publicized Jakobson's protest, Andersson publicly admitted that one spyboat did take on supplies in a Finnish harbor and it was a mistake, but he denied all other charges.

Kekkonen angered

That denial reportedly angered Finnish President Urho K. Kekkonen who decided not to let the matter stop there. Kekkonen was due to fly to Sweden the following weekend for a private fishing trip and he announced he would lunch on the last day of his visit with Swedish Premier Olof Palme and Andersson.

During that Stockholm lunch March 17, Palme reiterated that the ship incident was a mistake, but said he had no evidence that photos had been taken while Swedish planes overflew Finnish territory. Kekkonen reportedly replied the evidence was very strong that illegal action had taken place.

Officials said Palme pledged Sweden would honor the Finnish position that spying was unacceptable and a communique said later: "The discussions were fruitful and the matter is concluded between the countries."

Later Palme told the press, "It is good that the relationship between Finland and Sweden is so good that these type of matters can be discussed at the top level."

Questions unanswered

One source at the meeting said, however, that Palme did not answer all of Kekkonen's questions and he invoked the rule of secrecy several times. He explained an small country like Sweden must keep secrecy in such matters to protect its neutrality.

Few Swedes had ever heard much about their intelligence service until three journalists last year wrote about IB activities. They were arrested and sentenced to one year imprisonment each for espionage, but an appeal court lowered one of the sentences to 10 months.

Swedish author Jan Myrdal, 47, known for his descriptive books on India and China, took up the journalists' case with appeals to the Finnish press to print the full IB story. Those appeals increased the tempo for an IB investigation in Finland, producing one of the few public spats the two countries have had in more than 30 years.

Group seeking streamlining to save fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nation Science Foundation has called for the streamlining of big intercity trucks to reduce their air drag by 10 to 30 per cent.

The Foundation said this would save an estimated two billion gallons of fuel a year.

The government agency recently awarded two contracts totaling $171,300 to research companies to design relatively simple and inexpensive streamlining shields, vanes and round corner moldings to be fitted to tractors, trailers and vans.

Buckley urges Nixon to skip Moscow visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, (R-N.Y., Tuesday strongly recommnded President Nixon cancel his summer trip to Moscow in June.

Buckley, who recently recommended Nixon resign, said the failure of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to work out a strategic arms limitation agreement during a recent presummit trip to Moscow has "made it clear that the President's political differences at home have served to harden Soviet attitudes and positions."

"I strongly recommend against a presidential visit to Moscow while impeachment proceedings are still underway," Buckley said in a statement.

Coast Guard will forbid unsafe trips

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard soon will have authority to eliminate one of its biggest headaches—unsafe voyages by private individuals that usually wind up costing the government millions of dollars in search and rescue operations.

Beginning April 17, a Coast Guard district commander will have the authority to terminate an intended voyage if he determines that the vessel is unsuited to make the voyage.

In a preamble to the regulation published recently, the Coast Guard notes that on the average there usually are about four manifestly unsafe voyages attempted each year, such as a canoe trip across the Atlantic, or a rubber raft voyage to Japan from California.

As a result, search and rescue teams spend a "disproportionately large commitment" of resources—money and manpower — in tracking and rescuing the participants when the missions abort, the Coast Guard said.

It pointed out that there was no plan to investigate every potential transoceanic voyage, but only those that have the earmarks of disaster.

The decision to terminate a proposed voyage will be up to the Coast Guard district commander, who may designate a specific craft as being "unsafe for a specific voyage on a specific body of water." He cannot re-delegate this authority but must make the determination himself.

An original proposal to allow the termination decision to be made because of operator incompetency was omitted from the final rule.

Specifically, the district commander may rule a boat unsafe for a specific voyage due to:

—Unsuitable design or configuration.

—Improper construction or inadequate material condition.

—Improper or inadequate operational or safety equipment.

The person (or persons) against whom the rule is imposed has the right under the Administrative Procedures Act to petition for reconsideration and repeal of the district commander's ruling.

In the last quarter century, millions of dollars have been spent in search operations and a number of lives have been lost because of foolhardy voyages that never should have been permitted to leave shore in the first place, Coast Guard officials say.

'Right-to-reply' bill defeated

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — The North Carolina Senate voted 24-19 Tuesday to defeat a "right-to-reply" bill that would have forced newspapers to publish replies from persons claiming they had been assailed in editorials or news stories.

The vote came after an hour of debate.

The bill would have required replies to be printed in the letters to the editors section of the paper. Editors would have been allowed to delete any "libelous, vulgar or profane" language from the replies.

Program is helping the elderly in need

DETROIT (UPI) — Tucked away in ethnic pockets in all large American cities are thousands of poor and disadvantaged senior citizens, many of them immigrants who do not speak English and are unaware of aid available to them.

A federally funded effort to reach and assist these elderly is now making inroads in four midwestern cities including Detroit, and the success rate is so high the project will probably expand to other regions of the country.

The unique program called "Senior Ethnic Find," was initiated in Chicago in 1972 by VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) under the sponsorship of then Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. Since then, the program has expanded under local sponsorship to Gary, Ind., Cleveland and Detroit, and new programs are being planned in Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

The program is the brainchild of Myron Kuropas, regional director in Chicago of ACTION, the federal agency which administers VISTA, the Peace Corps and other volunteer agencies. Kuropas had been looking for a program that could address itself to a specific constituency he felt was being ignored—white ethnic Americans.

"Being white ethnic myself," the son of Ukranian immigrants explained, "I had the general feeling that when it came to social action programs, these people felt they had been left out, and all the programs were for so-called minorities and not for them."

Many elderly poor

The pilot program in Chicago uncovered an almost incredible amount of poverty among the aged. The great majority of the neglected elderly, it was found, were immigrants to their present environment, either from foreign nations or an entirely different rural environment. Many knew only enough English to get by at work, and many others knew none at all.

The language difficlty became the springboard for one of the program's basic premises: to assist the ethnic elderly, you have to speak their language.

Each of the 58 VISTA volunteers working in the four Midwestern programs is bilingual; in fact, most are ethnic elderly themselves, from the same or similar communities.

"They are displaced people, they still feel strange in this country," said Mrs. Clare Kowalski, a spritely 56-year-old Polish-speaking volunteer who works in the Detroit enclave of Hamtramck, a colorful area of Old World Poles, Russians, Yugoslavs and Ukrainians. "They don't want welfare— they're above that—and they don't think other benefits like state property tax rebates or rental rebates affect them."

Churches help

She recalled a case in which she helped an English-speaking woman with eye trouble find a Polish speaking ophthamologist.

"Sometimes they understand English but only want to verify it in their own language," she said.

The volunteers contact the elderly through a variety of church, civic and community groups, and through advertisments in ethnic newspapers and commercials on ethnic radio and TV stations. Once they have been completely accepted by the community, many of their new contacts are through word of mouth.

One of the toughest chores is trying to convince the aged the government is not the ogre it may have been in their native land, and they have a right to apply for food stamps or rent rebates.

"They feel like beggars taking handouts," explained Alex Rackauskas, 63, a VISTA worker in Chicago's Lithuanian community. "It's pride from the old country. Many are so grateful for just being in the United States that they would never complain."

"Father" Uncle Sam

Antonio Faustini, 73, an Italian with 19 years experience as a radio announcer, agreed. "I explain that the United States government is like a father. It takes care of all its citizens."

Since the first program began 1 ½ years ago, VISTA up to March had placed 20 workers in seven ethnic communities in Chicago; 17 workers in 13 ethnic centers in Cleveland; 8 in 5 centers in Gary; and 13 in 10 centers in Detroit, which is the newest program, VISTA is also working with Suomi College in the Michigan Upper Peninsula town of Hancock to prepare a project to aid the area elderly which will involve college and high school students.

The key to the program's success appears to be the ability of the VISTA workers to identify with the communities in which they work.

Acceptance is key

"You really need to be an insider," said Betty Brown, acting director of the Detroit "Find" project. "You need the language skills and the time, but you must also fit in. You can't stick out like a sore thumb."

The point can be illustrated by the experience of a Chicago volunteer contacted by a middle-aged woman who was having marital problems with her husband and filial difficulties with her wayward son.

The volunteer politely explained that he primarily dealt with the elderly, and in any case he was not prepared to offer competent assistance at such a personal level. He suggested that the woman contact her pastor.

"But I already talked with my priest," the woman explained. "He's the one who referred me to you."

Caverns open to the public

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (UPI) — Blanchard Springs Caverns opened officially to the public last summer under the auspices of the U.S. Forest Service and is Arkansas answer to Carlsbad Caverns.

A $5.3 million project put the caves in shape for public touring. Although Blanchard Springs is not as large as Carlsbad Caverns or Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, many of those who have seen all three say Blanchard Springs offers the most in natural beauty.

Dolls on scene for Boy Scouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Guess What? The Boy Scouts are involved with dolls these days.

The "dolls" are Scout Action Figures. They are the latest offspring of the GI Joe doll craze —a "doll" figure for boys that come complete with parachutes, scuba diving equipment and other sorts of soldier gear nearly 10 years ago.

The GI Joe figures were the toy industry's answer to the yen for tin soldiers. Only, like everything these days, they were bigger and better than tin soldiers. And more expensive.

With the decline in war figures and the rise of interest in less warlike toys, the people who put out GI Joes turned to the scouting scene. That's when they came up with Scout Action Figures. Notice —the doll is called a figure, not a doll.

The "figures" are called Steve Scout and Bob Scout. One is black. One is white.

Owen T. Wilkerson, who passes on this information, is with the Boy Scouts of America, in North Brunswick, N.J., Scout headquarters for the country.

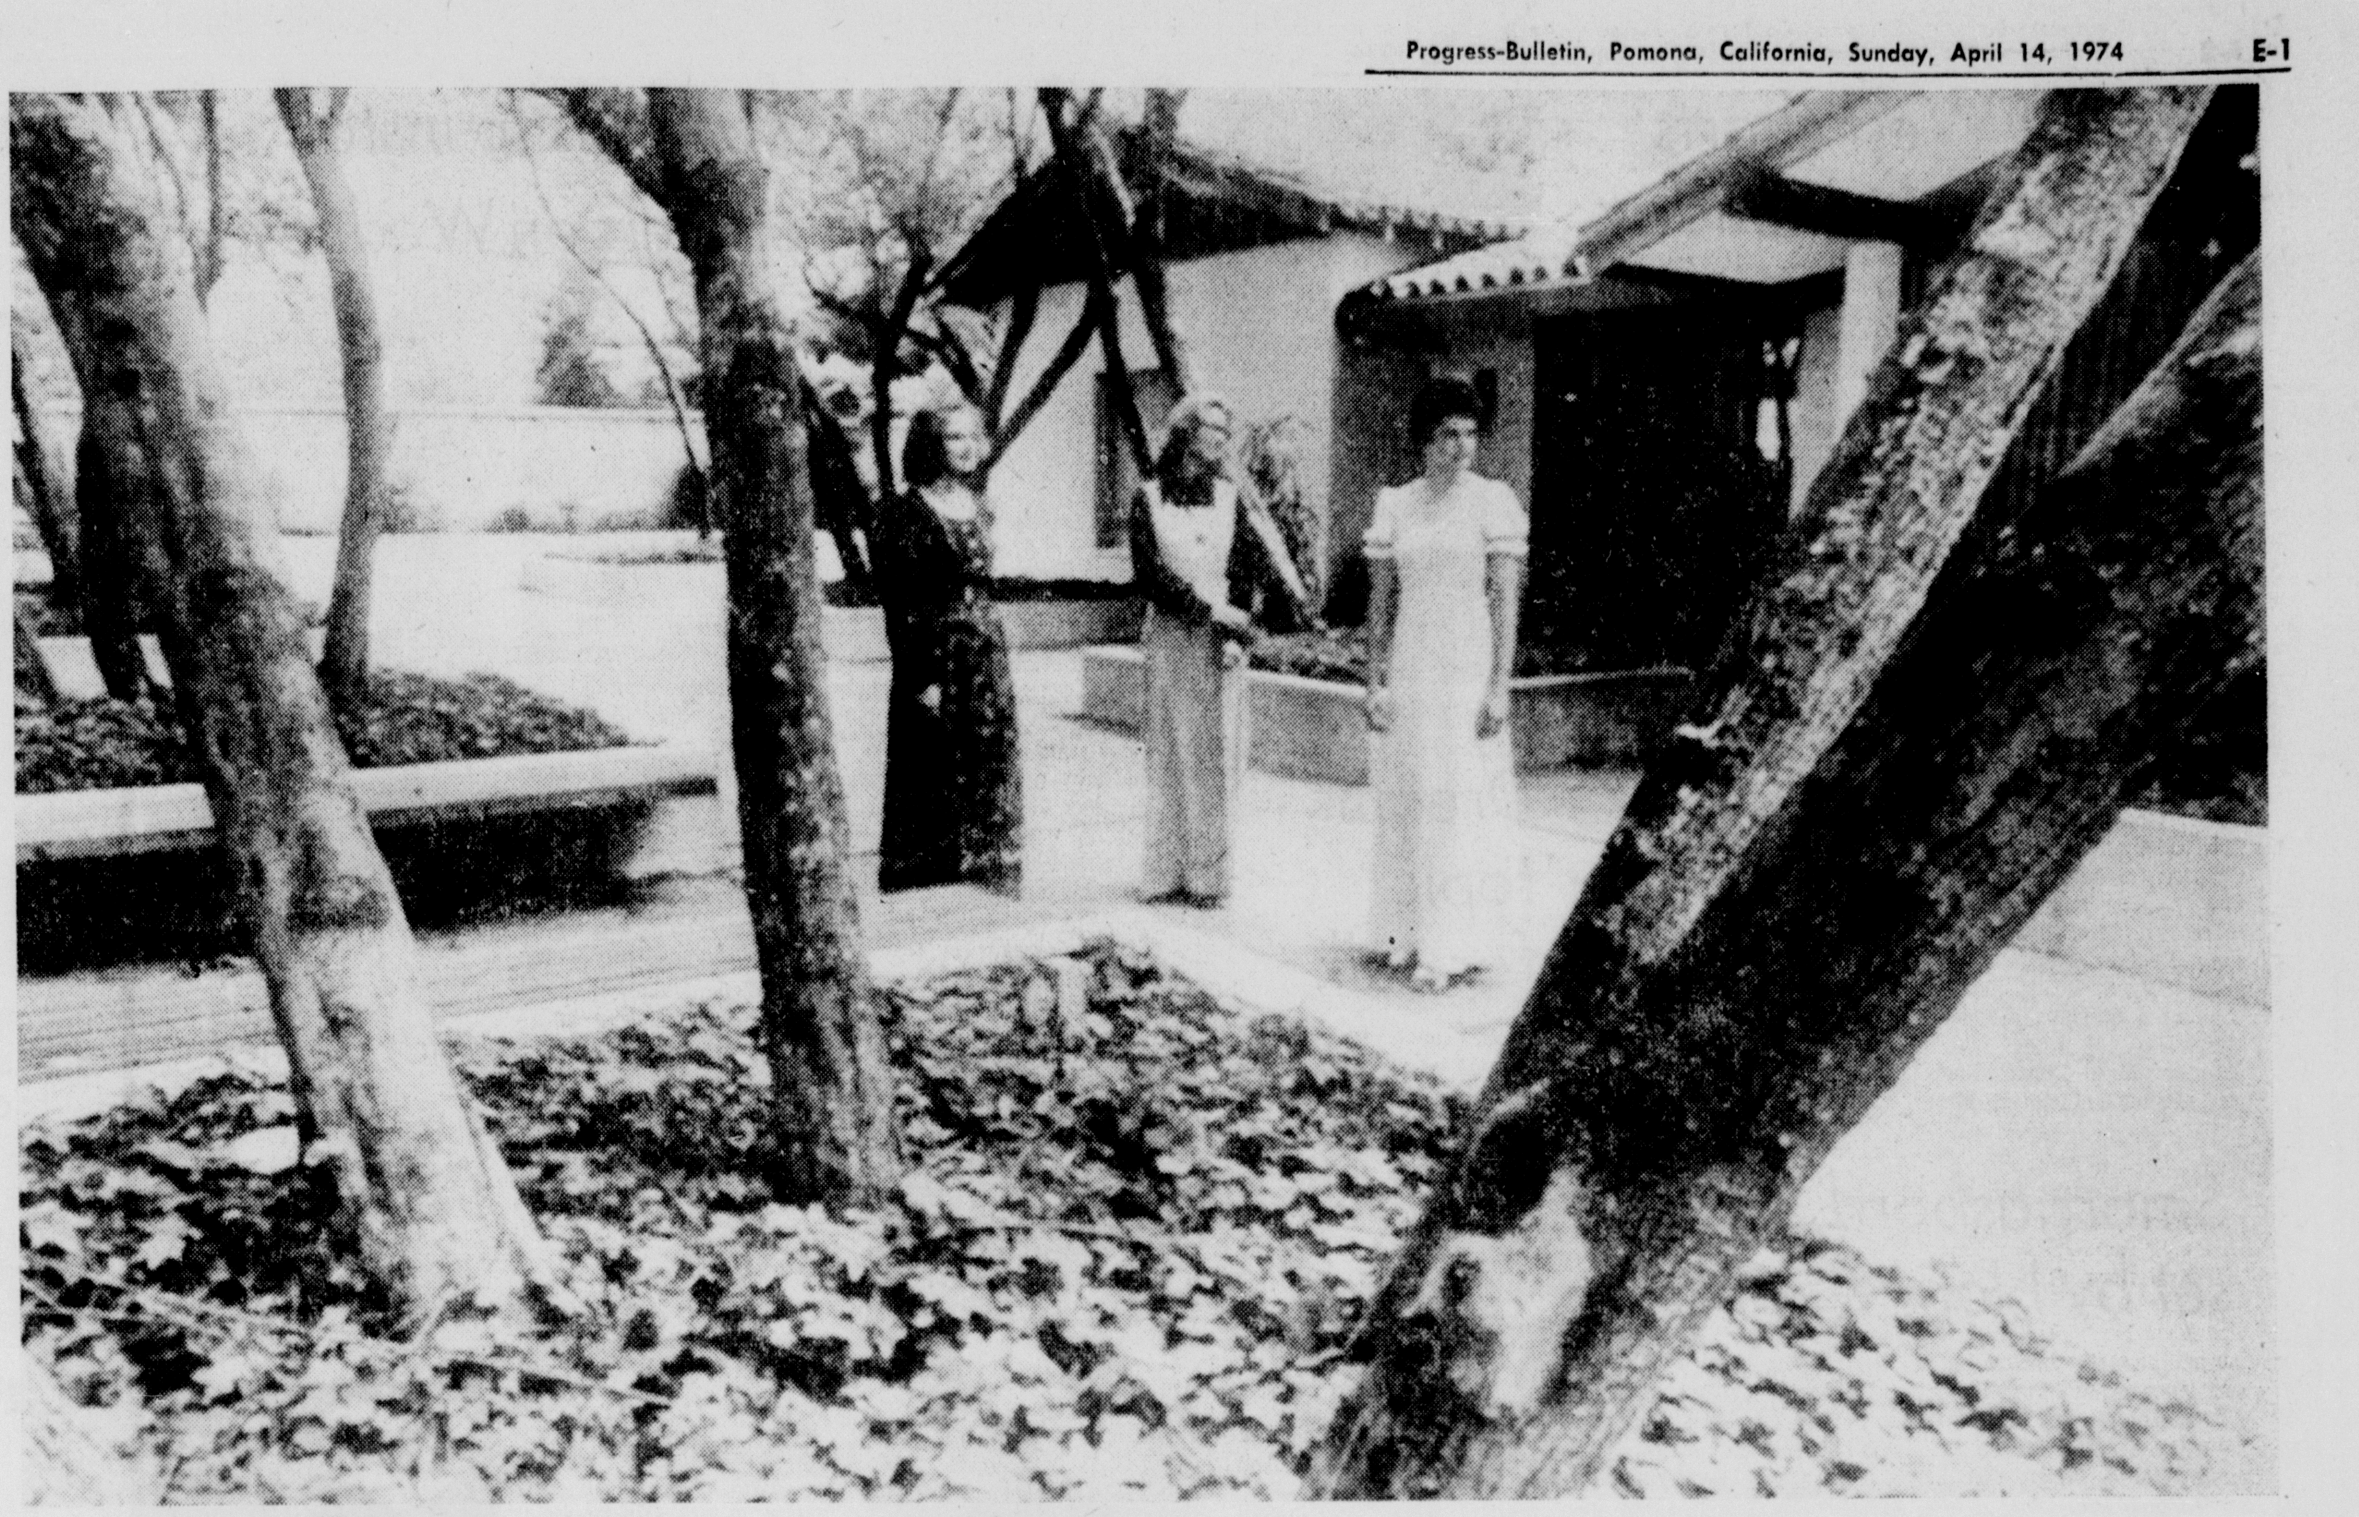
He expects the scout figures to be around a long time. The Boy Scouts have been around 64 years.

Wilkerson reports:

"These Scout Action Figures appear to be catching on quite fast. They expect to hit the retail market this spring and really take over by Christmas.

"Will boys play with dolls?" That's a big question.

"It beats selling cookies," Wilkerson said.



PREVIEW OF HOME Mrs. Henry D. Mitman, center, entertains two committee members for Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women's home tour. With her are Mrs. Adele Schoene, left, and Mrs. Marguerite Mansfield. The Mitman home will be on the Saturday tour.

Homes of Claremont

AAUW tour charted Saturday

TODAY'S
Women

Historical and contemporary, panoramic views of the populated valley and the mountain wilderness, rural and city settings—these and other contrasts await those attending the 8th annual home tour sponsored by Claremont Branch of the American Association of University Women.

The event is scheduled from 1 to [illegible] p.m. Saturday and will assist members in raising money for AAUW Fellowship Funds which provide an opportunity for deserving women to work on graduate degrees. Locally, the chapter also supports students at the undergraduate level.

Mrs. Margaret Beck of Glendora and Mrs. Arlene Barnett are chairman for the tour, which will feature five homes selected by a committee.

Heading the selection committee is Mrs. Lenore Jacoby of Pomona. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Grace Starrh, 626-0263.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitman is of Mediterranean design by architect Douglas Henderson. The family's Oriental collections strike an interesting contrast to the architecture. A violin-shaped pool and an outstanding Claraboya view are among the other highlights of the home.

Two of the homes are in the country. The Wilbert Kaufman home sits on two and one-half acres of wilderness. The spacious and and functional house, with features including a dream kitchen, was designed by the Kaufmans over the years.

The Padua home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ames offers a magnificient view and reflects well the owners' way of life. Both are artists and the house features two large studios.

A special treat is in store for the visitors in old Claremont—the home of the Colin Wrights. This is a Helen Wren house, built in 1928, complete with hand-hewn beamed ceilings and hardwood floors. The Wrights have done all the renovations themselves, and only the kitchen has been altered from what it was nearly 50 years ago..

Tea will be served throughout the afternoon at the Athenaeum, former home of the president of Claremont Men's College. The house is now used by the school for formal entertaining and as a meeting place for students.

Committee chairmen for the fundraising event this year include Mmes. Marcella Brown, Ann Beumer, Nina Thayer, all of Glendora; Deborah Spaulding, Adele Schoene, Ruth Vermilyea, Mary Scogin, Lois Keith, Barbara Janda, Joel Brightfelt, Sheryl Salveson, Diann Ring and Maudeane Weil.

SETTING FOR TEA

Mrs. Diann Ring, Dr. Sally Seven and Mrs. Deborah Spaulding pause at the Athenaeum in Claremont as they make arrangements for the tea to be held there as part of AAUW home tour.

OLDER HOME IN CLAREMONT

Mrs. Judy Wright, left, welcomes Mrs. Arlene Barnett to her home which will be one of the houses on the tour planned by Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women.

About Peace in world

Young girls are concerned

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — As revealed in a Girl Scout contest, the concerns of a group of 7 to 17-year-old girls come over loud and clear. They're concerned about peace in the world, about ecology, about racial discrimination.

"Let's Spread Peace" was the slogan of Lilli-ann Mozner, 10, of Morton Grove, Ill. Her message was on a wall hanging of terry cloth base which included not only the letters in yarn, but an illustration of a slice of bread, made of styrofoam, being spread with the word "peace." Lilli-ann's other materials included aluminum, for the knife, and fringe, for trim.

Lilli-ann was one of two first award winners in a "Letters to the World" contest sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

The other first went to Debbie Blanchard, 14, of Cohoes, N.Y. Her entry was a papoose-like figure, three-dimensional, done in cloth, yard and lace. Its message: "Humanity Yearns for Harmony."

The national wall hangings contest was sponsored jointly by the American Crafts Council and American Girl magazine, the Girl Scout publication.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art's Junior Museum Studio has the results on exhibit, the first such of its kind in Met history.

Peace was the motif of several other hangings, including one done by Bernetta J. Abramson, 17, of New York, who spelled out "Peace, Let It Be" in red felt, cut in the shape of a a guitar, with a dove cutout to accent the message.

One of the most imaginative entries belonged to Sue Schreiber, of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., who won honorable mention with her "Love Romforth Like Sunshine after Rain," complete with a white felt cloud and the sun peeking over it.

Other honorable mentions went to:

Debra Jager, 9, of Huntsville, Ala., who used a burlap base with yarn forming the silhouette of a bird and carrying the message, "Help Protect Wildlife."

Patricia Gray, 13, of Fort Thomas, Ky., used cloth, tie dyed, to depict a silhouette of a burned-out forest and the message, "Is Anybody There, Does Anybody Care, Does Anybody See What I See?"

Barbara Pontius, 13, of North Canton, Ohio, used felt, yarn, foil, and stuffed cloth to spell out an anti-discrimination message: "Day and Night Aren't as Different as They Seem".

Pamela Petsick, 17, of Oajwood, Tex., used cloth, embroidery and Magic Marker for her slogan of "Children Have Overcome."

And Sara Starkey, 9, of Odessa, Fla., combined felt, cloth and yarn for a stick-figure of black and white children

Others stressed the brotherhood of man, as in 13-year-old Mary Lucifer's entry, "Balloons are Beautiful in All Different Colors, and So Are People." Miss Lucifer is from Hatfield, Pa.

Crystal Novota, 17, of Overbrook, Ill., used a red felt background and felt cutouts in black and white making a piano keyboard. The message, "Just Remember, It Takes the Black and White Keys to Play the Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Dianne Lewis and Thomas White will be married on May 25.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Lewis of Pomona is a Pomona High School graduate. She attended Mt. San Antonio College and is employed by General Telephone Company, Pomona.

Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew White of Compton. He graduated from Centennial High School. Mr. White attended Cal Poly Pomona for two years and was a member of the football team.

He is employed by Super-Grate Steel Company in Maywood.

The couple plans to reside in Pomona.

DIANNE LEWIS

OES to fete deputy grand matron here

The theme will be "A Reign of Flowers" when Mrs. Robert Poers, deputy grand matron of the 59th district of the Grand Chapter, State of California, Order of the Eastern Star, makes her official visit to Claremont Chapter at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple.

She will be honored with a special escort and will receive her carrying piece and a special presentation as gifts of the chapter.

Mrs. Chester Olson, associate conductress, will make the presentation and will be assisted by the star points, Mmes. Elvin Diehl, William Schaefer, Sidney Hopkins and Richard Bess.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mmes. Virgil Hansen, chairman; Kenneth Baughman, James Putman and George Redmond.

Volunteers schedule session

WOMEN FORE the Music Center, a support group of over 400 volunteers, will meet at 10 a.m. April 26 in the Eldorado Room of the Center's Dorothy Chandler Pavilion.

Addressing the group will be Jean Stapleton of "All in the Family" fame and currently starring in "The Time of the Cuckoo" at the Ahmanson Theater; and Robert Fryer who, in addition to serving as Ahmanson Theater's managing director, is a Broadway and film producer.

The agenda will include a report on the progress of the Music Center Arts and Education Fund campaign and in particular the progress of the WOMEN FORE the Music Center toward their $250,000 goal. There will also be a report on The Performing Tree, the joint venture of the Reachout Committee and the Junior League of Los Angeles.

Girl Scouts collecting newspapers

A number of Girl Scout troops within the Pomona Neighborhood have been collecting old newspapers and submitting them to the Recycling Resources Company, according to Mrs. John Hawkins, chairman of District 2, Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council.

"The girls have found that the project is worthwhile and that it doesn't take long to obtain funds to subsidize troop campouts, plan a troop trip to San Diego or aid their troop progam," she says.

Girl Scouts have been involved in conservation since the founding of the organization 62 years ago. The local scouts are helping to conserve forest lands by collecting newspapers and delivering them for recycling.

Recently, Mike Macardican, owner of the recycling company, contributed $100 to the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council for the Palomar campsite development fund because of the enthusiasm of the girls involved in the newspaper project.

Hair facts

Hair grows about a half inch a month or approximately six inches a year and tends to grow faster in warm weather. Hair also grows fastest between the ages of 15 to 25. And when most hair reaches 10 inches in length, it slows down to about half of its normal growth rate.

Policeman to address Navy Mothers

Lt. Arthur Traber of the Pomona Police Department will address the afternoon meeting of Pomona Navy Mothers Club on Tuesday.

The public is invited to the 1 p.m. meeting at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 1700 E. 1st St., when Lt. Traber will show the film "Lady Beware."

Lt. Traber has been with the Pomona Police Department since 1955. He received his A.A. degree in police science at Mt. San Antonio College and has taken additional training from California Peace Officers Standards and Training Commission.

The Navy Mothers will meet at 10 a.m. for a business meeting with a potluck luncheon scheduled at noon.

Pomona College dean

Cited for dedicated career

By VONNE ROBERTSON

Assistant Women's Editor

In recognition of her outstanding performance as a dean for 25 years at Pomona College, Dr. Jean B. Walton will be presented the Scott H. Goodnight Award at the opening banquet of the 56th annual conference of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators today in Chicago.

The annual award for Outstanding Performance as a dean memorializes Scott Goodnight, first president of NASPA in 1919-1920.

As dean of students for the college in Claremont, Dr. Walton was cited as "a woman whose courage has been characterized by the sometimes unspectacular virtues of patience, duty, and integrity throughout a quarter of a century of service to the students of Pomona College."

In commenting on her many years of service, Dr. Walton said in an interview "They've been enjoyable. I've always been impressed with the friendliness and extremely human quality of the students and have been stimulated by my close contact with them.

"I've always respected their opinions and have worked to understand the meaning behind their actions," she added.

"While the students at Pomona College have, for the most part, been serious, dedicated students, I do see some changes in attitudes over the years" added the tall, charming woman.

"Today's students have greater expectations for the future. Girls tend less to view marriage as the next immediate step after graduation, seeking a career first.

"Students want to have more voice in the operation of the college and in the planning of their own lives. They seek a greater range of choices in their educational and living patterns."

"They are much more mobile," continued Dean Walton. "We find them taking leaves of absence to work, to travel, and to explore other alternatives. Then the students return to continue their studies with a more defined direction."

While, in the past years, Dr. Walton's duties have included an increasing amount of administrative work, she still finds time to consult with students interpreting college policies, helping them with emergencies and handling the out-of-the-ordinary situations.

HONORED — Dr. Jean B. Walton, dean of students at Pomona College, will be honored today in Chicago. She stands before a hanging which was painted especially for her while she was teaching in Japan.

Dr. Walton graduated from Swarthmore College with highest honors and received her master's degree in mathematics at Brown University. She obtained her doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1949, she came to Pomona College as dean of women, a post she held until 1969 when she was appointed dean of students and dean of women. Her department works closely with the deans and other administrative officers in all the Claremont Colleges.

Dr. Walton serves as chairman of a faculty-student Commission on the Education of Women. Among the charges, the commission was asked to study and make recommendations concerning the employment opportunities for women. Commission members agreed that there is an urgent educational need for a substantial increase in the number of women on the faculty.

Dr. Walton pointed out that Pomona College, like other colleges and universities, has been engaged in recruiting qualified women and minority group teachers. There are a few more on the faculty each year, she added.

Dr. Walton has also been active in programs to provide broader opportunities for the study of questions related to the changing role of women in society.

She spent a year as Fulbright Lecturer in Counseling and Guidance at Japan Women's University in Tokyo, in 1955-56. In 1972, she spent the fall semester traveling within the United States studying recent developments in the Women's Movement and considering their impact on undergraduate education.

Since the returning, Dr. Walton has worked with a student group, "The Concerned Women of Claremont," and has spoken frequently in the valley.

As a person who loves travel and the out-of-doors, the busy dean still finds time to garden and hike. Her travels have taken her to Europe, the Orient and Africa.

After receiving her well-deserved award, Dr. Walton will remain in Chicago for the week-long conference which is expected to draw several thousands delegates.

Youth Aliyah lunch charted by Hadassah

Sharon and Eastland chapters of Hadassah will jointly sponsor their annual Youth Aliyah luncheon on Tuesday. The group will gather at 11 a.m. at the Via Verde Country Club, 1177 Via Esperanza, San Dimas.

Mrs. David Goodman, president of Southern Pacific Coast Region of Hadassah, will speak on her personal impressions of her recent tour of Israel. She will bring members up to date on the current direction of the Youth Aliyah immigration movement.

As was reported at the 59th annual Hadassah National Convention in Denver, Youth Aliyah's children's villages have been acknowledged the world over for their creative work in child rescue and rehabilitation since their inception in 1934 as a refuge for the child victims of the Nazi holocaust.

Among the later waves of immigrant families from Arab countries and Eastern Europe to Israel, some were unprepared to send their children away to these residential schools, so Youth Aliyah provided day centers near the rural development towns.

Now, with Hadassah's help, Youth Aliyah is planning to build day centers in Israel's two most populous cities, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. Another Hadassah-sponsored program will provide mental health in-service training for the Youth Aliyah personnel in the day centers throughout Israel.

Also to address the luncheon will be Mrs. Ray Wolters, regional leadership training chairman.

The musical portion of the program will be presented by Emily Georges, who plays the guitar and sings traditional Jewish melodies.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. George Rosenfeld, 982-1630, and Mrs. Arthur Madorsky, 624-7714.

Sisterhood antique sale planned

An antique show and sale is planned Saturday and Sunday by the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Ami at 3508 E. Garvey Ave., West Covina.

Thirty-one dealers will be participating in the show and items including antique clocks, gold and silver coins, antique jewelry, cut glass, art glass, turquoise, oak pieces, furniture will be on display.

An outstanding artist will have on display and for sale original watercolors and prints.

Candy, greenery, potted plants in handmade stoneware pots will also be for sale.

Mrs. Wallace Siegel is chairman for the event and among those assisting her are Mrs. Robert Sheldon, Mrs. Morris Stark and Mrs. Howard Stone.

Saturday hours will be 8 p.m. to midnight, and Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Gibson to address San Antonio Auxiliary

New officers will be elected at the Monday meeting of San Antonio Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary in Aita Auditorium at the hospital.

The speaker, Mrs. Thomas A. Gibson, will have as her topic "Rx for Health Education." A member of the auxiliary, Mrs. Gibson is also president of the California Medical Society Auxiliary.

The speaker has been on the Upland School Board for 12 years and has been a member of the San Bernardino County School Board for six years. She is a delegate to the California State Commission for Teacher Credentialing.

Luncheon will be served at noon and the program will begin at 12:40 p.m. Women in the community are welcome. Reservations may be made by calling Jean Grace, 985-2811.

The auxiliary will sponsor a Trump Brunch on April 29 in the hospital auditorium, starting at 10 a.m.

Brunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. Reservations are due by April 25. Proceeds are for the Women's Auxiliary Chapel Fund.

YWCA spring classes registrations begin

The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is now accepting registration for spring classes.

Classes in fitness and crewel embroidery will begin Monday at the La Verne Church of the Brethren. The fitness program, for six weeks on Monday evenings, will include exercise to music, figure analysis and diet discussion. It will be led by Nelleen Moran.

Crewel embroidery is to be taught by Chrissy Vaughn.

Other classes being offered by the YWCA include beginning golf on Wednesday mornings for eight weeks at 10 a.m. at the Claremont Golf Course with Pat Patton instructing. Golf will begin on Wednesday.

Tennis instruction will again be given by Margaret Overin at Palomares Park on Thursday mornings beginning April 25.

Classes in crocheting, patchwork quilting and Red Cross First Aid will start Tuesday at the YWCA building, 207 E. Monterey St. Child care is available during all morning classes.

For information on classes, call the YWCA at 622-1269, or come to the office between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Membership gathering set by BPW

An informal membership meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. by the La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club.

Members are invited to bring their guests to the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of San Gabriel Valley, located at Bonita and D Streets, La Verne.

Impressionist, solon art work at museum

LOS ANGELES — "Impressionists and the Salon," an exhibition of work by Impressionist and Salon painters, will open Tuesday at the county Museumof Art.

The exhibit, including paintings, drawings, prints, watercolors and sculpture, continues through May 11. Admission is free.

In April 1874, a group of independent artists who came to be known as the Impressionists exhibited together for the first time at the studio of photographer Nadar in Paris. To celebrate that event, this exhibition was organized by students working under Kahterine Mead of the history of art deparment at UC Riverside.

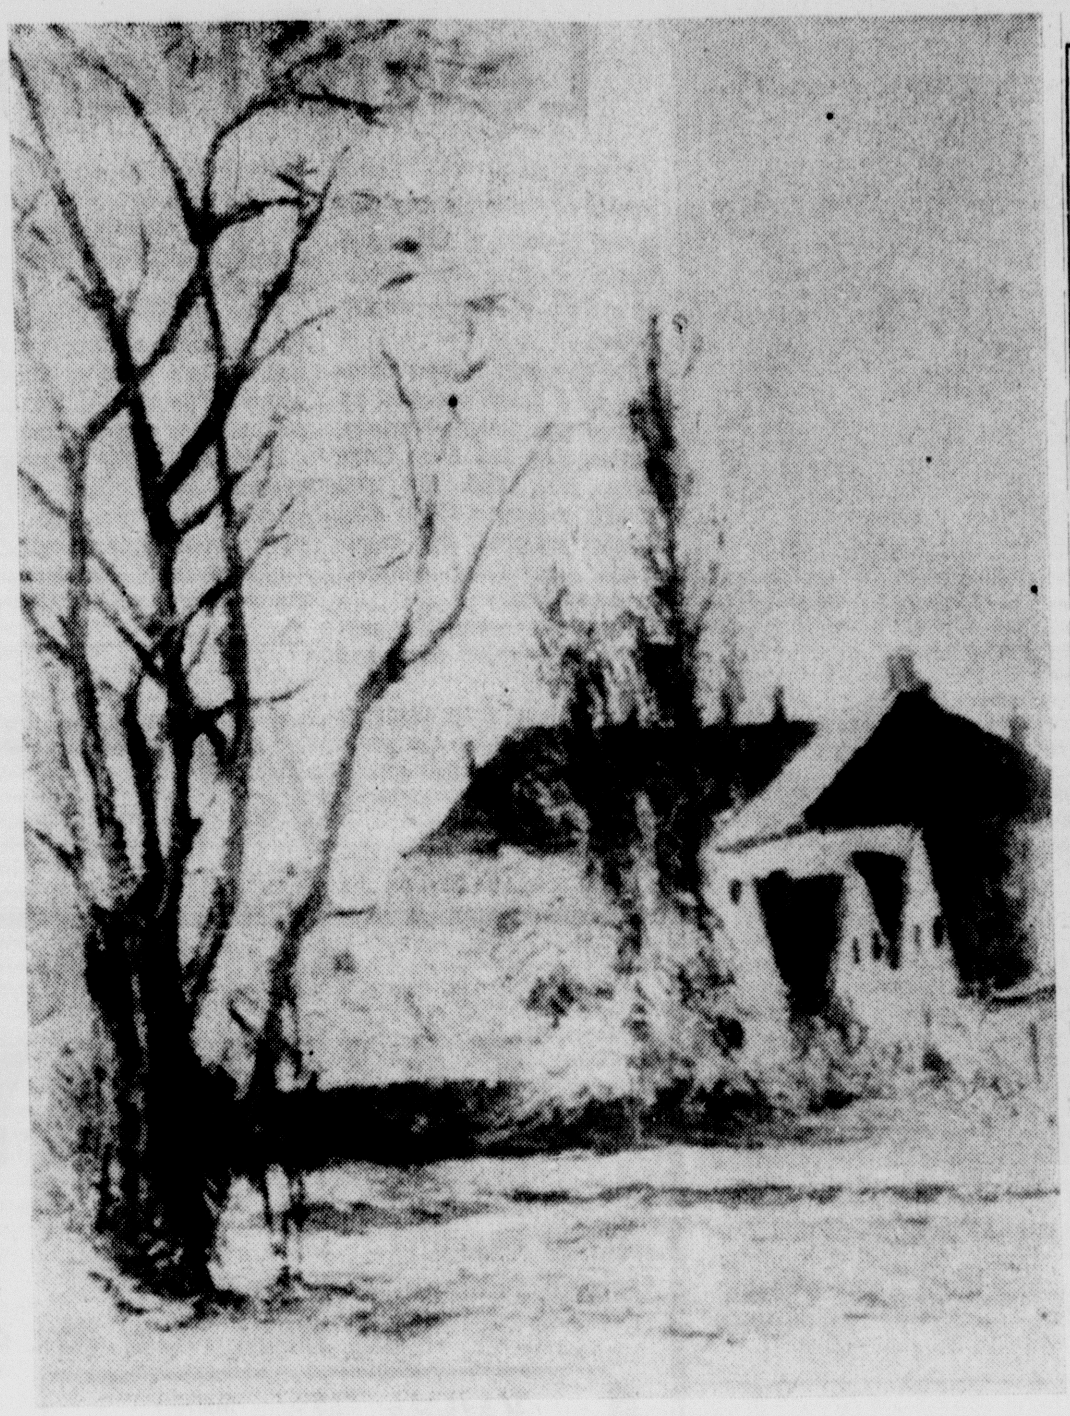
Drawn entirely from California collections, the works reflect the rich diversity in terms of style and subject matter of French art executed from 1874 to 1886, the years during which the eight Impressionist exhibitions took place. Over 40 artists including Cezanne, Gauguin, Degas, Monet, Manet, Mary Cassatt, Bouguerau, Forain, Berne-Bellecour and Meissonier are represented in the exhibition.

Works by Salon artists include "La Berceuse," by william A. Bouguereau, "Reception of the Duc de Conde at Versailles," by S.L. Gerome, "Algerian Girl" by F. Roybet, and a painting of a cardinal titled "The Red Portfolio" by genre painter J.G. Vibert.

Schultpre is represented in the exhibition with a polychorme bust of a Greek woman by Cordier, a bronze by Auguste Rodin titled "Je Suis Belle" and work by one of Rodin's masters, Carrier Belleuse, titled "L'Enlevement" and executed in a baroque tyle.

Among the Impressionist works are Mary Cassatt's "Mother about to Wash Her Sleepy Child"; a watercolor, "Vue de Pontoise," by Camille Pisarro; "Paysage d'Hiver a Copenhague" by Paul Gauguin; a Degas pastel of a dancer; a pastel portrait of Degas' friend, Italian painter De Nittis, by J.L. Forain; and a painting titled "Effet de Neige a Limetz" by Claude Monet. It was a painting by Monet titled "Impression, Sunrise" shows in the first exhibition of 1884 that led to the term "Impressionism."

In addition to the art works, interesting peripheral material can be seen, such as photographs of major academic artists in their studios, in some cases showing paintings that are included in the exhibition.



WINTER IMPRESSIONS—"Winter Landscape, Copenhagen," by French artist Paul Gauguin, is one of the works in an exhibition by Impressionist and Salon artists opening Tuesday at the county Museum of Art. The oil on canvas, painted about 1885, has been loaned to the exhibit by Leona Cantor of Beverly Hills. Admission is free.

2 ballet companies joining for program

RIVERSIDE — The Riverside Ballet Arts Theater in conjunction with the Ballet Society of Los Angeles will present "Ballet for All," a program of four popular works, in the Riverside Municipal Auditorium at 3 p.m. April 28.

Tickets at $3.50 general admission, $2 for students, are on sale at the box office and at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Thr four ballets, "Graduation Ball," "Once upon a Time," "Ballet School" and "Gran Tarantella,' constitute a wide range of classic and folk-influenced styles.

Mary Lynn, founder and artistic director of the Riverside organization, and Tatiana Riabouchinska-Lichine, founder-director of the Los Angeles company, chose works from the repertoire of each.

Kenneth Kreel, who directed last year's production of "The Nutcracker," presented in several performances in each area, is artistic director of the Los Angeles company.

"Graduation Ball," choreographed by the late David Lichine in 1940 for the celebrated Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, still reamins among the best-loved works in Ballet Russe repertoire. It will be staged by Miss Riabouchinska, who was Lichine's co-worker and wife.

Lewis Homes in Chino

CHINO — The Lewis Homes of California has purchased 55 acres at Chino and Norton avenues for development of single family homes.

The property is now occupied by a dairy, operated by Bernie and Ralph Preciado. Bernie, who has lived there since 1932, and his son, Ralph, a former Chino City Council member, are transferring their dairy operation to San Jacinto.

They will operate a new dairy there on 535 acres and with 500 cows.

The building firm plans to build 200 homes on the property. The project will adjoin another housing development, called The Countryside.

"When the Preciados decided to put their land on the market, we were quite eager to purchase it," said Ralph M. Lewis. "The location was a natural one for us to be excited about.

"Our adjoining development has had extremely rapid sales and we are quite optimistic about the future growth in the southwestern part of Chino."

Lewis cited two important reasons for Chino's rapid growth. "The first is that people from all over Southern California are discovering the many benefits of the City of Chino. It offers a way of life which is rapidly disappearing from other cities.

"Open fields, freedom from urban congestion and excellent schools are some major appeals of Chino. People are also discovering they can get more home for the money because land prices and improvement prices are considerably less."

A second reason for Chino's growth, added Lewis, is the "excellent city staff which is working hard in overseeing the city's orderly development."

He praised Gale Carr, director of community development, and Dennis Chinaeff, associate planner, as exemplifying the city staff. "They are fair to developers, easv to work with, and firm in maintaining their standards for developments in the city."

The new development will have 219 houses to be constructed within a three year period. These will be similar to those built at The Countryside.

These homes, located on Pipe Line Avenue between Chino and Schaeffer avenues, are priced from $31,350 to $37,850. The one and two story structures offer up to 1,982 square feet of floor space. Five model homes are open daily.

Realtors hold seminar in Claremont

CLAREMONT — An educational seminar on "Organization of A Brokerage Office" and "Budget Planning for Brokerage Office," will be held April 25 at Griswold's Restaurant.

This is being sponsored by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors (PVBR) and the California Real Estate Association (CREA), said J. Stan Heckmer, education chairman.

The all-day session is open to the public. Members of the PVBR and CREA may earn a unit of credit toward the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

"This is an opportunity for real eastate practitioners to broaden their knowledge and understanding of the profession," said Heckmer.

"The course features advanced materials designed to help Realtors and salesmen who already have a good working knowledge of real estate business, but who want to learn more, especially new techniques for helping their clients."

The faculty and materials are provided by CREA with the local board making other conference arrangements.

The speakers are Ptrick McVay, "Organization of Brokerage Office" and George Schnarre, "Budget Planning for Brokerage Office."

McVay, of Huntington Beach, operates two real estate offices. Schnarre, a San Bernardino Realtor, is also a real estate instructor at San Bernardino Valley College.

Contents of the course include:

Organization of Brokerage Office—A review of the functions and duties of typical real estate office personnel. Analysis of efficiency and a time study of various duties. Planning for growth is explored, including analysis of costs and time needed.

Budget Planning for Brokerage Office—Analysis of that portion of brokerage income remaining after all the commissions have been paid—the "company dollar." Formula is presented for estimating expenses of the firm as more salesmen are added or reduced. Advertising, salaries, telephone expenses, rent and service costs are explored.

The registration fee is $15, which includes course materials, examination, coffee service and luncheon. Registration begins at 8:45 a.m.

For more information, persons may contact the PVBR, 665 N. Garey Ave. The telephone number is 623-1607.

At Realtors meeting:

Housing needs outlined

WASHINGTON — What is the proper approach to solving the nation's housing problems?

Members of the National Association of Realtors received mixed opinions at their annual legislative conference held recently in Washington, D.C.

Speakers included Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., who criticized the Administration's approach; James T. Lynn, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), who expressed disappointment at a housing bill recently passed by the Senate; and William Simon, federal energy administrator, who warned against resuming old habits of "thoughless energy consumption."

"As you well know, a wide gap exists between the Administration and the Congress—and, I believe, the people—on what course should be taken on housing in the months and years ahead," declared Sparkman. "I sometimes wonder if the Administration has a course."

He described provisions of Senate Bill 3066 recently passed by the Senate. Terming this a "landmark housing bill," Sparkman said this would bring together housing programs and community development programs.

In terms of housing, he said existing Federal Housing Administration (FHA) programs would be converted to two basic programs of housing for low income families—a home ownership program and a rental program.

Regarding community development, Sparkman said a number of categorical programs are being consolidated into a single community development program. The principal categorical programs affected are those for urban renewal, model cities and water and sewer facility construction.

The speaker had introduced last year Senate Bill 1744, the Community Development Assistance Act of 1973, which constituted the basis of the new program, he said.

Sparkman described the major features of the housing portion of the act as including: a limitation on eligibility for assistance to families with income of less than 80 per cent of the median; counseling for applicants to reduce defaults; warranty requirements and provisions for reimbursement for defective workmanship; and special consideration for the elderly by requiring that from 15 to 25 per cent of rental assistance contracts be earmarked for projects for the elderly.

The senator was also critical of HUD, questioning its "concern that it does not have the capability of managing an FHA subsidy program, or for that matter, any FHA program. "I just cannot believe the program is incapable of being administrated," he added. Referring to FHA scandals of the 1950s, he said: "I wonder how we have been fortunate relative to the public housing programs and the urban renewal program, each of which have involved many billions of dollars, without a major scandal involving corruption or fraud."

In another speech, Lynn reported there are more important decisions to be made now in the field of housing and related areas than perhaps any other time in recent history.

The HUD official touched briefly on some of the concerns his agency faces. He listed the Better Communities Act, designed to delegate the decision-making authority to local governments; Congress' struggle to produce an omnibus housing bill; and subsidized housing for lower income families.

Lynn expressed disappointment at the housing bill recently passed by the Senate. He said it contains a number of provisions the Administration proposal did not recommend—principally a return to subsidized new housing not unlike the former programs on which the Administration placed on moratorium in January, 1973.

"I am still optimistic, however," he added. "I feel the House is somewhat more sympathetic to our approaches, and a win is still possible.

"By a win, I mean a conference bill which provides meaningful legislation for the country and for which the President can sign."

Much has been said about housing for the low-income American and the elderly, he noted, and an appropriate topic for discussion might be housing for the middle American.

"While the track record over the past two decades is impressive, by any measure you use—and fewer and fewer people are living in substandard housing—there are forces which are making a continuation of that trend more and more difficult."

He cited inflation as a principal force "under which rising prices for virtually everything purchased leaves less and less for the mortgage or rental payment." He also noted the need for a healthy growing economy, particularly in the fields of housing and mortgage credit.

"Right now, the savings and loan associations and other thrift institutions constitute the largest single factor in housing finance," he said. "When they experience net outflows, as was true late last year, the effects on mortgage credit is immense."

The private money market must be tapped to a much greater extent to provide a broader spread of mortgage credit, said Lynn. He made these recommendations:

—Mortgage interest tax credits. These would provide instituions with investible assets a tax credit on the interest they receive from funds invested in residential mortgages, starting with one per cent when 10 per cent of assets are so invested, ranging up to 3½ per cent with 70 per cent or more of the funds are in mortgages.

—Government reinsurance of private mortgage insurers to forestall any possible failures and increase of use the secondary market.

—Revitalize the FHA by freeing the interest rate so that it rises and falls with the market. By using co-insurance where-by the loan originator assumes part of the risk, this increases his incentive toward careful underwriting.

In his speech, Simon called for "the determination and will to translate our present anxieties about the energy shortage into new values and patterns of concern."

Predicting that when the full effect of the lifting of the Arab embargo is felt, he said there may be a temporary surplus or at least sufficiency.

"Between now and the end of this century, we will design and construct as many homes, offices and industrial buildings as we have today. Within a quarter of a century, we will have developed a second America."

Simon discounted suggestions that he and President Nixon disagree on the scope of the problem.

"He was the first President ever to send a message entirely devoted to energy to the Congress," said Simon. Despite that message and other early warnings, a panic mentality set in last fall as dire forecasts of surging unemployment, drastic gasoline shortages and city-wide blackouts were heard.

"It did not happen. No more than one-half of one per cent of the workers had lost their jobs. More people are, in fact, employed than last November and there have been no blackouts."

Simon expressed disappointment that Congress had not yet provided the manpower and budget to establish a permanent energy office.

"The problem did not start with the embargo and it will not end when it is fully lifted," he said. "All industrial nations will continue to have energy problems with enormous economic implications."

President Nixon is determined to make America self-sufficient by 1980, declared Simon. And he has made a five year, $10 billion commitment to that "despite the significant obstacles of cost and demand on the spirit and strength of the people."

Realty week marked with 'open house'

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Board of Realtors will hold an open house Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, at its offices, 665 N. Garey Ave.

This will mark the start of Realtor Week, April 21-27. This will be observed by 500,000 Realtors and associates across the nation.

The local program is sponsored by the realty board's public relations committee. This includes Peggy Vick, chairman, Nancy Glasscock, co-chairman, and Virginia Albany, Cleon Cravens, Penny Huss, Evelyn Kridler, Lynda Thomason and Wayne West, members.

Coffee and rolls will be served those attending the open house.

Most homes at 'Orchard' are sold

UPLAND — More than two-thirds of the two and three bedroom condominium homes have been sold at Orchard Lane here.

The $4.5 million residential development features eight different exteriors in contemporary and Spanish architectural styling. Officials said 223 of the project's 256 homes have been sold.

These were built by Fredricks Development Corp., builder of 10 communities in California.

The homes, priced from $19,900, feature wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, built-in kitchen appliances, vinyl flooring, luminous kitchen ceilings and inside laundry areas. Fireplaces are included in some plans.

These also have air conditioning, fenced patios, and electric outlets and exterior lighting for patio dining and entertaining.

The complex includes a children's playground, swimming pool, hydro-massage pool and cabana.

Furnished model homes display the floor-plans and features of the condominium homes. These are open daily.

Persons can reach the Orchard Lane community by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to Mountain Avenue, go north to Seventh Street and then west to the model complex.

Law candidate has court date

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — On the ballot for the June 4 election, Jerry L. Lawrence, 32, a candidate for sheriff of Orange County, lists his occupation as "herb dealer."

Lawrence is scheduled to go on trial in Superior Court the day before the election on charges of possessing several pounds of marijuana.

Capital punishment still a way of life in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — In prison yards around the Soviet Union, the rattle of firing squads still can be heard with grim regularity.

The Soviet press is quick to condemn what it considers to be executions of a political nature in the West, for example the recent garrote-killing of two convicts in Spain.

The other side of the coin is that so far this year at least 23 persons have been sentenced to die in the Soviet Union, many of them for crimes that would not be considered capital in the West.

This indicates an increase in the rate, of executions, since courts are known to have passed about 95 death sentences in the past three years. More often than not, newspapers report the sentences after they have been caried out.

The method used is always the firing squad.

Probably not all executions get into the newspapers, particularly those for murder and rape—crimes which, in any case, are played down in the press here.

Wartime collaboration with the Nazis and economic crimes against the state, such as bribetaking and fraud, are the chief causes for those death sentences that are reported.

Lenin approved

V.I. Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state, approved capital punishment as a means of establishing Communist order, despite the fact his own brother had been executed by Czarist authorities.

The death penalty has several times been abolishzd and reinstated during more than 56 years of Communist rule.

The official position on the subject, according to one legal authority, is that capital punishment is an "exceptional and temporary measure" which will be kept in force until Soviet society is mature enough to abolish it completely.

There are no signs that this will come about soon. On the contrary, there have been these signs of a stiffening in attitude:

—A meeting of the nation's highest law enforcement and legal officials under President Nikolai V. Podgorny recently called for tougher measures to prevent crimes against state property. A committee now is drawing up a working paper on the subject.

Execution at 16

—A public prosecutor, Yuri Kostanov recommended some time ago in Literaturnaya Gazeta that the age at which a person can be sentenced to death should be lowered from 18 to 16. "Young people grow up faster than before," he said.

—In the free-wheeling southern republic of Azerbaijan, the Communist Party newspaper Bakinski Rabochii appealed recently for the execution of a government official who took bribes.

The official, F. Kadyrov, had been given the maximum prison sentence under Soviet law of 15 years.

"To pass such a mockingly weak and mild sentence instead of ordering the firing squad is a disgrace for the Communist and the revolutionary," the newspaper said.

—In the neighboring republic of Georgia, party chief Eduard Shevardnadze decried the activities of bribe-takers and speculators.

"They shouldbe caught and shot down—Lenin said it," he told fellow Communists.

Staggering to ponder

There are three natural intoxicating beverages as old as man: wine, beer, and cider.

Important period of life

New hope looms for older persons

CHICAGO (UPI) — The image of aged Americans hopelessly living out their days on a park bench in Florida must be swept aside in a new emphasis on the opportunities of the later years of life.

That was a key point made by a panel of medical and social scientists at an American Medical Association conference on aging this past week.

Bernard E. Nash, executive director of the American Association of retired persons, said the fact that the 46 national organizations joined the AMA in sponsoring the meeting was of utmost significance.

"Twenty years ago, nobody would have dreamed of devoting two and a half days to discussions on the quality of life in the later years," he said. "At long last, we are moving toward a more intelligent approach to the later years of life.

Important persons

"We are beginning to put that period of life in perspective, without expressions of maudlin sympathy for the 'poor old folk.' Finally, we are looking upon the elderly as people who can continue to relate to all other ages and to make significant contributions to society."

One big problem in the effort to improve the outlook for the aged is the image old people have in the United States. Dr. Daniel T. Peak, a psychiatrist at Duke University's Center for Aging, said the whole concept of aging in America connotes something unpleasant.

"Aging has been presented as one hopeless, unremitting downward drift into despair, deprivation and desolation," said Dr. Eric Pfeiffer, associate director of Duke's Center for Aging. "The images of aging which have been presented in the public media have focused on disease, poverty and social isolation.

Aged have problems

"To be sure, the plight of the aged exists. It is real. It is painfully real for many aged persons themselves, for their families and for those who, vocationally or avocationally, have a role in caring for the aged."

But Pfeiffer said bad news about aging has been common too long. He said the U.S. has allowed the aging experience to become a national disgrace.

"I would like to see us here in Chicago start a small boomlet for making the aging experience not a national disgrace, but a cause for national celebration."

There are more than 30 million Americans who are 60 years old or older.

For too long, Nash said, the emphasis has been on the group of older Americans in need of protective services of the government and institutions. They should be helped, he said, but it is time to pay attention to the much larger group of elderly who are eager and able to give creatively to society.

Succesful youth

Peak contended that successful aging is a result of a successful youth. But he said if one has arrived into his later years somewhat tarnished by his earlier days, it is not too late to begin to change his ways.

"We have become conditioned to accept the idea that growth and development stops when one reaches the early adults," he said. "This social delusion we have that development stops is an all too common occurrence."

A key issue of aging, said Dr. Carl Eisdorfer, is the reintegration of older people into society. He says the retired make up a largely untapped pool of talent which could contribute effectively to American society. Yet, he said the nation does not have a strategy for utilizing the capabilities of the aged.

"We're so busy protecting jobs at the front end that we're almost cavalier about cutting off jobs at the far end," said the chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Gallup says Watergate 'to linger'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pollster George Gallup Jr. predicts the American public will not forget Watergate as easily as it has past scandals and that its effects will linger for many years.

Gallup, attending an American Personnel and Guidance Association convention recently, acknowledged the public tends to forget many incidents after a few years and cited the Chappaquiddick episode as an example.

"Sen. (Ted) Kennedy's popularity took a tailspin after Chappaquiddick," he said, "But he appears to have regained most of that lost ground since 1971."

But Watergate, because of its many ramifications and lengthy time span, will not fade so quickly in the public mind, said Gallup.

He said his regular surveys of the nation show the Republican Party's popularity has dropped to its lowest point among college students since 1967, when his group started polling them as a separate class.

Gallup said that among the population at large, fewer people admit allegiance to the GOP now than since the 1930s.

"Watergate is the key factor in all of this," said Gallup.

"Regardless of the ups and downs, about three out of four people polled believe Nixon was involved to at least some extent in Watergate."

But he admitted the president "gets his major points on foreign policy and this is still holding him in very good stead, actually."

Atlanta mayor: Ford & Brooke bad for Demos

CHICAGO (UPI) — Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson said recently that Democrats "could be in real trouble" with a Republican presidential ticket pairing Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

Jackson, in Chicago to speak at the Chicago State College, had similar forebodings on a Democratic ticket of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Aalabama Gov. George C. Wallace, claiming the combination "would rip the Democratic party apart.

"Wallace could run with 100 Kennedys, and he'd still be George Wallace to black people."

Jackson, 36, the first black elected as mayor in a major southern city, said, "The Democrats could be in real trouble if the Republicans ran Sen. Edward Brooke with Ford."

Woman enjoys job; dumping garbage cans

PORTOLA, Calif. (UPI) — Carol Ross, a 24-year-old blonde, says she gets a lot of compliments on her job but "nobody has whistled at me."

Her work is dumping garbage cans.

Mrs. Ross, who is 5-foot-4, began trash collecting six years ago while dating Portola Garbage Co. owner, Woody Ross.

He jokingly asked her if she would like the job, "so I said I'd try," Mrs. Ross told an interviewer recently.

"I like picking up garbage much better than doing housework," she said. "Woody paid me. $75 a week then. Now it is a joint operation."

Not UFO, only burning trash

CROWLEY, Tex. (UPI) — Reports by citizens of a ball of flame crashing into the farmland in North Central Texas sent Crowley police searching for wreckage recently.

The dispatcher in the Crowley police station said officers found a farmer burning trash in his back lot near Burleson, Tex., located about five miles southeast of Crowley.

"There are no unidentified flying objects," the dispatcher said. "No little green men. And no plane crashes. It's just some sparks from the trash."

"HE IS RISEN!"

". . . I am the resurrection, and the life: He that believeth in Me shall never die." John 11:25.

"Why are you looking among the dead for one who is alive? He is not here; He has been raised. Remember what He said to you while He was in Galilee: 'The Son of Man must be handed over to sinful men, to be nailed to the cross, and rise to life on the third day.'" Luke 24:6-7.

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

Let us put a Want Ad to work for you . . .

Dick Tracy
"WITH A QUICK THRUST HE NAILED MY FOOT TO THE FLOOR, THE KNIFE MISSING MY FOOT PROPER, THEN WHILE I WAS OFF BALANCE, HE LUNGED AT ME AND SEIZED MY GUN."
WITH A JUDO TOSS, I REGAINED THE GUN JUST AS HE RETRIEVED HIS KNIFE.
IT WAS HIS FINAL ACT THAT COST HIM HIS LIFE.
I DROPPED AS I SAW HIS KNIFE HEADING STRAIGHT FOR MY FOREHEAD! -AND FIRED!
PINNING MY HAT TO THE WALL WAS "KEENO-THE-GREAT'S" FINAL ACT.
THEY NEVER LEARN! HE CHOSE TO "SHOOT FIRST" AT A COP.

DEAR POLLY — It is so hard to press seams open when making young children's slacks so I made myself a small ironing board. A narrow board about 4 inches wide, 1-inch thick and 2½ feet long was covered with an old terry cloth towel nailed tight on the back side. Trousers are turned wrong-side-out and the board slipped between the material when pressing. — T.J.L.

●

DEAR POLLY — I have a neat trick for making 'pulls' in polyester and other such fabrics virtually disappear. Thread both ends of a 10-inch thread through a needle. This makes a loop. Push the needle so it draws the thread down through the pulled place. As needle and thread pass thorugh, see that the pulled thread is caught in the loop. When needle and thread are to the wrong side, so is the "pull." — RUTH.

FOR HUNDREDS OF YEARS, EGGS HAVE BEEN THE SYMBOL OF THE NEW LIFE THAT RETURNS TO NATURE EACH SPRING. WE COLOR EASTER EGGS AND GIVE THEM TO OUR FRIENDS AS A WAY OF SAYING "SPRING IS HERE."

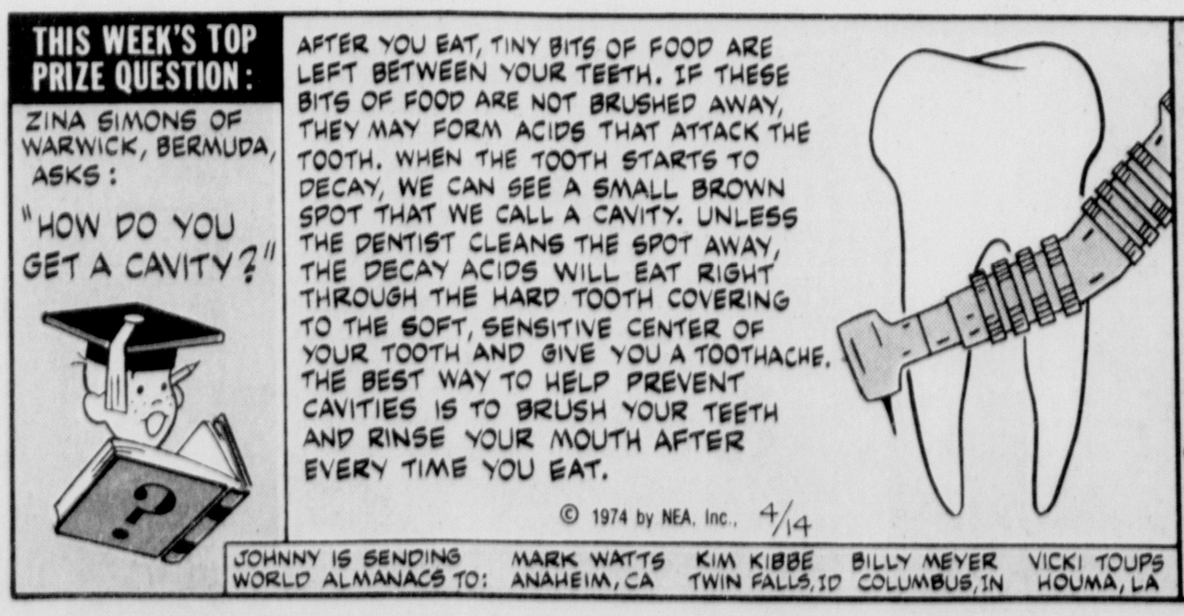
COLOR THE BUMBLEBEE YELLOW

BUMBLEBEES

BUMBLEBEES MAKE HONEY MUCH LIKE HONEYBEES DO. THE QUEEN BUMBLEBEE STORES THE HONEY IN A WAXEN CELL CALLED A "HONEYPOT," WHICH SERVES HER AS A RESERVE FOOD SUPPLY DURING COLD AND RAINY WEATHER.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

ZINA SIMONS OF WARWICK, BERMUDA, ASKS:

"HOW DO YOU GET A CAVITY?"

AFTER YOU EAT, TINY BITS OF FOOD ARE LEFT BETWEEN YOUR TEETH. IF THESE BITS OF FOOD ARE NOT BRUSHED AWAY, THEY MAY FORM ACIDS THAT ATTACK THE TOOTH. WHEN THE TOOTH STARTS TO DECAY, WE CAN SEE A SMALL BROWN SPOT THAT WE CALL A CAVITY. UNLESS THE DENTIST CLEANS THE SPOT AWAY, THE DECAY ACIDS WILL EAT RIGHT THROUGH THE HARD TOOTH COVERING TO THE SOFT, SENSITIVE CENTER OF YOUR TOOTH AND GIVE YOU A TOOTHACHE. THE BEST WAY TO HELP PREVENT CAVITIES IS TO BRUSH YOUR TEETH AND RINSE YOUR MOUTH AFTER EVERY TIME YOU EAT.

Doctor tells how he cured hearing flaws

By WILLISTON WIRT

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF DR. SAMUEL ROSEN, Alfred Knopf $9.95

(Williston Wirt, is a staff member of Pomona Public Library.)

Mystery buffs are aware that no matter how farfetched the who-dun-it plot, it never actually happened. Well, here is a true-life plot that really did happen!

To me, it proved as exciting as any of the mysteries at the Pomona Public Library! It tells how Dr. Rosen, operating on mastoids and other ear troubles, happened to be operating on a young man of 20 he calls "Edward Lawrence". As he probed with his instrument, suddenly hearing was restored for his patient. Dr. Rosen "was thunderstruck!"

Realizing that this was a new development , Dr. Rosen knew he was in for a long period of experimentation; not on live bodies, but on dead ones. So for months he worked with the ears of cadavers, training his fingers and exercising his mind to discover the secret of malfunctioning hearing.

He had special instruments made, and when at last his experiments on live humans was undertaken, the results

Book on Daley's Chicago falls short of the target

By NICHOLAS C. POLOS

AN AMERICAN VERDICT by Michael J. Arlen. Doubleday, $6.95.

In his excellent and recent book The Plundered Past, Karl Meyer writes: "The past is an interest without a constituency; it has no effective lobby. . .the past is menaced by the very civilization that has evolved from it."

(Nicholas C. Polos is assocate professor of history at La Verne College).

Arlen's book is a form of a reportorial lobby. However, the reader is never sure which lobby he is standing in.

This little book is about Mayor Daley's Chicago. More specifically it is the story of the trial that took place after two members of the Black Panther Party were killed in Chicago (December 1969), and others wounded, by gunfire from a raiding party of police who had been sent by the Cook County State's Attorney.

The surviving Panthers said that the two men had been murdered, while the 12 policemen argued that they had fired in self-defense.

The "American Verdict" is about the trial of the Cook County State's Attorney and the 12 policemen. The story has a familiar ring to those of us who know the recent history of law enforcement in the City of the Angels.

While David Halberstam contends that "An American Verdict" is "a singularly important book about life in America," the reader will soon find that although there is more than enough powerful drama to satisfy even a Tolstoi, the subject is really not monumental, primarily because the overtone of a strident indictment of racism permeates and clouds the author's objectivity that reduces the subject or theme to one of polemic legalism.

This is unfortunate because Arlen is a gifted writer, a superb reporter "with a cosmic itch," to weave a large tapestry out of a few strands of thread.

Granted that Chicago with its naive game of "Cops and-or Robbers," may not be the supportive model of American constitutionalism, the implication that the entire society is sick, cannot possibly be extrapolated from one legal verdict.

Yeats once said all there is to say about regional writing: "the core of a thing must be local or national and yet infinitely translatable."

It is very difficult to translate Arlen's message. Ever since the days of the famous and infamous Gunfight at the O.K. Corral we know that a shoot-out often results in deadly cold statistics just as in a war truth becomes the first casualty.

Arlen's attempt to move the events out of the "twi-light zone" into what he considers the cold light of reportorial reality is without basis of proof, or the foundation of fact. He wears his political views upon his sleeve, and plays his cards as though he were holding the entire deck in his one hand!

Jesus viewed as threat to establishment

JESUS IN BAD COMPANY by Adolf Holl Holt, Rinehart and Winton $5.95.

This interpretation of Jesus, by the Catholic chaplain of the University of Vienna, describes Jesus not as a superstar but as a social misfit.

He says, "Jesus stood the traditional class system on its head, with its attendant apparatus of status symbols and prestige-seeking. His attacks against all rigidity and authoritarianism made him a true stumbling block to all forms of authority—paternal, bureaucratic, educational, economic, and military."

In support of this thesis, the author states that Jesus rejected his family. "In the virgin birth, we have a very old and successful attempt to emancipate Jesus from everything to do with family —and sexuality."

He says Jesus turned his back on the temple as God's dwelling place. "The stable at Bethlehem has links not with the priests and their temple in Jerusalem, but rather with the open country of the nomad; it reminds us of the God who wanted no roof over his head."

And he points to the companions Jesus chose — itinerant shepherds, lowly fishermen, despised tax gatherers, women of no reputation. He further states, "in historic terms, it is doubtful if Jesus regarded his last meal with his disciples as the beginning of a Christian cult."

We are told that this book is a "surprising new European best seller". In America, one doubts, its message will stir up much enthusiasm, since it postulates a Jesus with who few will agree.

Writer uses Malcolm X in search to end racial strife

By JOHN K. ROTH

ONE DAY, WHEN I WAS LOST, by James Baldwin. The Dial Press, $7.50.

Americans are plagued by problems. Prices rise. Watergate drones on. Gas station lines may shorten, but there is really no end in sight for frustration and inconvenience, corruption and tragedy.

(John K. Roth is professor of philosophy at Claremont Men's College.)

Apparently we must get used to the idea that life is one headache after another. Even old issues which may now treat us with benign neglect are sure to demand attention again.

Tensions between blacks and whites have not been headline issues in recent months. Nonetheless, "One Day, When I was Lost" makes timely reading. It prevents us from forgetting that racial questions still smoulder under a surface calm which holds momentarily in this area of our national life.

Two important Americans are brought together in this book Both are black. Each has much to say about future life in the United States. An eloquent and influential writer, James Baldwin, has taken Malcolm, a dynamic and insightful leader, as his subject.

The book is a screenplay, based on the widely read autobiography which Malcolm X wrote with the assistance of Alex Haley. Malcolm X was dead before either book appeared, assassinated in 1965 by rival blacks who mistrusted his vision and his growing power.

With minor exceptions, Baldwin accurately follows "The Autobiography of Malcolm X." We see the progression that leads to martyrdom.

As a boy, Malcom Little, son of a militant black preacher who was killed by whites, watches his family disintegrate under the pressures of racial prejudice and injustice. He seeks his fortune in Boston and New York. Hustling leads to drugs, crime, and prison.

Behind bars, he rediscovers books, undergoes religious conversion. He emerges as a reformed man, dedicated to the Black Muslim faith. Malcolm X becomes a Muslin minister.

Militantly opposed to white power, he works to cultivate a sense of black pride and hope. Rejecting Martin Luther King's philosophy of nonviolent resistance, Malcolm X and the Black Muslims strike fear in white hearts no less than they encourage and strengthen black spirits.

From start to finish, Malcolm X was a man in search of himself Thus, his own journey of self-discovery does not cease even when he attains a position of influence in the Black Muslim movement.

He makes a pilgrimage to Mecca and travels widely in Africa. As Malcolm X sees diverse ethnic and racial groups united as brothers in the Islamic faith, his own concept of brotherhood broadens.

He remains suspicious of Christinaity and white inten-

Special help is trademark at Wellins

POMONA — Special services such as ear piercing for men and women are part of the personal touch offered at Larry Wellins Jewelers, 1595 Pomona Valley Center Mall.

"We're the first store locally to offer ear piercing and free engraving on the premises," says owner Larry Wellins. Watch repairing and custom-made mountings are other featured services at the facility.

Wellins' second store opened late last year, and has been doing a "booming business," he indicates. A longtime Pomona resident and jeweler, he has been operating on Pomona Mall East since 1963.

The new store, located just west of Sears Roebuck and Co., was designed and decorated by Wellins' wife, Fran.

Tim Cordry, the manager, has been a Pomona resident for 43 years and attended local schools.

Wellins, a former president of the Pomona school board and still active in civic affairs, says he offers a tradition of fine services not equalled by anyone.

Included in his stock are Keepsake diamonds, and well-advertised watches such as Longines, Bulova, Wittnauer, Mathey-Tissot and Accutron.

Custom jewlery such as Trifari, Eisenberg ice and Marcell Boucher also is available at the store, along with a complete selection of 14-carat gold earrings, charms, lockets and identification bracelets. Genuine emeralds and rubies may also be purchased.

April is "Diamond Month," Wellins has been reminding his customers. One of the personal touches offered at the store is the time spent helping patrons find the "right" engagement ring.

Wellins claims to have the "largest selection of diamonds in the Pomona Valley."

He also prides himself on serving a "second generation" of customers. "We sold to the parents, and now we're servicing the kids."

Watch repairing at the store is done by Chuck Huber, who has logged some 40 years of experience.

One reason for opening a second store, says Wellins, was because "We feel Pomona has a future and we'd like to give patrons service in the evenings."

The PVC facility is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays and Fridays, and 10 to 6 other days, except Sunday.

Fremont students win speech honors

POMONA — Two girls and two boys, all eighth graders at Fremont Junior High School, have won trophies in oratorical contests conducted by the Pomona Breakfast Optimist Club.

"This is the first oratorical honor Fremont has ever had," said assistant principal Melvin E. Banks. "The whole school is very proud."

The winners

Cathy Hobart, 13, of Pomona, won first place in the girls' category. She is eligible to speak in zone competitions April 17 at Cal Poly.

Joyce Flohr, 13, of Pomona, was first runnerup in the girls' category and is alternate to the finals. Miss Flohr said a friend, Yvonne Govea, who is a student at Fremont, helped prepare her speech.

Terrence Magee, 14, of Pomona was first runnerup in the boys' division and is an alternate in the finals.

Robert Cummings, 14, of Pomona, was a third runnerup in the boys' division.

Recognition

All four students were awarded trophies, plaques bearing the Optimists' creed, and certificates.

They said school counselor Betty Shorr and teachers Agatha Maitland and Ora Kruger helped them in public speaking.

The subject on which all students spoke was "I'm Just One."

Three Bonita coeds honored by San Dimas Women's Club

JULIE MISHLER

By KITTY WOODALL
Bonita Reporter

The San Dimas Women's Club recently honored three Bonita coeds, Julie Mishler, Kimberly Myers, and Kitty Woodall, for academic achievement and participation in extra-curricular activities in high school.

A luncheon was held in their honor at the San Dimas Civics Center. Mildred Bernstein, Bonita girl's vice principal, accompanied them to the event.

Miss Mishler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mick Mishler of College Lane, was selected by the scholarship committee to receive the $100 award. She has been an active member of California Scholarship Federation and the Chamber Singers. She has participated in drama and dancing productions and the Methodist's Church Fellowship Youth Group. She plans to attend Cal Poly next fall and will either major in English or pursue a career in the medical profession.

Law career

Miss Myers, the daughter of Jack Myers and Joyce Delaware of Mildred Street, has been a participant in the Mentally Gifted Minors Program for the past two years. She has been a member of Job's Daughters, CSF president, and Future Teachers of America secretary. She plans to attend Pomona College in Claremont as a political science major and eventually become a lawyer.

Miss Woodall's hobbies include art work and writing. She has been CSF secretary and vice president; FTA treasurer and president; and Foreign Exchange Club president and historian for two years. She is currently serving as the ASB historian and was secretary of Clubs and Communications last year. She has been involved in speech and essay contests. She has been accepted by La Verne and Scripps colleges and will major in English with a concentration in the area of journalism.

Chaffey writers advance

Four journalism students from Chaffey High School in Ontario have qualified for the 1974 Southern California Journalism Education Association Write-offs.

The competition will be held April 27, at Santa Fe High School in Santa Fe Springs.

The qualifying Chaffey students are Doug Hollaway, fourth in sports writing; Rick Antonio, seventh in sports; David McFadden, 10th in editorials; and Kim Hams, eight in features.

The Chaffey team placed fifth in sweepstakes.

FFA winners at Nogales

Four Nogales High School students received second place awards and two received first place awards in the 20th annual Future Farmers of America Farm Program competition sponsored by Security Pacific Bank.

The top winners were Henry Cisneros, who won with a horticulture project, and Jackie Sullivan, who won in animal husbandry.

Second place winners were Edward Wage, Steve Reed and Lee Wentworth, in horticulture; and Kevin Stueve, in dairying.

Elks award two $25 scholarships

Miss Vagnozzi plans to tend Cal Poly, major in li al studies and eventually tain a multi-subject creder to teach grade school.

Hill plans to enroll at University of Colorado obtain a degree in langu arts or English.

Miss Vagnozzi's parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V nozzi. Hill is the son of and Mrs. Cecil L. Hill.

New classes teach boys to cook, sew

Are "Bachelor Survival Courses" the American male teen ager's answer to the liberated woman?

Hundreds of such courses are being offered this semester in public high schools throughout the country, and the schools report heavy enrollment.

In some schools they're called "bachelor living." Others have labeled them "bachelor pad" or "independent living." Usually they're sponsored by the schools' home economics departments.

Boys are taught to cook, sew on buttons, iron, use the washing machine, make minor clothing and appliance pairs, polish furniture, flo and silverware, budget mo and buy intelligently.

Give parties

They also learn how to tertain.

Good grooming is ofte part of the curriculum.

Educators feel the bache survival courses, while r tively new, are providing formation that will be hel to the teen agers long a their bachelor days are ov

A future course the b might sign up for could called "What girls consi most desirable in a prosp tive husband."

Strong self image helpful at parting

The more a girl really likes herself, the easier it is for her to bounce back from a break-up.

According to an article in the April Seventeen, it has to hurt, especially if he's the one who wants it, but girls who are secure in themselves as individuals have the least trouble recovering.

Those who feel they are unattractive without a friend, or who build t lives around him, are ones who suffer most.

Breaking up isn't a g time for anybody. Howe there are ways to avoid m ing it worse. First, d blame yourself. Second, d try to persuade him to cha his mind. Third, don't spr mean stories about him.

1937 CLASSIC—A STAR IS BORN

Fredric March and Janet Gaynor will, once again, appear together in "A Star Is Born," the 1937 version of the classic film, a KTTV Special airing Sunday at 6:30PM on Channel 11. "A Star Is Born," is the story of a screen idol whose rapidly slipping popularity becomes secondary to his interest in a young country girl . . . March stars as the idol, Norman Maine—Janet Gaynor as the girl whose talents are to carry her to fame and fortune far beyond any he ever knew. They fall in love and marry—and the resulting drama is inevitable.

Filmed on location at the popular celebrity gathering places of the Thirties, "A Star Is Born," is a nostalgic look at the Hollywood of 40 years ago. The world famous Trocadero, The Brown Derby, Grauman's Chinese Theatre, Santa Anita Race Track, The Hollywood Bowl, The Hollywood Legion Stadium, The Biltmore Bowl during the annual Academy Awards presentation—and the corner of Hollywood and Vine are locations popular then . . . "A Star Is Born" was produced by David O. Selznick, directed by William A. Wellman and costumed by Omar Kiam.

EVA MARIE SAINT: THE HISTORIC CHALLENGE

When Eva Marie Saint was cast in the role of Edith Bolling Wilson, wife of the 28th President of the United States, in "The First Woman President," hour-long drama special airing Sunday at 9:30PM on CBS, she faced some major artistic challenges. How does a slender, blonde actress of medium height convincingly portray a very tall, buxom, dark-haired lady who was a real significant character in America's history?

"With a little help from my friends the technical artists," says Miss Saint, "and a tremendous assist from Edith Wilson herself." When she received the assignment, the actress admits that she knew very little about Mrs. Wilson. "After reading the script, I went to the library and set myself a cram course on the history of the period. Then I read Edith Wilson's Memoirs—a fascinating book. Even though our show has already been taped, I am still reading and re-reading that book," she says. "The more you read about a person, the more you develop a personal feeling about that person. As an actress, I formed the character from reading—formed it in my mind and with the empathy that developed between us."

A large part of that empathy, Miss Saint explains, came from the little, intimate glimpses the Memoirs gave her into the everday habits, the likes and dislikes, the emotional reactions of Edith Wilson. "That knowledge is what fills in the gaps and brings the person to life as a three-dimensional human being," she continues.

"For instance, I read that Edith loved orchids. I mentioned that to our art director, Robert Tyler Lee. (That's where the friends come in.) When we began the actual shooting of the show, he had added bowls of orchids to the completed set—on tables and in Mrs. Wilson's private quarters. In a significant way, they made me feel more 'at home' with her. "I also read that she was especially fond of opals. I have an opal pin that was given to me by my father. I had never worn it—but I found it, and wore it all through the show."

The physical resemblances, Miss Saint believes, are unimportant compared to the delineation of the character. "We made no attempt to make me look like Mrs. Wilson," she explains, "except for careful attention to the details of costume and hairdress (by more helpful friends) that correctly reflect the fashion of the time. "We are doing a drama, not a documentary, so we have considerable license. What we attempt to portray is Mrs. Wilson, the woman . . . not a physical portrait."

Eva Marie Saint and Richard Basehart star in "The First Woman President," a drama special focusing on the political circumstances which surrounded President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson after the President suffered a sudden breakdown in 1919.

'THE LAST ANGRY MAN'

The place is Brooklyn and the time is the mid-1930's. A frustrated but good-hearted medical doctor attempts to save the life of a young petty thief in Screen Gems' "The Last Angry Man," the ABC Movie of the Week, Tuesday at 8:30PM. This film also serves as a pilot for a projected hour long series on ABC.

Pat Hingle stars as Dr. Samuel Abelman, a long time resident in an ethnically-mixed lower middle class neighborhood in Brooklyn. Sam is bewildered by the things that are happening around him. An inspector wants to cut his tree down because "the roots are too big"; hospitals won't admit dying patients until forms are filled out; his own patients refuse to pay him; and the young galoots ("a guy who thinks the world owes him a living") are stealing wallets. He wants to move out of the area and into the nicer section, as his friend and fellow M.D., Max Vogel, has done. His wife, Sarah, and 16-year old daughter, Eunice, have often heard his desire to move, but know he won't do it. Fancy offices and paid up patients aren't his style.

When Dr. Abelman learns that a neighborhood "galoot," Frankie Parelli, has been having convulsions, he talks Dr. Vogel into running some tests on Frankie (via his expensive equipment), despite Vogel's objections when he recognizes the teenager as the one who recently lifted his wallet. When Frankie is told he's going to be hospitalized, he runs away but is eventually talked into coming out of hiding by Eunice. The diagnosis is not a good one, and some anxious moments for the Parelli family—as well as for Sam Abelman—lie ahead.

Pat Hingle stars as Sam Abelman, a bewildered but likeable medical doctor of the mid-1930's in "The Last Angry Man."

WINTER KILL

As a series of brutal murders moves a mountain resort community toward panic, Andy Griffith, as Chief of Police, desperately searches for the mysterious murderer before he can strike again in "Winter Kill," on the ABC Monday Night Movie at 9PM. Joining Griffith, who plays Chief of Police Sam McNeill, is special guest Sheree North as Betty, a waitress and close friend of Sam's; John Calvin as Patrolman Jerry Troy; and Louise Latham as Doris Clayton, Sam's switchboard operator. Guest-starring are John Larch as Dr. Hammond; Tim O'Connor as Bill Carter; Lawrence Pressman as Peter Lockhard; Eugene Roche as the town mayor, Clinton Bickford; Charles Tyner as Charley, and Joyce Van Patten as Grace Lockhard. Elayne Heilveil is seen as Cynthia.

KING OF SWING

Benny Goodman, the universally acknowledged King of Swing, stars in his own television Special, "Monsanto Night Presents Benny Goodman," which airs Sunday at 8:30PM, KTTV Channel 11.

Airing just six weeks prior to his 65th (May 30) birthday, Goodman's guests include Mel Torme, British songstress Cleo Laine, in her American variety television show debut, and a host of greats from the jazz world, including: Ms. Laine's husband, John Dankworth; Red Norvo, Slam Stewart, Hank Jones, Grady Tate, Bobby Hackett, Zoot Sims and Bucky Pizzarelli. A special attraction is Benny's daughter Rachel, who joins her father on "Grand Duo Concertant," at the Goodman home in Stamford, Conn.

Filmed entirely on location in New York City and Stamford, the hour-long music show includes a Carnegie Hall concert segment which marks the 36th anniversary of Goodman's record-breaking jazz concert there in 1938.

TV WEEK'S COVER CLOSE-UP

'BEST SEAT IN THE HOUSE'

The "billboard" motto heard each weekend tells the story: "Spanning the globe to bring you the constant variety of sport, the thrill of victory, the agony of defeat, the human drama of athletic competition."

It's ABC's Wide World of Sports, the nation's most popular regularly-scheduled television sports program, and one of the longest and most successful ventures in broadcasting history (Saturdays, 5-6:30 PM).

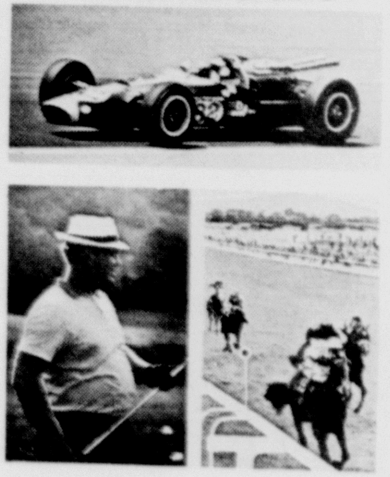
Americans are an increasingly sports conscious people, and for 13 years since the series was conceived by Executive Producer Roone Arledge, President of ABC Sports, young and old, men and women alike, have been attracted in growing numbers to the unique 'Wide World' presentations.

Part of the appeal of ABC's Wide World of Sports is its sheer diversity. Each telecast consists of from one to three separate segments, depending upon the nature of the sports being covered. And the competition covers the spectrum of sport, from World Heavyweight Championship fights, to the Indianapolis and Daytona "500" auto races, to World Figure Skating Championships, World Swimming and Diving Championships, Little League World Series, World Wristwrestling Championships, and daredevil Evel Knievel's death-defying motorcycle leaps . . . more than 100 different types of sport to date.

'Wide World' is international in scope. During the past year (editor's note: calendar 1973), for example, the program went to 25 states and more than 15 foreign countries to present exclusive network television coverage of the premier competitions across the spectrum of sport.

And, this January, ABC introduced a new Sunday version (3:30-5PM) of Wide World of Sports, following the same format and including additional coverage of new and different sporting events. This Sunday afternoon 'Wide World' was planned to be a winter replacement program, and will go off the air this month. But, speculation is strong that the Sunday edition will return to the airways again next year. In its brief run, the program has already attracted twice as many viewers as the National Basketball Association telecasts and a whopping three times as many as the National Hockey League programs.

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS



Yet another reason for 'Wide World's' success has been its skillful blending of some of television's best-known and most-honored sportscasters with guest experts and color commentators who have been stand-out performers in their respective sports. Series host of "Wide World of Sports" is Jim McKay, who has won two Emmys from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for "outstanding individual achievement in sports," and other honors including the prestigious George Polk Memorial Award.

Joining McKay on the ABC Sports broadcast team are many of the finest broadcasters in their field, among them Keith Jackson, Bill Flemming, Chris Schenkel, Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford.

'Wide World's' list of guest experts reads like a "Who's Who" of sports greats past and present. Commenting on their sports specialties for home viewers have been Muhammad Ali, world driving champion Jackie Stewart and racing superstar Stirling Moss, Marty Liquori and Bob Seagren on track and field, Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain on basketball, O.J. Simpson, Joe Namath and the late Coach Vince Lombardi on football, Donna De Verona on swimming, Dick Button and Carol Heiss on skating, Mickey Mantle and Ted Williams on baseball, and many more.

Yet another key to 'Wide World's' popularity is the philosophy that "there is no such thing as a minor sport."

As Roone Arledge puts it, "If men and women can devote ten or twenty years of their lives to a sport, then certainly ABC can devote ten or twenty minutes to that sport."

The result is that the series has given viewers superb coverage to the broadest range of sports, and, in the bargain, has introduced many of those sports to millions of new fans and participants.

ABC's Wide World of Sports combines the excitement of competition with the color and spectacle of the events themselves and a healthy mix of background facts and information not only about sports, but about the many lands and regions where they are played, and about the people who play them.

For the casual viewer and the true sports buff alike, "ABC's Wide World of Sports" is the next best thing to the best seats in the house—and, often, it's even better.

'A FIGHT FOR INDIAN CENTER'

An Indian deputy sheriff in New Mexico aids an Indian girl's civic group in their battle to save an old mission, slated for an historical center, from destruction by a large corporation in "Nakia," Screen Gems' 90-minute Movie of the Week for ABC, airing Wednesday at 8:00PM. The film is a pilot for a projected hour-long drama series for ABC.

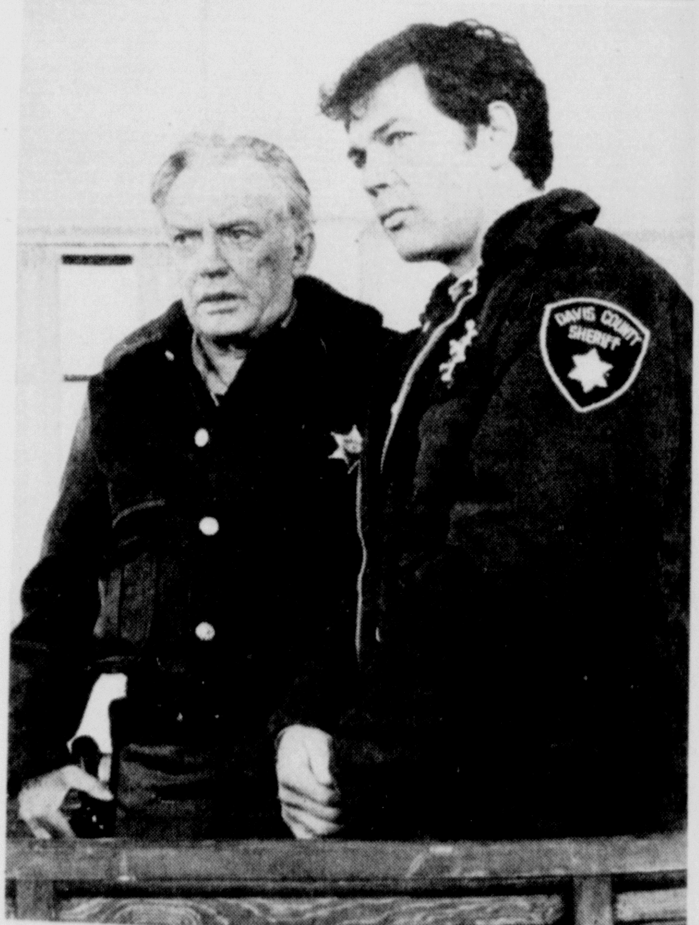
Starring in the title role of the deputy sheriff, Nakia Parker, is Robert Forster. Co-starring is Arthur Kennedy as Sheriff Jericho and Linda Evans as the town attorney, Samantha Lowell. Also cast in the television movie are Stephen McNally, George Nader, Taylor Lacher, Maria-Elena Cordero, Joe Kapp, Barbara Sigel, Chris Stone, Robert Donner, Joe Renteria, Jed Horner Jr., Helene Nelson and George Clutesi.

Conflict in the drama is between an interested citizen's group led by a young Indian girl, Diana Little Eagle (Maria-Elena Cordero), who wish to save an ancient mission in a New Mexico town for an Institute of Southwest Studies; and local businessman Alvah Chambers (Stephen McNally) who stands to profit handsomely if he can get the land turned over to a large corporation wanting to build a factory on the property. Nakia sympathizes with the civic group, particularly when Chambers uses strong harrassing tactics against the group. But Nakia is frustrated because his badge prevents him from taking sides.

Finally, following a town council meeting at which the Indian group apparently loses their battle, even though the town attorney (Linda Evans) sympathizes with their aims, Nakia turns in his badge to Sheriff Jericho (Arthur Kennedy). He then goes into the desert to converse with an old Indian shaman (George Clutesi). While returning to town he is attacked by four of Chambers' henchmen who leave him unconscious.

Recovered, and after a painful struggle through the desert back to town, he arrives in time to find an unruly mob about to storm the mission where the Indian group is staging a sit-in as a final protest to save it from the bulldozers. Nakia and Jericho then face Chambers in a decisive confrontation.

"Nakia" was filmed entirely on location in New Mexico with sites including Albuquerque's Old Town, Ysleta Pueblo and Sandoval County Court House in Bernallilo. The old mission is the 150 year ol ruins of San [illegible]dro church, which, until recently was used as a theater.



Robert Forster (right), starring in the title role, and co-star Arthur Kennedy form a law team in "Nakia."

'NBC NEWS PRESENTS: YOU'RE TOO FAT!'

There are 70 million overweight Americans and at any given time, between 10 and 20 million are involved in diets or activities designed to remove the excess poundage. The universal problem is the subject of a one-hour documentary, "NBC News Presents: You're Too Fat!", airing Sunday at 10PM.

Paul Cunningham, producer and reporter for the program, went from coast to coast to interview some of the nation's leading authorities on obesity, at such universities as Harvard, Yale, Stanford, U.C.L.A., Johns Hopkins and Columbia. While simple diet and exercises are sufficient in weight loss for most people, Mr. Cunningham learned about some highly exotic methods of reducing.

News Correspondent Paul Cunningham interviews 345-pound patient, Mrs. Jill Bacon, at Clinical Studies Center, Harbor General Hospital, Los Angeles, Calif.

"There's a bypass operation," he reports, "in which 90 percent of the intestine is shunted aside. There's a hospital ward where men are virtually starved for as long as four months. And there are cases where an extract from the urine of pregnant women is injected into both men and women."

Many people believe their excess weight is due to metabolic or glandular disorders. Apparently, that is a false premise, true in less than 10 percent of the cases. The basal metabolism in most humans is similar, and any changes usually occur after a person becomes over weight.

Moreover, the number of cells people carry through their lives is determined before they are five years old. The establishment of these cells may begin before birth. If a person is fat as a child, he has a 90 percent chance of being fat as an adult. Thus, some people must diet all their lives. But automatic, painless diets may be part of the future. Researchers hope some day to isolate a substance that will trigger the hypothalamus of the brain to release fat stores.

The program develops the point that for loss of weight, a person must not only diet, but must change, or modify, an entire life style. Experiments in behavior modification, along with diet, have produced the most promising results. Also, there is a new emphasis on exercise, which must become a regular part of one's life. Occasional exercise doesn't help. There is general agreement on one basic fact—if a person is between 10 and 20 pounds overweight, he has a 15 percent chance of shortening his life span.

Red Buttons, as the delightful "Alexander," doffs his hat to the little town he calls home—where three lucky children share exciting adventures with him—in the ABC Afterschool Special, Wednesday at 4:30PM.

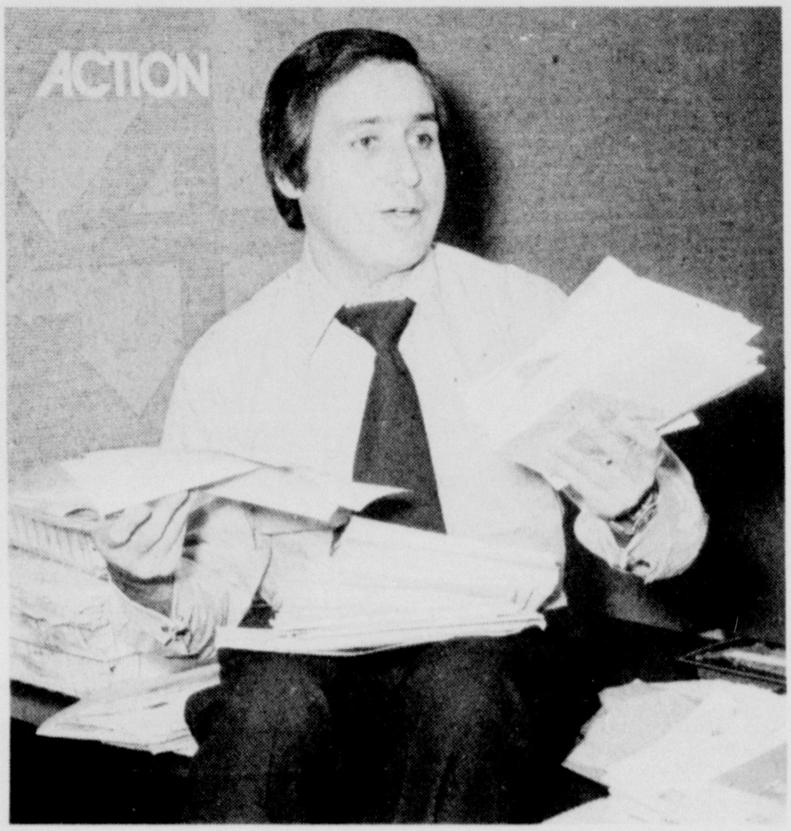
Fred MacMurray and Kathleen Maguire star as a man and wife fighting to hold their family together under the pressures of modern life in "The Chadwick Family," the concluding film in the "Special Wednesday Double Feature Movie of the Week" on ABC at 9:30PM.

YEAR ONE FOR 'ACTION 4'

In March, 1973, KNBC/Channel 4 inaugurated its consumer ombudsman service, Action 4, as a regular feature on the 5PM KNBC Newservice. One year and over 50,000 letters later, the program, helmed by consumer reporter David Horowitz, celebrates its first year anniversary with a million-dollar success record.



Money that had been retrieved for viewers has ranged from 79¢ for a defective oven thermometer, to $12,000 for a disability claim. ACTION 4 has also been responsible for obtaining new cars for four dissatisfied car-buyers; while others have taken the money that ACTION 4 has received for them and turned it over to charity.

During its year of operation, ACTION 4 has also paved the way for legislative reforms. As the result of one viewers complaint, ACTION 4 uncovered an outdated city charter provision, which failed to recognize the peacetime veteran in its ten-point benefit plan. Councilman Ed Edelman is now proposing a charter revision to include ALL veterans. In other legal action, Assemblyman Robert Cline (R-64th District) is undertaking a bill to require automobile dealers to check with the Department of Motor Vehicles before selling a used car, a proposal suggested by ACTION 4 in an effort to minimize the number of stolen cars in the market.

ACTION 4 has also cooperated with various governmental agencies to uncover cases of illegal operations, which range from violations in automotive repair forms, to false claims by mail order houses.

As it enters its second year, ACTION 4 boasts a reputation as the only consumer service of its scope on any television station in the country. In addition to Horowitz, a six-person staff, composed of Marie Shibuya, Gloria Coodley, Dan Wolf, Arline Sherri Gordon, Dorothy Keyes and Caryn Weiss, perform the behind-the-scenes operations. They hold the responsibility of investigating complaints and answering all the mail that flows into the department. Now widely recognized as, what Horowitz terms, the "court of last resort," ACTION 4 presently brings in mail at the rate of 1500 letters per week, indicating its overwhelming success as a vehicle for consumer action.

LAST OF THE SEASON—The final Bob Hope Special of the '73—'74 season will be colorcast by NBC, Friday at 8:30PM, with Ann-Margret and Bob Newhart as guest stars. The comedy-variety Special will be Hope's annual "vaudeville show", a yearly tradition in recent seasons. Additional guests will be announced shortly. Ann-Margret will do a production number, an excerpt from her nightclub act "Until It's Time For You To Go."

'WAR AND PEACE'

The nine week serialization of what has been called "the greatest novel ever written," Tolstoy's "War and Peace," will be repeated over KCET, Channel 28, beginning Thursday at 9PM. The equivalent in length of seven feature films, "War and Peace," which centers around the invasion of Russia by Napoleon's army in 1812, was adapted by the BBC.

Anthony Hopkins

Morag Hood

The Tolstoy epic, three years in preparation and one in the making, will be shown in a combination format with the first and last installments presented as two-hour specials, and the remaining seven running 90 minutes each.

The large cast, portrayed by some of England's finest actors, includes: Anthony Hopkins as Pierre; Natasha, Morag Hood; Prince Andrei Bolkonsky, Alan Dobie; Nikolai, Sylvester Morand; Maria, Angela Down; Count Rostov, Rupert Davies; Countess Rostova, Faith Brook and Napoleon, David Swift. A thousand men of the Yugoslav army were used in the reconstruction of the battles of Austerlitz, Borodino and the retreat from Moscow, which were filmed in Yugoslavia. Tolstoy's monumental story, with its enormous number of characters, the variety of its actions and scenes, is an accurate portrait of 19th century Russia and its people.

The television dramatization was made by Jack Pulman, the director was John Davies and the producer, David Conroy, whose classic serial productions for BBC include "Vanity Fair", "The Portrait of a Lady", "Nana", Tolstoy's "Resurrection", and the 13 part dramatization of the Jean-Paul Sartre triology "The Roads to Freedom".

AN OPERA IS . . .

An opera is a play in song . . . Fred Rogers writes the opera and his good friend, Metropolitan Opera star John Reardon, makes a special visit to sing it with the characters of the Neighborhood of Make-Believe on KCET, Channel 28, Friday at 11:30AM and 5PM.

The title of the new opera is "All in the Laundry" and is as preposterous as children like some pretend stories to be. It involves a handball—football game, an 18 carat diamond, dirty sheets from an apartment house and the Latrobe Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co., which a rich Miss Morgan (Betty Aberlin) buys for $23,000,000,000,000,000 (23 quadrillion) because she's in love with the sheet washer.

Betty Aberlin appears as "rich Miss Morgan" in the premiere performance of a new children's opera on KCET's Mister Rogers' Neighborhood.

Adult opera buffs who admire John Reardon's rich baritone and who have heard him sing some of the most important roles in modern opera today might have some high good fun listening to him complain about "dirty work, dirty work, all I do is dirty work" to his employer "Lady Elaine" who owns the laundry: "the dirtiest clean place in town."

Fred Rogers firmly believes that music is fun and is a natural part of a child's imaginative play. Grown-up opera is, after all, adult fantasy set to more sophisticated music.

What's more, putting on an opera takes a great deal of co-operation and compromise . . . even in a make-believe neighborhood.

More than any other programs in the Mister Rogers' Neighborhood series the operas are intended for families. Young children will understand the opera better in the company of their parents while the music and drama will offer real pleasure for adults. The humor is always responsive to the interest of school-age children and adolescents.

"See how you can put together a make-believe opera using a lot of people's ideas?" Fred Rogers asks the five million children who watch him faithfully every day. "That's really what playing with others is often about, isn't it?"

"TELE-TALK"

"I saw a man stabbed 17 times;" "I've seen men come in as Jesse James and be Jesse James all day and Marilyn Monroe all night;" "My sister's dead . . . she O.D.'d in January . . ." Southern California viewers may not believe what they hear at first—but, once they realize that the speakers are not actors but incarcerated men—convicts, prisoners, the message is crystal clear. Metromedia Television's KTTV Channel 11 is airing seven 60 second public service announcements—messages produced in association with "Prison Preventers," a crime-deterrent organization of convicts from The California Institution for Men at Chino. The seven one minute messages were totally conceptualized, totally taped, edited and produced by KTTV Broadcast Explorer Scouts.

Airing at various times throughout the day, they were edited down from five hours of tape shot on two occasions when the six participating convicts were brought, under escort, to Channel 11 studios. Racially balanced, each announcement contains the remarks of a black, a brown and a white in varying sequences. The convicts' sentences range from six months to life; their crimes include: forgery, pimping, dealing and possession of dangerous drugs, armed robbery and murder; they range in age from 23 to 55.

The spontaneity achieved in these messages was accomplished by putting a blinder around the red light on the camera and, while most of the Explorers assumed their various production roles, (director, stage manager etc.), one would sit in a chair off camera and "rap" with the convict . . . one to one. In some instances statements were edited for time, otherwise no material is in any way falsified, no subject is off limits and no statement has been censored by any party whatsoever.

Although one of the public service announcements, "About Myself," includes the Explorer questions prompting the answer—it was discovered that most answers were sufficiently clear and prophetic to stand on their own. KTTV Broadcast Explorers—11 have attempted to show convicts as the human beings they are and, in turn, hope all age groups will recognize that very little effort and, in some cases, too little effort can bring about the consequences. Transcripts of all seven announcements will be made available to the public upon request.

Curtis Mayfield is recognized as one of the top performers in the music world currently but he is also known as one of the country's most influential black songwriters. Songs such as "Gypsy Woman," "Amen," "I'm So Proud," "Keep on Pushin'", "People Get Ready," "We're a Winner," "Choice of Colors" and "This Is My Country" have established Mayfield as a major contributor to today's music.

"I was always writing," Curtis recalls. "I was writing when I was 10, I guess. I suppose a lot of it had to do with my mother and grandmother. My mother used to love poetry and would recite poems written by Paul Lawrence Dunbar. My grandmother was a preacher with the Travelling Soul Spiritual Church. These two influences had a lot to do with how I write and why I do write.

I used to write church songs too," says Curtis. "I also used to write gospel and sing in gospel groups. All the tunes I write are very important to me, either through experience or through things I see. That's the way I write—through things I observe, through people and happenings around me. I'm not singing protest, I'm only singing happenings — the actual reality of what's going on around us."

Telethon'74

'VARIETY FOR CHILDREN'

The "Make Their Dreams Come True" Variety Telethon '74 will be sponsored April 20 from 11PM through April 21 at 6PM. (Sat-Sun) by the Variety Club of Southern California Tent 25, on KTLA, Channel 5. Monty Hall is host of the first telethon conducted for the benefit of this group which is a chapter of Variety Clubs International, known as "The Greatest Children's Charity in the World," and the Showmen's organization devoted to aiding needy children.

In the Play Therapy Room at UCLA's Medical Center, James H. Nicholson Children's Heart Clinic, little Shelley (Ronda Michele) Burns learns from Dr. Forrest Adams and Roberta Deutschman how things might look in the actual operating room. Caps, masks, operating tables, etc. etc. etc. are presented as "play" in miniature to young patients and the innovative concept seems to take all the fear from the youngsters. Shelley, who will be five in June, was born with a heart defect which will—hopefully—be corrected.

The founding of Variety stems from a warm, charitable incident. A baby girl was found abandoned Christmas Eve, 1927, in the lobby of Pittsburgh's Sheridan Square Theatre. And from this, eleven showmen formed a club to help care for the abandoned baby, who was named Catherine Variety Sheridan. Variety Clubs are now established in 40 major cities throughout the United States, Canada, France, Ireland, Mexico, Israel, the Channel Islands and Puerto Rico. Between Variety and its women's auxiliaries, the total membership now exceeds 11,000. Variety's membership roster embraces all segments of the entertainment industry, the press, and associated industries.

The slogan of Variety Clubs International is "The Heart of Show Business that Helps Needy Children" and the primary reason for Variety's existence is the support of a world wide network of children's charities. Over the years Variety has raised more than $242 million to support hospitals, schools and institutions for children who are ill, handicapped or underprivileged, and for research into obscure children's diseases.

All monies collected in Southern California remain here, and the major projects supported are: the Variety Boys Club in East Los Angeles, the James H. Nicholson Children's Heart Clinic—a pediatric heart center located in the Medical Center of UCLA, under the supervision of Dr. Forrest Adams; the Electronic Limb Bank under Dr. Yoshio Setoguchi, head of the Child Amputee Prosthetics Project at UCLA; Sunshine Coach Program, which provides permanent transportation to various children's institutions; Cedars-Sinai Hospital which is presently developing a medical center that will house a completely self-contained pediatric hospital; the William Thedford Scholarship Fund with awards scholarships to Boys Club members with high scholastic achievements and no financial ability to continue on.

Little Mark Goffeney, who will be five in May, shows Dr. Yoshio Setoguchi how he can open the swing at the UCLA's playground. Mark, born without arms, has been fitted with artificial ones at the Prosthetics Project, UCLA, since birth. Now, for the first time, he gets to try out his new ones which have electronic elbows and permit much more flexibility. He's overjoyed with his "new arms".

These will be seen among the famous film stars and the memorable movies in the Wide World Special presentation of "Tour of 20th Century Fox" on ABC, Wednesday at 11:30PM.

Paul Newman in "The Hustler"

Natalie Trundy and Paul Williams in "Planet of the Apes."

GEORGE KENNEDY HOSTS 'FLIM FLAM'

"You're revealing secrets"—"If I heard this once, I heard it fifty times during the year it took to make 'Film Flam'," stated the show's producer, Wayne Thomas. "I had the idea to do a special on the unheralded geniuses of the motion picture and TV business for some time. The special effects men are the wizards who create rain on a summer day; gunfire that doesn't kill; snow that is hot; cars that flip and a million other 'special effects'," continued the producer.

"When I phoned the various movie studios to ask their cooperation I got one of two answers. 'Great' I think they deserve the tribute. And 'Why should we show how it's done?' "

Wayne Thomas continued his perserverance and finally convinced the right people that showing HOW special effects are created would only increase the public's interest in watching television or going to movies. The result of the year's effort can be seen in the Special, "Film Flam," hosted by the Academy Award-winning star, George Kennedy, and airing Sunday at 6PM on KHJ, Channel 9.

There are over thirty incredible examples of film artistry using the special effects from seven different movies including the spectacular "snowstorm" and plane crash scene in Ross Hunter's "Lost Horizon," filmed during summer in the Hollywood Hills, to the making of a $10,000 replica of Ray Milland's head.

Viewers also see why it took $4,000 to rebuild a 1931 Packard to be 'driverless' in Walt Disney's "Charlie & The Angel," how a car was rigged in France to blow up in "HIT," and the safe burning of a house in Jim Garner's film, "They Only Kill Their Masters." KHJ took a crew to Joe Lombardi's special effects studio in Hollywood where they used a 'live' actor in demonstrating the techniques used to knife, shoot, spear and stab actors—without a casualty. An added highlight of the Special is that viewers not only see how special effects are created and achieved, but clips from the motion pictures will be shown to see the finished product on screen.

Walt Baker was executive producer for "Film Flam" which was directed by Jaime Shandera.

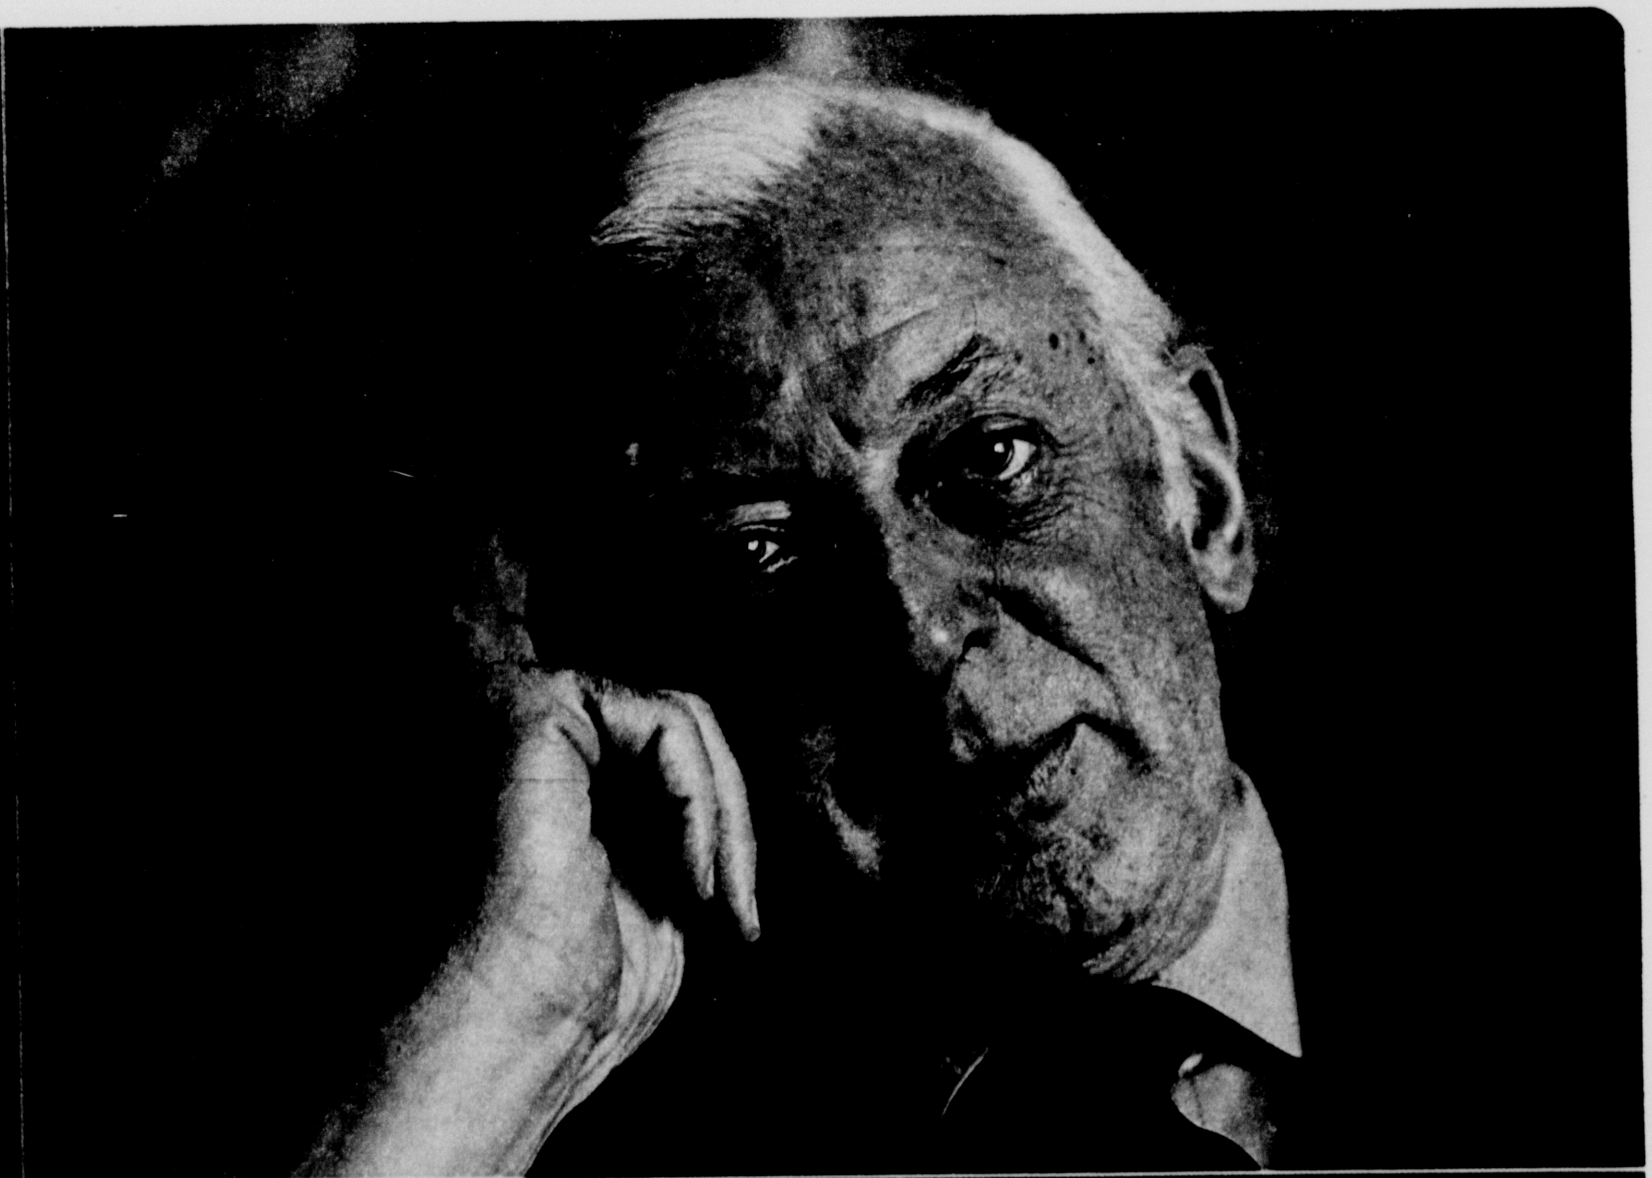
Our Small Towns, By a Critical And Ardent Traveler: Alistair Cooke



"One of the great and lasting pleasures of traveling around the U.S. was discovering the great variety of small towns, each true to its own region, in a country that—I had been led to believe by every Englishman who had ever paid a week's visit to New York—was a continent of dreary 'standardization.'"—Alistair Cooke

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. SAM J. ERVIN, JR. (D-N.C.)

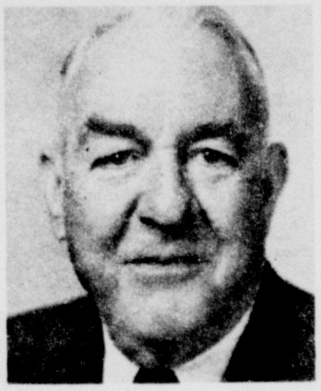
I thought everybody was against genocide. How could you oppose the international treaty making it a crime?—N. G., Hattiesburg, Miss.



● Nobody knows what it means. This treaty provides, among other mysterious things, that a person is guilty of genocide if he inflicts mental harm on a person of another race or nationality. It does not say what "mental harm" is, but I have offered in the Senate some very wise bills and the Senate has rejected them; and every time they rejected one of my wise proposals, it gave me mental harm.

FOR KATHY LENNON

You come from a large Catholic family. Just how many of you are there?—M. Karney, East St. Louis, Ill.

● Eleven. We Lennon Sisters are the four oldest. Mom still has seven at home. Of us four, Diane has three children, Peggy has five and Janet has three. Unfortunately, I can't have children. My husband and I want to adopt children. Not right away, but someday. We know how special they can be, because Diane's oldest is adopted.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What do your children think about the crazy things you write in your column?—Susan Williams, Santa Ana, Calif.

● Shhhhh! My children don't know what I do. I told them once I work for a newspaper. They think I deliver it.

FOR SEN. MIKE MANSFIELD (D-Mont.)

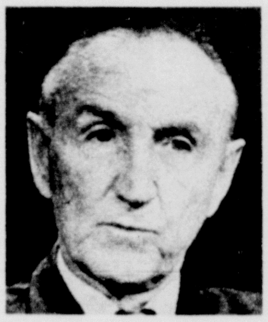
Are you still opposed to strip mining coal out West now that we need it so much?—S. P., Rutherford, N.J.

● Yep, and the reason is the total disregard still being shown for the interests of the surface owner. I don't want the West to become a backyard for the rest of the nation. Proponents of greatly expanded strip mining are just looking for an easy way out of the energy crisis, and there's not any.



FOR PAT BOONE

I read that you baptized some people in Phyllis Diller's pool. Is this true? And are you an ordained minister?—D. L. H., Pocahontas, Va.

● Yes, it's true. During the month I rented Phyllis Diller's house in Las Vegas, I baptized several people who asked my help in their obedience to Jesus. I'm just a Christian, a professional singer, and not ordained by any official organization.

FOR DONNA FARGO, singer

As an honors graduate of High Point (N.C.) College and a former English teacher, why do you still say "ain't" in public?—M. Fried, Los Angeles, Calif.

● I know better than "ain't"—just like I know better than a whole lot of other things I say. But I keep right on saying them because I like the way they feel. I think not saying those things is a kind of prejudice. We've got so many prejudices, you know, and one of them is a language prejudice.

FOR DICK HAYMES

You've worked with such greats as Benny Goodman, Harry James and Tommy Dorsey. Who, in your opinion, was the greatest?—M. Lawrence, Pound Ridge, N.Y.

● Without question, Tommy Dorsey.

FOR GERALDO RIVERA, TV journalist

Why did you give up a promising law career to become a TV newsman?—Donna Loftin, Corpus Christi, Texas

● While I was a lawyer I could only effect change on a one-to-one basis. It became a losing battle. I'd save one mother's son, only to turn around and find a hundred others who needed saving. When the chance came to be a TV newsman, I grabbed it. As a newsman I'm able to expose conditions and situations in which I can bring help to hundreds of people at once.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"

On the outside, the Bunker house seems to have an aluminum combination door. Yet when someone arrives at the front door during the show, the combination door is not there. Who slipped up?—Mrs. Harvey Maurer, Reese, Mich.

● By golly, you're sharp-eyed! I suppose you're referring to the opening shots of the row of houses. Those pictures were taken in Queens, N.Y., just to establish ambience and location. None of those houses exactly matches our inside set. But you certainly are observant. I guess we'll have to call it "set designer's license."

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Why did movie director Peter Bogdanovich swear he'd never have actor Timothy Bottoms in one of his pictures again? Is it because of competition over Cybill Shepherd, Bogdanovich's beautiful actress-model girl friend?—Mary Bolen, Augusta, Ga.

● No. The trouble with Bogdanovich and Bottoms is not the result of a romantic involvement, but rather a professional relationship. According to Bogdanovich, Bottoms did not know his lines during the filming of "The Last Picture Show," which delayed shooting of key scenes. He also said Bottoms behaved like a "neurotic kid." But Bottoms' career does not seem to have suffered. He's now starring in the enormously successful film, "The Paper Chase."

"The small towns that bred the Presidents are dying. And they are dying very fast. Like the compact Mormon towns I once knew in Utah, they are now bulging with layers of petticoats . . . that merge into the petticoats of the next town."

Small Town Life in America:

Is the U.S. Losing Something Important?

By Alistair Cooke

For most people, I suppose, between Tibet and Tacoma, their favorite small town is the one they live in. Which only goes to show the toughness of the human race, when you consider the collections of shacks and gas stations, dingy streets and neighboring factories, hillside cottages tumbling down to the river, that call themselves towns across three or four continents.

This sounds very hardhearted. But that's because it's the view of the guy on the outside. In other words, we can all stay cool and critical about the places where other people live, but we are blind to the ugliness or frailty of our own town mainly because we have to pretend we chose it.

The fact is that the vast majority of the 3.5 billion people who inhabit this globe have very little say about where they are going to live. They are born in Bombay or Four Forks, Iowa, and it's a hundred to one they will marry a boy or girl born in Bombay or Four Forks. Their drugstore has got to be the model of what all drugstores should be. Old Doc Merryweather may not have the fancy equipment that's available to Marcus Welby, but he delivered young Tom, didn't he? And he fixed old Sarah's pneumonia. So, all things considered, you probably couldn't do better than to stay in Bombay or Four Forks.

I have heard such talk in hundreds of American small towns, and I respect it. If there were no town pride, there'd be no indignant town meetings and very little motive to repave the old road or build the new school. And yet. . . . (There's always an "and yet" in America, because there's always change, always a movement to change, and—as somebody said — once things change, they never change back.) And yet, when I say, "I have heard such talk in hundreds of American small towns," I have to admit that I heard it mostly 10, 20, 30 years ago. The small towns that bred the Presidents — Staunton, Va. (Woodrow Wilson); Plymouth, Vt. (Calvin Coolidge); Corsica, Ohio (Harding, you fool!); West Branch, Iowa (Herbert Hoover); Independence, Mo. (Harry Truman, of course) — are dying. And they are dying very fast. Like the compact Mormon towns I once knew in Utah, they are now bulging with layers of petticoats — real estate offices, secondhand-car lots, lunch counters, billboards —that merge into the petticoats of the next town.

The greatest change in the physical structure of America since the last World War has been the breakdown of the old division between big cities and small towns, and the arrival of the split-level suburb on the freeway. At the turn of the 20th century, about seven Americans in ten lived on farms. By 1940, it was four in ten. Today, it is well below one in ten.

This, I think, is the single drastic explanation for the end of the small town in this country. Most (literally most) Americans now live neither in cities nor in country towns. They live in suburbs. And any year now — maybe any day! — we shall have our first suburban President. Richard Nixon is, in manner, very nearly it, but he isn't it by origin. For Whittier, Calif., in his day, had ceased to be the rude Quaker settlement named after John Greenleaf Whittier. Even in 1936, when Nixon was only 22, his hometown was described in the federal guide (in spite of his current folksy hometown memories) as "a wealthy residential city in a citrus, avocado and walnut district." It would have completely overwhelmed real small-town boys, like Hoover or Truman.

There's no question that, in Lyndon Johnson, we saw the last of the frontier Presidents. And, all politics aside, I for one lament it. Johnson grew up in what he maintained to his dying day was paradise on earth. It was, in fact, an endless barren stretch of goat and armadillo country. But he grew up knowing different peoples with different traditions. The next town was a German farming town, and the one after that was mostly Mexican.

So the new small town is going to be a suburb. And, thanks to the prefabrication boys and the Florida builders who set the original style in the early 1950's, it's going to be very much the same in Portland, Maine, and San Diego, Calif. This worries me. One of the great things about America, as recently as the early 1950's, was that small towns distilled the character of their region. Smack in the middle of Nevada, the town of Eureka—the "Ore City" — had many buildings that showed the gray smear of the soot that had poured from smelter stacks in its heyday 70 years before. And there still stood the Colonnade Hotel and the Opry House.

Livingston, Ala., was another jewel I well remember from an automobile trip in 1937. It was as far in time and character from Eureka, Nev., as Athens is from Las Vegas. Livingston, in the 1930's, was a serene and beautiful small town where an Englishman to whom I was showing the country decided he would wish to live and die. (He didn't. He chose instead the exquisite Colonial town of Newfane, Vt., which has the most beautiful courthouse in the U.S., not excluding the pompous Greek wedding cake of the new U.S. Supreme Court building.) Well—I was saying—Livingston had a charm and serenity that belied its violent past. It was the scene, during Reconstruction days, of the murder of a New York abolitionist and a black political agitator. It was also the happy hunting ground of one Steve Renfroe, who rode into town one day on a milk-white horse. The word eventually got around that just such a cavalier had been responsible for knocking off both the agitator and the abolitionist. So naturally Renfroe was made sheriff.

"Newfane, Vt., has the most beautiful courthouse in the U.S., not excluding the pompous Greek wedding cake of the new U.S. Supreme Court building."

His appointment was the signal for a wave of petty crime—thefts of horses from stables, of silverware from homes and, in time, the pilfering of county funds and the burning down of the courthouse that contained the records. In the end, there was no doubt about it, the crimes all pointed to the sheriff. He must be the only man in American history who was lynched by his best friends with the parting words: "Steve, we are doing this for your own good."

None of this colorful stuff was apparent in the Livingston I knew. But it retained a character unlike that of any small town in Michigan or New York. The place was shady with old oaks. There was the Confederate Monument. There was a bored well that provided mineral waters that Alabamians from far and near swore would cure everything from a hacking cough to multiple sclerosis. There was a very handsome teachers college built in the graceful style of the 1840's—before Queen Victoria laid her heavy Gothic hand across the ocean. Livingston is also famous for Miss Julia Tutwiler, who started the shocking revolution known as coeducation.

"There's no question that, in Lyndon Johnson, we saw the last of the frontier Presidents. And, all politics aside, I for one lament it."

One of the great and lasting pleasures of traveling around the U.S. was discovering the great variety of small towns, each true to its own region, in a country that—I had been led to believe by every Englishman who had ever paid a week's visit to New York—was a continent of dreary "standardization." Today, he may be right. You arrive at the airport — which could be an airport in Texas, East Africa or Japan. And you drive five or ten or twenty miles past an anonymous litter of car lots, neon saloons, chicken parlors, hamburger drive-ins, and all the rest of the garish stuff. And you have no idea if you are in Florida or Ohio, for they have cut down the butternut, the cypress, the Sitka cedar, the hickory, the cottonwood—all the God-given natural signs that His bounty was rich and various.

I have a few favorites that are still comparatively undefiled (I'd like to think it is because of strict ordinances voted by alert citizens, but I'm afraid they are places sufficiently remote from traffic as not to be worth an invasion by hot-dog chains): Newfane, Vt.; Litchfield, Conn.; Port Gibson, Miss.; Southold, N.Y.; Robles Del Rio, Calif.; and New Castle, Del.

Leesburg, Va., is worth a special commendation, since it has forbidden store signs to be wider than two feet and has abolished all billboards in Loudoun County, of which it is the seat. With the help of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, it is paying its own splendid tribute to the Bicentennial by clearing out the accumulated junk of the past 50 years, and restoring its pristine appearance as a composite 18th-19th-century small town of the American South.

Is this a lament for what we have done to the landscape and the characteristic small town that nestled in it? You bet it is! Nobody loves his country like an American, and nobody respects it less. The way we're going, we'll have nothing to show across a 3,000-mile continent but commercial junk, neon hamburger signs and endless flocks of billboards. (One exception: Vermont. Vermont has abolished all billboards. I wish the other 49 states could follow that example.)

At this point, this boiling point, somebody is bound to ask me: Which is your favorite small town? I have two. One is in London. It is a very small town, inside Mayfair, bounded on the north by South Audley Street, on the east and south by the noble Grosvenor Square, on the west by a public garden that is lovingly tended by the gardeners and cherished by old folks and hippies alike, so that no cola bottle, no wisp of paper ever tarnishes the emerald of its lawns or the neatness of its flower beds. The other is closer to home. It is a tiny neighborhood in New York City. I used to live there. It's between Lexington and Park avenues, from 72nd to 70th streets. Inside this snug compound there are the essentials of any decent small town. That is to say, the friendly people who make the life of a community, however small, worth living: the grocer, the butcher, the drugstore clerk, the health-food nut, the old one-eyed man at the newsstand, the nervous guy who runs the pet shop, the little lady who bravely tries to make a go of selling books.

It is the good people, whether within a mile or two blocks, who make a neighborhood. And a neighborhood is what makes a livable small town. There is no such thing as a livable big city.

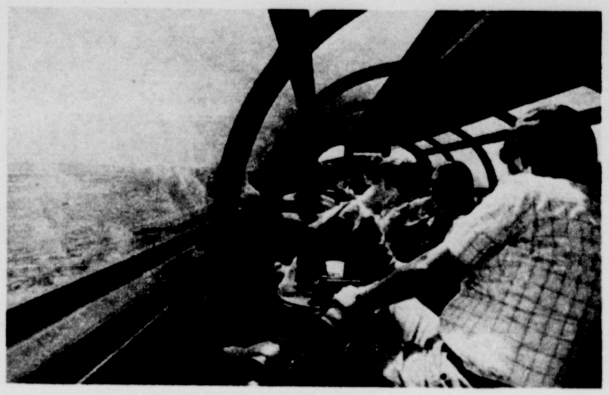
According to Amtrak: America's Six Most Beautiful Train Trips

By Jay Freeland



Nevada stretches before dome-car passengers on Amtrak's San Francisco Zephyr.

From waterfalls to nudist beaches—there are certain things you just can't see by car!

This summer, thousands of Americans, discouraged by gasoline shortages and flight cutbacks, will be rediscovering the railroads. Passenger rail service is not only here to stay, it is—albeit somewhat haltingly—a "boom industry."

So it seemed fitting that FAMILY WEEKLY should speak up for the beauties of rail travel. We asked Amtrak executives: "Of the hundreds of thousands of miles of passenger track in the U.S., which stretches are the prettiest?" This is their list:

1. The Coast Daylight/Starlight, which makes a 1,489-mile daily run from Los Angeles to Oakland (Daylight), then Oakland to Seattle (Starlight). This track has 113 miles of especially spectacular scenery as it skirts the Southern California coast from Ventura to San Luis Obispo. Besides the surf crashing against the cliffs, there are interesting people to see along the route—even a nudist beach near Santa Barbara!

Taking the Starlight section of the coast trip on north, you awaken with the sunrise just north of Klamath Falls in Oregon's Cascade Mountains. Here is some of the most dramatic mountain and forest scenery you'll encounter in America. For many miles the train skirts Upper Klamath Lake, summer home of a huge flock of white pelicans. After traversing the tunnel at Cascade Summit (alt. 4,840 feet), you follow the shores of Lake Odell, then run beside Salt Creek. The rhododendron display in June is worth the trip by itself.

2. Amtrak calls the 436 miles between New York City and Buffalo via Albany the Empire Service. The old New York Central promoted it as the "Water-Level Route," and that's what makes it so spectacular: First the 142 miles from Manhattan along the east bank of the Hudson to Albany-Rensselaer, with views of beautiful Westchester County estates, Washington Irving's "Ichabod Crane" country and, across the river, West Point and Storm King Mountain. Next comes the 95 miles along the Mohawk River from Schenectady to Rome, a historic land where you can almost hear the "Drums Along the Mohawk."

3. The Broadway Limited is basically a New York-to-Chicago train whose route takes it through a heavily industrialized area. But there's one leg that Washingtonians and Baltimoreans can take to a junction at Harrisburg, Pa., following the east bank of the Susquehanna River for 65 miles. For much of the way the river seems virtually untouched by man. And the sunsets in this area are often spectacular.

4. The North Coast Hiawatha, which begins in Chicago and follows the Lewis & Clark Trail for much of its way through the West, has proved so popular it will begin operating daily (instead of three times weekly) on May 19, serving Yellowstone National Park and Spokane, where Expo '74 is being staged this summer. Two especially scenic stretches are (a) following the Yellowstone River for 340 miles between Glendive and Livingston, Mont., and (b) the rugged mountain scenery between Billings and Butte, Mont. (alt. 4,761 feet).

5. The Empire Builder, Amtrak's northernmost train, serves Glacier Park on its 2,289-mile-long daily run between Chicago and Seattle. And the glacier-topped peaks of the park are a panoramic sight from your dome-lounge seat. The Empire Builder also serves Spokane and is expected to be heavily booked through the city's Expo '74 this summer. Between Spokane and Seattle, the Empire Builder slashes through the Cascade Mountains and glides through the fruitful Yakima Valley.

6. Amtrak's longest single route, that of the San Francisco Zephyr, extends 2,420 miles from Chicago through Denver to the Oakland/San Francisco terminal. Most dramatic of all the scenery en route is that encountered crossing the Sierra Nevada between Reno and Sacramento. This is the Mother Lode country. Truckee (alt. 5,819 feet) is a stop serving Lake Tahoe and Squaw Valley, the Olympic skiing center.

Amtrak, incidentally, has an extensive tour program, offering complete package vacations with reserved train space and accommodations in America's most scenic areas. Information is now available from Amtrak ticket and travel agents. Their advice is to book even earlier this year if you wish to travel during the most popular months. FW

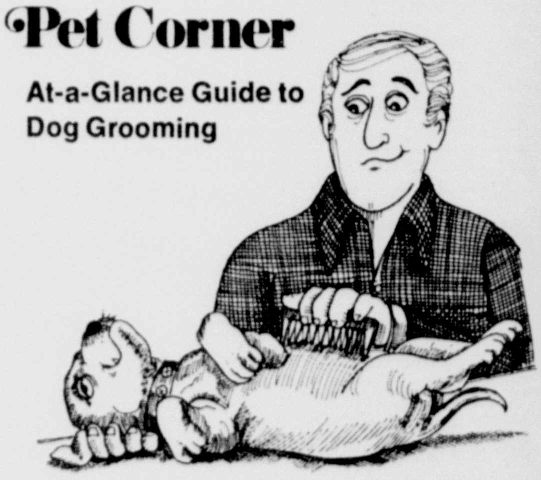
The Diet Watch

How to Eat Restaurant Food—And Still Stay Slim

If you eat lunch in restaurants or at drugstore counters, you can cleverly choose dishes that won't wreck your diet, even though the menus discouragingly list dishes swamped in calories. For example, most restaurants will willingly give you a double order of their side-dish salad. And the average restaurant can make up almost any salad you want. Some good ones: A whole can of tunafish (tell them to drain it) on a plate, with slices of tomato and lettuce leaves. Ask for vinegar or lemon for dressing. With plain tea or coffee you've then had a filling lunch with 24 grams of protein (as much as meat) and only about 200 calories! Or order a can of sardines fixed the same way. Or try these: two sliced hard-boiled eggs with lettuce and tomatoes; sprinkle with vinegar (no calories), for a total of less than 200 calories. A plate of cottage cheese with celery and tomatoes. Or three of the lowest-calorie vegetables the restaurant has. If they have only one low-calorie vegetable, order a double portion. Use lemon or vinegar for dressing. The more frequently you eat at the same restaurant, the more obliging they are about making up such dishes, an important help to your waistline. If a restaurant is reluctant to be cooperative, try to find and cultivate one that is cooperative. It may take some tramping around, but it will be worth it.—By Harriet La Barre

Pet Corner

At-a-Glance Guide to Dog Grooming



You shouldn't bathe the average dog more than once every two months, but you do need to groom him regularly. Unless your pup is a poodle, you can easily learn to do the job yourself. For shaggy dogs, get a comb with widely spaced teeth and a brush with long bristles. For shorthairs, use a short-bristled brush or hound glove; for wirehairs, a stripping comb. Blunt-end scissors and special nail clippers are also necessary. You can find them all at pet stores. A dog enjoys his grooming session more if you put him on a table. Comb first, cutting out any mats you can't comb through. Follow with vigorous brushing. For shorthairs, a daily rubbing down with a hound mitt should keep his coat clean and shiny. For nail clipping, consult your vet for best techniques.

What's New For Beautiful Hair?

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Women's Editor

"Casual," "real" and "no-fuss" are typical descriptions of what today's woman is looking for in a hairstyle. And she wants to be able to take care of it herself!

There's a distinct way to put order into your hairdo life—beginning with a good professional haircut.

A good haircut is the basis for everything else you might do for your hair. (If you haven't dared to have your hair cut in years, you haven't found the right expert. Check our tips on how to choose one.) A good hairdresser can help you find the shape that will do the most for your face and enhance the natural tendencies of your hair.

Consider these facts: You can push and bend your hair into just about any style, but if you're fighting the natural "pull" of your hair—the cowlicks, the waves and the curls that won't give up—you'll come out second best. Each hair is going to grow in its own direction, and it will take a professional to "read" your hair correctly.

Hair texture is an important consideration, too. If your hair is fine and thin, you should have a blunt haircut, with all the ends the same length. If it is thick or hard to manage, you should have a layered cut to minimize bulk. Once a good haircutting specialist has set you on the right track, you can be on your own for a while. (You should be able to go from one to three months without another haircut, depending on the length of your hair.)

Hairstyles by Louis Rinaldi; Photographs by J. Frederick Smith

A professional haircut is the basis for any good style. Once your hair "falls" right, you have the insurance you need to guarantee its minimum upkeep, whether you have it set or blown dry.

Still confused by all those new hair products and services? How to choose a hairdresser? What kind of cut—or color—is right for you? Here's help for your tangled (or untangled) crop!

How Do You Find a Haircutting Expert You Can Trust?

1. Talk to your friends, especially the ones who have the type of styling you want. Ask about prices, location, hours, attitudes and anything else that is important to you.
2. Check the salons that sound like the best possibilities, and go to see the shop. If you stop by when it's busy, you can watch other patrons as they leave. Do they all look alike, or do they look as if each cut was styled for the individual head? Do the sets look like "salon-only" styles, or styles you can manage at home? Don't be intimidated. You're entitled to comparison shop for a hairdresser.
3. When you've decided to make an appointment, be honest about what you want. Don't pretend that you're going to go every week if you only plan to go a few times a year. That will affect the hairstyle recommended.
4. If you're hesitant, avoid a major haircut change at first. Keep an open mind and listen to suggestions. However, if someone tries to persuade you to do something you really don't want or tries to sell you a raft of expensive products, don't be afraid to get up and walk out. A good hairdresser is there to help you. That means finding the most suitable hairstyle for the way you live and the way you want to look.

Nice 'n Easy

Nice 'n Easy haircolor. It never looks fussed over or phony. It always gives me beautiful coverage. Healthy-looking hair. And absolutely natural, honest-looking hair color. Now, whether you want to color or conceal, change a little or a lot, what more could you ask for?

That's why I never ask for anything else.

Nice 'n Easy® haircolor

It sells the most.

Reaching the fabulous forties doesn't intrude on Jane Carson's modeling or amateur-painting activities. To cover her gray hair we used Loving Care color lotion.

Going "naturally" red is easily attainable. The likeliest candidates are women with lively, florid complexions. Used here: dark auburn Nice 'n' Easy shampoo-in hair coloring.

Blonde Can Be Soft! Brunette Can Be Young! Gray Can Be Bright! Here's How...

Beautiful hair color can make you feel fantastic—and it's one of the first things people notice about you. How often have you heard, "She's the pretty redhead," or "She's the one with the long blonde hair"?

There are products available to help you do just about anything you want—from covering a little gray to making a complete change. But it all depends on the hair color you're starting with.

Three Kinds of Hair Coloring—Which Is Right for You?

If you simply want to give your own color a lift—add some highlights, make the color richer or cover the gray—try hair colorings that wash away after four to six shampoos. (These are called semi-permanent hair color.) They can cover the gray without changing your natural hair color.

Usually it's best to choose the shade closest to your own. You can make your hair darker or add golden or reddish highlights with these hair colors, but they will not achieve a lighter shade. You can only do that with permanent hair color (a shampoo-in tint), which lasts until the hair grows out. Be sure to examine the package of hair coloring thoroughly to get the type you want.

Temporary color rinses, a final category, will help perk up natural hair color, but they will not give you as rich a color or cover gray as the "four-six shampoo" category does. Temporary rinses are useful to refresh blonde shades between applications. They wash away with each shampoo.

What About Those Shampoo-In Tints?

Shampoo-in tints offer the ultimate convenience in hair coloring. Easy to apply, they last until the hair grows out. (Hair grows in at approximately a half inch per month.) Shampoo-in tints condition hair, add color, lighten or darken, and cover gray all in a single step.

The secret of using shampoo-in tints is to start with the right shade. Don't choose your shade solely by the color on the front of the package. That's the color you'd get if you put the product on white hair. It has to be pictured that way in order to show the true hair color.

Turn the package around and look for the color chart on the side or back. This will give you an idea of how the shade will look on your color of hair. Say the tint is red. If you put that on dark-brown hair, the result will be medium reddish brown. On medium-brown hair, bright reddish brown will result.

In the package directions, you'll find a chart that tells you in words what the chart on the package shows in color. Although these indicators are pretty accurate, every head of hair will react differently. The only way to know exactly what the color result will be on your hair is to make the all-important strand test. Don't neglect it. Directions for the strand test appear in the package directions.

Frosting and Streaking: Put in Some Sunshine!

If your hair goes light in the summer and you'd love to keep that sunny look all year long, you're a candidate for frosting and streaking. This is really fun. You can put the lightness just around your face or wherever you want it.

There are kits that make it easy to streak, frost or tip your hair. If it's already light, you can simply add lightened streaks where you please.

Glamorize Your Gray—Without "Covering" Anything

If you have lots of gray, you may want to keep it. Beautiful soft white hair can be the most flattering color for mature skin tones.

What you want to avoid is the yellow discoloration that ruins the beauty of silver or gray hair. There are special colorings for gray hair that minimize the yellow and make the gray prettier. You can use hair coloring that lasts through four to six shampoos (semipermanent) or that rinses away with one shampoo (temporary).

If you have lots of yellow and want a white effect, try the platinum shades. If you prefer color that adds depth, look for the smoky shades.

Oily Hair, Thirsty Hair, Frizzy Hair, Tangled Hair—What's Good for Which?

To keep your hair lively and lustrous, you need the right shampoo, rinse or conditioner. Here's how to choose.

Which Shampoo Should You Use?

You need a shampoo for oily hair if your hair loses its general fluffiness, feels sticky and flattens down a few days after you wash it.

If your hair is flyaway, sparks with electricity when you brush and doesn't get dirty when you skip your regular shampoo, you need a preparation for dry hair.

Normal hair falls between those two extremes. If you're not troubled by either excessive oiliness or dryness, choose the shampoo for normal hair that you like best.

If you color your hair regularly, shampoos that are tailor-made for color care make more sense. They're designed to pamper and protect hair shades, whereas regular shampoos can contribute to fading.

When Should You Use Creme Rinses?

All hair that tangles after shampooing requires a creme rinse. Chose body-building creme rinses for hair that's limp and fine. It's important to untangle this type very gently after shampooing since it's more susceptible to breakage when wet. Creme rinses work by smoothing down the roughened hair shaft so hairs slide next to each other instead of catching together. Be careful to find a rinse that doesn't leave your hair too soft. (According to experts, if a creme rinse is making your hair too soft, it's usually because too much is being used. Don't use more than directed, or use less.) Use the special rinses for long hair if yours is long and requires extensive untangling after shampooing. You don't want to pull and tug at that hair. It needs gentle treatment to avoid split ends.

If your hair tends to be frizzy, you need creme rinses that help soften it and mold it into place. Try a spray-on creme rinse that stays in the hair and helps it behave.

When Do You Need Conditioners?

Regular monthly treatments with a deep-penetrating conditioner will help to keep all hair at its very best. If your hair is not performing the way you want it to—if it seems to break easily, is dry, or has been chemically treated or abused by excessive exposure to sun, teasing, brushing or setting—it is a candidate for conditioning. If your hair falls into the above categories, however, don't be afraid to deep-condition as often as once a week, since these hair types are really "thirsty" for conditioning. Should your hair get noticeably oily after frequent deep-conditionings, you can cut down on the treatments.

If your hair seems to need shine or body between deep-penetrating conditioning sessions, you can use a quick-lotion conditioner, which works on the surface of the hair shaft.

WHAT DO YOU DO WHEN . . .

. . . Your Hair Won't Hold a Set?

If your hair won't hold a set, you may be trying to make it do something it hasn't been cut properly to do. In that case, you might need a body permanent and should certainly use a good setting lotion. As a finishing touch, try a hair mist to help maintain your style. There are good non-lacquer products available that eliminate that "stiff" look.

. . . You Need to Do Your Hair In a Hurry?

Electric styling appliances can be a great help in an emergency or in the day-to-day program of keeping your hair in shape. An air brush can help bend your hair in the desired direction—under or flipped up—in minutes, as you dry it. For a curlier look, try electric rollers. They can set long-lasting curls in minutes. Or touch up a wilting hairdo with an instant steam styling wand. You can roll up waves in seconds with one of these modern-day versions of the old-fashioned curling iron. A little touch of steam helps persuade unruly locks, and also protects hair from drying out.

A working girl's blonde hair does not have to look like straw. Used here to add body: Clairol's Condition.

. . . Your Hair Is Oily on Top—Dry at the Ends?

Brush! It will distribute the oil evenly throughout the hair. You can also use an instant dry shampoo to keep your hair clean between shampoos. The new generation of dry shampoos really works!

. . . Your Hair Is Too Curly?

If your hair is in good condition, a hair relaxer or straightener would help remove the curl. When setting your hair use large plastic rollers and stretch the wet hair around the roller, making sure the ends are flat.

. . . Your Hair Is Frizzy?

The frizzies are usually caused by humid weather. An electric comb or air brush is the best way of removing moisture from hair and straightening it. Also, long hair can be wrapped around your head, using your head as one big roller.

. . . You Have Split Ends?

Split ends often belong to women with longer hair. They're simply an indication that the hair is wearing out. Once split ends start, they tend to travel up the hair shaft. The only solution is to cut off those ends and try to prevent further splitting by treating the hair gently and using the creme rinses and conditioners that help to avoid hair damage. Since no product can eliminate split ends completely, you should get your hair trimmed regularly. Even if you're letting your hair grow, it's important to have the ends trimmed a half inch at least every three months. Since your hair grows a half inch a month, you'll still get length, but you'll eliminate the splitting.

. . . Your Hair Is Brittle?

When hair is in good shape, it's elastic. You can stretch it out past its normal length-and it will spring back. But brittle hair breaks when you stretch it. It needs a deep-penetrating conditioner to help put the bounce back. Use it at least once a week for a few months and cut down on the teasing and brushing.

Two Hockey Players' Wives:
Here's How the Experts "Made Them Over"

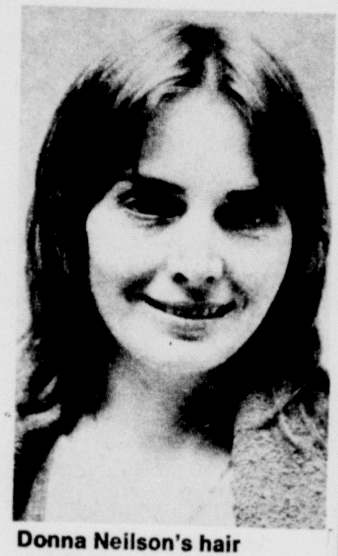
Beauty & You
Continued

Donna Neilson and Audrey MacGregor, along with other wives of members of the New York Rangers hockey team, recently attended a hair-care seminar and achieved these dramatic results:

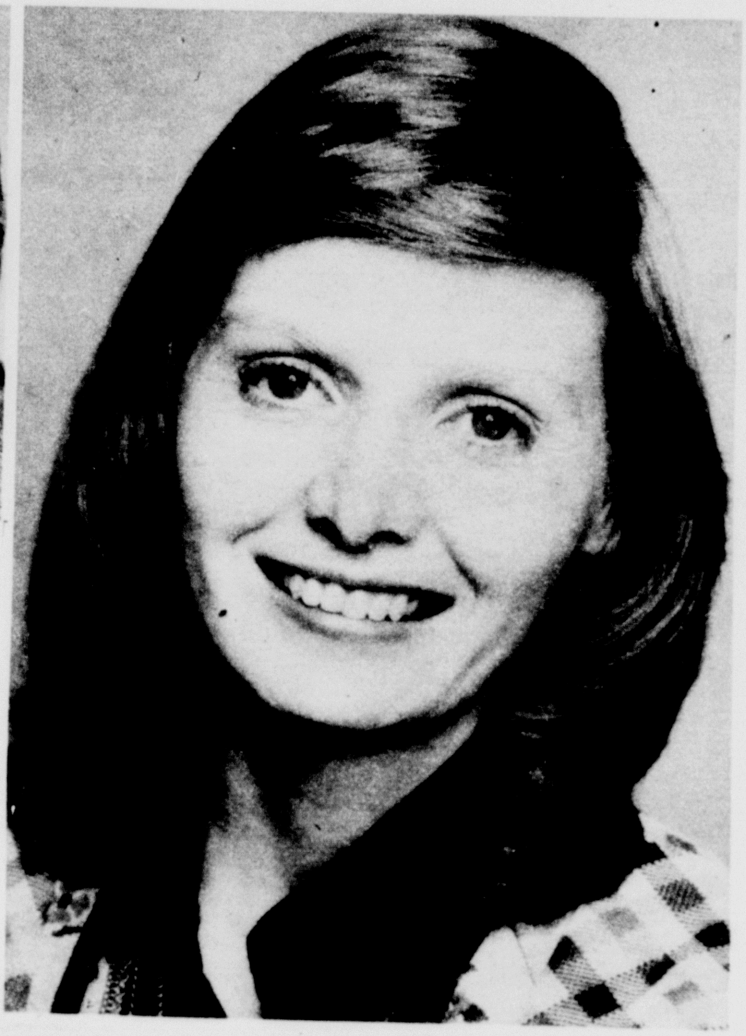
Donna Neilson had all the enviable characteristics of a natural strawberry blonde—an ivory complexion, China-blue eyes and a natural outdoor look. The prescription: to subtly capitalize on —but not change—Donna's attributes. First, her long, layered hair needed conditioning to smooth split ends and add a needed all-over shine. Then an expert stylist blended the grown-out layers by cutting about 1½ inches off each layer and blow-drying the hair for a fuller, softer look while maintaining its long appearance. Her new look was completed after a consultation with master makeup artist Stan Place, who applied a bit of peach cheek blusher, dark mascara, soft blue shadow and a gilded copper-tone lipstick.

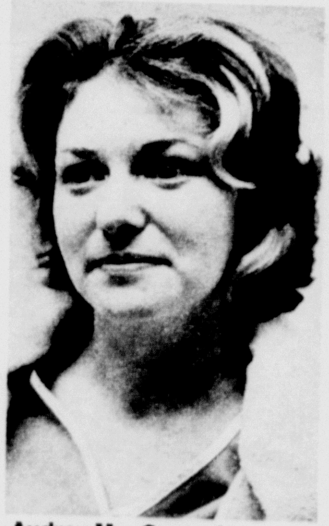
Audrey MacGregor, a low-keyed, unassumingly pretty woman, was ripe for change. She admitted she'd grown tired of her streaked hair color. She needed a style change, too, something chic and new, yet practical for a busy mother. The beautiful result was a return to her medium-brown color, blown-dry and brushed smoothly into a Gatsby style with soft waves and curls that further softened her full-faced, pretty features.

Audrey's new cosmetic touches included a sunny-peach frosted blusher to light up her face, muted green eyeshadow and mascara to heighten her eyes, a soft blending of liner in the crease above the eyelid to add depth and a final smooth-on of a bronze-tone lipstick.

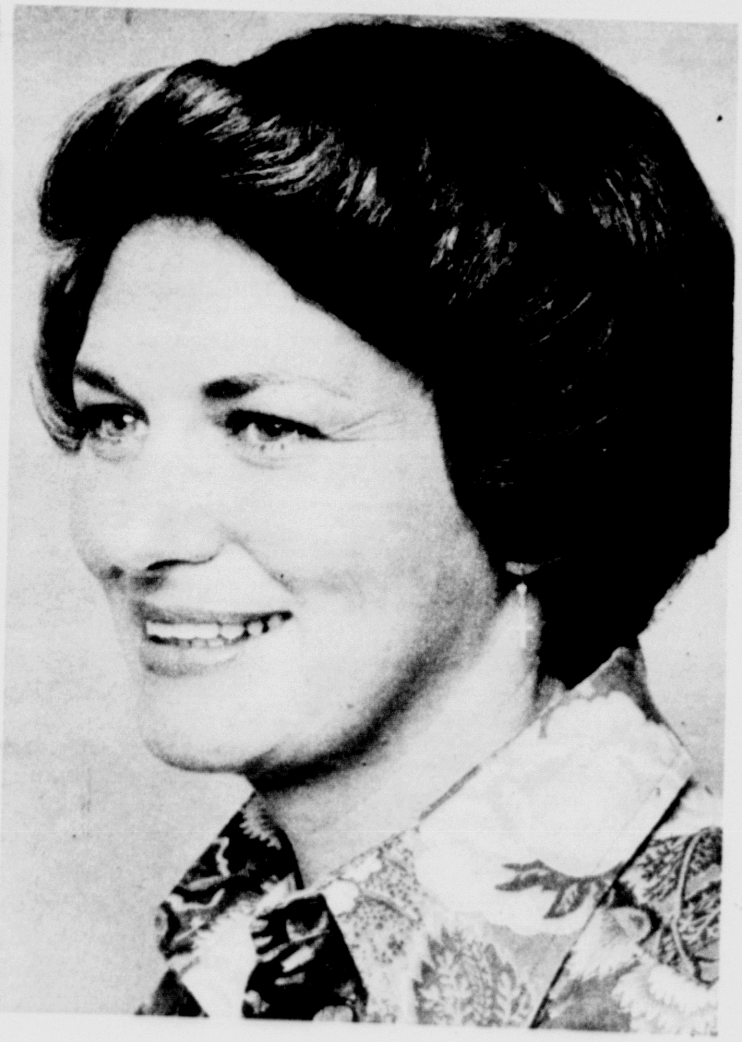


Donna Neilson's hair needed a conditioner and a trim before being blown-dry. A makeup consultation completed her "new look."





Audrey MacGregor's Gatsby style was based on a return to her original hair color. Her makeup was also subtly changed.



Where to Go (or Write) For Help (All They Need Is A Lock of Hair!)

If trying a variety of hair products, reading up on advice from the experts and consulting with your neighborhood stylist do not solve your problems, there are still places to find aid.

Free Help From Salons

One-to-one advice might be as near as your local department store. Many fine stores house beauty salons that are owned and operated by the Glemby Company. These salons have various names, among them: Canned Ego, Hair Now, Hair In and Hair 70's. Periodically they feature "Hair Help"—a free "how to" program that teaches you how to work with your hair.

To find a Glemby Salon in your area write to Glemby, 120 East 16th Street, New York, N.Y. 10003.

You can also phone or write Clairol for personalized advice. A staff of professional consultants will be happy to help you find the right products for hair care and/or hair coloring. They will even examine a lock of hair if you enclose it in a letter. Cut a piece large enough (from the lower part of the back of the head) and as close to the roots as possible. Also enclose a description of your hair problem or a picture of the hair color you want. They'll promptly tell you exactly what to use to alleviate your hair problems or achieve a particular color. Be sure to tell them what hair product you are currently using, if any. Write: Consumer Satisfaction, Clairol, 345 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022; or you may call: (212) 644-2990.

4 months ago I was a gray, plump mother of 3. Now I'm a trim, brunette college freshman.

I'm still a mother of 3. But I'm a whole lot more. And nobody's happier about it than Jim and the children! I guess it all happened because I saw my "babies" growing up so fast, needing me less and less.

If they missed a meal my whole day would seem shot. And I knew I had to do more with the next decade of my life than sit around counting my birthdays and gray hairs, making my children feel guilty for leading their own lives!

I think the whole thing got going the day I got the courage to color my hair. I'd always been a little afraid of haircolor, but I'd heard that Loving Care® lotion was a very different proposition. And it is!

It's not a permanent dye or a peroxide thing. It doesn't change your own color. It just rinses away the gray. And looks really natural—with soft natural highlights.

Well, it was so exciting to get my own brunette color back it gave me the encouragement for once to really stick to my diet. And now here I am—starting college! Of course, I only go part time. But it's a start.

But that's what's so great. To see, at this point in my life, so many things ahead. To feel, in so many ways, I've only just begun!

You're not getting older. You're getting better!™

Smart Cooking

For Special Occasions

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a great party dish. She says, "Don't throw away those Easter eggs! They're a great excuse for a party! And the casserole is so easy to make, it might become an old family favorite!"

A Party Casserole–Using Leftover Easter Eggs!

This Egg-and-Cheese Noodle Casserole is perfect for serve-yourself parties.

EGG-AND-CHEESE NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) spinach or egg noodles, ¼ inch wide
3 qts. boiling water
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 cups milk*
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¾ teaspoon Italian seasoning or blended herbs
Few twists freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 cup ricotta or cottage cheese
2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded mozzarella or Muenster cheese
5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease a 2-qt. casserole.

2. Cook noodles in 3 qts. boiling water, to which 1 tablespoon of salt has been added, for 6 minutes, or until just tender. Drain, rinse with cold water, drain again.

3. Make sauce: In medium saucepan, heat butter until melted. Stir in flour smoothly. Add milk all at once. Bring to boiling, stirring with wire whisk until bubbly. Season with seasoned salt, Italian seasoning, pepper and instant minced onion.

4. Layer ingredients in prepared casserole as follows: ⅓ of noodles, ½ of ricotta, ½ of mozzarella, ⅓ of sauce and ⅓ of eggs.

5. Repeat with remaining ingredients, topping casserole with sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese.

6. Bake for 45-50 minutes, or until casserole is bubbly throughout. Makes 6 servings

*Use whole milk, or half whole and half skim milk.

[Party tip: Choose a colorful oven-to-table casserole dish: white, yellow or orange would be great. Also, try to use either spinach noodles or else half spinach and half regular. The Italians call green and white noodles paglia e fieno, "straw and hay."]

Sports Mini-Profile

Death Was in the Batter's Box And the Count Was 3 and 2....

Pitcher JOHN HILLER

John Hiller: "I'm a better man for what I went through."

John Hiller's amazing comeback from a siege of heart attack marks one of the most heartwarming sagas in sports. The 30-year-old relief pitching ace of the Detroit Tigers set a major-league record with 38 saves last season and was such a workhorse he appeared in 65 games and had a hand in 56 percent of his team's victories. He saved more games than any other Tiger pitcher in history and was voted "Comeback Player of the American League" and "Fireman of the Year" by The Sporting News. He also received an award from the National Heart Association. . . . Sports observers had assumed Hiller's career was over when he experienced his sudden heart attack early in 1971. And it almost was. He had to undergo complicated heart bypass surgery and completely change his life-style. He even had to sell furniture for a while to make ends meet. . . . But he was determined to play baseball again. Heart specialists finally agreed that it was "better for him to play than not to play," and he worked his way back to duty in the Tiger bullpen. He proved his recovery was complete with his dazzling 1973 performance, which teammate Jim Northrup described as "the best job I've ever seen since I've been in the major leagues." Slugger Frank Howard characterized Hiller's '73 season as "the kind of thing you see once in a lifetime.". . ."I think I'm a better man for what I went through," Hiller says. "I 'big-timed' it too much before my heart attack. I think I was just trying to fool myself. I also put too much pressure on myself. I've learned not to do that any more. Now I know I just have to do the best I can, and if that's not good enough, so be it." . . . A native of a Toronto suburb, Hiller is one of the few Canadians to succeed in major-league baseball. He started to play in the Toronto sandlot league, then slowly worked his way up the minor-league ladder to the Tigers. Hiller now makes his home in Duluth, Minn., with his wife Janice and a son and daughter.—By Barry Abramson

Always a favorite, this style is easy to slip into and secures with a simple tie belt. But this version of the wraparound makes additional fashion points with a rounded collar and roomy patch pocket. Make it in a cotton, linen or jersey.

Size 12 takes approximately 3 yards of 44-inch fabric. Standard body measurements for size 12 are: Bust 34, Waist 25½, Hips 36.

Senior Citizens: Avoid 'Bargain' Medicare Supplements

Look for the Excellent Health Care Protection you find with Blue Shield's

Coronet Senior®

If you are 65 or near 65, you should be looking for good health care protection for the years ahead. But don't be fooled by the price tag on so called bargain plans. Often they pay only a few of the costs Federal Medicare misses. That may not be enough protection when illness or accidents strike, especially now that recent changes in federal coverage have increased the amount you must pay for services.

At Blue Shield we provide health care coverage you can count on. Our medical care experts have designed Coronet Senior to give you broad coverage when you need it most. Not only does Coronet Senior supplement Federal Medicare benefits, but it also pays benefits for services not covered by Medicare—such as prescription drugs and in-hospital private duty nursing.

If you are eligible Coronet Senior will cover pre-existing conditions from the day you enroll. No health statements required during open enrollment.

Study the fine print before you subscribe to any Federal Medicare supplement and be sure you have the kind of protection offered by Blue Shield's Coronet Senior.

Now, a blunt promise by an eminent dermatologist:

You can make your face look as though time was running backwards!

Revealed by an eminent dermatologist (see his word-by-word statement below): How, with the proper scientific instruction, you can literally look ten to twenty years younger than your real age . . . erase wrinkles, blemishes and coarseness . . . and do it all using nothing more than such simple ingredients as water, soap, and (especially) salt!

The Art of Looking Younger
Bedford Shelmire, Jr. M.D.
The dynamics of skin conditioning explained in a revolutionary guide to a youthful appearance.
Carl Fischer

This is, quite frankly, a vital message about what is perhaps the most revolutionary home-medical-guide ever published on facial care . . . facial beauty . . . renewed facial youth. Its results are so spectacular, its documentation is so overwhelming, and its methods are so vital to your future life that we must repeat, in full, two more quotes from its opening pages:

"As a matter of fact, we have only recently acquired the ability to really do something about the more serious changes in appearance that accompany aging . . .

"In the past, the average person stood very little chance of being able to look younger. Without wealth or the right genes, there was very little hope. The advent of modern skin care has changed all this. Now it is no longer necessary to pamper yourself or be born with good skin. The idle rich no longer have any advantage . . . the genes you inherit are no longer a limiting factor, because we can now compensate for even delicate, age-prone skin . . . Thanks to modern research, we now know what causes many of the unattractive problems that appear with age. With this kind of knowledge, we have been able to develop methods that are effective in combatting or solving these problems.

"The practical application of these methods can produce spectacular results. A person can easily look ten to twenty years younger than his or her actual age, and this can be achieved with a minimum of effort. My own interest in this subject was first stimulated by an eminent dermatologist who was one of my first teachers. He was not only an early advocate of these new methods, but he practiced them himself. The results were truly impressive. At almost eighty years of age, he appeared to be in his early fifties."

This, Then, Is The Startling New Promise That Lies Right At Your Fingertips! And Here Are The Discoveries That Are Going To Give It To You!

For example—

Age is no longer a barrier to a flawless complexion, because the outer layer of your skin never stops growing! And, if you learn the right way to utilize that growth, you may actually reverse the dreaded aging process, and grow younger-looking, not older.

The ultimate moisturizer! How it can eliminate moisture loss instantly, and actually repair the ravages caused by years of facial dryness.

The three insidious structural changes that create "old" skin, and how to stop each at its source.

For example, master this simple technique of protecting the all-important "inner layer" of skin from damage, and you will never need the services of a plastic surgeon.

How your kitchen stove can make you look old, old, old—unless you learn how to use it—like this.

How certain household aids (that you use every day) actually poison your skin. Get rid of them—now.

How to keep the sun from turning your face into a wrinkled prune.

How to protect your skin against air pollution. (Otherwise, if you live in a big city, be prepared to have people guess you're ten years older than you really are.)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

BEDFORD SHELMIRE, JR., M.D. graduated from the University of Chicago School of Medicine. He is a former staff member of the American Hospital in Paris and the Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital in New York. Dr. Shelmire is a diplomate of the American Board of Dermatology, a member of the American Academy of Dermatology, and currently Assistant Professor of Dermatology at the Southwestern Medical School of the University of Texas. The author of many articles on skin physiology and therapy, he lives and practices medicine in Dallas, Texas.

How to banish blocked pores and blackheads—for good.

The Number One Rule for protecting your face against all the hazards of the environment. Follow it faithfully (see page 36), and when your friends look as old as Methuselah, you'll hardly have changed at all.

Indisputable Proof That It Would Take A Century For Your Face To Look Old, If You Didn't Abuse It Like This . . .

How to "quick-clean" your face, so thoroughly, and so fast, that you take years off it, rather than put them on.

Invisible sources of skin inflammations and allergies, that may be ruining your complexion right now. In other words, how to practice modern acne therapy, right in your own home.

Why you may never have to spend a cent on commercial face-care products again. For two reasons: Because most of them are actually harmful to your skin (see list on page 67). And because none of them could ever do as much for that skin as the almost-costless preparations given to you on page 71.

For example, the best daytime base in the world (and you should wear it every minute of every day, to keep the youth-force sealed in your skin) costs only 84¢ for a six-month supply. And the best night cream you can buy costs slightly more—about 91¢ for a six-month supply.

And the best face mask in the world costs 9¢ a treatment.

And the best skin freshener probably costs a penny a day.

And not one of them contains a single ingredient that will unknowingly age your face, or dry out your face, or irritate your face. All they do is pull the filth out of that face, at the same time they seal in the youth.

But What About The Old Skin That's Marring Your Face Right Now? What Do You Do About It? THIS—

Here, on page 72, is (in our opinion at least) the really startling breakthrough in facial care in this generation. It is called, "Skin Thinning". It takes about two minutes of your time a week, and it costs about 3¢ a treatment. It's basic ingredient is salt. Plain ordinary table salt. But used in such a way that it almost instantly cuts down wrinkles. Opens clogged pores. Helps prevent age spots and whiteheads. May actually have your husband cooing with delight the very first day you use it.

And there's still more—much more—like this:

How the wrong vitamins can poison your skin. And the right vitamin therapy cause spectacular changes overnight. (See page 108.)

How dry, scaly skin can often be eliminated by a simple change in your diet. (See page 107.)

The "Young-Face Style of Life". Or how to erase ten years from the look of your skin, simply by adjusting the way you work, play and sleep. (See page 112.)

How your skin can warn you of the insidious development of diseases of the heart, circulatory system, lungs, blood, thyroid, pancreas, sex glands, liver, kidneys and much more, all by simply knowing how to read the danger signals it sends out. (See page 105.)

Two easy solutions to hand and nail problems. (See page 140.)

How to save your hair. Why you must not overbrush it. The one overlooked cause of 99 per cent of all severe hair damage. A simple immediate test that tells you, for sure, the rate of hair loss. Why the wrong use of vitamins may be causing that loss. Medical methods (your husband will bless you when you show them to him) of really compensating for that ugly loss.

And Much Much More. At Last All You Need To Never Look Your Age Again! AND WE PROVE IT TO YOU WITHOUT YOUR RISKING A PENNY!

Remember! Good skin care is one of today's best bargains . . . nothing else gives you such a high return for such a small investment! But, YOU MUST BEGIN NOW! The effects of a long lifetime of neglect and abuse can NEVER BE COMPLETELY REVERSED! You owe it to yourself—and to that special man in your life—to return the No-Risk Coupon—TODAY!

PLUS THESE THREE THRILLING BONUS SECTIONS!

Break through all that misinformation and hocus-pocus surrounding the use of such ridiculously high-priced cosmetic additives as: royal jelly, placenta, hormones, cucumber, proteins, seaweed and all those countless other "miracle ingredients" that are simply causing you to squander your hard-earned dollars!

Correct structural changes that cause visible skin problems, prevent cellular build-up, dry, scaly patches, blackheads and blocked pores—forever—all without resorting to the services of a professional!

Learn the hidden dangers of sunlamps, crash-dieting, hot combs and curlers, bleach creams, silicone injections!

What in the World!

SOPHIA LOREN
Afraid of another Cesarean

After the well-publicized Cesarean births of her two boys, Carlo "Cipi" Ponti, Jr., four, and Edoardo, now six months, Sophia Loren has no resentment whatsoever about the difficult time she had giving birth. "I was only too grateful. There are millions of women who have their children the hard way. I know. So many wrote to me that I felt surrounded by people when I had mine. They still write. . . . It is amazing how many women are longing for children." Whether the actress will have any more remains a question. "To be truthful," she adds, "I am afraid of another Cesarean. If I could be sure I would have a daughter I might go ahead, but that is not possible, and after the third one, my doctors say no more."

Sen. William Proxmire on walking: "Walking the five miles from my office to my home every evening is a big chunk out of my life. That hour a day represents about one-sixth or one-fifth of my waking hours when I'm not actually at work. I can tell you it's a marvelously well-spent hour. Of course if you walk to or from work, as I do, you can subtract the time you would have wasted sitting in a car or bus. And what a contrast with driving. Instead of building up tensions fighting the rush-hour traffic, you pass it as you stride along. This seems to me the perfect time to do my walking. Naturally, this will vary from person to person. Early risers often walk in their neighborhoods before they go to work." From "You Can Do It! Senator Proxmire's Exercise, Diet and Relaxation Plan" (Simon and Schuster, $7.95).

AN ARRESTING SIGN
Citizens were offended

When a sign like this was first raised in Hondo, Texas, in 1930, as a Lions Club project, it read only: "This Is God's Country Don't Drive Through It Like Hell." The townspeople were offended by the message and objected so strongly (so the story goes) that the sign had to be taken down. About two or three years later, the Lions Club tried again and raised the sign shown above, which included the word "Please." The addition pleased everybody and the sign has remained to this day. In fact, there are now two signs—one at each end of the town. Hondo is located on Route 90—about 45 miles south of San Antonio—and has a population of 5,487 people. According to Mrs. Lillian Porter of the Hondo Chamber of Commerce, the sign has "done more than all speed-limit road signs put together to stop speeders."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

ALL TOGETHER NOW

A Dad I am who's not tyrannical,
Nor am I, truth be told, mechanical.
When toys are boxed in bits and
sections,
Despite the 1, 2, 3 directions,
I never finish up in clover
But some parts shy or some left over.
The manufacturers endeavor
To make things simple. I, however,
Am simpler still and all atremble
When there is something to assemble.
"A child can do it." I have smiled
And left the doing to a child.
